Riley found his car gone and complained to Constable Louis Paquette and the result was that Germain was arrested at his home, and taken to police headquarters. Judge Libby fined Germain $25 for operating a machine without the consent of the owner and $200 and costs for operating a machine while under the influence of liquor. He paid $242.21 and was also given a suspended jail sentence of 30 days.

JAIL SENTENCES FOR TRANSPORTING LIQUOR

Tony Rodriques, 26, of Forest street and Louis Plotsky, 33 of Preston, were each given a sentence of six months in jail by Judge Arthur F. Libby at the city court session Monday morning. They were charged with violation of the liquor law. In addition they were each given fines of $200 and costs.

They were arrested early Thursday morning on the West Side by State Policemen Webber and Kenerson of Groton state police barracks. In the machine Plotsky was driving was found 83 gallons of moonshine liquor. Rodriques, who has been in court several times of late both in Norwich and New London, claimed he had nothing to do with the liquor and was on his way to work when arrested. He said he did not know Plotsky.

The latter claimed he was not acquainted with Rodriques, and disclaimed ownership of the liquor. He claimed he was transporting it from Pawtucket, R. I., to Norwich and was to have delivered it to a Portugese at Thames square about 6:30 o'clock Thursday morning.

BIG CLASS JOINS EAGLES; PLANNING FOR ANOTHER

On Sunday afternoon at the Eagles home a large class of candidates was initiated into the order, when the returns of the world series were received. Worthy President August Hastedt opened ur the meeting and then turned the initatory exercises over to the crack degree team of Putnam aerie.

After the meeting the committee in charge of the arrangements for the afternoon presented three bouts of fast boxing. One of the famous Eagle chowders was served at six o'clock.

Immediately after the meeting plans were put forth for the next class to be held Thanksgiving eve for which the committee will have its annual turkey supper and entertainment.

Plans are also being formulated for a large demonstration of patriotism by the Eagles in participating in the big parade to be held Armistice day.

PUTNAM MAN UNDER CHARGE OF FORGERY

John J. King, 48, of Putnam, this state, was brought to the police station at Westfield, Mass., Sunday night on a warrant charging him with forgery. King had just completed serving three months in jail at Worcester and was brought to Westfield by Chief Edward R. Cassidy to be arraigned in district court. King is alleged to have forged three checks totaling between $50 and $60, using the name of A. B. Daniels, prominent Westfield business man.

PRESTON SCHOOL COMMITTEE ORGANIZES FOR YEAR

At a meeting of the town school committee of Preston held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Appleton Main at Poquetanuck, Mrs. Main was elected chairman and Mrs. Naomi Gallup secretary. William Mc Kelvey and Mr. Leister supervisor and Miss O'Neil, his assistant, were present. Matters pertaining to the schools were discussed and all bills were approved and ordered paid.

Two Summoned for Court

(Special to The Bulletin)

WELLIMANTIC, Oct. 10—Albert F. Lewis of 218 Mansfield avenue, driver of the Yellow Coach of the New England Transportation Co., and George Peloquin, 48 Cedar street, Hartford, driver of a Ford sedan, were both notified to appear in police court (tomorrow) morning by Motorcycle Officer Bombria after their vehicles had collided opposite a Gulf Refining station on Main street here at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Lewis was about to turn across Main street to the station when the coach hit his machine, causing much damage to the lighter car.

LUTHER LEAGUE WORK AT WATERBURY CONVENTION

The twenty-first annual Luther league convention of Connecticut was held at Waterbury October 9 and 10. The five Norwich delegates who were the Misses Anna Retkovske, Frieda Retkovske, Irene Werth, Elizabeth Steisner and Eliza Thumm have returned greatly enthused over the great progress in Luther league work shown at this convention.

The theme considered during the whole convention was "Be ye doers, and not hearers only." A sermon on this text was preached by Rev. H. G. Weng of the English Lutheran church of Bridgeport. He spoke of Theodore Roosevelt who at his inauguration, put his hand on this identical text and lived up to every word of it.

At the banquet held at the opening of the convention, seating about 350, there were also many other noted speakers from Philadelphia and New York.

It was learned that the Luther league of America is doing great work for missions. They are building a big college called Andrah college in India. The quota is on its way over the top. It was also learned that Norwich was fourth on the honor roll in getting their quota in and first on the honor roll for the promptness in paying all league dues.

The election of officers was held and Miss Elizabeth Steisner was elected secretary and Miss Eliza Thumm archivist in a tie with Miss Elsie Bauck of Waterbury, formerly of Norwich.

The convention closed with a rally service at which Rev. A. J. Travers of Philadelphia, secretary of the Luther League of America gave a stirring address on "Personality and Program." He stated that it wasn't only getting up a program of something and after having finished say it was complete. No, he said, that it was just started and was yet to be worked through to the end and with this work one must have personality. Thus he meant for everyone's lift work to do the same.

It is not yet known where the convention is going to be held next year but it is surmised that Bridgeport will have it.

There will be a Norwich Luther bowling team formed of which Miss Anna Retkovske is captain. They will play other leagues and thus keep in touch with all surrounding leagues.

An error in Saturday's paper showed that Miss Olga Zachae was sent as delegate. It should have been Miss Anna Retkovske.

SEDGWICK RELIEF CORPS ENTERTAINED DEPT. OFFICERS

Sedgwick Woman's Relief Corps, No 16, entertained at dinner at the Buckingham Memorial last Friday, the department president, Mrs. Eleanor M Lucy; department counciller, Mrs. Maud Deming; department treasurer Mrs. Laura E. Dutton; department press correspondent, Mrs. Ella Getchell; department assistant inspector, Mrs. Frances Packer; chairman of the executive board, Mrs. Annie Maynard the third member of the executive board, Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury.

At 2:30 in the afternoon all met at the Buckingham Memorial for the annual inspection. The regular reports were read and approved, then the full work of the ritual was carried out. The chairman of the relief committee reported visits made or flowers or fruit sent to our sick or shut-in members. Mr. Irish was reported to be gaining slowly.

An invitation to participate in the Armistice day parade was accepted. Department Inspector Mrs. Packer commended the work of the corps. Department President Mrs Lucy wished them to remember Home day at Noroton on Oct. 29 and hoped that many may might attend. Past Department President Mrs. Clark told of the World war veterans at Allentown whom the W. R. C. have adopted and hoped that each corps in the state would contribute something for a sunshine box for them. Past Department President Mrs. Deming said after her own experience in the hospital she fully realized how welcome small remembrances are.

Several of the visitors spoke of the pleasure of the work of the afternoon. The meeting closed with the salute to the flag and the singing of America.

EDWARD CHAPPEL CO. TO CLOSE ARMISTICE DAY

Out of respect for Fletcher post, No. 4, American legion, which has planned a monster observance of Armistice day, the Edward Chappell Co., has decided to suspend all business at noon on November 11th. The action of the Chappell company will probably be followed by other companies in similar lines of business, thus bringing the closing down of practically all activities in Norwich on the day of the big parade.

Connecticut College

During the past week several of the clubs at Connecticut college held their regular meetins. The Philosophy group assembled in Knowlton hall to read "Things and Ideals" by M. C. Otto. The chapter under discussion at this meeting was 'Two Ideals. The point brought out by Mr. Otto was that all people are idealists, but of two sorts, the materialistic idealists, and the intellectual and spiritual idealists. After the reading the various points brought out by Mr. Otto were discussed. There were over twenty girls in attendance, as well as Dr. Frank E. Morris and Dr. H. Z. Kip.

The German club met for the first time this year in Plant living room to discuss the plans for the coming year, Miss Minnie Watchinsky presided. Miss Henrietta Ranehl of outh Manchester rendered several piano selections and Miss Gertrude Abramson of New London told several German anecdotes. Miss Dorothy Pasnik of Norwich is chairman of the entertainment committee of the club.

On Saturday evening the seniors entertained the sophomores in the college gymnasium. The prize winning play of 1925-26 of the inter-play competition was again given, Postal Orders, a delightful comedy. The seniors presented a fashion show. Ice cream and small cakes were served. The chairman of the senior entertainment committee is Elizabeth Fowler of West Roxbury and Catherine Ranney of Cleveland, Ohio, chairman of the sophomore entertainment committee. The following Norwich girls attended: Estred Alquist '27; Elizabeth Higgins '27, Alberta Boardman '29, Marcia Stanton '29, Lois Latimer '29, Marion Geer '30 and Elizabeth Avery '30. Miss Lillian Ottenheimer of Willimantic was in the sophomore play. Miss Harriet Tillinghast of Danielson was also at the party.

Miss Lucy Gilman '27 of Bozrahville spent the week end as the guest of Miss Bella Rappaport of Bridgeport.

Miss Janet Paine of Danielson spent the week end at her home in Danielson.

Miss Constance Clapp '25 recently spent the day at Connecticut college visiting several of her friends.

President and Mrs. Benjamin T. Marshall were at home to the members of the Freshman class on the afternoon of Sunday, October 10.

New choir members have been chosen this year by Dr. Erb. The choir now numbers around forty members. Those recently chosen are Arline Brown of Derby, Abbie Kelsey '28 of Jewett City; Mary Kidde '30 of Montclair, N. J.; Loretta Murnane '30; Hilde Piser of Waban, Mass.; Dorothy Pohlmann; Helen Stevenson of Westport, Conn.; Gwendolyn Thomen; Eleanor Tyler of Athol, Mass.; Edna Whitehead '30 of Hartford, Conn.; Gloconsa Savini '28 of New York city; and Marion Geer '30 of Norwich. Miss Geer, while at the Academy, was a member of the glee club. She was also one of the officers of her class graduation speaker and on the staff of the Journal.

In the Connecticut College News under news of "Where Faculty Spent Their Vacations" there appeared the following: Miss Agnes Leahy of Norwich, instructor in psychology and secretary of the personnel bureau, spent her vacation in the west, chiefly in Wyoming where she took a number of trips into the Rocky Mountains.

DEMOCRATS IN STERLING NOMINATE NORWICH BOY

(Special to The Bulletin)

STERLING, Conn., Oct. 11—At the democratic caucus Saturday night, Henry Tatro, a former Norwich boy, was again honored by being placed on the ticket for justice of the peace, less than a week after he had been elected as grand juror, receiving the highest vote he ever did. Mr. Tatro was also a delegate to the senatorial convention in Brooklyn and was the man that nominated Hon. Oscar Maxwood. The result of the democratic caucus of Sterling follows: Charles B. Montgomery was elected chairman Miss Celia Eliot, clerk.

Hon. Arden O. Mower was unanimously nominated for justice of peace to hold with the exception of his own vote. He was also nominated for representative by the same vote.

Charles B. Montgomery was nominated for first justice of the peace, receiving 45 votes, the other 24 being divided between Fred A. Wilcox, Allen W. Sayles, William H. Kenyon, Adelor Boucher and F. H. Tatro.

For second justice of the peace, Adelor Boucher received 60 votes and others 19.

For third justice of the peace, Henry Tatro received 42, Fred Wilcox 22.

There were 37 new voters made on Saturday, most of them said to be democrats.

PAID $113.30 FOR TWO MOTOR LAW VIOLATIONS

Gustave Marnett, New London, was presented before Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Monday morning on charges of evading responsibility and reckless driving. Marnett's machine was involved in a collision Saturday night when it crashed into a machine owned by W. F. Sternberg of Westerly near the Bogue Ford agency on North Main street. Marnett made a report to Captain Thomas P. Murphy at police headquarters that his machine had been stolen while he was attending a dance at Hill Top.

Hearing of the accident on North Main street the police hurried there and while investigating the crash learned that it was Marnett's car and that Marnett had been operating it himself. Joseph Lenehan and James Murphy, who were riding with Marnett at the time of the accident and who were found at the scene of the accident, were held on suspicion of theft of the machine. They admitted that Marnett was driving the car when the accident happened. Lenehan and Murphy were released while Marnett was fined $75 for evading responsibility, $25 for reckless driving and given a suspended jail sentence of 30 days. He paid $113.30.

NORWICH TOWN

PLAN FOR NEW CHURCH CLOCK—RURAL ASSN. TO GIVE $375

The following letter is in circulation this week:

The First Congregational Church
Norwich Town, Conn.,
October 8, 1926.

To the People of Our Parish:

For more than a century the clock in the tower of our church has been on duty, and during all these years the generations have been accustomed to look to the tower of the old church for the time of day. For the past two or three years, however, the clock has been out of commission, and the experts tell us it is worn out and cannot be made to run.

The Norwich Rural association, appreciating the convenience of a public time-piece in this vicinity and of the fitness of having it located in this historic church, has generously offered to cooperate with us in installing a new Seth Thomas tower clock in the tower.

By a fortunate arrangement with the Thomas company, through John A. Ferguson, we are able to secure a first class guaranteed striking clock for $675 installed. Of this amount the Rural association generously provides $375, leaving our parish less than half of the full amount to raise.

This is a splendid opportunity for the church to secure a new clock at a price within our reach, and we sincerely trust that every family in the parish will want to have some share in putting into the church tower a clock which will run.

Please send your contribution (before Nov. 1, if possible) to Frank S. Avery, treasurer, Norwich Town, designating that the same is for the clock fund.

(Signed).
FREDERICK G. ROSS,
LUCIUS A. FENTON,
JOHN L. BROWNING,
Trustees First Cong'l Church
REV. GURDON F. BAILEY,
Pastor.

There was a good number present at the October meeting of Home chapter of the King's Daughters Monday afternoon at the Johnson home. The leader, Mrs. William E. Manning, opened the meeting reading a portion of the 107th psalm. Reports were submitted and approved and several new names for membership were voted upon during the business session. Home chapter Sewing society is to meet at the home of Mrs. Earle Christman, 13 Fourteenth street, Thursday, Oct. 21.

Announcement was made of the King's Daughters' and Sons' convention to be held in New Haven, Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 2 and 3. Mrs. Manning will be among others from Norwich who will attend and for the delegates from Home chapter she appointed: Mrs. Alvery Jarvis Baker and Mrs. Thomas Keene; also Mrs. William H. Whitman, Miss Marai Briggs, Mrs. Earl Christman and Mrs. Edward Briggs.

Menion was made of the city union of King's Daughters meeting to be held soon. It was the request of the leader that all members of Home chapter turn in the silk socks at the November meeting. These were distributed during the spring, with the expectation of accumulating a good total from the many bags put out in order to swell the fund on the treasury. At the meeting Monday, Mrs. Manning entertained with a reading on The Life of Columbus. The refreshment committee, Mrs. Arthur Fulton, served cake and coffe during the social hour at the close.

The Most Valuable Witness was the theme of Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey at the Sunday morning worship at the First Congregational church. Arthur Avery was leader of the Young People's Christian Endeavor service in the evening when the subject was If We Try To Put Together. Scripture readings were in Mark and I Corinthians. The October business meeting of the society was scheduled to take place Sunday evening.

In his sermon at the First Methodist church the pastor, Rev. Albert E. Whitcher, spoke about the life of Evangeline. The text chosen was from the first chapter of Isaiah the first lines of the 18th verse. Come now, and let us reason together, saith the Lord. The Christian Endeavor service in the evening, when the topic was How To Pull Together was in charge of Edward Howe.

Mr. and Mrs. John Booth Leonard (Helen May Bates) have returned from their wedding trip and are located in their new home at No. 9 Town street.

Mr. and Mrs. Jenjamin L. Kennedy, with their daughter, Miss Alice H. Kennedy, spent Sunday in Danielson, at the home of the former's mother, Mrs. C. P. Kennedy, and son, Ernest Kennedy.

The thank-offering meeting of the Foreign Missionary society is to be held Wednesday at 3:30 in the chapel. Mr. Harriet Hyde Zumbro will be the speaker and will give recent news from India. A large thank-offering is needed this year and as it must be forwarded at once, friends who can contribute to it have been asked to see that it reaches Miss Susan Hyde on or before Wednesday.

Health in Every Meal

Good tasting, good looking, wholesome food always makes for health. Rumford produces just such food. It is efficiency plus—that means that it does all a baking powder is supposed to do plus giving real food value, digestibility and wholesomeness. Good enough reasons surely for using—

Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

thereafter, instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

COLUMBIA BECOMES QUEEN OF THE GLOUCESTER FLEET

Swift Schooner Won Championship of the Fishing Fleet Yesterday by Defeating the Henry Ford in Second Consecutive Race by Nearly Five Minutes—The Race Was a Battle of Skippers—Thousands of Persons Watched the Struggle From Excursion Steamers, Fishing Schooners and Coast Guard Boats.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 12.—(AP)—The swift schooner Columbia is champion of Gloucester's fishing fleet. The vessel won that title today when the clever seamanship of Captain Ben Pine brought her home nearly five minutes ahead of the Henry Ford for the second straight victory in the series for the fishermen's championship. Today's triumph was even more decisive than that of yesterday when the Ford crossed the finish line one minute four seconds behind the Columbia. The actual margin today was four minutes, 45 seconds.

Thousands of holiday-seekers who had watched the five hour struggle from excursion vessels, fishing schooners and coast guard boats cheered the victor as Pine drove her across the line the vessel breezing along merrily on the starboard tack with a brisk wind on her quarter, her lee scuppers awash and every rag of canvas filling. All the shipping in the harbor added their whistles to a noise of triumph as the gun of the coast guard destroyer Wainwright, the committee boat, announced the finish.

It was another battle of skippers and Ben Pine's astuteness in that game won him the Gloucester championship, a silver cup presented by George E. Fuller of Worcester, a leg on a second cup presented by former Mayor Frank E. Davis of Gloucester for five years competition, and a cash purse of $1,750. The Henry Ford received the second prize of $1,350.

The race was won and lost in windward work. On the third leg, a ten mile beat to windward in uncertain airs, Pine obtained the advantage that held to the finish. When Captain Clayton E. Morrissey in the Ford struck a soft spot and lay becalmed, Pine was able to "buy some wind" and make headway. He nosed out the inshore areas where there was a breeze to be had and followed the wind in that one leg he made nine hitches to Captain Clayte's four and every one of them counted. At the third mark he had established a lead of 3 minutes, 31 seconds and was out of danger for the day. His sail handling enabled him to gain on his many hitches, for the Columbia's canvas was outfitted in approximately half a minute.

But Gloucester tonight was giving Pine credit as a good sport as well as a master seaman. There was one occasion during the race when he might well have taken an advantage, but relinquished it generously to his opponent. This was at the second mark, here the Ford, rounding the buoy 13 seconds behind the Columbia, held the inside position and the weather berth.

On the 10 mile reach that made the second leg the vessels had stood away to windward, looking for the offshore breeze and both overstood the mark Columbia jibed first and headed for the buoy on the inside berth. The Ford, footing faster than the other, was close behind as they neared the mark. But Pine could have shaved the buoy and crowded the other off. Instead he swung wide and Morrissey moved to the inside on the turn.

"He gave the race away right there," some of the critics said. But the windward leg came next and Pine showed he could win back an advantage.

But there was a smart northwest breze at the start. Both skippers were well back of the line at the gun. The Ford was over first, 22 seconds ahead of the Columbia, and on the first five mile leg, a broad reach, Morrissey showed his heels to Pine and piled up an extra 52 seconds advantage.

The second leg, 10 miles, was another reach, and as the breeze dropped both held off to windward in quest o airs. Pine crept up and they luffed with varying luck until the Columbia made her dash for the mark. It was here that he presented Morrissey with the inside berth, apparently a gesture of sportsmanship.

On the third leg, where the real race was settled, Pine's luck with the wind piled up a long lead, but on the fourth a reach of 10 miles, the Columbia showed that her good points were not all in windward work. She outfooted the Ford down this stretch and at the mark held a lead of 5 minutes, 23 seconds, the greatest margin of the series.

Morrissey picked up a little slack on the five mile reach to the finish, but it was too late. The Ford as the wind freshened, cut nearly a minute from Columbia's lead, but the race was in by this time.

The summary:

Columbia, Captain Ben Pine, 5.34.19; 5.33.08.

FAMOUS DIAMOND VALUED AT $2,000,000 WAS STOLEN

CHANTILLY, France, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The famous rose diamond known as "The Grand Conde" and valued at more than $2,000,000 was the most precious of a number of priceless treasures which were stolen this morning from the chateau of Duc D'Aumale, one of the national museums of France.

A daring band of thieves, consisting of at least four men, scaled the outer walls of the castle grounds with ladders crossed a moat and climbed up to the famous "room of gems" from which they looted precious stones and historical ornaments. The intrinsic value of the objects stolen has been placed as high as 100,000,000 francs while their value as relics of a bygone age are beyond calculation.

Beside the rose diamond, the thieves took two gorgeous diamond studded daggers, one of which belonged to Abd El-Kader and the other to the boy of Tunis; a cross of the legion of honor which Napoleon I gave to General Ornano in 1809; several bracelets, one bearing the portrait of the queen of the Belgians by a famous artist and the other bearing a cameo of Francis I, emperor of Austria; and several watches and decorated candy boxes, most of them the work of celebrated artisans and artists of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

Fingerprints and fingerprints revealed that at least four members were in the band and also enabled the police to gain a fair idea of how the thieves went about the robbery. The robbers brought the ladder with them and hooked up another on the castle grounds. The "room of gems" which is on the gem tower is on an island and has a separate bridge over a moat. This bridge had been drawn up for the night and the intruders used a 40-foot ladder to cross the moat.

Climbing up to the second story of the tower, where the gems were kept, the thieves smashed a heavy plate glass window in one of the windows and entered the room of gems. They broke the glass lids of the three show-cases from which they removed the diamond and other articles. In their haste, they passed over many masterpieces, one enamel painting by Benvenuto Cellini of inestimable value.

The thieves apparent did not visit the other rooms of the chateau where hang more than 500 paintings and hundreds of other works of art, sculpture, enamels, medals and precious manuscripts.

MAN INJURED BY PIECE OF FALLING LUMBER

HARTFORD, Oct. 12.—(AP)—George H. Taylor, of No. 234 South Main street, East Hartford, coming to the superior court by way of Pratt street bridge to collect a bill of $2,000 for the board of his mother-in-law for 12 years was injured by a piece of lumber falling from the Steiger company building under construction at Pratt and Trumbull streets.

A piece of lumber of three inches by four and eight feet long came tumbling down from a second story platform over the sidewalk as he was passing a gangway where materials are unloaded. The lumber struck him on the left hand, backing the fingers and the right shin. The shock and the pain made him sick for more than an hour.

He was removed to the office of Sheriff Edward W. Dewey close by and given first aid. When his case was called a few minutes before five he was able to take the stand.

BINGHAM MADE ADDRESS AT CONNECTICUT COLLEGE

NEW LONDON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—United States Senator Hiram Bingham, speaking at the Connecticut College for Women, here today, discussed the problems and the advancement of aviation. He called the attention of his listeners to the fact that the future of aviation depends more on the providing of aids to air navigation than anything else.

"These aids," the senator said, "must be provided by the town, the city and the state government working in conjunction with the federal government. The federal government is preparing to furnish aerial lighthouses to chart the air ways and is spending a great deal of time and money in studying how to perfect radio signals so that planes can fly in a fog and at night.

"The present congress has done more for commercial aviation than all of the previous congresses put together. For the first time air navigation has been placed on the same footing as ocean navigation so far as regards governmental provisions for aids to navigation.

"Few people realize how the government has neglected this important field. Many people have been disappointed at the slow advance of aviation and have not realized it could not advance without the same type of aids which for centuries have governed ocean navigation.

"For instance, the government is spending $10,000.00 a year for lighthouses for water navigation but not until this year has one cent been appropriated to provide lighthouses for commercial air navigation."

WATKINS GLEN, N. Y., BANK WRECKED BY EXPLOSION

WATKINS GLEN, N. Y., Oct. 12—(AP)—A terrific explosion of undetermined origin tonight wrecked the Watkins Glen National bank, injured one man and caused property damage estimated at more than $250,000. Stephen Surner, janitor, was severely cut and bruised.

The blast wrecked the three-story bank building and shattered windows for two blocks around. Daniel Kelly, restaurant man, walking past the bank when the explosion came, was blown across the street and buried against a building on the opposition side. He was uninjured, however.

The explosion, apparently in the basement of the bank, blew a great hole through the west wall of the building and wrecked the interior. Marble and brass ornamentations in the lobby was ripped from the walls. Bank records, furniture and equipment was destroyed.

The blast occurred at 5.45 o'clock when the business section was practically deserted. Warren W. Clute, president of the bank, said he had no idea of the cause of the blast. Official investigation is under way.

PLAN RETIREMENT OF 4,000,000 BALES COTTON

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Immediate retirement of 4,000,000 bales of the present cotton crop on long time pool system and reduction of 25 per cent in acreage next year was advocated in a resolution unanimously passed by more than 200 agricultural and business interests here today.

The resolution marked the close of a two day regional conference of the United States Chamber of Commerce and was attended by representatives from Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Mississippi and Louisiana.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

PARIS, Oct. 12.—(AP)—A wave of pessimism concerning ratification of the Washington debt settlement tonight submerged the lobbies of the chamber of deputies. Tomorrow the finance committee will consider the entire question.

ROTTERDAM, Holland, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Eighteen lives are known to have been lost in a hurricane which raged over Denmark and Holland over the week end. Heavy damage was done, especially to shipping, and many vessels were in difficulty.

STAINES, Middlesex, England, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Lord Smolto George Douglas, third son of the late Marquis of Queensberry, married Mrs. Mendelsohn Pickles, mother of the noted Australian aviator, Lieutenant Sydney Pickles. The ceremony took place at the registry office.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Former King George and Queen Elizabeth of Greece, who have been enjoying an excursion on the Danube with King Ferdinand, have returned suddenly to Bucharest by special train from Braila. The newspapers assert the unexpected move is associated with recent events in Greece.

ROME, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The Italian commissariat of emigration has published a notice saying that 16,000 Italian women are now entitled to enter the United States. They are the wives of men who have resided in America for at least four years. The notice adds that these women will absorb the quota of emigrants assigned to Italy for at least eight years.

A. F. OF L. OPPOSE SOVIET AND FASCISTI DICTATORSHIPS

DETROIT, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Reaffirming unswerving loyalty to the principles and institutions, of American democracy, the American Federation of Labor convention voiced uncompromising opposition to the soviet and Fascisti dictatorships in Europe.

"We regard the soviet political regime as the most unscrupulous, most anti-social and most menacing institution in the world today," said the report of the committee on resolutions rejecting a proposal to align the federation in a campaign seeking "formal diplomatic recognition," of Russia by the government of the United States.

The committee report as approved unanimously

A resolution characterizing the fascisti regime in Italy as a "tyrannical dictatorship" and affirming "its hearty support of the American labor movement of all institutions of representative government," as unanimously approved without debate.

"In fascism we find merely another form of dictatorship and autocracy, a principle of government which can never find anything but opposition in the minds of free people," said the committee's report on the resolution, which also was unanimously approved.

"To all who are denied their freedom, we hold forth the torch of freedom and the banner of democracy."

President Green read excepts from the constitution of the third international in which soviet sympathizers were urged to "destroy the labor movement," and concluded with a stirring peroration calling upon the convention to accept the challenge.

In calling for the vote he asked the affirmatives to stand to be counted. So great was the majority, he then called for the negatives to stand. No one arose.

"The secretary is authorized to cast the unanimous vote of the convention for the committee report," he said.

NO CLUE TO GANGSTER SLAYERS IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Stale gangland silence tonight shrouded the identity of the machine gunners who yesterday mowed down five men as the latest gesture in the war of extermination between rival gang factions for control of Chicago's liquor traffic.

Every gangster went into retirement leaving the police without a clue to the identity of the men who operated a machine gun last night from an apartment building window opposite Holy Name Cathedral on North State street, killing "Hymie" Weiss and Paddy Murray leaders of one gang faction and wounding W. W. O'Brien, well-known terminal lawyer and two of Weiss' associates.

It was reported during the day that the police had ferreted out the hiding place of "Scarface" Alcapone, powerful leader of the faction opposing Weiss, and had questioned him. The police, however would not admit this and Capone was not in custody.

Law enforcement authorities were trying to answer two questions: Who did the shooting? What was the motive?

They were confident that it was the result of some ramification of the two year gang feud, but frankly admitted they were unable to find a trace of the slayers and were likewise powerless to stop a re-opening of the machine gun battle, which they believe imminent.

CAPEWELL FOUND SANE AND ORDERED RELEASED

HARTFORD, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Frank E. Capewell was found to be sane by Judge Nickerson of the superior court today and was ordered released from the Hartford retreat, where he has been an inmate since December 27, 1923, by commitment of the Hartford probate court on petition of his conservator, the Riverside Trust company.

Capewell in an interview.

Capewell's lawyers will presently move that the Hartford probate court remove the Riverside Trust company as conservator on the grounds that the trust company has abused its trust and Capewell has recovered his competency.

Capewell, who is 66 years old and is possessed of an estate of $125,000, plans to live at a hotel in Woodbury. His freedom will cost him between $20,000 and $25,000, his counsel have estimated, as he will have to pay the cost of both sides to the action. Alienists in daily attendance at court for two weeks are expected to be very costly.

ASKS AID FOR FLOOD SUFFERERS IN ILLINOIS

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Declaring that many residents of flood stricken communities in Illinois are "in dire need of food, clothing and in many cases medical attention," Governor Len Small tonight issued a proclamation calling for gifts of food, clothing and money to the Red Cross to be used in relief workk.

The proclamation named the Red Cross as the official relief agency.

Legionnaires Parade To Sesqui-Centennial

About 150 Bands in Line Which Took Five Hours to Pass—22 Airplanes.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12—(AP)—Over ground that felt the tread of the soldiers of the Revolution, the Civil war and the Spanish war, marched the American legion today.

A great host, the largest, it was said, that ever walked under the organization's banner, paraded to the sesqui-centennial grounds in a setting that thrilled the vast crowds that witnessed it.

Philadelphia, flag-bedecked since it began the 150th anniversary of the birth of the republic, used to parades of some kind every week, received a new sensation as the "A. E. F." marched past.

Overhead droned 22 airplanes from the army and the Pennsylvania national guard, the army Blimp TC-5, and the great navy airship Los Angeles, the latter a gift of the war the marching thousands helped to win.

Heading the long procession from the entrance to Fairmount park to the sesqui-centennial stadium, was the old commander of the legion boys—General Pershing—and Vice-President Dawes.

A perfect autumn day favored the legion, and one of the largest crowds that ever saw a military turn-out in historic Philadelphia viewed the spectacle.

The procession entered the stadium at the open end of the U-shaped structure, marched around the quarter mile track and out again. Then the legionnaries dispersed, entered the vast concrete structure through the regular entrances and sat and watched the remander of the boys march by.

Vice-President Hawes, General Pershing, National Commander John R. McQuigg and others left the head of the line as it entered the stadium and took positions in the reviewing stand.

The parade was a long line of color. Many kinds and colors of uniforms from the continentals of Washington's army to the blinding white of the bugle and drum corps, were in the procession, which was broken by many kinds of floats from a palm-bedecked pony cart containing a bevy of Florida "legionnairesess" to one of the little red taxis that carried troops to the Marne and driven by a sky-blue clad Poilu with a long black beard.

There were about 150 bands in line, many of them crack organizations in their communities.

Every state in the Union and the Republic of France were represented in the line which took five hours to pass

The department of Delaware had the honor to head the parade because the blue hen state had the highest percentage of new members in the last year. Florida, most of its members wearing orange colors, came next.

The grand marshal of the parade was Major General Douglas MacArthur, commander of the Third Army corps area.

DAWES AND PERSHING ADDRESSED THE LEGION

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Vice President Dawes and General Pershing, one a crusader in the realm of politics, the other a leader in war, both members of the American Legion, addressed the former members of the American Expeditionary Forces in annual convention today.

The vice president denounced indifference shown by Americans to the dangers that beset the government.

The general, the first to greet the Legionnaires, said it was important to the "boys" to see that their representatives in their local communities were "fine, upstanding, alert, honest men, intelligent and efficient, and not suckers or demagogues."

Both the vice president and the general received an enthusiastic and very noisy reception that lasted several minutes in each case.

Vice President Dawes received a hearty round of applause when he declared that he believed that the primary system in elections should be "forever abolished".

The question of going to Paris next year has agitated American Legion circles for some time, and it is understood that the matter will not be settled without a contest"

Today's convention session was short because of the preparations that had to be made for the parade in the afternoon.

NON-STOP FLIGHT FROM VIRGINIA TO CANAL ZONE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—The navy department embarked definitely today on plans for a non-stop air flight from Hampton Roads, Va., to Colon, Canal zone, via Cuba, a distance only about 200 miles short of that from the California coast to the Hawaiian Islands.

The planes will leave October 19 or as soon thereafter as weather permits. They will be commanded by Lieutenant Commander Harold T. Bardett, who succeeded Commander John Rodgers in charge of the experimental long distance cruising program when the latter was killed recently in a crash at Philadelphia.

The air distance for the flight over the route selected is 1,759 nautical miles as compared to 1,670 covered by Rodgers' ship, the PN-9, No. 1, before it came down in the Pacific on the Hawaiian flight. The air distance from San Francisco to the islands for that flight was 2,030 nautical miles.

CASH BOX STOLEN FROM A CONVENT IN MERIDEN

MERIDEN, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The St. Stanislaus convent of this city was broken into this morning while the nuns were at mass and about $100 was taken from a tin cash box that was in the mother superior's room. The police believe that the persons responsible for the burglary must have been familiar wit hthe habits of the nuns and the lay-out of the convent.

13 PRISONERS ESCAPED FROM TENN. PENITENIARY

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Thirteen prisoners escaped from the state penitentiary near here early tonight. The convicts made their way to the outside walls by crawling through an air shaft that connected with a solitary cell which was occupied by one of the men who escaped.

The fugitives were said to have headed toward Nashville.

Budget Presented To French Deputies

For the First Time Since the World War the Budget Shows Apparent Surplus.

PARIS, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The Poincare government today introduced a budget in the chamber of deputies, which, for the first time since the World war, shows an apparent surplus.

Premier Poincare estimated that the total expenditures for 1927 would be 39,382,000,000 francs while receipts would be 39,960,000,000. Under the government's plan the surplus of 578,000,000 francs will be utilized to speed up home production, especially in wheat, to obviate the necessity of importing from countries having a high exchange.

Appropriations for payments of the foreign debts are provided for to the amount of 2,375,000,000 francs, of which 1,500,000,000 is expected to come from reparations payments.

In introducing the budget, Premier Poincare remarked that the sinking fund commission, during the year, will have at its disposal 6,174,000,000 francs to reduce the public debt. The finance minister also notified parliament that at the proper time he will introduce indispensable measure for the stabilization of French money. Nothing could be said in advance on the nature of these measures, the finance minister said, because of the fact that such information would facilitate speculation in the exchange.

The sums inscribed in the budget for the foreign debt payments are calculated at a rate of 150 francs to the pound and 31 to the dollar. The premier pointed out that there were two important maturities during the year, 3,018,000,000 credit national reconstruction bonds, due in February and 4,587,000,000 treasury bonds due on Sept. 25. The premier said that these sums had not been inscribed in the budget because they would entail too great a burden on the taxpayers. He intimated that in due time the government will resort to consolidation, which it has been authorized to do by parliament, in order to cover these obligations.

YOUNG WOMAN HELD FOR IMPLICATION IN BURGLARY

BRIDGEPORT, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Police halted and placed under arrest Phillis Wentsch, 21, who has been living in Pawling, N. Y., and who is wanted in connection with the burglary of the summer homes of wealthy New Yorkers at Sherman and Sharon.

The girl was driving a sedan bearing Pennsylvania license number B488-585. The arrest of the young woman follows the capture in Pawling last Saturday of Fred Bouton, a carpenter of Danbury, who is alleged to have committed burglary at the summer residence in Sherman of a Mrs. Critterton of New York and of the Douglas residence in Sharon last spring before the owners had arrived for the summer.

Police charge that the young woman was Bouton's accomplice in the burglaries, in which loot valued at approximately $8,000 was taken. The loot consisted of rugs, antique furniture and house furnishings.

The girl is being held here pending the arrival of an officer to take her to Sherman for trial.

COLUMBUS DAY WAS CELEBRATED IN GENOA

GENOA, Oct. 12.—(AP)—This, the natal city of Columbus, celebrated the anniversary of the discovery of America with a series of patriotic ceremonies today, in which Count Volpi, the finance minister, a son of Venice, which was Genoa's great rival on the sea in the days of the American explorations, took a leading role.

The day's observance honored not only Columbus, but the Venetian mariner navigator, Marco Polo, and the presence of General Umberto Nobile of polar flight fame, and De Pinedo, the noted aviator, served to link up Italy's modern achievements with those of her golden age.

Count Volpi extolled the virtues of Marco Polo in a colorful address, recalled the heroism of Genoa's sailors, and then brought back the attention of his thousands of listeners to the heroism of modern Italy in the determination to fight the financial battle to a successful conclusion which was no less glorious than the mariners' achievements.

The anniversary was observed throughout the nation, in several places with picturesque ceremonies.

DOUBT ABOUT THE QUOTA OF GERMAN IMMIGRANTS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Some doubt exists in official circles as to what the actual number of Germans, admissible to the United States under the immigration laws, will be after July 1, 1927.

The American consulate in Berlin has announced that it will accept no further applications from prospective German immigrants from October 15 to May 1 of next year, in doing this the consulate is acting tentatively on the assumption that President Coolidge will exercise his prerogative and proclaim the new quota by April 1, 1927. For Germany, it has been estimated unofficially, this new quota would be about 22,000 as compared with 51,227 under the present quota.

DORIS KENYON AND MILTON SILLS MARRIED

AUSABLE FORKS, N. Y., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Doris Kenyon and Milton Sills favorites of movie fans, were married at noon today on the shore of a little Adirondack lake bordering the summer camp of the bride several miles from this village.

Mountains, gay with autumn leaves which are now at the height of their brilliance, and the blue water of Lake Silver rippled by an October breeze formed nature's stage setting for the picture as the actor and actress stood before Reverend William M. Morrow, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Delmar, for the outdoor ceremony.

INVESTIGATING INDIANA POLITICAL CORRUPTION

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Thomas H. Adams, publisher of the Vincennes Indiana Commercial, spent two hours and 15 minutes this afternoon with the grand jury that has been instructed to investigate this charges of Indian political corruption. An oath of secrecy imposed upon the witnesses, upon the grand jurors and upon officials will prevent any revelation of what took place during publisher's long session with the investigating jury.

STRIKE OF BRITISH MINERS HAS DRAINED LABOR FUNDS

Railway Workers Are Unable to Meet Levy Assigned Them—45,000 of Them Have Not Returned to Work, 200,000 Are Working Only Three Days a Week—Transport Workers Have Spent £1,000,000 in the Interest of the Miners and Now are £500,000 in Debt—Labor Leaders Regard Nationalization of the Mines the Only Solution of the Problem.

MARGATE, England, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Foremost leaders of British trade unionism today frankly admitted that they were so busy on the problems brought with their own industries by the general strike that they had little material aid to give the miners in their long drawn out struggle with the operators.

Many of the leaders attending the conference of the Labor party here, gave frank avowals of suffering and impoverishment brought upon the workers through the general strike which was intended to help the miners and thereby to frustrate what was regarded as a general attack on wages by the employing class. They told a tale of unemployment, underemployment and financial losses which will take years to recoup.

The occasion was the 60th birthday of former Premier Ramsay MacDonald and the conference accorded him vociferous congratulations.

Then came disclosures on the condition of the workers in many of the largest British unions unloosing a display of bitter feelings which directed themselves especially against J. H. Thomas, leader of the Railwaymen's union, who had difficulty in gaining a hearing. With almost brutal frankness, Mr. Thomas told the conference that the coal miners were pursuing a chimera if they supposed that the railwaymen were in a position to help them by a levy of funds or by refusing to handle coal and freight.

He said that the railroad workers were unable to meet the levy assigned them as 45,000 of them have not returned to work since May 1, and 200,000 are working only three days a week.

Ben Tillett, secretary of the Transport Workers union, revealed that the union had spent £1,000,000 in the interest of the miners and was now £500,000 in debt.

Some of the left wing at the conference made speeches in which they indulged in rather strong language about the "lukewarmness" of some of the union leaders and of the parliamentary labor party.

Mr. MacDonald tried to pour oil on the troubled waters by declaring that what the miners wanted was moral as well as material help and especially good counsel. He deprecated what he described as so many useless and violent speeches on the matter.

A resolution finally was adopted by the executives applauding the miners' "magnificent resistance" and denouncing the government's "abject surrender" to the mine owners. The resolution declared that the only real solution of the problem was nationalization of the mines and the development of them recommended by the coal commission.

CONVENTION OF AMERICAN PUBLIC HEALTH ASS'N

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 2—(AP)—A barrage of ammunition designed to aid the human race in its struggle against disease and death was laid down by experts in various fields at today's session of the annual convention of the American Public Health association.

Dr. S. Dana Hubbard of New York, urged enactment of legislation to protect the public from "experts graduated from kennel, paddock and cow barn" who have turned to the cosmetic business and offer for sale face powders, lotions, creams and dyes containing dangerous poisons.

Dr. V. A. Moore of the New York State Veterinary college, Cornell university, urged co-operation between human and veterinary medicine for the protection of the public from rabies and glanders and other diseases that may be transmitted from animals to man.

Present methods of pasteurization are not effective, Dr. H. W. Redfield of Mendham, N. J. told the association, he reported efforts are being made to improve upon pasteurization machines to make it more effective and make more certain the prevention of human infection through this food.

Dr. John Weinzirl of the University of Washington recommended the use of careful handling of canned by the use of paper wrappings. Girl scouts workers, he declared, that candy sold in cardboard boxes and fragile dainties carriers and reported that of 113 samples purchased in the open market 25 were found to contain matter from the human intestine.

FORGED SIGNATURES ON U. S. TREASURY CHECKS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—Two of many blank United States treasury checks 20 of which were cashed with forged signatures between July 14 and October 9 has resulted in the combined detective forces of all governments being placed on the job of finding Edward Lawton Bowse.

The theft became known today when Postmaster General New broadcast a notice to postmasters to be on the lookout for Bowse. The checks were stolen while being forwarded to a special disbursing officer at the Philadelphia navy yard and are numbered 2002 to 3000, inclusive, bearing the symbol number 1934.

Bowse former's was a chief petty officer of the United States coast guard. Checks cashed varied in amounts from $57 to $151 and six were drawn to the order of E. T. Rose, another to E. T. Carason.

Bowse is described by the government's detectives as being 41 years old, 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighing 175 pounds, having blue eyes, brown hair and a light sallow complexion.

QUEEN MARIE OF RUMANIA HAS SAILED FOR AMERICA

CHERBOURG, France, Oct. 12—(AP)—Queen Marie of Rumania sailed away for America tonight aboard the Leviathan, the flag of her country flying from the port mast of the largest of liners as it passed through rain out into the Atlantic.

Born in Paris this morning and in Cherbourg tonight the queen was bidden farewell by Representatives of France, Rumania and United States. The official expressions of "bon voyage" were augmented by spontaneous good wishes from the crowds gathered to get a glimpse of the golden haired gracious mother in law of the Balkans.

Before leaving Paris a family reconciliation was effected with her son, Crown Prince Carol who dined at the queen's table last night, and then went to the station today to see his mother off on her long anticipated voyage to the new world.

CANADIAN HARVEST THIS YEAR IS BELOW AVERAGE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—The Canadian harvest this year is inferior in quality to crops last year and also below the mean year average, the dominion bureau of statistics today advised the department of agriculture.

Wheat quality is 96 per cent. of average compared with 101 per cent. last year while oats dropped to 90 per cent and flax fell to 93 per cent. The bureau's October forecast of potato production was 72,453,000 bushels compared 70,632,000 estimated bushels last year.

VERMONT FAMILY WIPED OUT BY TRIPLE SHOOTING

BARRE, Vt., Oct. 13—(AP)—A triple shooting that wiped out a family of three in a lonely farmhouse last Sunday night was discovered today. The dead are Russell Morrison, a 28 year old farmer, his young wife and six year old daughter, Joyce. The police expressed the belief tonight that Morrison, in a sudden fit of insanity, shot his wife and daughter after they had retired Sunday night and then ended his own life. It was known, they said, that he had long brooded over his health and farm affairs.

Discovery of the tragedy was made by Mrs. Morrison's mother, Mrs. John Hood, who had promised to visit her daughter. Arriving before daylight early today, she found the house dark and the doors locked. Not wishing to awaken the family she entered the kitchen through a window. Alarmed by the strange silence of the house she lighted an oil lantern and by its feeble light discovered her son-in-law dead on the floor of the kitchen. On the bed in the next room lay Mrs. Morrison with her daughter clasped in her arms.

A shotgun that lay on the floor beside Morrison's body apparently was the weapon used in the killings. All of those involved in the tragedy were dressed in their night clothing. The little girl had not attended school on Monday and the cattle had not been milked nor fed for more than 24 hours. By these facts the authorities were led to conclude that the shooting occurred Sunday night.

1,000 OFFICERS HUNT FOR BANDITS IN SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13—(AP)—More than 1,000 detectives, policemen and deputized citizens and several score speedy automobiles carrying shotguns and machine guns were posted a strategic points throughout this city tonight in readiness for the reappearance of two bandits who within a few hours last night shot and killed three men and shot and slugged five others.

In addition a thorough search still was in progress of hotels and rooming houses, so-called "soft drink" establishments and the known haunts of criminals and drug addicts. Federal narcotic agents were interested in the narcotic phase as the belief was expressed the men may have been under the influence of a habit-forming drug when they went on their orgy of killing.

Another federal agency, the prohibition department, joined the hunt. Operatives said they were searching for four men, two of them known to the department who recently came here from Kansas City and who have been engaged extensively in hi-jacking.

They expressed the belief that when the four men arrived here the party split, two remaining here and two going to another city. It was recalled that the bandits last night asked one of their victims if his establishment was a "booze parlor," and that one of the men appeared to be under the influence of liquor.

BODY OF MISSING CHILD WAS FOUND IN A SWAMP

ORWELL, O., Oct. 12.—(AP)—The body of Isabel Zandarski, two and a half years old, who disappeared from her crib in the Zandarski home here on the night of Sept. 21, was found by a hunter near here today.

The child's body was found in a swamp cow pasture a mile and a half from the Zandarski home by Floyd Congdon, 35, East Orwell, who was squirrel hunting. She was lying face down and was dressed in her flannel night clothes, without shoes or stockings.

Officials when the child's disappearance was first reported believed the girl kidnapped, but Sheriff H. D. Hannum later developed the theory that she might have been murdered in a plot to gain revenge on Anthony Zandarski, who, witnesses said, had received threatening letters upon failure to pay alleged debts.

No marks of violence were found upon the body, but the murder theory has not been definitely abandoned, authorities said.

It was pointed out that a child Isabel's age could hardly walk the distance, without shoes or stockings, and clad only in the nightgown.

ATTORNEY T. J. KELLY TELLS OF HONOR DUE COLUMBUS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 12.—Columbus day was observed at the weekly meeting of Willimantic Rotary club, this noon in the Nathan Hale hotel, with an address and eulogy of the great navigator by Attorney Thomas J. Kelly of this city. In the absence of President James P. Bath, who, with Dr. William E. Hendry is in Wasuington, D. C., Vice President Richard E. Dodge was in charge of the session. State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford of Putnam was a guest. Communications were read by Secretary Gerard E. Loisell, including a telegram extending greetings from President Bath. District Governor Allan D Colvin of Hartford will make his official visit to the club at the regular noon luncheon Tuesday, October 26th. At six-thirty in the evening he will meet the Club Council for a conference. The attendance for September was 86.3 per cent, with a 100 per cent meeting September 28.

Vice Uresident Dodge announced that the Spring conference would be held in Springfield, Mass., April 5 and 6. The outstanding figure at the conference will be Felice Seghezza, famous Italian linguist, traveler and Rotarian.

Justice George E. Hinman, chairman of the Sixth Object committee, gave a report of the proceedings at the meeting in Hartford Monday when Paul Harris, founder of Rotary was guest of honor and speaker of the day.

Attorney Kelly was presented by J. E. Sullivan, chairman pro tem of the program. Characterizing Christopher Columbus as one of the greatest benefactors of mankind through his discovery of a land which proved the refuge and haven of suffering and overcrowded peoples of Europe, Attorney Kelly pointed out that we had been slow to recognize the day. It was not until 1911, over 400 years after the discovery of America, that Columbus Day was set aside as a legal holiday by the legislature. Speaking of the earlier civilizations which existed before authentic history in Mexico, the speaker sketched the points which Columbus visited on his voyages to the South American continent, of which places the speaker had made a study on a tour to South America, about two years ago.

The meeting adjourned at 1:45 o'clock, with a rising vote of thanks to the speaker.

JAMES J. LEE NOT KEEN FOR JUDGE OF PROBATE BURDEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 12.—In his speech upon being nominated as the democratic candidate for judge of probate at the Scotland-Windham convention, held here last night, Ex-Alderman James J. Lee spoke as follows:

"Two years ago, my name was mentioned as a candidate for the office of judge of probate. At that time, I told you I would not under any consideration agree to be a candidate. Again, this year, my name has been brought into the scene and I have been urged to accept the nomination, not only by democrats but by republicans as well. I do not seek any nomination now, any more than two years ago. For personal and business reasons, I long ago decided to keep out of public office. In this case, what must I do? You urge me to accept a nomination which I am reluctant to receive. Should I accept? The strain of even a short campaign is not going to help war broken nerves. I appreciate your friendship towards me and the honor bestowed and I would do anything in my power to make an even return. If you find you are unable to find a suitable candidate for this important office, I will not fail you; but that is the only condition upon which I will accept the nomination."

Martineau were nominated by acclamation as candidates for representatives at the democratic caucus held in the town hall this evening with 74 electors present. Town Clerk Fenton opened the caucus as chairman of the town committee. Valentine L. Murphy was chairman and James J. Lee, clerk. The respective nominations were made by P. J. Twomey and Robert O. Shea. A committee of three, Frank P. Fenton, J. J. Lee and James F. Twomey brought in the following names as nominees for justices of the peace: W. C. Hawkes, E. Frank Buckley Sanger, D. Harvey, Alice D. Shumway, Minnie Flynn, Max Schulman, Eugene F. Hickey, Arthur T. Keefe, John R. Mullarkey, Robert F. Mitchell.

CONTESTS IN CAUCUSES IN SEVERAL OF THE TOWNS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 12.—In Chaplin, at a well attended caucus yesterday there were three candidates for the republican nomination for representative, George A. Reed, Walter S. Vail and Mrs. Cora Trowbridge. After three ballots Mr. Reed was selected. Judge Burton M. Welch was nominated for judge of probate.

Louis B. Whitcomb received the nomination as republican candidate for representative at the Andover caucus. After two unsuccessful informal ballots, Mr. Whitcomb defeated Sherman Bishop, 17 to 8.

Dr. William L. Higgins was again the nominee for representative from the south parish of the town of Coventry. Eugene W. Latimer was nominated for judge of probate. In the north parish, the nominee for second representative was Walter S. Haven. There were no contests.

There was balloting in both the south and north districts in the caucuses in Ashford. From the south district Gilbert Mathewson received 19 out of 24 votes cast and his nomination was made unanimous. Nathan Armitage of the north district was nominated by a vote of 17 out of 24 cast. Fred Chism was nominated judge of probate.

Six candidates entered the field in Hebron. After informal ballots the field was boiled down to Robert Foote, Albert Hildering and Loren Lord. A formal ballot proved victorious for Mr. Foote for first representative. Mr. Hildering won over Mr. Lord for second representative nomination. Leon Rathbone was nominated for judge of probate.

In Willington Dr. H. B. Converse and R. L. Birdsall were the choices for representatives and George P. Bugbee for judge of probate.

With 30 electors present, Scotland republicans nominated Charles F. Brenn for representative.

The choice of Mansfield republicans was: Byron Houston and Andrew M. Grant. There were no nominations for judge of probate, as L. J. Storrs, the present incumber, was nominated for that office at the recent town caucus.

JEWETT CITY

REV. WM. DOWNEY ADDRESSES K. OF C. ON PATRIOTISM

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 12—The local council of the Knights of Columbus celebrated the opening of their new quarters in Finn block, last evening in conjunction with their annual Columbus day exercises. Assembling at St. Mary's church hall, the members marched to the new rooms, where an excellent evening's entertainment awaited them. Rev. J. J. McCabe acted as chairman of the evening in his usual efficient manner. Walter LaFontaine of Norwich sang several excellent solos. He was followed by Chip Dugas of Taftville, a very clever jigger and clog dancer.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. William Downey, a professor at St. Thomas seminary, Hartford, who chose as his subject "True Patriotism". Rarely has the council listened to such a learned and eloquent speaker and the speaker held the attention of his audience to the end. It was the universal wish of all present that they might again listen to this talented speaker at some future date.

Brief addresses were made by District Deputy John F. Hennon of Jewett City and State Advocate Jerome Collins of New London. Others on the platform were Rev. John Landry of Jewett City and John Conway of Baltic, secretary of the Knights of Columbus, fourth degree branch in this section of the state.

The rooms were very attractive, having recently been repainted and redecorated. Several beautiful bouquets of hydrangeas, donated by Edmond Jodoin, added to the appearance of the new quarters.

The able committee who had charge of securing the rooms and who were also in charge of the evening's entertainment included Edmond Jodoin, chairman, Eudor Leclaire, William Duggan, George Lafavre, John Driscoll, Dennis Griffin, Richard Dudkowski, Timothy Shea, Salvador Mugovero.

TWO BOY BURGLARS ROB A FILLING STATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 13—Mike's filling station just below the Anderson farm in Lisbon was robbed of money during Tuesday afternoon. Deputy Sheriff Dolan was notified and found that three Polish boys were suspected. He finally located them near the Kanahan farm, walking toward Norwich. One had some of the money in his shoe, and the other dropped his on the bank beside the road. The third had not been in the filling station, but stood across the road and watched. His fare was to be paid into the movies at The Palace theatre. One of these boys a few years ago broke into the Jewett City Creamery and stole $140. Two of them stole from this some filling station last Sunday. Officer Dolan thought it about time that some of the juvenile robbery business was given a court session. He took the boys to their parents and ordered them to appear in the Lisbon town court in the evening.

Children's Colds Best Treated Externally

CONSTANT dosing upsets little stomachs. Modern mothers prefer to treat children's colds externally—with Vicks VapoRub. They simply rub it on the throat and chest at bedtime.

Vicks acts two ways at once:

(1) Like the old-fashioned poultice in "drawing out" the soreness and pain; and, at the same time,

(2) Like a modern vapor lamp because the body heat releases the ingredients in the form of medicated vapors which are inhaled all night long. These loosen the phlegm and open the congested air passages.

Most colds yield by morning to this double direct action.

Removing Carbon~~Grinding Valves
Grinding Valves~~~
~Removing Carbon

-how much longer must these twin evils pick your pocket and mar your motoring enjoyment

TWO items alone—grinding valves and removing carbon—account for at least one-half the up-keep cost of the ordinary automobile . . . Every owner knows that . . .

The Willys-Knight Great Six wipes out all this expense . . . in its Knight sleeve-valve engine—patented, exclusive—there are no valves to grind—no carbon to remove.

Carbon cannot harm the engine of the Willys-Knight Great Six. Hence, carbon troubles, and the expense and inconvenience of remedying them, never enter into its owner's calculation . . .

In fact, the presence of carbon in the Willys-Knight sleeve-valve engine only serves to seal compression, to prevent waste of power . . . It is a desirable agent. Instead of hampering or harming, it actually helps this engine to perform.

Willys-Knight Great Six prices from $1750 to $2495. Prices f.o.b. factory and specifications subject to change without notice. The Willys Finance Plan offers unusually attractive credit terms. Willys-Overland, Inc., Toledo, Ohio. Willys-Overland Sales Co., Ltd., Toronto, Canada.

One advantage in Lucky Strikes is that you can immediately tell how different they are from other cigarettes.

You realize that they offer the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, properly aged and perfectly blended—and something more.

That something is toasting—a costly added process, an added expense to us.

Lucky Strikes offer:

1. Finer Flavor. Toasting for 45 minutes develops the hidden flavors of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos.
2. Smoothness. Toasting for 45 minutes removes all "bite" and harshness, hence never any throat irritation.
3. Freshness. Then the tobacco is suddenly chilled. This seals the flavor in and insures constant freshness.

Thus the toasting process is an addition. It adds a unique and distinct improvement to a cigarette that has already been made from the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. It is the reason millions prefer Lucky Strikes.

ROLAND HARQUOIL KILLED BY DISCHARGE OF HUNTING GUN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Oct. 12.—A tragedy of the woods, the first fatal accident to a hunter in this vicinity for years, was revealed this morning when the body of Roland Harquoil, 21, was found near a maple tree a short distance west of the state highway, about three-quarters of the distance from Danielson to South Killingly on the Providence route. Coroner Arthur G. Bill viewed the body and attributed the death to the accidental discharge of the double-barrel shotgun the young man was carrying.

Harquoil, who was married but two months, left Meadowbrook farm inn, near the foot of South Killingly hill Monday about 11 a. m. for an hour's hunt in nearby wooded territory. He said he would be back at noon for lunch.

The day passed without anything being heard of him and the worry that his prolonged absence caused was accentuated when the dog that had gone hunting with him came back to the inn, about midnight. A searching party that went out accompanied by a police dog from Putnam was unsuccessful in finding any trace of the young man. Tuesday morning the search was resumed and the body eventually found.

The body lay in woods that are about 300 yards from the inn. Examination of the vicinity seemed to indicate, without any question of doubt, that the young man had tripped over a root that was near his feet and that his gun had been accidentally discharged when the stock came in contact with stones that protruded several inches above the ground right there. The stock of the gun was split and the butt dented as from contact with one of the stones.

A charge of shot had entered the young man's throat and is believed to have caused instant death. Presumably the dog remained with his dead master all the hours from the time the tragedy happened until midnight. Members of the Meadowbrook household say they heard a shot over toward where the body was found, about noon Monday, and it is assumed that it was at that time that the young man lost his life.

There was no way of determining whether one or both barrels of the gun were discharged when Harquoil stepped. Empty shells were in both chambers, but one shell, it was pointed out, might have been used prior to the accident.

No accidental death that has occurred hereabouts in a long time caused such a wave of sympathy as this tragedy. Roland Harquoil was a splendid young man, gentlemanly, exceptional physically and well thought of by all who knew him. Since spring, when his father, Zepherin Harquoil, took over the Meadowbrook inn property, establishing a filling station and roadside refreshment business, Roland had assisted in the work to be done about the place. In April last he received an honorable discharge from the regular army being in Texas at the close of his service, and came north to aid his father, who, in addition to having the place at South Killingly, is proprietor of the City hotel at Putnam and the Attawaugan boarding house in Attawaugan. The body was removed to Putnam.

Mr. Harquoil leaves his wife, a bride of two months, who before her marriage was Miss Irene Herard of Attawaugan, his parents, a brother and a sister.

MOTOR SECTION CAR KILLS LOUIS LANTANGE, OF MOOSUP

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 12.—A motor-driven section car killed Louis Lantange, 39, at the Main street crossing in Moosup this morning shortly after 10 o'clock, this being the first time in the history of their use in this part of the state that one of these wisps of railroad equipment has caused a fatal accident. Five men who were riding on the car, which was en route from Providence to Plainfield, were hurled off when the machine was derailed after striking Lantagne, but none of them received more than scratches and minor bruises. The accident happened a few yards west of the railroad station and in the very heart of Moosup. Coroner Arthur G. Bill of Danielson and Dr. W. W. Adams of Moosup checked up the accident.

After his investigation, Coroner Bill said that he had learned that the crossing tender was on the duty, standing in the center of the street at the crossing with his stop signal displayed, when the motor car was approaching from the east. Mr. Lantagne, who was on his way home from the postoffice, was standing near the crossing at the time and started across the track just in time to be caught by the car and run over. He was considerably jammed in the accident and among other serious injuries suffered a fractured skull, which was the immediate cause of death. After the coroner and medical examiner had viewed the body it was taken in charge by Undertaker L. E. Kennedy and removed to his rooms in Danielson, he later returning with it to Moosup.

The five men on the section car were telephone installers for the New Haven road and were traveling out of Providence on a mission to Plainfield. Thomas Driscoll, who was in charge of the men, said that the car had been slowed down almost to a stop, upon approaching the crossing and that on being asured of a safe clearance, it started ahead again. The machine was gaining momentum when Mr. Lantagne stepped into its path. Mr. Lantagne was knocked down and run over, the machine going off the iron and throwing the men off along the track after it passed over the body. Perry White, Providence, pilot of the car, said that when he was thrown off the motor was still running and the machine in speed, these facts accounting for the distance for the car traveled before it came to a stop.

Mr. Lantagne was a native of Canada. Prior to coming to Moosup, about seven years ago, he had been a resident of Taftville. His wife being dead, he had been making his home with his son, Adolph, in Moosup. He was retired from work. Only a few minutes prior to his death he had left the home to go to the postoffice and was on his way back when the accident occurred. Coroner Bill said that he had learned that Mr. Lantagne was slightly deaf and this is believed to have been a cause contributing to his not noting the approach of the section car and resulting in his death.

The funeral of Mrs. James F. Coffey was held Tuesday morning from the home on Mechanic street, with funeral services at St. James' church at 10 o'clock. Rev. James McCarthy, M. S., Rev. F. X. Richards, M. S., and Rev. Fr. Ruest were the officers of the solemn mass of requiem, which was attended by many relatives and friends. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery, the committal service conducted by Rev. Fr. McCarthy. The bearers were Michael Braney of Providence, Michael Shea of Canterbury, Daniel Smith of Brooklyn, Martin Dooley of Danielson, James Riley and James Fitzgerald of Hampton. There were beautiful floral pieces. Martin T. Burns was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Treasurer Sidney W. Bard, of the Brooklyn Savings bank, of Danielson is the republican nominee for representative from Brooklyn, his home town. In the party caucus Monday evening he won a nomination over Delor Grennon by a very considerable margin. So marked was the desire for nominations for justices of peace that ballots were taken on all candidates. The caucus, as for years past, named Judge Oscar F. Atwood, democrat, to succeed himself as judge of probate. Tuesday evening the democrats nominated Judge Atwood for the same office, so his election for another term is assured.

The four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rickey, of Cottage street, was in a critical condition Tuesday as the result of the accidental spilling upon the child by its grandmother, while he was visiting on the West Side, of the large part of the contents of a kettle of boiling water. The child is scalded from his neck to his ankles. Dr. Nathaniel Hubbard gave the injured child attention. Several days likely will elapse before it is definitely determined whether the scalding is of such degree as to cause death.

With the democratic caucus held here Tuesday evening the stage is set for the state election November 2. There can be no contests in Killingly excepting over representatives or justices of the peace, and not much enthusiasm for a contest over the justices is likely to be engendered. There is always the possibility of a sharp battle over representatives, but it is rare indeed that a democrat has been elected from Killingly, though it has happened occasionally.

That there is real church spirit and enthusiasm for parish work among the members of St. Alban's parish is indicated by the fact that $5,000 on the indebtedness of the parish house, constructed last year, has been paid off during the present year. Not content with this good showing, the parish now has a committee made up of Francis E. Storer, Herbert H. Pepler and Sidney P. Marland, engaged with plans for a November event that will bring in more money for the church funds. It will be an event sure to command the interest of the public at large.

Today is the day when the gates to the borough tax collector's sanctum are closed against those who have not met their assessments since collections for the year were started the past month. Collections have been exceptionally good this year, but there are some delinquents who will now facing the necessity of paying the stated penalty for not meeting their obligations within the specified time.

EDWARD CARLSON PROMOTED TO ASST. DIV. ENG., NEW HAVEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 12.—Edward Carlson, who came to Putnam some time ago as track supervisor of the New Haven road for the New London district, has been promoted to assistant division engineer, with headquarters at New Haven. He expects to leave Putnam for New Haven and will move his family to the latter place.

The latest news received from Bloomington, Ill., would indicate that William Aldrich, the 12 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Aldrich, who was injured in an automobile accident while en route from Putnam to Los Angeles, Cal., is gaining, and hopes are now entertained for his complete recovery. He started from Putnam on Labor day in company with Emil Brenick, also of this city, to make the trip by easy stages, in a Ford car. It is not known whether the boys are planning to resume their journey to the Pacific coast or will return home.

Advance notice has been received of a new book, "The Country Newspaper," by Malcolm M. Willey, Ph. D., assistant professor of sociology at Dartmouth. Professor Willey is the son of Mrs. Helen Willey of this city. He is a graduate of Putnam High school, of Clarke college, Worcester, and received his Ph. D. degree at Columbia. In the advance sheet regarding the new book, the publisher says: "What is the purpose of the Country newspaper? In the first place, it must be remembered that by far the greatest population of the nation is in the small towns and the country. In the second place, within this large and potentially powerful populaion there is vast opportunity for development. The field is open for the country editor who will study his locality, his people and the problems of his newspaper."

Putnam seems to have a much better business outlook. Some of the city's newest industries are expanding and new families are coming to town. Lewis F. Battey, director of the naturalization work in Windham county and superintendent of the Putnam evening school, states that where last year there were but fourteen in attendance in the naturalization department in the evening school, this year there 29. He further says that there are new faces, faces of newly arrived people.

The directors of the Chamber of Commerce are active in their efforts to hasten the occupancy of the present vacant mill properties. While the weekly pay rolls total is far below that of war times, there is a large sum put into circulation through the medium of the present manufacturing plants.

Mrs. Thomas Duffey of South Main street, badly injured in an automobile accident at Auburn, Mass., three months ago and who has since been in St. Vincent's hospital at Worcester has so far recovered as to be able to leave the hospital. Miss Eliza Reid, for many years an employe of the Putnam post office, who was in the same accident and also badly injured was able to come home about ten days ago.

Anthony M. Bendine, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francesco Bendine who disappeared from his home in Providence August 4, last, is being sought in Putnam where it is believed that he worked for several weeks. The boy was graduated from a Providence high school last June and obtained a college certificate which entitled him to enter Tufts college. He wanted to go to college and when he learned that his father could not send him this year, although he promised to do so next year, the boy left home, dressed in his old clothes and with very little money. It was at first thought that the boy expected to work and would show up at Tufts for registration. He was not at college and has not been heard of since. Information led to the belief that he was in Putnam.

A number of members of the Con-gregational church of this city will attend the semi-annual meeting of the eastern district of the Woman's Congregational Home Missionary Union of Connecticut which is to be held at the Congregational church at Willimantic, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bugbee, of New York are guests of Mr. Bugbee's sister, Mrs. Mary B. Bishop.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Richardson of Mechanic street have returned from a ten days' motor trip through Maine and northern New England.

Mrs. John Carlson has returned from a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Ernest Linde at Bridgeport.

Mrs. Flora Merrick and son, Leonard, of Holyoke, Mass., and Misses Winifred Potter and Lillian Johnson of Waterbury are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Potter.

Mrs. Frank Moore of New Britain is visiting her sister, Mrs. Monty Kilborn.

Miss Celia Aframe of New York has been the recent guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Aframe.

Miss Sadie Zaitas of Norwich has been spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Zaitas.

Mrs. Rose Obletz and daughter, Miss Jennie, have returned from a short visit with Mrs. Obletz's sister, Mrs Charles Stamm, at Norwich.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church is to meet this (Wednesday) afternoon at the church parlors.

Eugene Bressette of Water street has returned from a visit with friends at Woonsocket.

Mrs. Fred Fairfield of St. Cloud, Florida is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Albert Geer, of North School street.

MANSFIELD'S NEW LIBRARY IS FORMALLY DEDICATED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 12.—The new Mansfield library was dedicated with ceremonies held in the First Congregational church, Mansfield Center this afternoon, and a reception in the library in the evening. The library is the gift of Gilbert W. Chapin of Hartford, in memory of his wife, Delia Campbell, descendant of the Storrs family, and children. The gift was made on condition that a $10, endowment fund be established and this was contributed to substantially by C. Hammond Knowlton, Mrs. C. E. Perry, and Mrs. W. J. McAnegny. The remainder was obtained by popular subscription. The library is a two-story brick and stone structure with large pillars and porch, has over 3,500 books and a circulation of 7,000. The reading room is on the main floor and the work room, auditorium and lavatory on the second.

For the dedication exercises Mrs. Perry was chairman. Addresses were delivered by Dr. A. D. Meridith, state school commissioner of Hartford, President Charles L. Beach of the Connecticut Agricultural college and Rev. E. T. Ayer of Branford, former pastor. Invocation was by Rev. Walter E. Lamphear of Newton, Kans., former pastor. Miss Elsie G. Marsh, librarian gave the historical address, telling of the early struggles for a library, which started some 20 years ago, through the efforts of Mrs. L. S. Bigelow, of Buffalo, a summer resident in Mansfield. In a brief address Mr. Chapin, the donor, presented the key of the library to Alfred Oden, president of the Library association. The dedicatory prayer was by Rev. T. Hawthorne Jones. The music was in charge of Edwin F. Cross, Mrs. R. F. Hahn and Mrs. Leslie Nichols of Willimantic.

CHICAGO'S GANGS

Chicago is once more placed in an unenviable light because of the manner in which the gangsters continue to do about as they please and openly commit murder in the busiest parts of the city.

We throw up our hands and voices in horror at the manner in which the lynchers take the lives of individuals in southern states, but somehow such affairs as that in Chicago are taken as a matter of course, comment being made to the effect that most anything can be expected in Chicago and it is forgotten until the next outbreak.

The gangsters and guntoters present a serious problem in any community but they have been carrying on a war in Chicago which has resulted in many deaths and no end of terror. They snap their fingers at the authorities, stage their murders in the heart of the city in the public thoroughfares and bring into play machine guns operated from the street and a second story window.

Whatever the authorities of the Windy city may have done heretofore for the suppression of such gangsters, it is apparent that it has not accomplished the necessary results. There is no respect for authority or the rights of others. Anyone who happens to get in the line of operations of those bent upon snuffing out the life of a hated enemy must also suffer the penalty regardless of how innocent his presence may be. Lynch law in the south is no worse than the gangster operations in Chicago. The better sentiment of the south is said to be against mob rule, and it is probable that it can be claimed for Chicago that there is strong sentiment against the gangsters and yet in neither instances does it appear that the better sentiment gets much attention.

The latest outbreak may be no worse than others but all reflect very seriously upon the police force of that city where the suppression rather than the toleration of such murderous activity should be demonstrated. Chicago doesn't like the reputation which it has gotten because of these and other cases, but is anyone to blame but Chicago?

PAYING FOR ACCOMMODATION

Toll bridges may not be regarded as exactly popular but they invariably mean that the public is getting increased accommodations, and rare are the instances when such accommodations are not appreciated.

When the time came for the opening of the bridge over the Delaware at Philadelphia there was a long controversy over whether tolls were to be collected. Pennsylvania opposed it, but New Jersey insisted that the bridge was built with that understanding and won the day.

The bridge has been open for three months and tolls have been collected. The result is that the daily average toll has been about $6,845, while it was estimated that it would amount to about $4,000. This average has been obtained during the best season of the year when traffic could be expected to be the heaviest when the newness of the bridge and its effect upon the exposition was adding to the. What the results will be during the winter quarters remains to be seen, but the coming spring will undoubtedly see the bridge and that is that the use of the bridge has been greatly increased, demonstrating that the ferry method has been rejected by those desiring to get from one side of the river to the other and they are willing to pay for that benefit.

Those who have had experience with ferry boats, delays, crowded conditions and the interruption to continuous travel can appreciate the relief that is afforded by the construction of bridges, and they are invariably given to such clear thinking that they are perfectly satisfied to pay for the quicker means of getting over the river. Certain they realize that if the slow method involved an expense the more rapid facility is worth paying for.

The toll on the Delaware river bridge goes for maintenance, and the reduction of the indebtedness created when it was built. If the number using it exceeds the estimate the period over which the debt can be wiped out will be greatly lessened for the appreciation of the accommodation should continue to increase.

SEEKING GREATER SAFETY

Varied are the methods which have been employed in many communities for the purpose of preventing the large number of deaths in the highways. The aim has been to create in the minds of the auto drivers and the pedestrians that present day conditions make it necessary to have a regard for what the other fellow is doing and to act in such a manner that an accident will not be invited.

Drivers must be particular to respect the regulations concerning the use of the highways and pedestrians must look well to their own safety and not place too much dependence upon the protection which others are going to give them.

There is no getting away from the fact that the number of automobile deaths is grossly too large. The number of highway accidents is far greater than it should be, if all those using the streets and roads were guided by the desire for safety to others as well as self.

All sorts of methods have been tried with varying results. Methods will not affect carelessness and just as long as that exists in too great a measure the deplorable accidents can be anticipated. Carelessness betrays us nothing but human frailty, one of the hardest things for humanity to shake.

In the city of Washington much concern has been manifested over the number of school children who are subject to the dangers of highway traffic while going to school. Making [illegible] on mind the necessity of being [illegible] against highway dangers is no easy task. It is necessary [illegible] in many instances but [illegible] because of their [illegible] Washington is [illegible] considering the opening of [illegible] an hour or a half hour later in the morning in order to avoid the peak of traffic when so many auto [illegible] to be found in the streets, or of fixing different hours for different schools, or grades in order to reduce the number of children on the streets at one time.

What is done in the interest of safety is invariably justified. Whether such a plan as proposed in Washington would meet the peculiar conditions in that city can best be told by trying. Most anything is justified in the effort to reduce the number of deaths among children.

SHEEP RAISING

It was interesting to read an advertisement since the opening of the hunting season warning hunters to stay away from and keep their dogs off a particular farm because it is a sheep farm. This is of course a fair warning and inasmuch as the protection of the sheep may endanger the dogs owners cannot fail to recognize their responsibility.

What halted attention was the statement: "This is a sheep farm." The opportunities for them are many in New London county and in the state, but in too many instances they are ignored. It is gratifying to note the evidence that sentiment in one quarter is at least changing and that the belief not only prevails that sheep can be profitably raised, but that they can be raised in spite of dogs.

According to government figures we are producing fewer cattle and sheep than we produced 50 years ago and yet the demand from 113,000,000 people is for more wool and more lamb and mutton. Production is not keeping pace with the increase in population.

That falling off in the raising of sheep and cattle is to be noted right here in eastern Connecticut quite the same as at other points about the country, and yet there is good reason for believing that our farms are just as able to cater to such demands now as they were in the past.

One farmer apparently believes that he can deal with the sheep killing dogs. They certainly deserve no mercy, and it is to be hoped that this is only one of many instances where there is a serious determination to restore the sheep raising industry in this part of the state. May it succeed beyond expectations.

AN INTERNATIONAL CODE

Announcements are frequently being made by congressmen as to what new measures they are going to propose for the consideration of congress. The latest of these comes from Congressman [illegible], chairman of the house foreign affairs committee who declares that it is his intention to call up a resolution asking the president to propose a conference at The Hague for the purpose of codifying international law.

A code of laws between nations has been frequently urged. It was the lack of [illegible] that Senator Borah offered, as one of his reasons, at least for opposing the adherence of the United States to the world court. He has insisted that that step should be taken first and he is quoted as being favorable to the Porter plan. Naturally [illegible] cast cause objection to it now [illegible] and a committee named [illegible] of nations has been at [illegible] a codification of international [illegible] not be simple a matter [illegible] suspected, but there [illegible] who can think that there is [illegible] international law [illegible]

[illegible] therefore of making [illegible] be appreciated. It may take [illegible] Many unforeseen difficulties [illegible] are many which can be [illegible] are inevitable. The job [illegible] no as an easy one but the [illegible] undertaken. The [illegible] it can be known whether any [illegible] possible, or if they [illegible] benefits are [illegible] attained. The success of [illegible] A will be of much benefit [illegible] legal scope of [illegible]

FROM LUCILE'S DIARY

Yesterday morning Maranna Cook telephoned me to meet her down town and a Dutch treat luncheon as we sometimes do.

"We can look at spring frocks," she said "and then after lunch we might go to a good movie."

"Very well, I'm game," I responded for I had just been wondering how I could escape from cleaning day at home. I always try to leave the house when our charwoman comes. I often wonder how mother and Cousin Fannie can endure supervising her work of shaking rugs and wiping floors.

Maranna and I had a lovely time wandering around among the charming spring models at Mead's in the French room. I tried on one fascinating dress, for I knew that if it were becoming I could have Cousin Fannie make one for me.

"Maryanna," I said as we were leaving the department, "why don't you have that green and black ensemble you like sent up to your house on approval and your sewing woman can copy it. You won't have to keep it more than two or three days."

"Oh, Lucile, I couldn't do that. It doesn't seem—well, it doesn't seem quite honest to me," she remarked.

"Let at this collar and cuff set," I said a moment lately. "It's just what I need to wear with my blue sports suit, and it's only $3.50. Isn't that reasonable? I'm short of money today, Maryanna, and dad hasn't an account here, so I'll have to ask you to lend me that amount. That's a dear."

She opened her purse and I could not help imagining that she counted out the money rather reluctantly, but I told myself I was doing her an injustice, for she is too generous a girl to grudge any one a small loan. I had to let her pay for our luncheon also.

"If I had known I was to finance this Dutch treat, Lucile," she said, "I think I should have advised you not to order quite such an elaborate collation." She laughed and so did I. I was rather proud of the lunch, for I think it a real art to order a successful meal.

"I hope," I said, "that you have plenty left for our theater tickets, for I have to throw myself on your bounty for those also. This was a rather bad day for me to go on a lark, as I have just spent the last of this month's allowance, but I don't mind being in debt to a friend like you."

"We shall have to sit in the balcony, Lucile, unless you're satisfied to go to one of the cheaper movie theaters."

"I guess we can put up with the balcony for once," I answered good naturedly, and when we came out of the theater I said to Maryanna that it was not bad at all, for I wished to put her at her ease in regard to the rather poor seats we had had.

"Will you lend me a dime for the bus?" I asked, and as she was fishing it out of her purse I involuntarily exclaimed that I had almost forgotten to go to the Cellini shop.

"Oh, are you going there? I can walk with you that far," said Maryanna, rather to my discomfiture, as I should have preferred going alone.

"Has that cigarette case you told me you had ordered come yet?" I asked one of the clerks at Cellini's.

"Yes, madam, and I'm quite sure you will be pleased with it," he replied, and I certainly was.

"Isn't that Florentine filigree beautiful?" asked Maryanna, and then turning to the clerk said I would take it.

"I think $15 is very cheap for such an unusually lively thing," I remarked as I paid for it. Maryanna's eyes opened wide.

"I thought you were out of funds today, Lucile," she said.

"I was, dear, except for this $15, which I've been saving to buy a birthday present. Of course, I couldn't break into that for the fleeting joys of the day," I said gayly. "What a nice, jolly time we have had."

"I'm glad that you think so, Lucile," she responded, "for I don't know when I shall be able to spend another like it." She emphasized the word spend in an odd way. I rather hope that she will not discover that the cigarette case was bought for my own use. I don't care much about smoking, but one simply must carry a cigarette case to be really smart.—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Mrs. Langtry (Lady de Bathe), who today enters upon her 75th year, is little known even by name to the present generation, but in the days of our fathers her beauty was the toast of two continents. Born Lily le Breton, she was the most beautiful girl in the isle of Jersey when at 15 she met and married Edward Langtry, an Englishman of wealth. When Mrs. Langtry first appeared in London society, her ageless beauty created something of a sensation. Sir John Millais painted her portrait and christened her The Jersey Lily. The Prince of Wales (later Edward VII.) was numbered among her ardent admirers. Differences with her husband, followed by a separation and in 1897, a divorce, caused Mrs. Langtry to adopt the stage. She made several professional tours of America, the last about 20 years ago, when she appeared in vaudeville.

Stories That Recall Others

Oh, Does She?

The family was entertaining two distinguished out of town business men at dinner. Bobby, age two and a half, was permitted to eat at the table provided he behaved himself. Seated between his big sister and one of the guests he managed to hold still and not talk. After the maid served the dinner everyone began to eat. But Bobby sat staring down at his plate, which contained some mashed potato and gravy and a large juicy steak bone, with an air of utter hopelessness.

"What's the matter, Bobby?" asked one of the guests.

"Oh, that maid of ours still eats the meat off my bone before she brings it in," replied Bobby angrily.

It Ran

Jack's father has a mechanical turn of mind and Jack inherits it, and though only 15 he sets quite a pace for dad.

One day he came running into the house with the exciting news that a fellow down the street had a flivver he would sell for $15. It didn't have any body and the tires were not very good, but what could you expect for $15. He wished to buy it and put in the backyard to play with, to take apart, and find out all about how it was made. Dad bought it and soon the yard was littered with parts. All went well and soon Jack knew more about a certain kind of automobile.

Then came an afternoon when Jack appeared at the back door with a big policeman, who explained. "See here, madam, I've had seven complaints about this kid tearing around in that old wreck of a flivver without a license or anything. Why it hasn't even a seat. Just now he and another kid were sitting on the gas tank cuttin' her loose at about 30 per. They'll get hurt themselves or hurt somebody else and it's just gotta stop." And it did.

MUSIC IN THE HOME

By Mrs. Harriet Ayers Seymour, The Seymour School of Music

If you should ask the average mother of a family to play for you even a simple folk song or a waltz, what would her answer be? This is a conundrum which should interest all parents and why? Because so much musical education is impractical.

I once heard a father complain that he had spent a thousand dollars in order to have Anita learn Pussy's Waltz—and that she soon forgot it! Joseph Hoffman says that music is a spiritual influence, and we all admit that it is a social asset as well. Imagine a party without music! Could we dance to a soundless accompaniment? Why have young girls "taken" so many lessons, if they do not make use of them when a need arises?

Music is a language of sound. Every home needs music. Children are happier and healthier when they go to sleep or wake up singing. The ancient Greeks gave music the first place in the education of the little children and modern educators are beginning to do the same. Musical games, folk dancing, and good songs add to the happiness of little children, and every mothsongs.

The reason why so much money has been spent without results is because many musicians teach children noisy, rapid "pieces" with which the impress the listener. Parents have wanted to "show off" their children, and teachers have catered to parents. The children were bored—and stopped this artificial process as soon as they could.

A young girl, if she is not forced to "perform" can learn to apply the principles or melody, rhythm and harmony in a few years. The woman who can sing, play, and harmonize simple music has a means of expression which soothes the irritants of life, both for herself and others. Who cares whether she ever plays difficult music, if she can play some beautiful ballads and folk songs and perhaps some of the simpler classics? Her father, her husband and her children will feel the spiritualizing influence of music every day. The music that fills the minds of children is a more or less unconscious way make for continual joy and harmony. I know a family of five children who were brought up with music as a natural environment. There was no talk of special performances, but music was substituted for the small discussions and irritating house hold arguments common in most homes:—"Let's sing" was the natural exclamation when they were gathered together, or "Mother is going to play for us that Beethoven Minuet. Let's all keep quiet, because Beethoven is so satisfying."

In this whirling civilization of ours, when scarcely anyone stops to think, to say nothing of actually listening to the still small voice, music enters as an angel that stands ready to serve us in making life more harmonious.

Make the Most of Books

By James Hosmer Penniman, Litt. D.

What to Read and the Abuse of Books

Many people live in first-class houses stay at first-riass hotels, travel in first-class steamships and railway trains and then read third and fourth class books. For them one book is about as good as another.

If one does not care for the world's great books the fault is in him, not in them, but he must realize the vastness of human knowledge and understand that some of the wisest voices of all time have no message for him.

There are nomadic readers who read as the gypsies live, camping everywhere but for a night without purpose and without profit. Such reading is mental dissipation. Desultory reading jumps from one book to another. You might as well try to drink the sea as to read all books. You must divide in order to conquer. Do not read blindly, know what you are about. Have a definite aim and purpose. Do not read the first books that comes to hand but when you hear of a book that you ought to read make a note of it. By keeping a list of books you may shape your course and make your readin a selection.

Little Talks on Thrift

SAVING

The question often is asked, "How can I save anything when it costs me as much to live as my income amounts to?"

It is not possible to lay down general rules that will fit each individual case in the matter of personal economics.

It is true, of course, that there are cases where the actual necessities of life cost as much as the individual can possibly earn but the number of such instances is comparatively small. The vast majority of people who do not save anything out of their earnings imagine themselves much more helpless than they really are.

The point is that they are not willing to endure the temprary inconveniences and hardships necessary in order that they may save a little out of their incomes. So-called hardship is one of the great blessings of a thrifty life. It is through hardship and sacrifice that we are made strong, courageous and wise.

Those who always follow the line of least resistance are simply fooling themselves. They may escape the sterner circumstances of life for a while but they will suffer in the end.

Happiness, success, usefulness to others, and all the other worthy things of life are not the gifts or idleness, of temporising and of dodging responsibilities.

To those who think the cost of living and the limitations of income preclude saving money, those truths particularly apply.

The application of more thought to those problems of individual management, the determination to earn a little more and to spend a little less, and, above everything else, the willingness to accept hardship in order to get ahead, will solve the problems in the right way.

Thrift is sometimes hard medicine to take, but most economic ills can be cured by it.—American Society for Thrift.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Danny's Queer Craft

The one thing needed in a boat is certainly that it will float.
—Danny Meadow Mouse.

You will remember that Danny Meadow Mouse was holding his breath in an old can on the bank of the river, wondering what was going to happen next. He was hiding from a great gray cat. Danny didn't have to wonder long. That cat put her nose to the opening in the can and sniffed, and every sniff ran up and down Danny's backbone from his chattering teeth to the end of the funny short tail. Those sniffs were a dreadful sound. They sounded hungry. They sounded cruel. Danny didn't like the sound of those sniffs at all.

But it was only her nose that that cat could get in at that opening, and so those sniffs were quite harmless. Then she tried to get her paw in. Danny could hear her sharp claws scratching on the tin, and they didn't make him feel any more comfortable. He knew just what that cat was trying to do. He knew that that cat hoped to get her claws into him and pull him out. But that cat was what is called a double-pawed cat. She had two extra toes on each front paw and, of course, that made her front feet extra big. She couldn't get get her paw into the can.

Presently that cat lost her temper. There is nothing more foolish in all the Great World than to lose one's temper, but almost every one does it and this cat did it now. She struck that can with her paw. She knocked it this way and she knocked it that way. Poor Danny was rolled over and over, now on his head, now on his back, now right side up and now wrong side up. Finally the can landed on the edge of the bank. Once more the cat struck at it. This time is rolled down the bank and landed splash in the water.

Slowly the old can went spinning around in circles

Now, for once, Danny Meadow Mouse was really lucky. When that can landed in the water, it landed right side up and it floated. Of course, Danny inside couldn't see just what had happened, but it didn't take him long to find out that he was afloat. He heard the splash as the can hit the water. Then he began to be gently rocked. Every time he moved he rocked a little more. It made him feel sort of funny in his stomach. So Danny didn't move. He just kept as still as he could.

Slowly the old can went spinning around in circles and drifting farther and farther out from shore. "I don't know where I'm going, but I'm on my way," thought Danny. "There's nothing to do but keep still. Oh dear, I wish this can wouldn't rock so. I don't like it."

By this time the can was out where the wind could get it, and the wind was pushing it farther and farther into the river. There was little waves out there and those waves made the can bob up and down. Of course, Danny bobbed up and down with the old can. He had the feeling that the bottom had dropped out of his stomach. I suppose it really was a sort of seasick feeling. Anyway, it made him quite satisfied to do nothing.

There was a current out in the middle of the river, and this current began to carry Danny's queer boat down stream. It was just as well that Danny didn't know he was being carried downstream, for you see he wanted to go unstream. He was being carried back in the direction from which he came. It was a queer boat, but it was a good one, for it didn't leak. And after all, the one thing in a boat is to have it keep afloat. Danny's boat was keeping afloat, and until it should reach land that was all that he could ask.

BOY'S LEG IS BROKEN WHEN HIT BY AUTO

Clifton Benson Rodin, 14, a boy who is said to have the nickname of Bobsled, son of Mr. and Mrs. Winfield A. Rodin of 9 Forest street, had his left leg broken at the ankle and suffered cuts and abrasions on the face and head when he was hit Tuesday night by an automobile driven by Jens Prehniny of 29 Avery street. The accident happened on West Main street about in front of the old elevator building.

It was reported that Robins was one of three boys who started to run across the street from one south to the north side just as Prenniny drove along in his Ford coupe, coming from the West Side. The boys came out from behind a machine at the curb according to the driver of the coupe. Two of them were in the lead and got across ahead of the machine, but Robins was behind and although the driver swung his car sharp off to one side, the left mud guard hit the boy. One woman, who said she saw the accident, said the car ran over his leg.

Prehniny accompanied the injured boy in another machine to the office of Dr. N. E. Lewis on Main street and the doctor had Robins taken to the Backus hospital in the ambulance after giving him temporary treatment. The doctor accompanying him to the hospital. X-ray pictures are to be taken of the boy's head to determine if there is any concussion or fracture there.

TOWN DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS NOMINATES REPRESENTATIVES

The democratic caucus for the town of Norwich had an attendance of about 50 when it was called to order in the town hall Tuesday night by William H. Callahan, town committee chairman, and Mayor Miss R. Waters was elected chairman on motion of Alderman P. F. Sweeney.

As soon as the chair, Mayor Waters briefly addressed the caucus, saying that he felt this was the best time in years for a democratic majority. For some time, the mayor charged, the state legislature has been governed autocratically by one man, but he felt sure that the men to be nominated would take orders from no one except the people who elected them.

The mayor further called attention to the fact that over 1,000 applications of to-be-mades had been received but only a quarter of the applicants had appeared before the registration board last Saturday. He urged the workers to get the applicants to follow up their applications and be made voters.

On motion of Joseph Williams the choice of caucus clerk was Cornelius J. Dowd.

L. E. Miller nominated Joseph F. Williams as first representative, saying that this candidate had been faithful and had done creditably whenever he served in the city or town or in the legislature. Mr. Williams was chosen unanimously.

Michael J. Curran nominated Arthur J. Roy of Taftville as second representative who was elected unanimously. In making the nomination Mr. Curran said this candidate would not "vote with the boys" as one of the men who had "misrepresented" the town told him he would do on a certain bill that deprived a town of home rule. My candidate, said Mr. Curran, will vote with the people who send him to the legislature.

The following were nominated for justices of the peace on Henry George's motion:

Patrick T. Connell, John J. Corkery, Cornelius J. Downes, John E. Fitzgerald, Anthony Grzymkowski, William F. Hill, Charles V. James, Thomas J. Kelly, Earl Mathewson, Edward G. McKay, Henry F. Parker, Gilbert S. Raymond, Harold T. Robinson, Thomas M. Shields, William H. Shields, Jr., William Weldon.

The caucus adjourned after authorizing the town committee to fill any vacancies.

SUSPENDED FOR DRIVING AUTOS UNDER INFLUENCE

The weekly list of operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given out Wednesday at the state motor vehicle department as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. Six were Connecticut operators convicted in other state. The department statement advised people to notify the department or the police in case they should see any of the suspended drivers operating motor vehicles.

The list included John Levesque of Putnam, Samuel H. F. Scott, of North Grosvenordale, Thomas H. Smith of Stafford Springs.

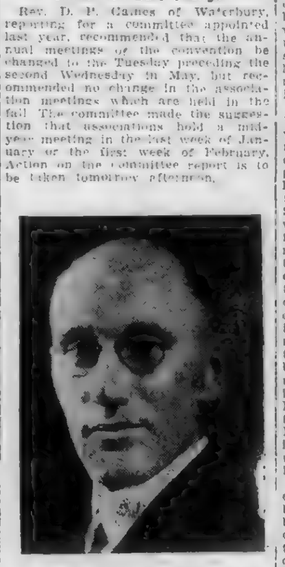
Convention Date Change

Rev. D. P. Gaines of Waterbury, reporting for a committee appointed last year, recommended that the annual meetings of the convention be changed to the Tuesday preceding the second Wednesday in May, but recommended no change in the association meetings which are held in the fall. The committee made the suggestion that associations hold a midyear meeting in the first week of January or the first week of February. Action on the committee report is to be taken tomorrow afternoon.



REV. LOUIS J. SHEPLER
Pastor of Mystic Church

Rev. Mr. Gaines said the committee was moved to recommend the change in the convention date because at the present time the convention comes right in the middle of the church year.

Convention Opens

The opening session of the convention came at 9.45 in the morning with President Pitt presiding and prayer was offered by Rev. C. H. Meinsath of Bridgeport.

The address of welcome was given by the pastor of the entertaining church, Rev. Louis J. Shepler, who took up the pastorate at Mystic on the first of October, coming to Mystic from the church at Meriden.

President Pitt responded to the welcome and gave his annual address as follows:

The President's Message.

Fellow-Baptists of Connecticut, at no time since the inauguration of the New World Movement was the outlook brighter for our denomination than it is today. Some timid souls thought that our convention in Washington last May would result in a split denomination. Instead a unified the vast majority of our people as we have not been in the last eight years. It looks now as if most of our churches were on the main track and prepared to steam ahead full speed.

What is true of the denomination as a whole is peculiarly true of Connecticut. It surely is much to the credit of the pastors and people of our state that we have been troubled so little with debate and division during these trying years.

If every state had behaved as well as Connecticut there would have been no controversy at all.

Our state convention work has prospered during the year in nearly every department. Your officers have tried to faithfully discharge their duties which you intrusted to them. We consider ourselves fortunate in our leaders, both at headquarters and in the field.

We are glad that we have secretaries who are efficient in their own departments and who know how to work with their brethren. I have not heard a hint of friction anywhere in our state office during the year. Our headquarters are now happily located in the Central Baptist church where we have not only suitable offices but ample accommodation for any kind of gathering of committees, boards or our people at large.

There have been two phases of our work this year which should have more than passing notice. The first was a growing desire among our laymen to build up the worship life of our churches. Several meetings of the leaders were held to discuss plans and as a result two or three of the churches last spring made a concerted effort to get their laymen into the worship life of the church. We are here to testify that it can be done, that you can have more men than women at your Sunday services if you will go after them. Let no one think for a moment that the laymen had in mind anything akin to some ungodly contests between Bible classes. They were seeking to surpass themselves rather than their friendly rivals. We commend to the laymen of every church a serious attempt to bring all the laymen of our parishes into the worship life of the churches.

The other new departure of the year was the summer assembly at Storrs. Some of us feared to make the venture lest we fail but we are glad that there were those with the spirit of Caleb and Joshua who knew no such word as failure. The venture was made and now we are all happy that it was done. There is no question in any mind but that the summer assembly has come to stay. Every church ought to begin now to plan for a good delegation at our summer assembly next year. The safest and sanest investment in all the world is the investment we make in promising young people. Let us all invest more in our young people and thus provide for a tried leadership in the churches of tomorrow.

Turning now to the work of the new year, there are two or three phases of our programme to which earnest thought should be given. We are moving toward a new day in which special campaigns to finance our missionary endeavors will be a thing of the past. We will never come to that day, however, until we have an informed constituency, a membership which is informed regarding our Baptist task in the state, the nation, and throughout the earth.

Of course those who read our denominational papers and our missionary magazine, Missions, are the best informed members of our churches. I would like some day to be pastor of a church in which every family took at least one denominational paper and read it, also our missionary magazine. If I had my way, I would place an item in the church budget sufficient to sent the Connecticut Baptist to every family in our church.

In addition to these regular channels of information, there are two others available this year which should contribute greatly to an informed membership. The first of these is Dr. Lerrigo's book on "The Second Century of Baptist Missions."

The suggested mission study topic this year is "Woman in the Moslem World." Since, however, we have practically no work among the Moslems and since Dr. Lerrigo's book is offered as an alternative, I hope every church will use this book to become better acquainted with our Baptist work in foreign lands. Pastors, let us have a school of missions if possible; if that seems impossible, then let us present the contents of Dr. Lerrigo's book at the mid-week meeting or at the Sunday services.

The other special phase of our New Year's work is already known to all, viz. majoring on evangelism for a period of at least six months. Several regional conferences have been planned for Connecticut under the leadership of our New England director of evangelism, Rev. Arthur B. Strickland. I trust that every church will be well represented at these conferences and that we shall begin immediately to adopt and put in practice whatever seems most feasible for each local field. The state convention meeting coming at this time causes us to be a bit late in starting our programme of evangelism. There is still ample time, though, for six months or more of effective presentation of the claims of Christ on the boys and girls and men and women of Connecticut. The committee in charge of this programme for the Northern Baptist convention suggest that the effort continue up until March. I suggest that in Connecticut it continue until Pentecost, thus giving us at least two months more at the latter end.

As I understand the thought of the committee, it is that this work shall be carried on mostly by the pastor and by the evangelistic minority in the local church. I wonder if we representatives of the churches in Connecticut would not give hearty approval to the three essentials agreed upon by the Oregon conference — gospel preaching, intercessory prayer, and personal work. I hope that early in 1927 we may have a state-wide gathering of our pastors and lay leaders at which we shall hear reports of what has been accomplished, and what different churches are planning for the period up to Pentecost. Whether we do much or little, friends, let us do what is done thoroughly. Let us dare to challenge our congregations to become Christians on Christ's terms. And after they have accepted Jesus Christ as Saviour and Lord, let us see to it that they are trained in the new life, so that they will be growing Christians.

Thus far we have been thinking of our own particular task. Let us for a moment think of a task that belongs to all Christians and to all good citizens, viz. the matter of prohibition. This will be treated at length later in the programme by Rev. Mr. Gilbert. The present moment is so important, however, in the crusade for temperance that frequent reference should be made to this important issue. The coming elections will reveal the sentiment of the voters probably better than any election since the 18th amendment became a part of the constitution.

There are at least two things which all our churches can do in seeking to hold the ground already gained. Every church should seek to be acquainted with the facts in the case. Our people are getting altogether too much of the dripping wet side of the issue. Would that a book like that of Professor Irving Fisher of Yale, "Prohibition At Its Worst" were in the library of every town and church and being read in all of our homes.

Moreover, there should be a revival of temperance instruction especially in our schools, both public and church schools. For the last ten years or more we have placed nearly all our hope in the prohibitive method of securing temperance. This we ought to have done, but not to have left the other undone. As Christians it is well for us to remember that one of the fruits of the spirit is temperance, temperance in all things.

This reference to a common task

Connecticut College

That airplanes will become, not as common as automobiles, but as common as yachts which they resemble in their expense and their requirement of a good harbor, was the sane and hopeful prophecy of Senator Hiram Bingham in his convocation lecture on "The Future of Aviation" at four p. m. in the Connecticut college gymnasium Tuesday afternoon.

But to bring this full development of aviation we must achieve "air mindedness," said Senator Bingham, who speaks with authority on this subject, from his extensive service as a wartime aviation executive. We must cease to put aviation on a par with railroad and automobile travel and begin to compare it with navigation. We must realize, that, like a ship, a plane is enormously effected by the weather conditions, that it has absolute need of a good harbor, and that it must be "ship-shape" in all its parts and secure in a good pilot before it can plan for a successful voyage.

The failure of the government during the war to put its 22,000 planes over the front was due to lack of "air-mindedness" in those who proposed the $640,000,000 appropriation. There were no proper landing places at the front and in all the United States at that time, Senator Bingham estimated, there were only forty men who could successfully pilot planes. Pessimism as to the future of aviation was aroused then and has been maintained since by continual accidents due to poor planes and poor judgment on the part of insufficiently trained pilots.

Connecticut leads the states in an intelligent legislative attitude toward aviation, Senator Bingham pointed out. Connecticut alone assures by law safety or plane and competency of pilot. "It don't accept invitations from commercial air pilots outside of the state," said the senator. The U. S. air navigation act, of 1926, regulating interstate and foreign air traffic, is a sign of progress. In the field of invention the radio experts contribute the aviator's "fog horn" now being perfected by the U. S. bureau of standards, and the Guggenheim foundation is working on other safety devices. The model army air ways from Minneola through Dayton, Ohio, and St. Louis to San Antonio, Texas, is an example of what we can hope to expect all over the country later. Charts of the way, with landing fields—those havens for which the aviator is always on the watch against emergency—and other points well marked, keep the plane on its route, and in the air way offices reports of weather at places along the course are continuously available. In the 1,250,000 miles that planes have travelled over the model air way, winter and summer, only one life has been lost—a record not to be bettered by any automobile, railway, or steamship line. Indeed the senator might say that "flying along a well-marked airway is extremely safe," and it is safe because such a way intelligently realizes the limitations of these ships of the air.

By the end of the convocation hour, Senator Bingham's audience of Connecticut college students and faculty and guests from downtown were convinced that perhaps flying need not be "limited to those who are fortunate enough to grow wings afterward," but that with increasing sympathy for the problems of the air, aviation may come to be an invaluable element in modern civilization.

ACCUSER OF McPHERSON WILL TESTIFY TODAY

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Sleaff, principal accuser of Aimee Semple McPherson, will resume the witness stand tomorrow in the evangelist's preliminary hearing on charges of conspiracy to obstruct justice.

The woman who declares she was employed to manufacture evidence to clear Mrs. McPherson of charges that she occupied a cottage at Carmel, Cal., with Kenneth G. Ormiston, radio operator following her disappearance last May, will conclude her story in the hope of gaining mercy from the superior court in connection with her part in the case.

S. S. Hahn, attorney for Mrs. Wiseman, denied today that his client, who is jointly charged with Mrs. McPherson, had been promised immunity by District Attorney Asa Keyes.

JAPANESE BEETLE QUARANTINE INCLUDES CONNECTICUT

The Japanese Beetle quarantine, which formerly included only New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Delaware, has been revised to apply also to New York, and Connecticut, it was announced today by the Federal Horticultural board, United States department of agriculture. Under the provisions therefor as stated in this, the fifth revision, it is expected that the restrictions will be limited to the infested areas in the quarantined states. The new measures become effective October 11, 1926, and supersede the rules and regulations promulgated April 25, 1926.

LECTURE ON PEWTER FOR ART STUDENTS ASSOCIATION

Feeling that the Slater museum holds treasures of which even the members of the Norwich Art Students association know all too little, the program committee of that association gave the second of its meetings of the season Monday evening, to the subject of pewter.

Happy, indeed were they in their selection of a speaker, in Raymond B. Case, who possesses a rare fund of knowledge of Colonial days and who has the power of imparting that knowledge in a most entertaining manner.

The lecture was illustrated by the collection of some fifty pieces of pewter owned by the Slater museum. Augmented by several unusual specimens loaned for the evening by members of the association.

Mr. Case divided his lecture into the general heads history of pewter, composition, uses, manufacture and care.

Pewter, he said, is one of the white metals used in olden days not intended to endure much heat or wear. It was first known to the Romans and was not introduced into England until 1074. Even then it was for the use of the wealthier class—the common people having to be satisfied with modern utensils.

Few people even in the days of Richard II. had silver and Edward I in 1290 possessed 300 pewter plates, salts and dishes but no silver.

Pewter was introduced into Scotland in 1429, quite a few years before the discovery of America. The American colonists imported what little they used at first but eventually manufactured it themselves until finally in 1862 its manufacture was discontinued and pewter was supplanted by glass.

Pewter is composed of 80 per cent tin and 20 per cent lead, even the poorest of it rarely contains less than 70 per cent tin. The lead is introduced to make the composition ductile and malleable. Because it melts easily and will not stand much pressure it is not practical for cooking purposes. It was made into porringers, bowls, chalices, measuring glasses, flagons, sconces, candle sticks, spoons, plates and teapots.

There were three ways of manufacturing pewter, casting in three parts in brass moulds and soldering the pieces together, casting in a wheel and lathe finished and hammering from sheet pewter.

Various methods are used for cleaning the pieces but museums now clean pewter. Very little pewter of Colonial days is in existance because during the revolutionary war it was melted and made up into bullets.

Two pewter images of Adam and Eve well remembered by Norwich residents as standing on the L. of Smith lawn on Washington street and which have now in the gardens of Mrs. Augustus Lyler of New London, were buried during the war and thereby preserved.

Mr. Case introduced numerous stories of quaint customs and many were those of his own ancestors as far back as the fourth generation. At the conclusion of his lecture Mr. Case exhibited some rare pieces of Colonial furniture and gave interesting bits of information about them.

At the business meeting of the association which preceded the lecture three active and two associate members were voted in and a discussion on the proposed revision of the constitution was of much interest to those present. Two of the most important changes proposed are, first, that the association be known hereafter as the Norwich Art association instead of the Norwich Art Students association and second that the classes of membership be active, student and sustaining in place of the two classes active and associate called for by the present constitution.

The active membership will be composed of not only of those who have studied are for of those desiring to promote its interests and the dues are to be $2 a year. The student membership will comprise students of the art school connected with the Academy with dues of $1 a year and the sustaining membership carrying dues of $5 a year is for those desiring to help the association financially.

It was voted to meet at 7:15 before the regular November meeting to take action on the matter.

Surprise Birthday Party

Miss Freida Brosofske was pleasantly surprised at her home, 558 Boswell avenue, Monday evening by the members of the Jolly Social club in honor of her birthday.

Miss Brosofske was the recelpent of many beautiful gifts, among them being a decorated birthday cake from the Jolly Social club.

A delicious supper was served by Mrs. Clara Murphy and Mrs. Roy Lee Hill.

JOE JACKSON WINS TWO RACES IN ATHLETIC MEET AT STAFFORD FAIR

JOE JACKSON

(Special to The Bulletin)

STAFFORD SPRINGS, Oct. 12—In the athetic events at the Stafford Springs fair on Tuesday, Joe Jackson of Norwich, state amateur 100-yard champion, won both the 100-yard dash and also the 220 event. Jackson's time was fast and he outdistanced his field in both events.

Jackson negotiated the 100 in 10 1-5 seconds beating out John Pintavalli of Hartford who was second. In the 220-yard dash Jackson broke the track record for the event when he went the distance in 24 4-5 seconds 1 1-5 seconds from the old mark. In this event Jackson was pressed by H. Gustayeson of the Hartford Y. M. C. A.

Jacobby of Storrs also set a track record for the half-mile event when he beat out Harold Rhodes of Hartford breaking the tape in 2.07 1-4. This race featured one of the features of the day's events.

The prizes were engraved gold watches for first place and silver cups for second.

The summaries:

100 yard dash, Joe Jackson of Norwich, first; John Pintavalli of Hartford 2nd, Clarence Sipples, Hartford, 3rd. Time 10 1-5 seconds.

BOSTON COLLEGE SMOTHERS FORDHAM IN AERIAL GAME

BOSTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—Combining a dazzling aerial attack with a powerful rushing game Boston college smothered a fighting Fordham football team 27 to 0 here today.

A long pass, Weston to Mc Kenney, accounted for the first B. C. score early in the first period. In the second quarter, Weston ended a long series of off-tackle plays with a touchdown, another pass, Weston to Dumas produced the third touchdown a few minutes before the quarter ended, Mc Kenney scooped up a fumble and raced 65 yards for the score Damara and Dower accounted for the extra ponts by the placement route.

Fordham's strong bid for a score came in the first period when Zakszewski the visitor's fullback, intercepted a forward pass and ran 40 yards for a touchdown, only to be called back because of his teammates were offside. The summary:

DE MAR WINS PORT CHESTER MARATHON RUN

PORT CHESTER, N. Y. Oct 12—(AP)—Clarence H. De Mar, the Melrose, Mass., veteran, raced to victory today in the New York to Port Chester marathon over a field of some three score distance runners.

The 28-year-old De Mar, former national champion and four times winner of the Boston marathon, led his nearest rival, Albert (Whitey) Micheison of the Cygnet A. C., Port Chester, by more than six minutes at the finish, being clocked in the fast time of 2 hours, 28 minutes, 30 5-8 seconds for the course of 26 miles, 385 yards.

It was a battle most of the way between De Mar and Micheison, who has been a frequent winner of the Port Chester event, from the time the pack left Columbus circle, New York city. Over the last half of the route, however, De Mar steadily increased his lead and was approximately a mile in front at the close.

The summary of the first 12 finishers:

1—Clarence H. De Mar, Melrose, Mass., 2:28:20 3-5.
2—Albert Micheison, Port Chester, N. Y., 2:41:47 4-5.
3—Albert Kennedy, Port Chester, N. Y., 2:52:01 1-5.

ACADEMY PREPARING FOR WESTERLY GAME FRIDAY

The Academy football squad, fresh from their victory over East Greenwich Academy Saturday at the local campus have been hard at work during the week in preparation for the game with Westerly high at Westerly on Friday.

Coach Earle E. Brigham has been putting the local gridsters through some stiff drills at the local campus each afternoon and the team should be in A-1 shape for Friday's tussel. The entire squad came out of the Greenwich encounter in good physical condition and Coach Brigham should be able to send his first string lineup into the fray.

Westerly is reported as having one of the best team in years to represent that school, 10 of last year's eleven being on this year's team.

Coach Rogers of the Rhode Islanders is also expected to send his regular team into the game as they have also emerged in good shape from the Windham game which they lost after a tough battle in Willimantic last week, 6 to 0.

The Academy is expected to hold a scrimmage this (Wednesday) afternoon at the campus and then wind up practice session with a light drill on Thursday afternoon.

AETNA TAKES LEAD IN EASTERN CONN. LEAGUE

By winning three of the four points in a match with the Peerless Five of New London on Tuesday evening the Aetna Five of Norwich took the lead in the Eastern Connecticut bowling league. These two clubs have been tied almost from the start of the season. Tuesday night's match was one in which low scores predominated, Anderson getting high three while Costello took high single. AGGIES HAVE DUMMY SCRIMMAGE ON TUESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Oct. 13—The Connecticut Aggie first eleven went through a long session of dummy scrimmage here this afternoon, perfecting plays that will be used against the University of Maine eleven at Orono, Me., next Saturday.

The varsity seconds, during the same time, engaged in a real and hotly contested scrimmage with the freshman eleven, which plays its first game of the season on Friday of this week against the Massachusetts Aggie Two-Year school at Amherst. The fresh eleven, with a number of prep and high school stars in the lineup, proved stronger than the varsity second team.

Not until Thursday night, just before the squad is due to leave for Maine, will it be known if Schofield will be abe to make the trip and pay Saturday.

CHICAGO'S FOOTBALL TEAMS COME EAST SATURDAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 13—(AP)—Chicago's gridiron cohorts come east this week with another shell-ribbed defensive team to confront one of the east's highest-powered scoring machines Saturday at Philadelphia.

Their intersectional game against Pennsylvania will mark the sixth renewal of conflict in a series which has yet to yield the middle western eleven a victory. In four of their previous engagements the Quaker team emerged in triumph, while one game, that of 1898, resulted in a 5-5 tie.

Reports from Chicago have prepared Pennsylvania for a new Stagg gridiron model this year, bringing warning of a more daring offensive and liberal use of the forward pass. Pennsylvania has given indication of greater power this year than the strong team which got away to so impressive a start last fall. They have averaged more than 40 points in their first three games trouncing Franklin and Marshall by 41-0, Johns Hopkins by 40-7, and Swarthmore by 44-0.

Stagg's team also has come through the early season unscathed, but with a less impressive scoring record.

ARMY FOOTBALL SQUAD TO HAVE SPECIAL TRAIN

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 13.—(AP)—The West Point Cadets will come to New Haven for the Yale-Army football game on October 30 in a special train, it was announced today by H. F. Woodcock, general manager of the Yale Athletic association. A year ago the cadets came here in motor busses and several breakdowns en route made it necessary to delay the start of the football game. It was decided not to attempt motor transportation this year.

The cadets will come to New Haven this year in their full number, about 1,200 strong. The train will reach here at 11:30 o'clock and the men will march to the Yale campus where they will be dismissed an hour for lunch.

The parade from the campus to the bowl is one of the features of the football season here and is witnessed by thousands of persons unable to obtain tickets to the game.

Reaching the bowl at 1.30 o'clock, the cadets, headed by their large band, will drill until the start of the game.

YALE HAS LONG SCRIMMAGE PREPARING FOR DARTMOUTH

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The Yale varsity football team had its longest scrimmage of the season today in preparation for the battle with Dartmouth next Saturday. The practice disclosed that Yale has a scrub team which can keep on even terms with the first eleven. A scrub fumble on the five-yard line gave the varsity its only touchdown of the afternoon. Holabird and Failing played brilliantly in the scrubs' back field.

Vandergrift, varsity tackle, has almost recovered from is injury received in the Georgia game last Saturday and is expected to be ready for the Dartmouth game.

The Yale Athletic association announced tonight that 60,000 tickets had been sold for the Darthmouth game and that a record early season crowd probably would fill the bowl.

HORNSBY ARRIVES HOME TO ATTEND MOTHER'S FUNERAL

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Shifting from the spotlight of a world's baseball championship to the dark shadows of death, Rogers Hornsby reached Austin late today for the funeral of his mother, Mrs. M. D. Hornsby, who died September 29.

To avoid a curious throng of several thousand persons, who awaited his arrival, the manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, newly crowned baseball titleholders, left the train half a mile from the railroad station and was taken by automobile to the home of his aunt, Mrs. Knox Johnson, where his mother died.

Funeral services for Mrs. Hornsby will be held tomorrow afternoon and will be in the family plot.

The leader of the world champions returned to his home consoled by the knowledge that he had carried out the dying wish of his mother, that he remain with his team through the world series.

SHARKEY WINS ON FOUL FROM WILLS IN 13TH ROUND OF ONE-SIDED BOUT

EBBETS FIELD, Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Harry Wills tonight came unexpectedly to the turning of the road in his long pursuit of heavyweight pugilistic honors.

After a year's absence from the ring in which he turned his knuckles to futile pounding on the throne room door of Jack Dempsey, the 36-year-old negro challenger was disqualified in the thirteenth round of a fifteen round match against Jack Sharkey of Boston for illgal use of the backhand blow.

Wills was a hopelessly beaten man when the end came. In spite of the fact that he conceded 26 1-2 pounds to his famous foe, Sharkey carried the battle to the veteran negro from the outset, outspeeding, outboxing and even outpunching the man who for seven years was almost universally recognised as Dempsey's outstanding rival.

Clos to 45,000 spectators in the Brooklyn National league park saw Wills decisively whipped all the way, and his defeat was accepted by observers as marking his passing from the front rank of challengers less than a month after the passing of Dempsey himself.

The outcome not only was the crowning upset of a year of fistic reversals, but also the first time Wills has met defeat at the hands of a white opponent in his fifteen years in the ring.

Although the finish was a disappointment, it did not affect the decisiveness of Sharkey's victory. Wills was a sorry spectacle, as he was waved to his corner. His left eye was nearly closed, a deep gash bled profusely over his right eye and from cuts about the nose and mouth. From the fourth round on he was battling defensively, hanging on desperately under a drumfire of Sharkey's battering blows.

Wills had been warned repeatedly by the grey-haired referee, Patsy Haley, for unfair tactics. Not only was he cautioned against the use of the backhand but against punching on the breakaways, holding and hitting and prolonging the periods of the clinches to save himself from the punishing blows Sharkey dealt about the head and body.

All these tactics figured in Haley's decision for disqualification but it was the backhand punch, which Wills drew across Sharkey's face in the clinch that provided the specific grounds for the verdict.

Wills, slow and lacking in aggressiveness as well as punching power after his long lay-off, also had his attack further spiked by Referee Haley's prompt work in the clinches. The negro's favorite method of hitting with his right while holding with his left was nullified for the most part by Haley's vigilance.

Wills battled gamely under the punishment he received from Sharkey's sharply driven blows, but the negro's defense was easily pierced by his more aggressive and harder-hitting rival. Sharkey failed to floor Wills at any time, but he staggered the big negro on several occasions with vicious overhand rights to the head, left uppercuts to the jaw and hooks to the body. The fourth round was the turning point, Sharkey's blows having telling effect for the first time, and from then on Wills absorbed steady punishment. Cuts about his eyes bled in the fifth and sixth and he was a mark for Sharkey's punches.

Sharkey leaping to the attack with the viciousness of a terrier, had Wills apparently on the verge of a knockout in the tenth, eleventh and twelfth rounds. The big negro reeled backward to the ropes from terrific right hand smashes, bleeding and blinking as he tried to cover up.

Only the lack of a finishing punch on Sharkey's part saved Wills from taking the final count.

The majority of ringside critics conceded Wills only one round, the third, after registering the second as even. The other eleven, including the 43 seconds of the thirteenth, went to Sharkey by a decisive margin.

Sharkey's victory was all the more sensational because he has not figured prominently for any length of time in the ranks of heavyweight contenders. A fistic product of Binghamton, N. Y., Sharkey owed his chief claim to fame to triumphs over George Godfrey, Eddie Huffman, King Solomon and Jim Maloney.

Sharkey weighing 188 to Wills' 214 1-2 had twelve years of youth in his favor to offset the negro's advantages in height, weight and reach. Sharkey is only 24 years old, as against Wills' 35.

Courtney Kayoes Darrah

In the semi-final bout held after the main go George Courtney of Oklahoma scored a technical knockout over Jimmy Darrah of San Francisco, in the fifth round of a scheduled ten round match. Referee Johnny Gallagher stopped the bout when Darrah's left eye appeared too badly cut for him to continue. Courtney weighed 161 and Darrah 158.

Jake Warren, Chicago negro heavyweight gained the decision over Jack Townsend, Boston negro in a rough and tumble six round preliminary.

Warren outboxed and outfought his rival all the way, although conceding a big weight advantage. Warren scaled 180 and Townsend 192 1-2.

In the first bout on the card a four-rounder Robert DeKeyser, 164 pounds, gained the judges' decision over Mickey Davis, 160. Both are from New York.

The second preliminary resulted in a decision for Al (Rube) Goldberg, Harlem featherweight, over Jackie Cohen, of Brooklyn. Goldberg weighed 123 and Cohen 124.

YANKEES AND POCATELLO IN JUNIOR FINALS

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Yonkers, N. Y., and Pocatello, Idaho, meet at the Sesquicentennial stadium Thursday in the final game for the Boys National Baseball championship under the auspices of the American Legion.

In the final series, which started yesterday, both teams won two games and lost none, Pocatello today defeated Springfield, Ohio, 3 to 7 and Yonkers beat Eldorado, Kansas, 18 to 1. Yesterday, Pocatello defeated Eldorado and Yonkers defeated Springfield.

WORCESTER SOCCER TEAM ARRIVES IN ENGLAND

LIVERPOOL, Eng., Oct. 12.—(AP)—The soccer football team of the Sportsmanship Brotherhood of Worcester county, Massachusetts, today landed here from the steamship Samaria.

The Americans will play four matches against teams in Worcestershire and one match against another team representing Oxford university. The team representing Worcestershire will pay a return visit to their American opponents in 1927.

LITTLE THREE SIGNS NON-SCOUTING AGREEMENT

AMHERST, Mass., Oct. 12.—(AP)—A Little Three non-scouting pact and restriction of football opponents to institutions of similar size were favored by representatives of Amherst, Williams and Wesleyan, at a meeting here, Dr Paul C. Phillips, secretary of the Amherst Athletic governing body, announced today.

Immediate action on the scouting question was favored, he said, with the result that a Little Three non-scouting pact probably will be formulated as soon as official action can be taken by the college athletic councils. The delegates also favored greater discrimination in the selection of Little Three opponents, but no immediate action was expected on a resolution that the colleges agree to meet only institutions of their own size on the football field.

HARTZ BREAKS WORLD'S RECORD IN WINNING AUTO CLASSIC AT SALEM

SALEM, N. H., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Harry Hartz of Los Angeles, Calif., virtually clinched the 1926 automobile racing championship and broke a world's record for the new small bore racing cars when he came home first in the Rockingham Board speedway here today in one hour 37 minutes and 21.23 seconds.

Hartz gained his victory at the direct expense of Frank Lockhardt, 1926 Indianapolis winner and until today leading contender for the 1926 racing honors.

Starting in the pole position, Hartz led the field for the first 100 miles, with Lockhart pushing him hard. At the 100 mile mark, Lockhardt took the lead with a brilliant dash and was heading his opponent by one lap until the 14th lap. At that point, with only 15 laps to go Lockhardt's motor died and he was forced into the pits to watch the Pacific coast driver regain the lead and take the race.

But eight of the 16 starters in the grind were able to finish. There were no accidents to mar the day but mechanical trouble sent half the field into the pits to watch the finish from the rail. A crowd of 30,000 spectators filled the stands.

Dave Evans finished fourth, eight laps behind the winner. He was followed by Frank Elliott, Doc Shattuck, Tony Gullatta and Benny Hill in that order. Hartz's victory brought him $5,000 in prize money. Kreiss won $6,000 and Duray $2,000. Fourth place paid $1,400 and the others $1,100, $900, $800 and $700 respectively.

Hartz entered the race with 2,339 points toward the year's racing championship honors and his victory in the main event today, coupled with two seconds in the preliminary 25 mile dashes, virtually assured him of the title. Lockhardt started the race with 1,750 points but his stuttering motor blasted any hope of championship honors on the fatal 145th lap.

Officials indicated that the record established by Hartz today would stand as official. It was third mark to be eclipsed during the day. Previously the 25 mile record was lowered twice in rapid succession. In the first sprint Hill covered the distance in 11 minutes 32.43 seconds, averaging 130.57 miles an hour. The new record stood only a few minutes, however, as Leon Duray annexed the second short race in 11 minutes 30.22 seconds, bettering Hill's mark by more than two seconds.

Many are called and more are bluffed.

Siagle Out of Game

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Jake Siagle, star halfback on the Princeton eleven, will not play against Navy on Saturday or Lehigh university next week.

Siagle was injured while on geological research trip and the injury was agravated during the Washington and the game last Saturday.

Captain John Davis will be unable to start the Navy game, according to Coach Roper, although he may be used for a few minutes.

Coroner John J. Phelan conducted an inquest in Greenwich into the death of Guiseppe Ferraro, 26, of Cos Cob who was shot by Harold Schwartz, 18 on a hunting trip. Ferraro died in the Greenwich hospital later in the day. Witnesses testified that the death of Ferraro was accidental.

WESTERLY

PROUD ITALIAN CITIZENS GLORIFY GREAT DISCOVERER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 13.—Columbus day was ushered in today in Westerly by the bursting of aerial bombs at sunrise and closed with a most elaborate display of fireworks on the Westerly playground athletic field, greatly enjoyed by a large crowd.

At 1:30 the Venzia band of Providence, marched from the Pierce street section to a position on Elm street, where formation for the street parade began. The Shennandoah uniform flag display gave an added touch of color. A day of perfect weather and not too warm for the marching societies resulted in a large gathering in Wilcox park for the speaking program at the conclusion of the march.

Headed by Marshal (Capt.) Beppo Boumenot and aides, Anton Trovato, Joseph Gervasini, Michael J. Turano, Joseph Coduri and George Montalto, the parade covered the following line of march: Broad, West Broad, Morgan and Liberty street, countermarched over West Broad to Dixon square, up High street over Canal, Pleasant, Pierce and High streets to Grove avenue and Wilcox park.

The formation was as follows: Westerly band, Charles O. Gavitt, director; a large framed picture of Columbus borne by eight girls in white. This picture of the landing of Columbus was elaborately adorned with oak leaves and flowers. Celebration committee: F. P. Barravecchia, chairman; Loggia Island Margarita, No. 342; Loggia Operaia American Citizens' Calabro society, Providence band; local union of Hod Carriers and Laborers, Court Gen. Ernico Cialdini, No. 50, Foresters of America. Arriving at Wilcox park the Granite street entrance was used when the procession moved across the park to the bandstand, about which the audience grouped.

The Italian national air was played by the Westerly band and was followed by The Star Spangled Banner rendered with spirit by the Venzia band of Providence.

F. P. Barravecchia, chairman of the program committee, presented the speaker, Joseph Rusi of Westerly who gave his address in Italian, in which he said that as a member of last year's committee he would do the best he could in the absence of the previously announced speaker, G. Scotti of Pawtucket, R. I., and a second choice, former Representative Cianciarulo of Providence, detained by illness.

Mr. Rusi in his impressive remarks exhorted the young Italians to be of high moral character and to support the principles of the constitution of the United States closing his address with a tribute to the life and glorious career of Christopher Columbus. A band concert of classical airs by the Venezia band concluded the Wilcox park exercises. At 7 o'clock the Venezia band again played at the athletic field, where the fireworks exhibition was held.

Alternate Richard Mitchell is in attendance at the republican state convention in Elks' auditorium, Providence, today (Wednesday) in place of Samuel H. Davis, a delegate, who has been called to New York. The name of Clifford W. Campbell as a possible member from Westerly to the republican state central committee was suggested by a Westerly delegate.

Nomination papers, signed by more than 50 Westerly republican voters, for Howard E. Thorp for senator from Westerly, in a measure to be used if found necessary to avoid any question of illegality of the Westerly republican caucus, that the Thorp name might appear on the printed ballot, have been prepared. Monday afternoon George B. Utter attended his last meeting of the republican state central committee in Providence. He was accompanied by Howard E. Thorp, the senator-elect from Westerly. Proper votes were prepared by officers of the committee satisfactory to Mr. Thorp and at the session of the committee, Mr. Utter moved their passage.

The nomination of the central committee will be filed with the secretary of state, just as the regular nominations were filed yesterday by Everett A. Kingsley, chairman of the republican town committee.

Westerly will be host Thursday to the chiefs of police of Rhode Island. The police heads will gather for their conference, to be held in the council chamber of the town hall. The chiefs voted at their September meeting to hold their October conference in Westerly after an invitation had been extended to them by Chief Thomas E. Brown. During their stay here they will be taken on a tour of the local shore resorts and other places of interest. Dinner will be served at Haversham inn.

James A. Campbell, Jr., of Mystic was given a ten-day sentence in Providence county jail in third district court, Westerly on Monday afternoon in the case of state, Frank H. Brown vs. James A. Campbell, Jr., of Mystic, charged with operating an automobile in the town of Hopkinton when under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Campbell was taken into custody on the Nooseneck road by Chief Brown of Hopkinton Sunday night and when in court pleaded guilty. Chief Brown stated to the court that another man was with Campbell, also two small boys. The officer said he received a telephone call from Hope Valley that an automobile being operated in a zig-zag manner was headed toward Ashaway. Chief Brown claimed that he followed the car driven by Campbell for a mile before the operator finally brought it to a stop. The chief said he sounded his whistle to the driver several times. Chief Brown stated that there was an empty pint bottle in the machine and another quart bottle contained a liquid which he believed to be beer.

So Fast

Cook a hot breakfast now in 3 to 5 minutes

QUICK QUAKER cooks in less time than it takes you to prepare plain toast.

That means a hot, nourishing breakfast in a hurry.

It means an excellently balanced ration; combining protein, carbohydrates and vitamines—plus the "bulk" to make laxatives less often needed—cooked and served without muss or bother.

Why go on with less nourishing foods? Quaker Oats and milk is the dietetic urge of today. Start every day that way.

The NEW FINER CHRYSLER "70"

New Lower Prices—

Presenting a New Influence on all Motoring for Years to Come

Newer, more distinctive silhouette—

Newer, more exquisitely graceful bodies—

Newer, exclusive style of military front and cadet visor on enclosed models—

Newer luxury of comfort with deeper and softer cushions—

Newer, greater riding ease, with exclusive no-sidesway vanadium springs, Watson stabilators and extra-size full balloon tires, mounted on newly-designed smaller wheels—

Newer richness of interior upholstery. Finer hardware and fittings with a handsome clock added to the newly beautified instrument panel—

Newer refinements in controls and headlamps—

Newer, more attractive blendings in body tones, with newer and subtler harmonies in stripings and panelings.

Again, with the new, finer Chrysler "70", Chrysler creates a distinct departure in design and a new measure of value for an industry to follow.

With its new vibrant beauty, joined to energetic and vivacious performance, unapproached economy, proved dependability and long life—at prices which register a distinct enhancement of motor car value—the new, finer Chrysler "70" leaves today's trend as far behind as the original "70" advanced the style of three years ago.

Not until the coming of the first Chrysler "70" three years ago, did any popular-priced six give 70 miles and more per hour, and pick-up of 5 to 25 miles in 7 seconds, combined with an economy of 20 miles to the gallon.

Three years ago Chrysler "70" was the first with 7-bearing crankshaft, oil-filter, air-cleaner, thermostatic heat control, indirectly-lighted instrument panel, hydraulic four-wheel brakes, balanced wheels and tires, tubular front axle, etc., etc., in this price class.

Today, while attempts are still made to match the first Chrysler standards of performance and symmetry, the new, finer Chrysler "70" excels the charm and smartness of its older self, just as that older self relegated the earlier conceptions of motor car beauty and performance to oblivion.

Come in. See this new Chrysler "70" beauty today—experience its new measure of comfort—combined with a performance which an entire industry for three years has failed to approach.

STAFFORD OPENS 57TH ANNUAL FAIR WITH AN ATTENDENCE OF 16,000

STAFFORD SPRINGS, Oct. 12.—Written into the records of the Stafford Springs Agricultural society as a record-breaking opening day, the 57th annual exhibition of the society today attracted crowds estimated at 16,000 and filled every available parking space in the grounds with automobiles. At ten o'clock machines began to arrive in steady file and the efficient work of the Hartford and Springfield officers on duty avoided delays in getting the people into the grounds. The grandstand was popular with those lucky enough to have tickets or able to secure last-minute ones. The day was ideal, and the crowds in responsive mood.

Lett O'Halloran, secretary of the racing, an expert in securing fast horses for his three days' programme, was able this year to get some of the best in the east, by co-operating with officials of the racing meets at Avon and Windsor, which will follow the Stafford fair, and the Brockton fair officials. Fast and snappy stepping characterized the heats today, and Starter A. L. Seidler of Plainfield, N. J., announced many unexpected results. The judges, P. B. Leonard, of Rockville, F. G. Rogers of Monson, and J. S. Sullivan, of this town, had some close decisions to make, as bunched fields spurted under the wire in the finishes. The 2.08 pace, the 2.15 trot, with five starters, and the 2.20 pace, with five starters, comprised the race track offerings today. Purses totaling $2,000 were distributed.

The New Departure band of Bristol kept the good nature of the crowd at "dead heat" with selections well rendered. The announcements of Mr. Murray met with favorable response from the grandstand galleries, and the vaudeville acts were applauded because they were uniformly good.

The elephants of Robinson were favorites. "Nellie," 107 years old, and able to say "Papa" was a feature of the afternoon's programme. Her co-entertainers, Pit, Tony and Clara, did many difficult and novel feats with the ease of seasoned entertainers.

The other vaudeville attractions included Miss LaRose in a difficult serpentome swing and iron jaw act, Leonora's Dancing Jewels, a five-girl act especially well received by the big crowds, Sully, Rogers and Sully in an acrobatic comedy bar act, the Aerial Clarks, in a trapese act, and the Hodgini Troupe, with Joe Hodgini.

Clean looking groups of boys responded for the various athletic events run off between the races and the stage attractions. The 100 yard dash, the one half mile run, 220 yard dash, mile run, 440 yard dash, broad jump, high jump comprised this department of the attractions, and entries represented a score of cities and athletic associations. The prizes were engraved gold watches, silver loving cups, and bronze medals.

With the single exception of the Brockton fair, the poultry exhibit at the Stafford fair this year is the biggest recorded at any New England fair. Under direction of A. Mowll, of Westerstown, Md., superintendent of the poultry sows for the past six years here, 1,850 birds have been shipped to the big tent at the end of the second midway and present one of the most interesting features of the feature-packed midways. Six years ago 20 birds comprised the poultry shows. Today there were 62 exhibitors, 13 of them from southern states, with Rhode Island Reds, single comb White Leghorns, Buff Orpingtons and Polish classes predominating. There are 608 birds in the bantam show—the largest number ever exhibited locally. The judges, fully cognizant of their difficult work are Howard Rice of Springfield, Mass., and D. D. Cavanaugh, of North Windham, Conn.

In the Exhibition hall the entries range from a splendid display of manufacturers' goods, including woolen and worsteds from the nine local manufacturers, to a single plate of apples, special prizes. Dr. Henry W. Gillett of Somers, as the display space on the east and southern sides of the hall, which for many years contained the Dimock exhibit, until the death of Mr. Dimock a few years ago. A very fine arrangement of all kinds of garden produce, and fruits of various kinds, makes this section of the hall colorful. A large exhibit of A. H. Buell of Eastford, and by William M. Clark and Sons, of Vernon, interests the crowds also, and the home-makers from the many towns and cities represented, found the center aisle in the main hall worthy of much consideration. All sorts of needlecraft and home decorative work is displayed, with a section at the lower end of the glassed-in cases reserved for a tempting array of preserved fruits and vegetables, cakes and other foodstuffs.

In the downstairs section of the main hall the autoists from long distances found the dinner served to be "as advertised."

Tomorrow, Governor's Day, will have a splendid racing card and stage attractions, and Stafford's first Dog Show, under the auspices of the Stafford Springs Kennel club, American Kennel club rules, with Rupert Kobza, of Boston, superintendent. The best Chow dog at the Centennial exhibition in Philadelphia will be shown here tomorrow, and Asta Von Bodman, world champion, will also be at the big tent for special prizes only.

GALES FERRY

The wedding of Miss Helen Darling and Wilmat Hempstead Benn, both of Hartford, at 3:30 o'clock in the M. E. church of Gales Ferry in the presence of member of the family and friends who motored here from that city with others from this place, was a very attractive one. The decorations of chancel the choir loft and pedestal were large baskets of pink and white dahlias effectively arranged by Frank A Aplin. The bride's gown was shell pink georgette. She wore a black picture hat faced with pink and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses. Miss Mettie Carter of West Hartford was maid of honor; her gown was coral satin with trimmings of gold lace. She had a black picture hat and her bouquet was of pink roses. Carl Carlson of West Hartford was best man. As the groom with his best man entered the right aisle of the church, the bride with her maid of honor entered from the left aisle and as the wedding march from Lohengrin (Wagner,) was played by Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt at the organ, they met, in front of the altar. There Rev. Wilfred D. Hamilton, minister of this church, awaited them and performed the ceremony, while O Promise Me, was played. The recessional was the Mendelssohn Wedding March. The bride is a graduate nurse of Hartford hospital and is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lysander Darling, of Patten, Maine. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Benn of Hartford, and is a salesman. Following the ceremony the bridal party was entertained at dinner by Mrs. Joab Rogers, aunt of Mrs. Benn at her home here. The party included Mr. and Mrs. Milo Benn, Misses Louise and Natalie Benn and William Norton all of Hartford, Edward Peterson, New York, Mr. and Mrs. Wilmont H. Benn, Miss Carter and Mr. Carlson. Following dinner Mr. and Mrs. Benn left on an automobile trip to Canada and will also visit at the home of the bride's parents in Patetn, Me. On their return they will be at their own home now furnished in West Hartford.

At morning worship in the M. E. church Rev. Wilfred D. Hamilton gave a story talk for the boys and girls. A White Robin, prefacing his sermon on the theme, Religion Is Indispensable. His text was St. Matthew 7:24. The anthem, Praise Ye the Lord, Vance, was sung by a trio, Miss Grace A. Chapman, Mrs. Amos Main, D. R. Povey.

Effective improvements have been completed the past week for the choir including a circular brass choir rail and two exits for members. These improvements made through the gift of a friend. In the new church bulletin issued for the second number by Rev. Mr. Hamilton the church events for the week included the meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary society at the home of Mrs. Nelson Parker, Tuesday afternoon. Church prayer service Thursday evening, choir rehearsal, Friday evening.

At the Sunday evening service C. E. Colver, Jr., was leader of the Epworth league service, the topic, Fair Winners and Good Losers. Prayer was offered by Rev. George H. Wright. Rev. Mr. Hamilton continued the topic for his sermon.

The Gales Ferry members of the Ledyard grange gave a play, Dr. Cure-All at Mystic, Thursday evening at the meeting of their grange when the Ledyard grange had charge of the program. Mrs. Avery Main directed the play and those taking part were Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Norcross, Miss Rose Norcross, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Davidson, Miss Mabel Smith, Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt and Avery Main. Ledyard grange attended Neighbors' night at Groton grange in Odd Fellows hall, Friday evening and by special request, the Gales Ferry members repeated the play there.

Miss Ethel Woodward of Storrs spent the week end and Sunday as a guest of Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt and Mrs. Carroll S. Hurlbutt.

Mr. and Mrs. John Whittier and son John, with Miss Wilbur of Wakefield, motored here and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll S. Hurlbutt Sunday.

Saturday Oct. 9 when Selectman Fred W. Burton and William I. Allyn, town clerk of Ledyard, were in session at the Country club, Gales Ferry, from 2 to 5 o'clock for the purpose of making voters five were admitted—Chester E. Dimick, Mrs. Chester E. Dimick Matthew Millard, Mrs. Matthew Millard, Carl A. Snyder. At the town clerk's office at Ledyard from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. that day Clarence Bromley, William P. Burton, total 7.

Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, feels that the supreme court decision upholding the sale of seized German dye patents by the alien property custodian to the chemical foundation gives added reason for investigation of the custodian's office.

Cadillac's great new line of cars gives the most thrilling performance within your experience

Cadillac is not merely one of the world's fastest stock cars. It combines with this great speed all the rapidity of acceleration, the smoothness, the buoyancy and the ease of control, which have always been Cadillac attributes in a special sense.

Let us show you, not only Cadillac's surpassing performance—but, also, that Cadillac has now taken a great forward step in offering practically unlimited choice in body style and color.

The satisfaction of owning a Cadillac is thus made more pronounced by the fact that it may now be in exactly the kind of body style and colors you prefer.

Thus to the satisfaction of owning one of the finest motor cars in the world is added the further satisfaction of making it the particular kind of car you want.

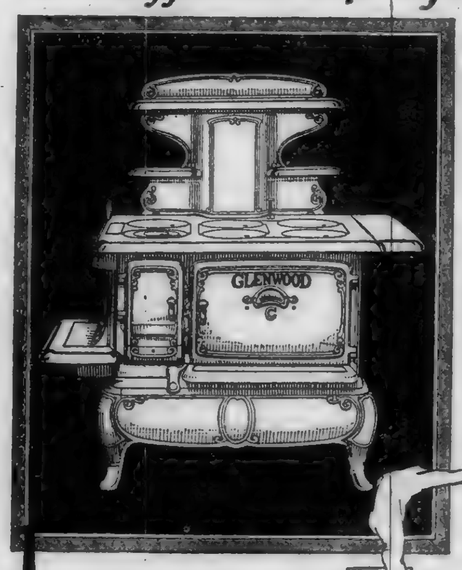
The famous Glenwood "C" Range in 3 different styles for your convenience



THE "C" model coal range typifies the truth of the phrase "Glenwood Ranges Make Cooking Easy" to more housewives than perhaps any other range we have ever made.

It's one of those comfortable-looking, "homey" Glenwoods with plenty of cooking space on the top, plenty of room in the oven, and with either the standard black and nickel finish or the new gray porcelain enamel that wipes clean so easily.

For the convenience of those who have asked for a special hot water reservoir and those who want a gas range attachment this popular range is now made in these three different styles.

1 The Standard MODEL "C" for Coal or wood

2 with reservoir attachment for heating water

3 with special gas oven and gas broiler (GAS OVEN) (BROILER)

The reservoir attachment will heat water quickly and keep several gallons hot as long as there is a fire in the grate. The gas section adds a gas oven, broiler and 3 top burners.

POETRY

A Song of Early Autumn

When late in summer the streams run yellow,
Burst the bridges and spread into bays;
When berries are black and peaches are mellow,
And hills are hidden by rainy haze.

When the goldenrod is golden still,
But the heart of the sunflower is darker and sadder;
When the corn is in stacks on the slope of the hill,
And glides o'er the path the striped adder.

When butterflies flutter from clover to thicket,
Or wave their wings on the drooping leaf,
When the breeze comes shrill with the call of the cricket,
Grasshoppers' rasp, and rustle of sheaf.

When high in the field the fern-leaves wrinkle,
And brown is the grass where the mowers have mown,
When low in the meadows the cowbells tinkle,
And small brooks crinkle o'er stock and stone.

When heavy and hollow the robin's whistle,
And shadows are deep in the heat of noon;
When the air is white and the down of the thistle,
And the sky is red with the harvest moon.

O then be chary, young Robert and Marry,
No time let slip, not a moment wait!
If the fiddle would play it must stop its tuning;
And they who would wed must be done with their mooning;
So let the churn rattle, see well to the cattle,
And pile the wood by the barnyard gate!

—Richard Watson Gilder.

A College Man

Blue plums are falling
To lie in over-ripened heaps
Beneath the tree,
Long have they waited—clinging
Perhaps they hailed and asked
A wandering bee—
"What has become of him
Who used to coax us from the branch
To store us crisp and green
In the bureau drawer,
Or safe beneath his pillow
For luscious midnight treat—
What has become of him
O Bee, he comes no more!"

I wonder if the Ide could tell.
(The lad was always kind
To little things like bees)
Perhaps he, growing bold,
Saw all the preparation,
Then whispered to the trees.
And even now the garden
Is buzzing with the news—
Has heard the plan;
Perhaps the toads, the small gray snake,
The maple tree he planted—
Are looking forward to the day
He will come back—
Their lad—a college man!

If a St. Louis Mo., church can keep an average Sunday attendance of 36 adult members for the next five years it will gain $30,000 under the will of a dead member. The pastor of the church says that there is a membership of 200 and an average Sunday attendance of 100 at the church now and believes there should be no difficulty in complying with the terms of the will.

Japanese authorities brought hard luck, in the shape of a four-yen police court fine, to Yorihasa Murakami in place of the good luck he expected to receive for starting a "chain letter" to nine of his friends. Murakami had been told he would fall heir to great good fortune within nine days if he started a chain letter. Likewise, if the letter spread to include all Japan the postal officials would profit to the extent of 1,600,000 yen. Government officials frowned on the idea and arrested him just nine days after he started his chain.

SALE OF CONN. MOTOR TRANS. CO. LINE TO UNKNOWN BUYER AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 12.—The sale of the Connecticut Motor Transportation company has been made to parties who may represent the New Haven railroad company and who may not. They have declined to say who they represent but they produced the "maauma" and thus secured the stock of the corporation. Frank H. and Edward R. Geer have been officials of the company for a long time. They were pioneers of the line and took it when there was some doubt whether it would be a success. Frank Geer was then a policeman in this city. He resigned, his companions on the department telling him he was making a doubtful move. But Mr. Geer and his friends had canvassed the situation and he acted on his judgment, which proved to have been sound. Edward R. Geer, who was master of sound steamers for the New England Navigation company, Thomas A. Scott and others became interested in the business and all are to benefit by the sale that has now been effected. C. Hadlai Hull is also understood to have been a stockholder in the bus line company. He continues as secretary of the company. The busses have been a good paying investment from the start. So strong did their credit become that they were offered any number of machines desired to be paid for at any time the owners wished. It is said the company did not take advantage of this offer but bought outright, as they wanted new busses. They have some 15 coaches in operation now.

MRS. MADRONA RUTSKA VIOLATES LIQUOR LAW

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 12 - Madrona Rutska, a Russian residing at 137 North Bank street, was arrested this afternoon by Sergeants John Cavanaugh and Nelson Smith charged with violation of the liquor law. She was held in bail of $1,000 for her presentation in the police court tomorrow morning. Morris Rifkin, a North Bank street merchant, qualified on the bond. The woman formerly resided on Potter street and has been arrested before for liquor law violation.

Sergeant Cavanaugh obtained evidence from two strangers, John Mack and William Enos, shortly after noon, that liquor was being dispensed at the Russian woman's home and that the two informants had purchased liquor there. Sergeants Cavanaugh and Smith proceeded to the house and found little difficulty in gaining entrance. Mrs. Rutska was there, but no liquor was found, although a couple of whiskey glasses that carried a strong odor of alcohol, were found and seized as additional evidence against the woman. Mack and Enos were locked as witnesses against Mrs. Rutska for the police contend that the statements made to them by the men is such as to establish an actual sale against the accused. Mrs. Rutska is the first liquor law violator to be arrested here in several months.

George Potter, Jr., long ago earned a reputation among the police of this city as a "tough". He added to that reputation last evening when he was found drunk on Shaw street, near his home. Complaint led to his arrest, but he gave the officers who took him into custody a battle from the time they encountered him till he was landed in a cell at the police station. Officers Opperman and Marin took Potter to the lock-up. They were forced to use violence to subdue him. In court today Potter was fined $5 for intoxication and $50 for resisting and abusing the police officers. He went to jail. He is the fellow with whom Police Lieut. Jeffers had a tussle some years ago at East New London, when Jeffers was shot at when he found the men he arrested stealing a boat that was moored near the state pier That crime took Potter into the superior court where he was convicted. Potter has always shunned trouble except when he is intoxicated.

A large class of nurses will be graduated from the Joseph Lawrence training school Friday evening at exercises in Plant hall in this city.

New London lodge of Elks continues to grow in numbers. At the last meeting four candidates were elected to membership.

Bank street is to have two more stores. It has lost several in recent months.

New London Italians were well represented at the Hartford celebration today, turning out in large numbers this morning and proceeding to the state capital with enthusiasm, for there are no more loyal people in the state than are the descendants of Columbus' country. The societies participating were the Columbus, Gloria lodge and the Sicilian society. They appeared in uniforms and marched through the streets headed by the 592nd Regiment band and Swahn's band of Norwich. They have been arranging for appearance in Hartford and so they went with all the enthusiasm of their nationality.

Mrs. Emma Loviano of Norwich; Miss Ethelyn Hubbard, Saybrook; John Anderson, Colman street; William Fish, Stonington; and Mrs. Vincent Gardner, aWterford, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were dismissed today.

George W. Sisson of Hartford, employed in State Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers' office, is spending a few days with relatives in New London.

Joseph W. Hardwick, trustee, has sold a building lot on Pequot avenue to Ralph E. Berry.

Josiah H. and Cora B. Gurney have sold a house and lot on Montauk avenue to Lulu J. Beckwith.

Laurie Quintiliani has sold to Samuel Rutberg the residence, 81-83 Squire street.

James N. Snow has sold an undivided one-half interest in a house and lot on Montauk avenue.

The estate of Augusta Danzelli and Guiseppi Danzelli has sold to Mary Bartolucci a house and lot on Shaw street.

Police Lieutenant James C. Sullivan of Steward street, who is on his vacation of two weeks, is spending a few days with relatives in New York.

An automobile driven by Harry Segal, 52 Boardwalk, Ocean Beach, struck and killed a dog on Jefferson avenue last night.

Three little girls, not one of them over three, who reside off Montauk avenue, strayed away from home this afternoon and their parents were caused much anxiety. The children were last seen playing at noon by their parents. A few minutes later the children were nowhere to be found. The police were requsted to aid in the search. Officer Augustus Ray was sent out on a motorcycle and made a tour of the streets in the southern part of the city and at 3 o'clock he found he children a long way from their respective homes. The officer returned the children to their parents.

SAILORS CAUSE ROUGH HOUSE, BOTH ARE ARRESTED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 12.—Two sailors, both chief petty officers and both stationed at the United States Coast Guard section base, state pier, were arrested this afternoon on complaint of Mrs. Schaeffer, 76 Crystal avenue, who made charges against both sailors of intoxication and breach of the peace. Both will be in the police court tomorrow morning and they will be prisoners at police headquarters until the convening of court, because they were unable to procure a surety on their respective bonds of $100.

The sailors, who refused to reveal their names, were lodgers at the Schaeffer house. About 4 o'clock they went to the house and both were visibly under the influence of liquor. After being in the house but a comparatively short time they engaged in a wordy quarrel with the landlady. It was then that the trouble occurred for the two petty officers started to wreck the house and their efforts were partially successful for they smashed furniture, pulled electric light fixtures from their sockets and smashed dishes and crockery. Mrs. Schaeffer telephoned for assistance to the police and Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Patrolmen Ernest Opperman and William Riordan responded. When the officers arrived at the house the sailors became meek for all the fight that they had displayed suddenly left them. They were loaded into the police auto and transferred to the police station.

Omar Bailey, 16, of 66 Mill street, Ashton, R. I., was taken in charge by the police this evening when Patrolman John Clifford found the boy loitering about the Union station. When Bailey was questioned at the police station he stated that he had run away from home and that he reached this city by walking and obtaining rides in automobiles and trucks. His appearance would indicate that he had fired a locomotive for his face and clothes were besmeared in dirt and grease. He was turned over to Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield, who will arrange for the boy's return home.

William Londergan, 33 Colman street, senior member of the plumbing firm of Londergan and O'Connor, who fell from a ladder in the rear of the Woolworth building, State street, several days ago, suffered a more painful injury than at first believed. It is now discovered that Londergan has a fractured right knee-cap. The injury is of such a nature that Londergan will be incapacitated indefinitely and it is probable that he will not have free use of the leg before three or four months.

The democratic county convention for this district was held this evening at 8 o'clock at the council chamber, municipal building. William C. Fox presided. The choice of the convention for representative was unanimous the caucus nominating former Alderman Thomas Cragan and Christopher J. Barry.

George Brady, 119 Golden street, a painter, reported to the New London police this evening that while passing over the Hartford turnpike about 7 o'clock he observed an automobile, a Hupmobile, parked off the main road and he believed that it had been stolen. The matter was turned over to the state police, Groton barracks. Brady stated that the car was in Waterford and was on a side road, close to the Rice farm. He stated that upon investigation the auto had been stripped of its tires and headlights. Brady is a former automobile owner, but about three months ago his auto was stolen from the rear of the Exchange building, Bank street.

An automobile driven by Arthur E. Lay, of Waterford, struck Margaret Maloof, 537 Bank street, on that street, this evening. The girl received a slight laceration of the face and minor bruises. She was taken to the office of a physician where the wounds were dressed, after which she was taken home. The girl was standing on the sidewalk in front of her home and started to cross the street. As she stepped to the pavements and from behind a parked automobile, Lay's automobile came along and before Lay had time to stop the auto the girl was struck by the fender and knocked down.

JIBBOOM CLUB DEFEATS EAGLES IN PINOCHLE

The Jibboom club pinochle players from New London invaded the Eagles' home Monday evening for the second match play and beat the champion Eagles by a margin of 5015 and cut the Eagles lead very near to 1000.

High single for the Eagles was made by H. Marcus substituting for H. Herring, 6980, and on the Jibboom club was by J. Vellone, 7475.

The third night's play will be held in New London next Wednesday.

The following were the scores Monday night:

Jibboom club—Vellone 7475, Greenleaf 7325, Baker 6845, Enoch 7230, Elliott 6940, Peterson 6240, Partridge 6485, Finen 6195, Chaulston 6455, Christensen 6185, total 67417.

Eagles—J. Dwyer 6575, C. Nowacki 6820, J. Lerrich 6735, H. Herring 6980, W. R. Hastedt 6170, E. J. Mullins 6660, A. Hastedt 6440, C. O. Wright 6585, E. A. Krohn 5140, E. P. Mullins 5515, total 62400.

DEMOCRATS IN BOZRAH MAKE THEIR NOMINATIONS

The democratic party of the town of Bozrah held its town caucus Monday evening to nominate candidates for representative, judge of probate and justices of the peace. They were named as follows:

Representative, Charles N. Brush. Judge of probate, W. W. Bentley. Justices of the peace, John J. Sweeney, Lloyd Young and John S. Sullivan.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

ANNUAL MEETING OF BACKUS HOSPITAL AUXILIARY

On Friday afternoon at four o'clock, the first annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the W. W. Backus hospital will be held at the nurses' residence. It is desired that a large number of men and women, who are interested in the hospital will attend this open meeting.

From three till four o'clock, the nurses will be hostesses and guides to all who may care to inspect the departments of the hospital. There are many new things to see since the last time when the institution was open to the public. New appliances have been installed and many changes made which will interest everyone who makes the tour of inspection thru the buildings.

The business meeting will begin at four o'clock when the reports of the chairmen of committees and the officers will be read and the new officers for the coming year will be elected. There will be opportunity for questions and discussions.

After the business session, Miss Lucy B. Abbott, the superintendent of the hospital, will talk upon "China and the Chinese as I saw them." All who have met Miss Abbott will appreciate the privilege of hearing about her experiences in China. It is hoped that this meeting may give many more of the Norwich people a chance to meet her and to gain through her vision and enthusiasm for Backus hospital a new interest in the city's own health centre.

Millions Wasted Annually by Motorists

It is estimated that America's 20,000,000 motorists travel 190 billion miles each year in their cars (average mileage per car between 9,000 and 10,000 miles,) and spend more than nineteen and one-half billion dollars in operating costs.

Of this total operating expense, American motorists waste hundreds of millions of dollars annually through improper lubrication, claims J. W. Whitbeck, vice president in charge of engineering, of the Chandler-Cleveland Motors corporation.

"It is easy enough to tell owners in instruction books to be sure their cars are thoroughly lubricated every few 100 miles, but it is difficult for the motorist to keep a definite check on his lubrication periods.

"We recognized this condition several years ago and realized that if Chandler cars could be made practically 'set-proof' so far as lubrication was concerned, Chandler owners would not only lower operating costs materially, but would add years of life and riding comfort to the car of their choice.

"After exhaustive experiments, we adopted the 'one shot' system of automatic chassis lubrication and made it standard equipment on all Chandler models.

"The 'one shot' system is a centralized system of chassis lubrication which operates automatically after the owner steps on a plunger. It is similar in every way to the method in which a car is started by stepping on the starter button.

"Before the adoption of the 'one shot' system as standard equipment on Chandler cars, we put it through rigid experimental analysis, for we wanted to be sure that when this great development and innovation in chassis lubrication was given to Chandler owners, it would work flawlessly and satisfactory for years to come.

"The 'one shot' system operates mechanically and is simple enough to explain. When the owner steps on the plunger leading to the main reservoir, oil is forced under a tremendous pressure into durable copper-tube supply lines leading to storage chambers strategically located throughout the Chandler chassis.

"From these various sized storage chambers, the oil flows through additional coppertube supply lines direct to the point of chassis lubrication.

"In our experimental work, we made certain that it was practically impossible for the oil supply lines to clog or break under any and every kind of driving condition. These copper-tube supply lines were made so strong and durable that it was virtually impossible to break them except by sawing or intentional chopping with a heavy hatchet.

"There can be no possibility of dirt or foreign matter getting into and clogging the supply lines, since the oil is strained through a finely meshed screen before it flows from the main reservoir.

"With the 'one shot' system, a Chandler owner knows positively that the chassis of his car is thoroughly lubricated. He not only has eliminated squeaks and rattles at a single step on the plunger, but he has kept his car young and reduced the possibility of repair work.

Broadway Theater

A roistering tale is The Black Pirate at the Broadway theater, a glorious romp of adventure. To the colorful exploits Douglas Fairbanks and a pirate crew has been added the most perfect technicolor yet flashed upon the screen. Colored pictures, no doubt about it, are here. The Black Pirate proves that it can heighten, instead of distracting from, the vividness of a scrim.

Never did more villainous crew board the peaceful merchantman than that headed by Douglas Fairbanks. With a gay "ho ho" and a muttered curse, he takes us back to the old dark days when buccaneers sailed the Spanish Main.

Treasure chests in secret hiding places, sparkling water and gray sky, these are the background for a swashbuckling adventure story. Then there are alarms and excursions and gallant, unendable rescues.

And there is Doug, too, in a part he must have loved. When he's not skimming up the rigging he's fighting duels, swimming through green-blue waters or taking a vessel single handed. That exploit, of course, is the very essence of Fairbanks. Swarming up the slippery sides, he is a pirate grew in himself. He does every one of the magnificent, unbelievable things that little boys dream of.

Short features and an augumented orchestra under the able leadership of Frank Benson should make this program worth seeing by everybody from 7:30 to 11.

A Thrilling Credo

The Credo is to most people merely a prayer which they recite weekly in the course of their Sunday service. But as sung by the Russian Symphonic choir it becomes a thrilling experience. When the choir made its New York debut, the Credo made such a deep impression that it had to be repeated, and one critic wrote as follows: "One of the most thrilling experiences we have had in the concert room this season was the performance of a Credo by Gretchanioff, the words hurled with a resonant intensity by a young mezzo of the choir, against a background by the other singers." The solo of this number is in monotone, which the soloist delivers with a rising inflection of the voice, while the choir supports her by impressive music, which resembles an organ.

When the choir makes it appearance at Slater hall on Wednesday evening, October 20th the credo will surely be one of the most thrilling numbers on the program, as it has in New York and everywhere else.

This is the second day allowed to Lyceum subscribers for selection of seats from the chart at Cranston's store. The chart will be open for general selection from Friday morning until the evening of the concert. Tickets are $2 each.

Never judge a man's greatness by the opinion his neighbor has of him.

Breed Theater

If your laugh system hasn't experienced any exercise lately, hie yourself quickly to the Breed theater today and tomorrow and see Johnny Hines in Rainbow Riley.

If that doesn't turn your system into the laughingest piece of mechanism, there is probably something wrong with you. Rainbow Riley is a rollick from start to finish. It's fast, funny, clever, spontaneous and refreshing.

We must confess candidly to a long-standing liking for the energetic, fast-moving Hines. In Rainbow Riley, which is an adaptation of The Cub, Johnny goes through his capers like a romping thoroughbred.

Rainbow Riley has to do with Johnny's role as a cub reporter who is sent to the Kentucky mountains to report a feud. Instead of finding just a little bit of excitement, he runs plumb into a mess of trouble.

Rainbow Riley is the sort of a story that starts out at a 60 mile a minute clip, keeps up the high voltage throughout the body of the story and winds up with a bang.

An elephant walking through a church bazar, wrecking a village, and wearing a garage like a wooden kimono—these are some of the startling things Marshall Neilan has introduced into his latest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production The Great Love, the second feature on this bill. It is a hilarious tale of a lovesick elephant who pursues the object of her affections through brick walls. Robert Agnew plays the recipient of the great love—Viola Dana the heroine.

Chelsea Court

This court is located on Washington Street, between Lincoln Avenue and Williams Street. There are to be three houses in this court, which has a 38-foot road with sidewalk, so that you are assured of plenty of room and being in the court you are not annoyed by passing automobiles. The first house has seven rooms and enclosed sunporch and is now ready. If you are looking for a modern house in the best locality, with grounds laid out, at a modern price, look at 11 Chelsea Court, or inquire of H. H. Vignot, 32 Chestnut Street.

Magnesia Best for Your Indigestion

Warns Against Doping Stomach With Artificial Digestents

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have gone discontinued disagreeable diets, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, medicines and artificial digestents, and instead, following the advice so often given in these columns, take a teaspoonful or two tablets of Bisurated Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bisurated Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrective, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation, and without the slightest pain or discomfort. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get pure Bisurated Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.

BAPTIST STATE CONVENTION RE-ELECTS DR. PITT PRESIDENT of all Christians leads me to ask in conclusion, What is the outlook for our evangelical Christianity here in New England? The recent survey of Springfield, Massachusetts, under the direction of Dr. H. Paul Douglass presents a rather dark picture. "It may be said with some color of justification that the survey shows Protestantism in Springfield to be an organized religious movement of doubtful success with incoherent and inefficient units working with poor command of the facts, and deficient in the moral qualities that lie under institutional strength; that the churches are illogically related to the city geographically, having only one common principle consistently followed, viz. to get as far off as possible from the socially undesirable areas. The best interpretation which the survey can put upon the situation is that Springfield Protestantism has a fighting chance."

Protestantism has yet to show its strategy in its united efforts to capture the cities for Jesus Christ. The fact, however, that these cities are being surveyed is an encouraging sign. I have confidence that when the church knows the facts she will adjust her methods to these facts. Christianity was not afraid of the cities in the beginning. The history of the early church is largely associated with ten or a dozen cities from Jerusalem to Rome. Certainly our modern cities are not any worse than Corinth, Ephesus, Rome. Let us with the same venturesome faith and with all the statesmanship which we can command, led by the Holy Spirit, lay claim to our cities in the name of Jesus Christ.

In conclusion Dr. Pitt spoke of the changing constituency in New England through the influx of a population of alien parentage, and h. asked what the outlook is for evangelical religion in view of the large foreign element in our state. This is not the time to beat a retreat, he said, but to lead a charge that will rally he followers of Christ to win Connecticut, and to help win America and the work for our Lord and Savious Jesus Christ.

Committees and Reports

After the appointment of committees which are to report this year, several annual reports which were in printed form were given as follows: Board of managers, Secretary E. E. Gates; board of missionary co-operation, Secretary H. B. Sloat; committee on religious education, secretary O. P. Campbell; finance committee, H. H. Dickinson, Hartford; treasurer, Chas Edward Prior, Hartford. This showed a balance on hand at the beginning of the year of $1,663.38, receipts $63,271.19, total receipts $64,934.57; expenditures $63,290.26, balance on hand $1,644.31. Action on the reports will be taken at the convention session today (Wednesday).

The election of officers was scheduled to come at this time in the morning session, but was deferred until the nominating committee of which Rev. George R. Atha of Groton is chairman, could meet.

Annual Sermon

The annual sermon was by Rev. R. W. Ferguson of Rockville, who spoke upon "Knowing Our Work." His text was John 20.21, As my father hath sent me even so send I you.

His earnest presentation of the subject made a deep impression upon the convention. It is most necessary, he said, to know what our work in life is to be. Jesus was never in doubt about his work. He always knew just what he was to do. It was just two things, to reveal God and to help man. There was need of both at the time Jesus came, for the people had a wrong conception of God, and there was no helpfulness from man to man. The highest ideal, until Jesus, was to leave things alone, and the lowest was the enforcement of the jungle law. He brought all we have of mercy, helpfulness and kindness. Now His work remains and He sends us to do it. To reveal Him we must believe and know Jesus and then passionately and persistently maintain and proclaim that he is the incarnation of God. We must believe and exalt and maintain Jesus by a Christian life. Then we are to help man in Jesus way, by personal contact. No one is saved at arm's length. We are also to carry on his work by giving of our means. This also was Jesus' way. Jesus left it for us to do this work, expecting each disciple to do his share. If we fail, we break the chain by which His message is to be carried to the world.

After the offering had been taken, adjournment was taken for dinner, which was served in the G. A. R. hall and in the Sunday school room of the church.

Afternoon Session

The afternoon session opened at 2 o'clock with a devotional service conducted by Rev. John W. Brush, New Haven. Rev. G. R. Atha leading the singing.

The first address was by Miss Margaret Suman of the Philippine islands, who gave a thrilling recital of changes wrought there in the past 25 years of occupancy by the United States.

Miss Suman spoke of the conditions of the islands and the people, physically and spiritually, under the 350 years of Spanish rule, which had been changed so much for the better under 25 years of United States control. She said that she was quite ready to trust the judgment of General Wood that some time must elapse yet before the Filipinos are qualified for self-government. Her work has been with an orphanage and a school, of which she gave a particularly interesting description.

Introduction of Workers

One of the high lights of the convention session came with the introduction of the field workers when the platform was filled with a group of 30 men and women and each was introduced to the convention by Secretary Gates with a word about the line of work in which he or she is engaged in Connecticut. Prayer was offered for the success of their work.

The afternoon session included the addresses, "Shall We Aid the Church at X?" Rev. I. H. Benedict, Hartford; "New Americans, Our Responsibility, Mrs. J. E. Parella, New Haven, which were followed by a quiz on 18 questions which had been distributed in typewritten form at the morning session.

The concluding address of the afternoon was by Rev. William Reid, general secretary of the Rhode Island convention.

Two Banquets Held

At 5:30 there was the women's banquet in the Sunday school room of the church, while at 7 o'clock the laymen's banquet was held at the Mystic hotel where covers were laid for 150. The speaker was Capt. J. F. Laughton, Gospel ship, Inland Sea, Japan, whose address on his work will be one of the features of the session this (Wednesday) morning.

Evening Session

Mrs. A. L. Mulloy of Waterbury, second vice president, presided at the evening session of the convention, which opened at 7:45.

After the devotional service a symposium was conducted under the leadership of Mrs. A. M. Brown, Mrs. J. K. Hadley, and Mrs. G. C. Lauden.

An address was given by Mrs. Adah Boyce, general missionary of the central division of the W. A. B. H. M. society, and by Dr. W. H. Bowler of New York.

The meeting concluded with the pageant, Our Inheritance, given under the direction of the author, Mrs. C. H. Barrett, Hartford.

Wednesday Sessions

The convention will conclude today (Wednesday) with morning, afternoon and evening meetings.

Heavy frost prevailed early Tuesday morning, almost as thick as a fog, hiding objects at a distance until well into the morning.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

HOG-CHOLERA WARNING HAS BEEN ISSUED

Frequent reports of hog-cholera outbreaks just received by the United States department of agriculture are the occasion for official warnings urging swine owners to be on the alert against this disease. The reports are from scattered areas, but thus far the disease has appeared chiefly in the central west.

As previously pointed out in government publications and addresses by veterinary officials, the fall months are the time of the year when the hog cholera is most prevalent. September, October and November have for many years marked the appearance of this rapidly-spreading, infectious disease.

This year the control of hog cholera is hampered somewhat by a temporary shortage of serum for immunizing susceptible animals. The situation is made more serious by the fact that a large proportion of swine in the United States have not been immunized owing to the low ebb of cholera in recent years. More than that, hogs at this season of the year are of good size and a great many are being fattened for market. Large hogs require more serum for proper immunization than small pigs, the dosage being governed by the weight of the animal. Serum companies are now increasing their production, but as the process of serum manufacture requires several weeks, stock owners are urged to take special precautions in the meantime. When serum for immunizing can not be obtained, self-imposed quarantine measures are highly desirable. These include the exclusion form hog lots and hog pastures, of stock buyers, neighbors, stray dogs, and other possible carriers of hog-cholera infection.

Sanitation of hog lots and houses should receive attention also with a view of destroying possible lurking places for the virus. The use of disinfectants and also direct sunlight are effective against hog-cholera infection. Outbreaks of hog cholera should be reported immediately by the most direct means to federal and state sanitary officials who will make investigations, diagnoses, and render such further aid as their field forces can handle.

MATURE APPLES BEST KEEPERS IN COMMON OR COLD STORAGE

From the results of numerous investigations it seems fairly certain that a great many apples grown in the eastern section of the United States are picked too early to obtain best results in either common or cold storage, says the United States department of agriculture. In general, apples for cold storage should not be picked before they show a decided yellow cast in the ground color or until they are beginning to loosen on the tree. An equally firm fruit of better color and flavor and with less tendency to scald will be obtained from later picking than from that now generally practiced. In common storage late picking will give not only better-flavored fruit but also fruit in a firmer condition throughout the storage period.

Apples soften much faster in common storage or if packed and held in the orchard than while remaining on the trees. For best results in common storage, therefore, the picking of most varieties should be delayed as long as the fruit is holding on the tree fairly well or until there is danger of freezing. Exceptions should be made of the Jonathan when grown under long-growing season conditions. Late picking of good common storage varieties results in a firmer and higher quality of fruit in storage.

Apples for cold storage also should be fairly well matured when they are picked, both to obtain highest quality and appearance and to reduce the occurrence of storage scald. The development of scald can be greatly reduced by the use of oiled paper, but the control will be more effective, particularly in barreled apples, if the fruit is well matured when picked. Data gathered in tests show that fairly late picking does not result in more rapid softening in fruit held at 32 degrees F.

START THE LAWN THIS FALL

Fall-started lawns are thoroughly practical and, as a matter of fact, usually get a better start than spring-started ones because of the delay in waiting until the soil is workable. It is in mellower and more easily workable condition in the fall than in the spring and fall-sown seed will get the earliest possible start.

It may even be sown on the snow during the winter to good advantage if the soil is prepared and ready for it. A lawn is a garden for grass and should be so considered. Too many people scratch up the soil, shower grass seed upon it and expect a good lawn because grass grows naturally anywhere. Some kinds of grasses do but these are the weedy grasses.

Good lawn grass doesn't take so kindly to rough treatment. It requires a garden prepared as carefully as it should be for vegetables. If this is done a fine lawn can be attained in a season. If it is not, it may never be anything but a mangy, spotted award of uneven sod. Dig the soil deeply as it is a permanent planting, give liberally fertilizing, stable manure or artificial vegetable manures being needed for humus, and commercial fertilizers to furnish an abundance of the food elements not contained in the humus.

With the soil properly spaded, the surface well pulverized, the most important question is seed. It is poor economy to buy cheap grass seed. Many cheap mixtures contain a lot of annual grasses which will make a quick effect in one season but that will be all. It is saftest to buy mixtures from well-established houses which make a speciality of grass seed.

In ordering the nature of the soil should be stated as grass seed mixtures are put up according to prescription, grasses being used that are known to thrive in the soils for which they are prescribed. If possible, discover whether the soil is acid or sweet. It is necessary to state also whether it is light or heavy soil or whether it is in full sun or in partial shade. Grass seed is furnished to suit all conditions so it is necessary to state them to get a mixture adapted to the conditions existing in your yard. The seed can be sown at any time between now and spring.

THE CHICKEN TICK

The chicken tick, prevalent in some parts of the south, is a powerful blood-sucker. The earlier stages are passed entirely on the fowl's body, the tick not leaving the birds until it approaches maturity. The adult tick feeds only at night, after the fowls have gone to roost and spend the day hiding in cracks in floors and walls.

To eradicate the ticks give the house a thorough cleaning and spray it. Some of the best substances for the spraying are the so-called wood preservers which consist of anthracite oil and zinc chlorid. As a mixture of this kind is a little too heavy to spray well it may be thinned with an equal part of kerosene. Crude petroleum is almost equally effective and usually cheaper. It should be thinned by adding 1 part or kerosene to 4 parts of crude oil. The birds should be kept out of the house until the fluid has thoroughly soaked into the wood.

A good way to protect chickens from attack by ticks is to suspend the roosts from the ceiling by means of from swaying by similar wires between the roosts and the walls of the house. Nests should be located away from roosting places. If constructed of metal the nests can be disinfected quickly from time to time by burning out the straw.

When ticks have once been eradicated from the premises no chickens should be added to the flock until they have been quarantined for a period of 10 days in temporary coops. It is important that such coops be destroyed or disinfected with hot water.

RAIL RATES FORCE 300 COAL MINES TO CLOSE

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Three hundred coal mines in southern West Virginia and eastern Kentucky have been forced to close because of present rail rates, James D. Francis, vice president of the Island Creek Coal company of West Virginia, told the interstate commerce commission at the final session of its coal rate hearing today.

I. L. Koch, an examiner for the commission, and Commissioner J. E. Campbell, who have presided for the commission at the hearing, set December 15 for the filing of briefs at Washington. Koch said his report will be issued between February 15 and March 1 and that its dissemination will be followed by oral arguments of interested parties before the commission at Washington. A decision likely will be handed down next spring, he said.

The commission will decide on three issues:

"The all-rail rates from Pennsylvania and southern West Virginia coal fields to New England.

"The tidewater rates from central Pennsylvanoa to Jersey City, Philadelphia and Baltimore and from West Virginia to Hampton roads.

"The relationship of rates of the three original districts; eastern Kentucky, and the Logan and Kanawha districts in West Virginia."

Representatives of these three original district contended that rail rates from them were to high. Central Pennsylvania operators asked the commission to reduce rates from their fields, contending present rates gave southern operators an advantage. Operators of southern West Virginia testified all-rail rates to New England are prohibitory for them. Witnesses for the railroads involved upheld present rates and asserted that financial disaster might follow changes in the rates.

Lydia E. Pinkham and Her Great Granddaughter

IF Lydia E. Pinkham were alive today she would be 107 years old. Her memory is revered by her descendants who continue to manufacture and market her famous Vegetable Compound.

From Lydia E. Pinkham to her great granddaughter, four generations have relied upon this dependable medicine. The happy school girl of today, like the demure maiden of the 1870's, knows that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps to restore and preserve her health.

Years ago, a mother gave this medicine to her fifteen year old daughter. The daughter married and became the mother of seven children. She writes, "I always took it before my babies were born and I know it gave me strength to keep up and do my work. I am now taking the Vegetable Compound again and I am giving it to my oldest daughter."

Because this dependable medicine has proved its worth in her own family, she will answer letters from other women asking about it.

Waldo Tillinghast of Central Village injured his ankle while in Worcester recently, when he stepped off a platform.

Store doors remained open during Tuesday and warm sun made the day most agreeable, the street crowds being large and motor traffic heavy.

The Pioneer club of the Central Baptist church held a meeting at the parish house Tuesday evening.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Benoit of Merchants avenue are to move this week to Moosup, where Mr. Benoit has accepted a position.

A grey fox which was shot by Oliver Paul of South B street Saturday, has been on exhibition in the bowling alleys of Fred Dugas on Merchants avenue.

Joseph Gaurdreau has resigned his position with the No. 4 weaving department of the Ponemah company and has left town.

The new residence of Mr. and Mrs. Hormidas Cure on Pratte avenue is nearing completion.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Couture and family have rented the house at 30 Norwich avenue.

Miss Sherilda Pion of New London has been spending a short time this week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Amede Pion and family of Hunters avenue.

Rev. John B. Malley of Providence street has been a recent guest at his home in Thompsonville.

Wilfred Gero of Norwich avenue has returned from a week's stay in New York, where he saw some of the games of the world's series.

Christian Hoefer of Highland avenue and James Hanlon of Merchants avenue have been recent visitors in Hartford.

A series of whists is being arranged by members of St. Veronica's T. A. and B. society. At the last meeting a committee was appointed to take charge of the arrangements for the first evening. Miss Elizabeth Ward is the chairman. A Hallawe'en costume party is aso being arranged, and the arrangements are in charge of Mrs. Andrew Frohmader.

ARGUMENTS MADE IN $15,000 FORECLOSURE SUIT

Arguments in the foreclosure action brought in the superior court by Francis Dunlop, of Concord, Mass., against A. A. Greene, of Providence, R. I., recent purchaser of the Braided Thread Corp., of Stonington, were made Tuesday before Judge Newell Jennings in New London by Attorney Arthur T. Keefe, counsel for the plaintiff and Attorney C. Hadlia Hull, representing the defendant. Judge Jennings took the papers in the case and reserved decision. The evidence was submitted last week.

The suit was brought by the plaintiff to foreclose on a mortgage of $15,000 with interest at 6 per cent. since April 15, 1926. The original mortgage on the thread company was $32,500.

The defendant set up that nothing was due on the principal of the mortgage until Aug. 31, 1927 by virtue of a written agreement to that effect, and for which, the defendant claims C. E. Still, president of the Braided Thread Corp, paid to the plaintiff, Dunlop $500 as consideration for the extension.

Attorney Keefe, asserted in his argument that the allegations of the defendant were wrong and that when the defendant, Greene, purchased the property he did so, knowing all about the mortgage and that no mention of a two-year extension could be found in the records.

Attorney Hull referred to the testimony of Mr. Still and to the signed document which was introduced and claimed that both Mr. Still and Mr. Dunlop deliberately falsified on the witness stand regarding the $500. Attorney Hull also charged that because the tenor of the mortgage did not say how or when the payments of it were due, it might be found invalid.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR CHARLES LAVALLE, BALTIC

A surprise party was held at the home of Charles Lavallee of 72 River street, Baltic, Saturday night in honor of his 38th birthday. When Mr. Lavalle arrived home at 8 o'clock he was presented a birthday cake containing 38 candles. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Durant, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Durant, Mr. and Mrs. George Lavigne, Armand Vertefeuile of Willimantic, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Simoneau and family of Occum, Adelard Larose and daughter, Regina Larose, Alphonse Fournier, and daughters, Cecelia and Agnes Fournier, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Boucher, Mr. and Mrs. Adriene Godcrre, Miss Mary Daigneault of Baltic, Oscar Beaulieu of Stafford Springs, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Michon of Norwich, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lavallee and family of Baltic. Lunch and refreshments also ice cream was served at 12 o'clock. The home was prettily decorated with red, white and blue. Mr. Lavallee received many nice presents including money.

A bungalow which is being erected for Percy Bramble at Black Hall is nearing completion.

STONE CAIRN AT SHANTOK PARK

BIG CROWD PRESENT AT FORMAL OPENING OF FORT SHANTOK PARK

Fort Shantok, New London county's new state park, located in a picturesque spot along the banks of the Thames river, a few miles south of Norwich, was formally opened Tuesday afternoon with an impressive programme under the direction of the state park commission, Lucius F. Robinson, chairman, of Hartford. The Norwich and New London chambers of commerce, various historical societies, the Boy Scouts of Norwich and New London, the teachers and children of the Montville schools and the Coast Guard band of New London cooperated in making the programme a success. Approximately 500 people from various sections of the country were present.

The exercises were held on the large open tract of land along the river bank. About 2:30 o'clock the Stars and Stripes were run to the top of the flag pole with the Boy Scouts at salute. Bugler Charles Munger of Troop No. 3, New London Boy Scouts assisted at the flag raising. All present sang America the Coast Guard band playing the accompaniment.

Following the flag raising James L. Case, president of the Norwich chamber of commerce, and chairman for the exercises, addressed the gathering as follows:

"We have gathered here this afternoon, on this historic field, for the purpose of properly and appropriately giving to the public, the first state park in New London county.

"This event is of more than passing interest and those of us who are present today will look back, in years to come, with pleasure and pride, to the fact that we had a part in this celebration.

"As we stand on this historic ground, we can not contrast conditions as they exist today, with those of centuries gone by. On this very spot, Uncas and his Mohegan braves, nearly three centuries ago, came to maintain the home of their tribe, and not only once, but three and again were they victorious in holding for themselves that which we possess today.

"It is exceedingly gratifying to us, that the State of Connecticut has purchased and set apart for the public use and for public benefit, these many acres of land, and I am sure that those of us who are here this afternoon as citizens of New London county, will recognize the importance of such an act. It is therefore with peculiar feelings of pride, approval and satisfaction, that we recognize the importance of this unusual event.

"Beautiful for situation, easy of access, adaptable for many uses, this park will long endure.

"When we leave this spot, may we carry with us feelings of pride and satisfaction, and a bit of holy reverance and gratitude to Almighty God, that we have been permitted to share in making possible for all time, such a place and such an ideal.

"The past is behind us, but the future is before us. We, of the present, should therefore take unto ourselves, lessons from the by-gone days, and strive as the years shall come and go to make the future of New London county better and bigger and broader, not merely because of past and present accomplishments, but because of the sacrifices and the traditions of the past.

"May each of us purpose in his heart, that this day he will strive to be a better citizen of this great commonwealth as a fitting tribute to the high ideals of those early settlers of this fair state of ours which were so nobly exemplified in their daily life and practices these many years ago."

Mr. Case then introduced James G. Hamtnond, secretary of the New London chamber of commerce, who addressed the assemblage as follows:

"Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen, Friends: This is in no sense a speech of welcome, because, after all, this delightful new state park reservation belongs to all of us, equally and alike, and it would be quite improper to welcome one to his own under these conditions.

"There are gentlemen here today who will recite in interesting manner, the early colonial background of this historic spot. They will dwell on the stirring period when a handful of colonial troops came to the rescue of besieged friendly Indians, and finally routed and defeated the hostile Indians.

"May I touch upon, and, briefly, this thought. The formal opening of Fort Shantok today, as one of the new reservations coming under control of the state of Connecticut, forcefully illustrates what can be accomplished by sympathetic team work. More and more has there developed of recent years a better and a more lasting understanding between the respective communities of Norwich and New London. These two communities have so much in common; the success of one is reflected in the success of the other; likewise the errors and the losses of one must follow as injurious to the other.

"When a united citizenry or any one or two, or several communities develop a program of community betterment and go out after those things they seek, and are sincere and persistent, it is inevitable in its success in giving to those communities those beneficial elements they seek. In today's ceremonies we justly celebrate the acquisition of an historic land mark, but what is more to the point with we moderns is the fact that we have inaugurated a new era of splendid, friendly, neighborly team work between New London, and Norwich, which we shall foster, encourage, and lead on to bigger and better things for the benefit of our respective communities and our state, the New London chamber of commerce is pleased in being privileged to participate in this."

Dressed in khaki uniforms, set off with brilliant red kerchiefs, the Boy Scouts of Norwich and this city lined up two deep for the flag raising program in which, To the Colors, was sounded by a scout with a bugle, while all present stood at attention with heads uncovered. The Boy Scouts added much to the appropriate appearance of the dedicated grounds earlier in the day when they set up Indian tepees. The scouts were transported to the park grounds in trolley cars loaned through the courtesy of the Connecticut Co.

Arthur L. Peale, a member of the state park commission in behalf of the town of Montville thanked the state park commission as representatives of the state of Game host for the management of Fort Shantok park in a brief historical sketch as follows:

We are today standing on a very historic spot. Here was the last stronghold of the Mohegans and their loyal burying ground of the ages. Across the river on the east bank of the Thames is the site of the first trading post (Shantok) established by Thomas Vaughn of Boston in the year [illegible] and several miles to the south [illegible] Mohegans, [illegible] a charitable [illegible] the Mohegans, by [illegible] to force the issue that the [illegible] Uncas lived on the lands [illegible] from the [illegible] of the early colonists. [illegible] land [illegible] forts [illegible] on was located on the high [illegible] the Yantic and Shetucket [illegible] and was occupied by Wunweqna the brother of Uncas. At Yantic near the Hammes brook was another refuge and on Mohegan Hill was another fortress, situated that it could be easily defended. At the head of the Niantic river was a stronghold to which place Uncas was pursued several times and obliged to defend himself. The Narragansetts and Mohegans were rival races and very jealous of each other and not more than a month after the battle of the "Great Plains" at Norwich in 1613, sent presents to Boston and stated that they would make war on the Mohegans. The presents were returned and the colonists stated that they would stand by Uncas. Within a short time Sassacus attacked the fort here and surrounded it. The story of the relief will be told you by our historian Hon. Ernest Rogers, and is a most interesting one. Many battles were fought here later and to our right is the splendid memorial to Leffingwell, placed by the Colonial Dames of Connecticut. We should not forget Samson Occom who was born on Mohegan Hill, raised the funds which ultimately were used for the foundation of Dartmouth college. He should have a memorial here.

Before the conclusion of his remarks the speaker paid a high tribute to the Connecticut Society of the Colonial Dames who placed the monument to Lieutenant Leffingwell here, and to the chamber of commerce of Norwich and New London for making the pilgrimage such a great success.

Mayor William C. Fox, of New London, followed Mr. Peale. Representing the city of New London, Mayor Fox, said "We very much appreciate the efforts of the men responsible for the acquisition of this park. We are interested in occasions of this kind. They serve as a monument, bringing to our minds the struggles and tribulations of the days gone by. We appreciate the efforts of the state park commission in creating such a beautiful park as this. New London, Montville, Norwich and the entire state appreciate what they have done. We wish them God speed in their work.

Chairman Case then introduced First Selectman William S. Murray, who representing the town of Norwich, briefly addressed the gathering, saying in part:

As first selectman of the adjoining town of Norwich, it gives me great pleasure in bespeaking the satisfaction of the people or the town of Norwich in these exercises and the formal opening of the first state park in New London county.

Due to the efforts of those who have fostered this movement, the eastern part of the state thus secures some of the benefits of the state park privileges. We of Norwich appreciate the efforts and will enjoy the results.

It is not only an asset to the town of Montville but to this entire section of the state, a breathing spot to be measured for the spirit of the ancestors, rich in history and beautiful in the eyes of the present generation.

In behalf of the people of Norwich I bespeak their thanks and appreciation to those who secured its reality and to those of the state who recognized our need and worthiness.

After a selection by the Coast Guard band Mr. Case introduced Lucius Robinson, chairman of the state park commission. Mr. Robinson spoke briefly of the activities of the commission, which he said have been limited in New London county. In the state he said there are some 32 so-called state parks, aggregating the Fort Shantok park, New London the Fort Shantook park, New London county now has two state parks, with an acreage of 250 acres.

The commission is not blind to the inland landmarks, he said and went on to urge a closer alliance between the commission and the people of New London county. Mr. Robinson said he often wondered why the people of Connecticut in naming their towns and localities felt that they had to go back to the old country for names. He cited the naming of Norwich, New London and the Thames river as example of this.

We are glad a lot of the Indian names have stuck, he said. There are few states in the union that can boast a history as honorable, as inspiring as this little state. Don't let us allow our children to grow up in ignorance as to how our Colonial ancestors lived and fought and the part they played in the building of this state and the union.

Ernest E. Rogers, New London, state treasurer, president of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce and president of the New London Historical society, was next introduced by Mr. Case. Mr. Rogers said he brought a word of greeting to his old friends, The Mohegans. It is a great pleasure to look over this place he said.

Speaking of historical events he referred to the Pequot war in 1737, the battle on the Great Plain at Norwich in 1643, Lieut. Leffingwell's trip up the Thames from Saybrook to bring provisions to the Indians at Fort Shantok, the founding of New London in 1646 and the founding of Norwich in 1659. He spoke of the descendants of famous Indian warriors now living in Mohegan, naming the Quinegon family as among these descendants. Mr. Rogers also spoke of the Indian Charity school that years ago was founded in Lebanon.

Mr. Rogers expressed his thanks to Chief Fielding for his help on so many things. We ought to be grateful that we have in the president of our park commission a man of vision and a man versed in historical affairs. I wish you all a long life and a happy one, he said in closing.

Chief Occum, one of the descendants of the Mohegan tribe of Indians, and his daughter, Princess Tacoowas (Myrtice Fielding) were presented to the gathering by Mr. Case. Both were in Indian costume. After brief remarks Chief Occum entertained with a vocal solo of his own composition, Let Us Rest O Rock by the Green Hill Side and Princess Tacoowas sang Song of Sorrow in the Indian language.

The remainder of the programme was devoted to interesting and pretty numbers by the children of the Palmer Memorial school Oakdale school and Collins school. Their numbers were as follows:

Folk dance, grades two and three, Palmer school; recitation, Sail On, John Armitage, grade 7, Palmer school; songs, Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean and America the Beautiful, by grades 5, 6, 7, and 8, Palmer school; folk dance, by fifteen girls of the 7th grade, Palmer school, the girls wearing white dresses with red, white and blue sashes. In the folk dance by the lower grades the children were costumed as Indians with Indian headgear and bows and arrows.

The Oakdale school children wearing red, white and blue hats, were heard in a song, Come Join Us at our Play and the final number by the children of the Collins school was a folk dance. The teachers in charge of the children comprised Gertrude Rogers, Bertha Tinker, Catherine Bannister, Elin Jorgenson and Alexina Caisse.

Just before the exercises came to a close with the singing of The Star Spangled Banner, the Mohegan Indian descendants, most of them in costume, were, at the suggestion of Mr. Case grouped in front of the flag pole and pictures of them were taken by a number in the audience with cameras.

The Boy Scouts were in charge of Scout Executives Bielefield of Norwich and Scout Executive Burdick of New London. In addition to Hon. Lusius F. Robinson, chairman of the state park board, the following members of the board were also present: Walter O. Filley, Albert M. Turnerfield secretary and Arthur V. Parker, general superintendent. E. B. Bronson of Winchester, field secretary of the Forest and Wild Life commission was also among those present.

In 1898 the Connecticut of Colonial Dames of America erected a cairn, a cone shaped pile of stones, suggesting by its form, an Indian wigwam, to mark the spot to which Lieut Thomas Leffingwell brought supplies for the relief of the Mohegans when they were beseiged at Fort Shantok by the Narragansetts.

The front of the stone cairn bears a bronze plate with the following inscription:

COURT HEARS ARGUMENTS OVER CLAIM FOR OIL

The legal complications of the M. G. Craig & Co., Ltd., et al, against The Uncas Paper Board Co., of Norwich were gone over again in the superior court at New London Tuesday when a hearing upon an application of James E. Smith relative to the payment for oil was begun before Judge Newell Jennings.

James F. Smith was president of the Uncas Paper Board Co. and was in court Tuesday, represented by Attorney Frank L. McGuire, who asks that $3,500 paid by Mr. Smith on a judgment against him, for oil used, be paid back to him from the receivership of the paper board company.

Receiver Frank W. Browning of the Uncas Paper Board Co. was also in court, represented by Attorney Arthur T. Keefe, who claims that the oil was used by Mr. Smith and the paper board company, who were "jointly and severally liable" to a carton company to which it was alleged it belonged when used in the plant of the paper board company. Attorney Keefe contends that the receiver of the paper board company never had anything to do with the barrels of oil.

It was brought out in court that the oil was used by Mr. Smith and the Uncas Paper Board Co. in order to furnish the needed heat in the plant during one of its periods of financial local trouble. When the summary proceeding was started by the carton company the oil, which was alleged to have belonged to the latter, was used and a court judgment made Mr. Smith liable to the amount of $3,500 for which he now seeks re-imbursement claiming that the oil was used for the benefit, of the Uncas Paper Board Co.

The history of the company was outlined from the time it was first a paper trust on through the Ironsides Paper Board Co. finally until the Uncas Paper Board Co. was formed and then on through its troublesome career. It was brought out that the company has creditors to the amount of $550,000, $200,000 of which belongs to the Craig Co., $37,500 already adjudged to Mr. Smith, who has a claim against it for $50,000.

Judge Jennings reserved decision.

LEGIONAIRES ARE TO MAKE 1927 PILGRIMAGE TO PARIS

At Convention in Philadelphia the American Legion Voted Overwhelmingly to Hold the 1927 Convention in Paris Sept. 19-23—Convention Will Reconvene in New York October 18 to Take Action on All Business Brought Before It.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13.—(AP)—To Paris in 1927, was the decision made by the American Legion today.

Reaffirming the action taken at the Omaha convention last year the Legionnaries voted overwhelmingly to hold the 1927 convention in the French capital from September 19 to September 23 inclusive, and to reconvene in New York October 18, 1927 to take action on all business brought before it.

The question of holding the convention in Paris has agitated some of the Legionnaries ever since reports of ill-feeling in France against Americans came across the ocean because of the war debt negotiations. Nothing of this was heard on the floor of the convention today.

National Commander John R. McQuigg impressed upon the delegates the magnitude of the undertaking.

"By your affirmative vote," said the commander, "you have committed the Legion to one of the most spectacular, one of the most beneficial events in its history, a pilgrimage to Paris to visit the graves of our fallen heroes."

The pilgrimage will be known as the "Second A. E. F." The reconvened meeting in New York will be to ratify all actions taken on French soil so as to overcome objections of those who claim the Legion should transact business on American soil only.

Among those who addressed the convention today were Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania; Major General Lejeune of the marine corps; Rear Admiral Coontz, of the navy; and Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner.

Senator Reed, a member of the Legion, in his talk referred to the gas treaty. "In this talk about preparedness and pacifism," he said, "and particularly in the kind of talk we have heard lately from the sentimentalists who are supporting the gas treaty, which we are asked to ratify in the senate, we hear much testimony fro mpeople who never had a whiff of gas.

"We heard much talk always from sentimental reasons as to why the United States should throw away that weapon. We hear it said that it is inhuman for the United States to use such a weapon in a war with a half civilized nation, the implication being that it is better to blow the poor devils to bits with TNT than it is to put them out temporarily and capture them without doing them much lasting injury. You and I know that is rubbish."

CLOSE FIGHT FOR NAT'L. COMMANDER OF LEGION

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13.—(AP)— A close fight appears in prospect for national commander of the American Legion. General Pershing can have the place, if he would just say the word, according to many delegates.

General Pershing refused the honor of being the first national commander on the ground he was still in the service, and this year his boom has been revived. Recently the general said he was not a candidate.

Another name often heard is that of Colonel William Mitchell, former army air officer.

The New York delegation is instructed for Edward Spafford, their past state commander.

Others spoken of are Thomas A. Lee, Topeka, Kas., Frank J. Goode, Boston, Mass., and Jay Williams, Aberdeen, S. D.

MUTINOUS PRISONERS WRECKED INTERIOR OF JAIL

MEDIA, Pa., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Released from their cells in the Delaware county jail by seven "trusties", nearly 300 prisoners, men and women, today drove out the guards, wrecked the interior of the jail and attempted to set it afire.

They were subdued by special deputy sheriffs, recruited from citizens of the town, and police after a fight in which blackjacks, shot guns and lead pipe were brought into action. Six of the mutinous prisoners were shot, one in the head and the others in the legs and thighs, with bird shot. None was seriously wounded.

An hour after the mutiny began, all the prisoners had been forced back into their cells, but the prison was so badly damaged by the maddened inmates that few of the cell doors could be locked. Tonight 25 guards, armed with shot guns, patrolled the corridors or stood sentry over the broken doors.

The outbreak, authorities said, followed a night of wild disorder, precipitated by the shouts and taunts hurled at other prisoners by 24 young negro women recently brought to the jail from the Sleighton farms for incorrigibles. Many complaints of overcrowding and a reduction in their food ration recently had been made by the prisoners.

The ring leaders in the rioting, the authorities said, were the seven "Bixby men" who occupied one cell, the door of which was not locked. These men all short term prisoners or men awaiting trial, had been trusted to aid the guards and do small jobs about the prison.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS RECORDED AT HARVARD

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 13.—(AP)— Prof. C. F. Mather in charge of the seismograph department at Harvard university announced that the instrument there had recorded shocks at the same time and approximate strength as those at Fordham and other places.

Professor Mather said that the three shocks recorded here were not a continuation of one disturbance, but probably were widely scattered. The first, starting at 1:33 a. m., he characterized as of moderate intensity, probably located somewhere in Central America. The second began at 3:45 a. m. continuing until 10 a. m. He could make no estimate of the distance or origin of the second disturbance as only one record was available.

The third shock as "assuredly of disastrous dimensions," he reported, fully as heavy as the Japanese quake. The disturbance began at 3:20 p. m., reached a maximum at 3:51 and was located approximately 4,700 miles from Cambridge. Professor placed the last disturbance as near the Aleutian island chain in the north Pacific.

ATTITUDE OF A. F. OF L. ON AL. SMITH'S ASPIRATIONS

DETROIT, Oct. 13.—(AP)—An emphatic denial that the American Federation of Labor expressed antipathy to the presidential aspirations of Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York, was made today in the annual convention of the federation.

The committee of resolutions, having obtained permission to inaugurate a special order of business, presented a supplemental report on the resolution presented last week which urged the convention to indorse Gov. Smith for the democratic presidential nomination.

The original report of the committee, presented Monday, recommended withholding action on the resolution because the country was not now in a presidential campaign.

Today's report reads:

"Notwithstanding the explanation of the committee report made by its secretary, some newspapers persist in the assertion that this convention negatived the reputed aspirations of Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York for presidential preferment.

"This is most emphatically untrue.

"It is a fact, well known to labor, that during all of the political activity of Governor Smith, both as a member of his party and while holding public office, he has been active in support of protective measures for the toilers.

"This has been notably true of New York state. He has, as governor of his state, repeatedly appointed men to office who were recommended by labor.

"In his present candidacy for re-election as governor he has the support of the New York State Federation of Labor and of labor, both organized and unorganized, as was set forth in the report of this committee."

MACHINE GUN SLAYING ENTERS JOE SALTIS TRIAL

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The machine gun slaying of Hymie Weiss, gangster overlord, became a factor today in the trial of Joe Saltis and a lieutenant for the killing of a beer war rival.

In spite of the wounding of W. W. O'Brien, chief defense counsel by the guns that ended Weiss' reign, the trial of Saltis and "Lefty" Koncil, went ahead today, and jurors were asked by the court, before submission of evidence began, whether any of them had been approached with a view of influencing their verdict.

All of them answered in the negative.

While the state set out to show that Saltis and Koncil slew John "Mitters" Foley as the outgrowth of a dispute overthe bodies of Weiss and Paddy Murray, an aid, killed Monday when machine gunners opened fire on them on State street.

A dozen witnesses described the killers and their flight but there were no names mentioned.

QUEEN MARIE WILL STAY ON SHIP TILL IT DOCKS

S. S. LEVIATHAN, Oct. 13—(AP)—Queen Marie of Rumania will pass the statue of liberty on the Leviathan, remaining aboard the big ship as it proceeds to its dock, probably Monday afternoon. The queen has advised the Rumanian legation at Washington that this is her desire, for she wishes to get the full effect of the skyscrapers on New York's skyline, just like all her subjects who have emigrated to America.

The queen is also of the opinion that the Rumanian societies, which will greet her on her arrival, can be met more advantageously when the steamer is at its dock. Captain Hartley expects that will be about 2 o'clock on the afternoon of Oct. 18.

TO CONSULT ON PROPOSED OPERATION ON MUSSOLINI

LONDON, Oct. 13.—(AP)—A Geneva dispatch to the Daily Express says that Dr. Sauerbruch, eminent Bavarian surgeon, has been summoned to consult with medical men in Rome with reference to a proposed operation on Premier Mussolini.

The Berne newspaper Bund says Dr. Sauerbruch has left Munich for Rome.

Killed by Fall From 17th Story Window

Former Imperial Persian Consul-General Fell From Yale Club, New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13—(AP)—H. H. Topakyan, former imperial Persian consulate general, was instantly killed today in a fall from a window on the 17th floor of the Yale club across the street from the Grand Central tation.

Police were inclined to believe the fall was accidental. Persons in the street who saw the body come hurtling through the air said two small brief cases preceded it and police believed the cases fell from a window sill and Topakyan lost his balance in attempting to recover them.

The window from which he fell was in the hallway of the club building and adjoining a room occupied by F. Dudley Kohler, an attorney with whom he had an appointment. The attorney was not there when Topakyan arrived, however, and the consul general is believed to have been awaiting him in the hallway. No one could be found who saw him immediately before the fatal plunge.

Mr. Topakyan was about 60 years old. In 1909 he presented a silk-jeweled Persian rug to President Roosevelt which was valued at $50,000. Mr. Topakyan was honored by President Taft with an autographed photograph and among his effects was found a letter from President Wilson thanking him for the gift of a speciman of turquoise from his western mines.

PROF. FISHER OFFERS TO WAGER TEN DOLLARS

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 10.—Professor Irving Fisher of Yale university, tonight offered to wager ten dollars to one that we shall actually become a nation of octogenerians by the end of this century. The offer was made during his address before the convention of the American Public Health association.

"It is within the power of man to rid himself of every parasitic disease," he declared. "The chief difficulty is not lack of knowledge but lack of its application. Even the common sense knowledge of exercise, sleep, fresh air and food are not yet well applied.

"What science is really doing is rediscovering simple biological living. Civilization has brought bad sanitation; and now civilization through its greatest product, science, is simply cleaning its own house."

DEMOCRATIC RATIFICATION DINNER IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Prominent democrats from all parts of Connecticut were here tonight to attend the ratification dinner given at Hotel Taft under the auspices of the Woman's Democratic club of New Haven.

The dinner marks the opening of the state democratic campaign, and the leading issues in the forthcoming state election were touched upon by the speakers.

All of the nominees on the democratic ticket including Rollin U. Tyler, nominee for U. S. senator and Charles G. Morris, nominee for governor, were present, and the principal addresses were given by Congressman William H. Oldfield, chairman of the democratic national committee, and Miss Anne Mathews of New York.

E. R. TURNER SLAIN BY MAN WHO LOST LIFE SAVINGS

BOONVILLE, Mo., Oct. 13.—(AP)—E. B. Turner, 34, son-in-law and former business partner of Charles W. Nixon, former head of the defunct Nixon Farm Mortgage company, was shot and killed today by D. Cockrell, 50, a reputed investor in the company, who arrived a few minutes before on a train from California.

Cockrell is understood to have invested his life savings in the company. The failure recently was investigated by a grand jury.

Cockrell was arrested after the killing.

Cockrell, a graduate of Wisconsin university, was a former instructor and officer at Kemper Military Academy here.

TWO STOLEN AUTOMOBILES RECOVERED IN STAMFORD

STAMFORD, Oct. 13.—(AP)—The Stamford police recovered two stolen automobiles here today. Two New Haven boys, one 15 and the other 12, were found in possession of a car owned by Stanley Beno, of 51 Blake street, New Haven. They admitted having taken the machine from Garden street, New Haven.

Two New York men, Joseph Mirran and Louis Lamorte, stopped here on suspicion, admitted they had stolen the automobile in which they were riding from 125th street, New York.

NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW SOLD TO WALTER B. MAHONEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Sale of the North American Review to Walter Butler Mahoney, New York lawyer and writer on economics, was announced today by George Harvey, former ambassador to the court of St. James.

Mr. Mahoney will takek over the periodical with its December issue. Mr. Harvey, who had been its editor 28 years, will continue as an occasional contributor. The policy of the magazine will be unchanged.

The new owner is the son-in-law of Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university.

KING VICTOR EMANUEL RECEIVED CARDINAL MAFFI

PISA, Italy, Oct. 13.—(AP)—King Victor Emanuel received Cardinal Maffi, archbishop of Pisa, in audience at Villa San Rossore, the royal retreat, near here today, says the Stefani News Agency.

The king and cardinal had a cordial talk lasting about an hour.

Since 1871 efforts have been made by successive Italian governments to effect a rapprochment between the vatican and the cardinal. Under the fascist regime these efforts have multiplied.

Two Army Air Pilots Lost Lives in Sound

Plane Crashed Into the Water Off Port Jefferson, L. I.—Took a Nose Dive.

PORT JEFFERSON, N. Y., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Two pilots in the army air corps lost their lives here late today when their plane crashed into Long Island sound. The dead were Henry R. Perra, of Taunton, Mass., and William H. Preston, of Belmont, Mass., both second lieutenants.

The crew of a tugboat reported they heard an explosion and saw the plane take a nose dive into the water. Both pilots were strapped into the cockpit. One was dead when extricated and the other died after a half hour's attempt at resuscitation.

Observers said the plane had been flying low over the village to avoid low-handing clouds and fog, and that shortly after it passed out over the dock it appeared to be attempting a landing. They said it fell from a height of about 150 feet.

The plane, a De Haviland, was returning from Boston airport to Mitchel Field, having made the trip to Boston this morning.

R. I. REPUBLICANS FAVOR PROHIBITION REFERENDUM

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 13.—(AP)—A plank favoring the resubmission of the question of prohibition to the people was adopted by the republican state convention here today. The convention nominated Governor Aram J. Pothier for re-election. The democratic state convention a week ago demanded such modification of the Volstead act as would obtain support for the law and make enforcement possible.

The republican platform today urged strict enforcement of the law until the will of the people on the subject is ascertained. The party affirmed the stand of the party for tariff for the protection of American industries and denounced free trade. The platform supported the Pothier administration of Rhode Island. It carried a plank condemning the endorsement recently by the democrats of the filibuster in the Rhode Island senate that attracted national attention two years ago.

"We recognize the difficulties encountered in the enforcement of the provision of the 18th amendment," the resolution on prohibition set forth, "and recognize the uncertainty of public opinion regarding this amendment. Until the will of the people is definitely ascertained by a resubmission of the question involved, a procedure which we favor. We reaffirm our pledge of 1924 and stand unqualifiedly for the strict enforcement of all national and state laws including the laws relating to the sale of intoxicating liquor and the suppression of gambling and other vices."

The remainder of the state ticket chosen today follows: Lieutenant governor, Major Norman S. Case, Providence; secretary of state, Ernest L. Sprague, Cranston; general treasurer, George C. Clark, Providence; Attorney general, Charles P. Sisson, Providence.

CRACK DETECTIVE SHOT TO DEATH IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Comrades of Arthur B. Schiverer, crack detective sergeant of the Washington police department, worked grimly today trying to pick up the trail of the man who shot him to death early this morning as he approached his home happy in the thought tonight was his wedding night.

Clutched in his hand was the murderer's necktie. One shot had been fired, muffled by his body. The pistol was found nearby. A blue roadster carrying two men was reported speeding from the vicinity shortly after the crime. Beyond these facts the police had little to go on, but they deduced that he knew the man who killed him, because he so obviously was taken by surprise, and they suspected jealousy might have been the motive.

In Schriever's pocket was the platinum wedding ring he was to have placed on the finger of Miss Helen Barnes Parker, a government worker, whose home is McLean, Va., in a quiet ceremony impulsively planned for tonight when October 20, their original date, a whole week away, seemed too long to wait. Several days ago, he had confided to a friend he was being shadowed, and police linked this with his wedding plans in support of the theory of jealousy.

PROMINENT TAMPA REALTOR WAS DROWNED AT SEA

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Tampa today mourned the loss of D. P. Davis Islands and one of the most prominent real estate developers in the history of the city, who was drowned while sailing to Europe aboard the steamer Majestic of the White Star Line.

Details of Mr. Davis' death were lacking. First report of it was received in a radiogram to Arthur V. Milan, vice president of the D. P. Davis organization.

The telegram stated "Dave was lost overboard early this morning. Ship circled over an hour. Everything possible done. No hope. Advise family." It was signed "Raymond and Monty." The signers were Raymond Schindler and F. W. Montayne, employes of the Davis organization who were accompanying Mr. Davis on his trip to Europe.

DRAGON STEPHENSON REFUSED TO TESTIFY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 13.—(AP)—D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan, who has been named as a source from which proof of recent charges of alleged political corruption in the state might be obtained, was brought here today from the Indiana state prison, where he is serving a life sentence for murder, appeared for an hour before the Marion county grand jury, later refused to testify in a civil suit in superior court and was whisked back to the prison at Michigan City before night fell.

MRS. VINCENT ASTOR SPECIAL ENVOY TO QUEEN MARIE

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Vincent Astor was named by Mayor Walker today as his special envoy to Queen Marie of Rumania during her visit in this city. The queen and her party are due to arrive here on the Leviathan October 18.

INDICTMENTS EXPOSE HUGE RING OF RUM SMUGGLERS

Nineteen Men Indicted in Federal Court in New York as Members of the Ring—Federal Officials Declare They Have Discovered Evidence of Bribes Totalling $43,000 Paid Policemen and Prohibition Agents—"Red" Reynolds One of the Men Indicted.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13—(AP)—Nineteen men have been indicted in federal court as members of a rum smuggling ring rivalling that headed by William V. Dwyer, now under sentence to serve a term in Atlanta penitentiary.

Two men from Chicago, described as prominent clubmen, a third from New Jersey and a fourth from Rhode Island were among those indicted. Simultaneous with the making public of the indictments today, it was learned that a sealed presentment, returned by the same jury, had been forwarded to Governor Moore of New Jersey, it is alleged that part of a liquor cargo valued at $2,000,000 was unloaded at Edgewater, N. J.

The indictments, charging conspiracy to violate the prohibition act, grew out of the capture in the Hudson river last April of the steamship Eker aboard which prohibition agents found the biggest cargo of liquor ever seized at this port. The liquor found aboard the ship was valued at $1,200,000.

The Chicago men indicted were Cecil Kinder and Clifford Kinder, who, together with a third man indicted, H. Turner, were represented as chief owner of the Edgewater, N. J., repair yard, where the Eker is alleged to have unloaded some of its cargo. A man described only as "Red" Reynolds of Providence, R. I., represented as the man who made shipping arrangements for the Kinders, was a fourth man indicted.

Most of the others indicted were members of the Eker's crew, including Captain Bernard M. Reaves, who already has been ordered extradited to Nassau to answer charges of kidnaping a negro constable in the British colonial service.

Federal officials said they discovered evidence that bribes totalling $43,000 had been paid policemen and prohibition agents to enable the Eker to enter New York harbor with the huge cargo.

DAYLIGHT SAVING LAWS IN STATES ARE LEGAL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Daylight saving laws like those of Massachusetts present no interference with federal rights and rise no questions over which federal courts have jurisdiction, the supreme court ruled today in dismissing a case appealed by the Massachusetts State grange, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and others.

The announcement made by Chief Justice Taft followed an oral argument by counsel for the appelants, who contended the Massachusetts law was unconstitutional, because it deprived persons of property without compensation and was otherwise obnoxious. The appelants held the Bay State statute had caused a depreciation of $30,000,000 in farm values in the state, had caused the changing of railroad schedules to the annoyance and confusion of everyone and had imposed new burdens upon the people by changing school hours.

Members of the court developed by questions that no penalties were carried by the law and expressed inability to see where any hardships were imposed.

Counsel for the appelants insisted the federal government, having by act of congress established standard time, occupied the field to the exclusion of the state, but Chief Justice Taft stated the court would follow the lower court in dismissing the proceedings for want of jurisdiction.

SCHOOL GIRLS' SKIRTS MUST COVER KNEES

GENOA, Neb., Oct. 13.—(AP)— When several high school girls here complained the assembly room was chilly, school board members investigated and then passed a ruling that hereafter girls from the sixth grade up must wear skirts long enough to cover their knees, walking or sitting, or be expelled.

All obeyed the decree except Hazel O'Bryan, 16, whose relatives resolved with her to wear short skirts "if we have to fight it out all winter."

The other extreme was noted when six girls appeared at the school wearing old swagger skirts of four years ago.

IS NEARING KINGSTON IN ALBANY-NEW YORK SWIM

KINGSTON, N. Y., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Charlotte Moore Schoemmel of New York, who is swimming down the Hudson river from Albany to New York, left the river three and a half miles above Kingston today. A heavy fog forced her to abandon an attempt to swim as far as Kingston Point, and she returned to Kingston aboard a cruiser, spending the night here.

After her arrival, Mrs. Schoemmel said she expected to reenter the river at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning and planned to reach Poughkeepsie, 16 miles from here, tomorrow night.

MERIDEN COP BRUISED WHILE ON TRAFFIC DUTY

MERIDEN, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Patrolman Francis J. Higgins was bruised about the body while doing traffic duty this evening, when struck down by an automobile that skidded on a trolley track rail. The patrolman after being taken to the Meriden hospital held Charles Pollard, the driver of the car that struck him, blameless.

HANGING OF RUSSELL SCOTT AGAIN DELAYED

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Forty-six hours before the time set for his execution and for the third time in 11 months, the hangman of Russell Scott for the murder of Joseph Maurer in a drug store holdup was averted today.

The state supreme court at Springfield ordered a stay until it can review the proceedings in his last sanity hearing, in which he was found sane after he had spent a year in a state asylum.

The man who was a vaudeville actor at 20, a cooperation head at 30 and a holdup man at 33, seemed to have moved at the news of his new lease on life. So many times he has been jerked from the gallows back to temporary safety that the methods by which his execution has been four times postponed since 1924 have become largely incomprehensible to him.

He was sentenced to hang at his first trial, but won a new trial and plead guilty, only to draw the same sentence again. Fifteen months ago, he was reprieved by the governor a few hours before the death march, following receipt of a telegram purporting to be a confession of his brother, Robert, to the crime. The message was found to be a hoax, but minutes before the new time fixed for execution, Scott won a sanity hearing. He was found insane and sent to an asylum, whence he was returned last summer for a new sanity trial found sane, and next condemned to the gallows.

RESERVATIONS FOR BERLINS AT COPLEY PLAZA, BOSTON

BOSTON, Oct. 3—(AP)—Reservations for Mr. and Mrs. Irving Berlin were by Al Jolson today at the Copley Plaza at about the same time as one by A. S. Mackay gave rise to a report that a reconciliation was in progress between Mrs. Berlin and her father, Clarence H. Mackay, head of the Postal Telegraph company.

The hotel management had refused to discuss the matter and it was not until Mr. Mackay arrived that it was established that he was not the father of the songster's wife.

Double strength was lent to the early report by a statement that a reservation had been made at the Parker house of the Massachusetts General hospital for Mrs. Berlin for the expected birth of a child were undertaken by the hospital although they also refused to confirm it.

MEMORIAL FOR THE FRENCH UNCOVERED AT FARMINGTON

FARMINGTON, Oct. 13—(AP)—Four regiments of brigade and French soldiers under the leadership of Count Rochambeau encamped here June 1, 1781, on their way from Providence to join Washington's army on the Hudson. They stopped again October 6 and 29 of the next year, after Cornwallis had surrendered.

Today, on the village green, down the street from the inn where Rochambeau and his officers spent those nights, a memorial tablet in honor of the French was uncovered in the presence of nearly 1,000 Farmington residents, most of whom were descendants of the pioneer Americans who welcomed the foreign allies.

The tablet, fastened on a boulder was donated to the town by Jeremiah Wadsworth branch of the Connecticut Society of the Sons of the American Revolution.

A CHARGE OF DESTROYED RECORDS IN MORSE TRIAL

NEW YORK, Oct. 13—(AP)—A charge of destroyed records was raised today in the Morse mail fraud trial involving three steamship companies capitalized at $90,000,000 and 17 defendants.

Special Assistant Attorney General Fletcher Dobyns, opening the case for the government, told the jury that at the direction of Charles W. Morse, certain transactions were written off and a stock value of $1,000,000 was shown at $12,500,000, after which the old books were hidden or destroyed by Harry F. and Benjamin W. Morse, sons of Charles W. Morse, and a new set of books opened.

These two sons of the Financier Morse who was pardoned by President Taft after serving part of a 15-year sentence for mis-application of National bank funds, a third son, Edwin A. Morse, and 14 other defendants are charged with using the mails to defraud. The acts alleged were committed in 1919. They were indicted in 1922. Charles W. Morse is not standing trial because of illness.

In his opening Dobyns gave a detailed history of the activities of the elder Morse and others named in the indictment. He alleged, in substance that the Morses, as officers and directors of the United States Steamship company, the United States Transport company and the United States Ship corporation, the three concerns involved, looted their companies and lined their own pockets with the proceeds of stock which, as directors of one company, they voted to themselves as directors of another giving no value in return.

Elaborate stock selling campaigns conducted through the mails, and involving a mass of falsehoods and misrepresentations were charged to the defendants by Dobyns. He said the other defendants came into the case through the activities of the four Morses in these selling campaigns.

Dobyns also charged the defendants with juggling of balance sheets, a suppression of material facts and false book entries.

Motions for dismissal by defense counsels that followed the government's opening were denied by Judge Thomas D. Thatcher.

ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH ARTISTICALLY RE-DECORATED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 13.—The last piece of staging used in re-decorating the interior of St. Joseph's church was removed Wednesday morning, opening to view one of the most pleasing effects of interior decorations to be seen in these parts. Beautifully shaded, the nave is finished in a subdued hue, while the walls and pilars are lighter. A buff effect is carried out. The lighting system is entirely changed. Twelve lights in Gothic design have been placed on the pillars, six on either side and suspended between the pillars on either side of the nave. Each lamp is of three hundred candle power and when in full brilliancy the auditory is flooded with light. New lights have also been installed in the choir gallery and the vestibule. A series of concealed electric floor lights has been installed in the sanctuary, and on either side of the altar a hidden bank of small electric lights of a total of 2,000 candle power illuminates the corner. A concealed flood light at the back of the altar adds to the effect.

District Deputy T. Frank Cunningham of this city installed the officers of San Jose council No. 14, Knights of Columbus, held in the council chambers Tuesday evening. The officers are: Grand knight, Patrick A. Coolican; deputy knight, Andrew J. Carey; chancellor, Paul Moran; warden, John Greene; advocate, James F. Twomey; treasurer, Thomas J. O'Brien; financial secretary, John M. Bransfield; recording secretary, Walter Hughes; trustees, James J. Francis Moriarty; trustee, John W. Moran; inner guard, Frank Klopotski; outer guard, Edward Ashton. Arrangements were completed for a free public lecture which is to be given under the auspices of the council by Peter W. Collins of Boston, at the town hall here Tuesday evening next. Mr. Collins will talk on the Mexican situation.

Announcement of a generous gift of two from three of the Willington members, Miss Rosa O. Hall, Mrs. Ida Hall Jones and Mrs. Alice Holman Hall, was made by the regent, Mrs. Herbert R. Chappell at the October meeting of Anne Wood Elderkin chapter, D. A. R. held at the home of Mrs. George F. Taylor this week. The income of the gift is to be used each year by the ways and means committee. Mrs. Alice Tyler Smith of West Willington was speaker for the afternoon. Her talk was on Famous School Masters of Connecticut, and she treated her subject in most interesting manner. Ten dollars was voted to purchase books for a worthy high school pupil, and $30 for prizes in the school's of the town, including evening school. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Taylor and her assistants, Mrs. Clara Winter, Mrs. Emma Kingsley, Mrs. Alice Carpenter, Mrs. Nina Ferguson, Miss Lucille Harroun, Mrs. Jo Brown and Mrs. Alice Crane.

HYPOLITE DANSEREAU DIES AT NORWICH, AGED 67

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 13.—Hypolite Dansereau, 67, of 39 Arnold's lane, died in Norwich Wednesday morning. He was a widely known and much respected resident of this city, born in Vercheres, Canada March 20, 1859, a son of Hypolite and Leonore Duquette Dansereau. He was a member of St. Mary's parish and of Les Artisans. Surviving him besides his wife, Mrs. Exilina Dansereau are five children,

He was employed for half a century as a loom fixer in the local plant of the Quidnick-Windham Manufacturing company.

NO CONTESTS DEVELOP IN DEMOCRATIC CAUCUSES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 13.—A small attendance was the general rule at the democratic caucuses held in this section last evening. There were no contests.

Enrollment day at the Y. M. C. A. will be held this (Thursday) with a supper for the team in the campaign field, which promises to be highly enthusiastic. The chairman will receive reports of the team captains, Roland B. Jordan, Louis H. Arnold, Robert M. Bath, A. W. Buchanan, Jr., Raymond A. Parker, Nelson A. Daniels, James B. Fullerton, F. H. Sherman and C. W. Hill; Mrs. Robert H. Fenton, women and Miss Wilhelmina Cour, young women. C. C. Case, the chairman will preside at the meeting. While the drive has been on, the activities at the "Y" have been getting into full swing with a large patronage for the gymnasium, the pool, bowling alley and reading room. A young business women's class was started with a registration of 35. Harold Higgins will lead a delegation of five local boys to the Connecticut Older Boys' conference to be held at Waterbury, Oct. 22, 23 and 24.

Saturday will be the last call for those desiring to be made voters for the state election Nov. 2. The registrars have given notice to that effect and party workers are attempting to get out as large a number as possible. It is estimated that 225 names will be added to the Windham voting list, including a number of new voters who qualified for the recent town election, just previous to which 89 new voters were made, 44 men and 54 women. Saturday of last week 93 more voters were made, 43 men and 45 women. There remain 109 names on the list and the estimate is that one-third of this number will qualify.

Among winners in the poultry exhibit at the Stafford fair are F. S. Pendleton, Ivan M. Johanson, Eva Ellis and W. H. Dunnock, Jr., members of the Windham County Poultry, Pigeon and Small Stock association. D. D. Cavanaugh of the association is one of the judges.

Leopold Rock, 23, pleaded guilty to speeding when presented in police court Wednesday morning and was fined $15 and costs, amounting to $22.15. Rock was arrested by Officer Montie while operating at a fast rate of speed.

Ovila Senecal, 69, of Taftville, arrested for intoxication here Tuesday night, at Wednesday morning's session of court he insisted that he was not drunk. The court fined him $10 and costs, a total of $17.15. Officer Lariviere found the man down and out in a doorway on Main street and had to carry him to the automobile which took him to the police station.

The day of fasting and prayer was observed here Wednesday by a large congregation of members of local Protestant churches, who are participating in the union religious service program conducted by Rev. Milton S. Rees of Rochester, N. Y. Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock was in charge of the prayer service from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. In the evening Rev. Mr. Rees preached his regular sermon. This (Thursday) evening a large delegation of men from Baptic will attend the services. They will be led by Rev. E. C. Conklin.

But one cottage now remains occupied at Lake Wangumbaug, that of Carl A. Hynek of Rockville, who is annually the first to arrive at the popular summer resort and the last to leave. Mr. Hynek plans to "keep house" at the lake until Thanksgiving time. The return to town of Henry J. Mathieu and Daniel F. McCarthy and their families, left Mr. Hynek the last cottager of the colony.

JEWETT CITY

TOWN OF GRISWOLD READY TO DISPENSE WITH POOR FARM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 13.—The selectmen of Griswold believing that it is for the best interest of the town from every viewpoint, have decided to abolish the maintenance of a town farm.

Last year its cost for the salary of William Griswold its keeper with its monthly supply items, figured up to $3,157.88 which Mr. Seymour and his official board deem an unnecessary expense. There are only two or three who are kept there now as town charges. Many other towns in the up to date column have charged off this item of expense. At this time Griswold's town farm, stock, tools, furniture and other accumulations are valued at $8,248.

The valuable herd of cows, and the possessions incident to its maintenance, will, it is believed, find ready market. Provisions are completed to take care of those who become dependent upon the town's resources, in some other manner.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church, is to be entertained at the home of Mrs. A. M. Brown, Friday afternoon, instead of Thursday.

Delegates appointed from Dorcas circle of the King's Daughters to the state convention at New Haven are: Miss M. A. Burdick, the leader, Miss Ethel Fish, first delegate; Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, Mrs. J. T. Stewart, Mrs. Irving Thornton and Mrs. J. W. Carter.

A most delightful evening was spent at the meeting at Mrs. E. B. Chenay's, Tuesday evening, when about 30 listened to Mrs. G. H. Prior's talk on her trip to California, and saw the beautiful pictures of the points of intefest. Cake and coffee were served.

Those who attended the conference of churches at Preston City from the Jewett City churches, Wednesday, were: Mrs. S. R. Waters, Miss M. A. Burdick, Mrs. F. E. Robinson, Mrs. Jay Ricketts, Mrs W. E. Marshall, Mrs. E. A. Faust, Mrs. G. A. Haskell, Mrs. Fred Fanning, Mrs. Ella Geer, Mr. and Mrs. George Ross, Miss Kate Ross, Mr and Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Gray, Mrs. J. B. Palmer, Mrs. J. T. Stewart, Mrs. Edward Gallup and Mrs. C. I. Babcock.

The Missionary society of the Congregational church is to meet at Mrs. Abraham Zegeer's, Friday afternoon.

Probably few sections of the eastern end of the state, was ever the home of as many ruffed grouse, as for years have found maintenance and agreeable breeding places as the wooded ed districts of Griswold. Of late years there has been a decrease in grouse, even before the stringent provisions of the recent game laws. Now and then in the hunting district dead birds have been come upon, where there was no evidence that they had perished from gun shot wounds. This week those interested in the preservation of game birds have received from the New England Ruffed Grouse Investigation committee the letter following:

Of the 32 sent from Connecticut for investigation several have come from this locality.

It is pointed out that some means many be discovered to control the stomach worms and external parasites of this most beautiful and valuable game bird of Griswold.

Specimens wanted for to New England Ruffed Grouse investigation.

Sportsmen and all others interested in the ruffed grouse are urged to contribute to the New England Ruffed Grouse Investigation at least one entire bird and the intestines of all grouse killed this year.

All specimens should be sent to Dr. Alfred O. Gross, Bowdoin college, Brunswick, Maine. Each specimen should be sprinkled liberally with salt, carefully marked with name and address of sender, date and locality where the bird was taken.

Healthy as well as abnormal diseased specimens of ruffed grouse are needed for this investigation. Entire birds should be packed in a box (not air tight) with excelsior or crumpled newspaper packing and shipped by express or parcel post. Intestines should be wrapped in heavy paper and shipped by parcel post.

The committee on the Ruffed Grouse Investigation for New England comprises Dr. John C. Phillips, chairman, Dr. Thomas Barbour, Thornton W. Burgess.

In this state one may not shoot Hungarian partridges, but the law was off on ruffed grouse last Friday. It is know that a few partridges are still alive in Griswold. Twenty-five years ago as one travelled through the local woods, they sat upon almost every rock.

Earl E. Gilbert, James H. Shea and Richard J. Dudkowski, the school committee of Griswold, have completed their comprehensive and satisfactory report of the cost and conducting methods. There was received from the state last year $3,883.22, which deducted from the school expenses shows the actual cost to the town to have been $52,411.11. There were 921 pupils enumerated in the districts of the town with 699 for Riverside.

The item of salaries, $36,450.41, was paid to the 30 teachers.

DANIELSON

THREE ARE INJURED WHEN CAR SIDESWIPES TRUCK

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 13—By Joseph Natorski. Andrew Jaworski and the latters daughter, Bertha Jaworski, 12 were injured tonight, about 6 o'clock, when the big Cadillac sedan owned and driven by Mr. Natorski, who is a public service driver and in business here, sideswiped a motor truck owned and driven by Victor Smith of Brooklyn, at the foot of South Killingly hill, near the residence of Selectman Amos E. Hall.

Mr. Natorski was brought to his home here and treated by a physician. He had a cut on the right cheek, and injuries to his neck, yet while he was suffering from shock tonight his condition was not serious. Mr. Jaworski and his daughter were taken to the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam for treatment for cuts and bruises, not of a serious nature.

Mr. Natorski said that he was coming from Providence when the accident happened. Two motor trucks owned by Mr. Smith were stopped on the state highway at the foot of the hill, one ahead of the other, throwing off rear lights when the Natorski machine came down the hill. Mr. Natorski said that he could see no lights and did not notice the trucks until it was too late to avoid a collision.

The front of the Cadillac, which was practically a new machine, was ruined.

SENATOR DARBIE ELECTED EVEN BEFORE LLECTION

DANIELSON, Oct. 13—Meet Senator L. L. Darbie, wives and gentlemen, the senior from the 26th senatorial district in the legislature of 1927. Not elected yet? No. But that's the democratic Attorney Darbie, who was the speaker of the house in the 1923 session, is sitting pretty. The democratic organization in this district, comprising the towns of Killingly, Ware, Thompson, Woodstock, Eastford and Ashford held no senatorial caucus as Attorney Darbie has no opponent to meet when election day rolls around—November 2. The opportunity for naming a democratic candidate has passed now, so the republican and the will-o'-the-wisp float into office on the day the voting is done. Odd things in the gentle art of politics, and result with a similar situation existed in this district. Invariably the democrats have had a candidate for the place, though that has, as a usual thing, not meant a great deal in a strong republican district. This year's omission on the part of the democrats appears to have been due to a slip in the organization machinery. It relieves the republicans of any worry that might have been caused over the senatorship.

WRIGHT AND RILEY, CHOICE OF DEMOCRATS

DANIELSON, Oct. 13—Clayton D. Wright, who at one time was a member of the legislature from the town of Killingly at their caucus last evening for representatives, Judge Sabin S. Russell, the republican nominee for judge of probate, was endorsed by the democrats.

For justices of the peace the caucus named James R. Walsh, A. D. Sayles, A. E. Hall, Claude E. Moran, A. J. Cavanaugh, Joseph Barth, F. E. Bligood, Patrick Riley, William Graves.

The party will have a rally here in the town hall Wednesday evening of next week, with Charles G. Morris, democratic candidate for governor, as one of the speakers.

GLORY OF "THE BOAT TRAIN" IS ALL IN THE PAST

Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 13—Once a proud train, if trains may be assumed to have pride, the boat train south-bound each day, must feel in its present status like a dog with a can tied to his tail. It has become a mixed train, hauling on a evening freight as well as passenger cars, on a recent evening an observer of the train claims that it included 15 freight cars as well as milk cars, passenger coaches, baggage and mail cars. It is related that the assignment of freight on this train is done in the interest of economy and to speed up delivery. The string of freight cars at the rear of the train each evening makes little or no difference to passengers, though the train's being off schedule and late more or less frequently is said to be quite a nuisance to handling the freight assigned to the run.

Tonight (Thursday) the dance devotees of this and many nearby towns in eastern Connecticut have their opportunity to hear one of the most famous dance orchestras in the country with Mal Madison at its head. This may not mean much to those who have entered the period of life where knees are creaky and ankles rickety, but it is a great event for the young people of the countryside and others not so young.

Death came at 2.30 Wednesday morning to end the sufferings of Clarence S. Barker, 5 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Barker of Cottage street. The child may died as the result of being scalded with boiling water, accidentally spilled upon him from a kettle being handled by his grand-mother, Mrs. Maxwell Parent of Front street, Attawaugan. The child was scalded from the neck to his ankles.

Crushed by the tragic death of his son, Roland, whose body was found in woodland territory near South Killingly Tuesday morning, Zepherin Thibeault, sobbed out his gratitude on Wednesday to the people of South Killingly and other communities who aided in the long search for the body. Barely able to talk coherently because of the depth of his sorrow and weeping pitifully, Mr. Harquoll said never in his experience had he known of a people helping as he had been helped. He reviewed how men, many of them gathered by Selectman Amos E. Hall of South Killingly, had tramped the woods for many hours and for many miles seeking for the body that they knew must be somewhere in the brush. This self sacrifice of many people to help a stricken family has been a tremendous impression on Mr. Harquoll and all the members of his family. Nothing new pertaining to the tragedy developed during Wednesday. An outstanding incident of the sad affair is the fact that the unfortunate young man's hunting dog remained, it is now evident, beside the master's dead body for twelve hours, before finally leaving it about midnight to go home. The arrival of the dog alone forecasted a shadow of death.

The following relative to the death the past week of Percy Earl Waller, son-in-law of Frederick A. Jacobs of Broad street, is from a Syracuse paper:

Percy Earl Waller, 40, who with his brother, the late John C. Waller, gained a nation-wide reputation 16 years ago as members of Walter T. Camp's All-American football eleven, while they were playing with Princeton university's team, died suddenly of heart disease at 2.30 o'clock this morning in his home near Skaneateles.

A son of the late John E. and Julia Earl Waller, the latter a member of one of the first families to settle in what is now Skaneateles, Mr. Waller had been engaged in farming a few miles from his native town since his graduation from Princeton in 1910.

The Waller brothers, Percy and John, became famous during 1908-9 and 10 while both were playing tackle positions on the Princeton team. Their spectacular plying during these seasons earned for them berths on Walter Camp's mythical eleven, the highest honor in collegiate football.

He had been in apparent good health when retiring at 9 o'clock last night. However, members of the family say Mr. Waller had suffered attacks of heart disease during the last year. He summoned relatives to his bedside shortly after 2 o'clock when stricken but was dead on the arrival a few minutes later of Dr. William P. Dolan, family physician.

His father, the late John E. Waller, was for many years a leading resident of Skaneateles and at the time of his death a score of years ago was president of the Skaneateles Savings Bank and the Skaneateles Railroad company.

Surviving Mr. Waller are his wife, Mrs. Marjorie Joy Jacobs Waller, a leader in Skaneateles society circles; two daughters, Marjorie Joy Waller, Jr., 11, and Barbara Earl Waller 9, son John Canwallader Waller 7, sister, Mrs. William T. Thorne, all of Skaneateles; and three brothers, Harcourt E. and Earl C. Waller of Augusta, Ga., and Julius E. Waller of Schenectady.

Mrs. Malvina Moquit, 34, wife of Joseph Moquit, died at their home in Wauregan Wednesday. Mrs. Moquit was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Cote.

A parking restriction that has been in force for several years was removed at Tuesday evening's meeting of the warden and court of burgesses. Parking is to be allowed for a period of one hour on the easterly side of Main street along the frontage of the Shumway block, next south of the Attawaugan hotel and the frontage of the Winkelman building, next south of the Shumway building. Borough officials have been solicited for this concession for a considerable period.

Treasurer Sidney W. Bard of Brooklyn Savings bank said Wednesday that he will not become a member of the Brooklyn town school committee by appointment. It will be recalled that Mr. Bard was declared elected a member of the town school committee of Brooklyn by the moderator at the town meeting after votes had been counted a week ago last Monday evening, although James C. Moran, a democratic candidate, had a larger number of votes. Since that time it has been discovered that Mr. Bard ran for a place on the board, as a republican candidate, to fill a two-year term and that there was no such term to be filled, though a term of one year could have been filled. This discovery automatically removed Mr. Bard as a member of the board. The committee has in its power at the present time the right to appoint Mr. Bard to fill a vacancy existing, but Mr. Bard would not have it so, all the circumstances considered.

At the Goodyear church service Sunday morning the pastor Rev. C. A. Downs spoke of "The Fruits of the Spirit" and expressed thoughts suggested by the text Gal. 5:22, 23. The service was enriched with special instrumental music by Joseph Green and Miss Irene Cobb. Miss Nancy Whitaker sang a hymn. Miss May Longbottom was organist. The church was decroated with a fine display of dahlias.

How I Dress My Hair

By Edna Wallace Hopper

"The thousands who see me daily on the stage wonder at my beautiful hair. It is wavy, glossy and abundant. Nearly everyone thinks that some wonderful hair dresser gives it daily care.

Not so—I'm too busy for that. I never go to a hair dresser, have never had a Marcel wave. I simply apply twice weekly a hair dress which great experts made for me. It is not sticky, not greasy. Before they made if I never dreamed a liquid could do so much. Now all toilet counters supply it as Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. The price is 75c.

Nothing else I know gives a girl or woman so much added loveliness at once. No one can resist it when she knows. My guarantee is enclosed with every bottle, so it costs you nothing if it doesn't please. Go try it at my expense.

BELDING-HEMINWAY OUTLOOK CHEERS LOCAL RESIDENTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 13.—Gen. E. C. Young, president of the recently consolidated $20,000,000 Belding-Heminway company, has made an announcement that is of great interest to the people of Putnam, as one of the important plants of the company is here. He stated that the consolidation of the companies is practically complete and would be completed to the most minute detail before the end of the year. He said, "The general situation is better than at any time previous this year. The ratio of sales of stocks on hand is higher than at any other time since last year. In the final quarter of 1925 and the first quarter of 1926 there was considerable over-production. Manufacturers, accordingly, cut down production and toward the end of the second quarter a turn for the better was evident. Throughout the third quarter this improvement continued with the result that prices began to advance and buying picked up."

He said that the silk fabric and silk thread industry had definitely turned the corner and speaking for his own company, Gen. Young pointed out that it had earned in excess of its dividend requirements in the first half of the year and added "a still wider margin of profits over dividend requirements is expected during the second half of the year."

QUINEBAUG POMONA MEETING WITH SENEXIT

(Special to The Bulletin)

3 ways this House Paint Excels

Its superior beauty durability and economy established by three practical tests

The Weather Machine Test—Panels covered with Devoe paint are placed upon the slowly turning wheel of the "weather machine" in our factories, and subjected to the heat, cold and wet that paint must withstand in actual use before it is put into the can.

The Pigment Test—Six pigments used in house paint—white lead, white zinc, magnesium silicate, barytes, china clay, and silica—were mixed with linseed oil and applied to a black panel. White Lead and White Zinc—the pigments, used in Devoe Lead and Zinc House Paint are the only pigments that completely cover and hide the black surface.

The Spreading Test—Tested by practical painters and laboratories, over and over again Devoe paint has proved its superior spreading and covering capacity.

It is guaranteed to give satisfaction when applied according to directions.

HUNTING ACCIDENTS

When the hunting season comes we have been accustomed to hear, of the shooting of hunters and guides in the woods of Maine where big game is being sought, but in Connecticut with the hunting season not a week old there have already been two fatalities, due apparently to the manner of carrying the hunting pieces.

Both cases were accidents. One hunter was killed by his companion when his elbow struck the other's gun while climbing over a fence and thus caused it to be discharged, while the other apparently tripped and fell causing his gun to be discharged in such a manner that he got the full effect of the charge.

Accidental hunting cases have occurred before and will probably occur again but in each instance there is accentuated the great danger that lurks in the woods for the hunters themselves and in too many instances for such acts of their own.

There have been those who have thought to get a quicker drop on game by carrying their guns cocked ready for firing, and frequently it has been the case that such persons have unintentionally shot their friends when going in step or a trip over something has caused the hair trigged just enough to discharge the gun. Others have caught the gun on branches in such a way as to pull the trigger with certainly fatal results, while others have scraped at the conclusion that a stir in the bush meant game and fired only to find out that it was a human being.

Such cases of accidental death are preventable for there are impressive lessons attached to most every one of them, which should receive the careful attention of those who go hunting. The care that can be exercised for the saving of life involves no great burden and it is certainly worth while even though it should by any chance mean the sacrifice of a squirrel, a partridge or a deer. There are enough hazards in the woods without rushing so heedlessly into hunting that the careless handling of firearms is going to mean the death of the hunter or his companion.

POISON GAS

Probably no little surprise will be occasioned by the favorable attitude taken by the legislative committee of the American Legion in urging members of congress to oppose the ratification of the Geneva protocol concerning the use in war of poison gas in warfare.

The position taken gas should not be excluded from warfare since only five per cent of the gassed men died while 24 per cent of the other casualties had fatal results, and the argument put forth is that if the men can be put out of business temporarily it will serve to hasten the end of wars. That means of course that it rests with the contestants to see which can gas the most of the opponents out.

Perhaps it might be realized that being gassed is less horrible than bullets and yet there are those to be seen today who are suffering from both, those well and alive being as permanently disabled as those with bodily disfigurements.

But gas has been included in the list of those things which are against the rules of modern warfare. In the last great struggle it was introduced by Germany and thereafter others were obliged to follow for it was useless for them to attempt to respect the laws of war when others were failing to do so. Like was then treated with like and gas warfare underwent rapid development, but it gave no indication of what might be expected in the future should the use of poison gas be sanctioned and thus invited. It might be much easier for it to reach the non combatant population than bullets and bombs, even if not deliberately employed for such a purpose, and even though the percentage of deaths from poison gas during the last war was less than from other methods it is probably an unfair comparison since poison gas had not undergone the development that it would if it was stated as a legitimate weapon.

Those who have faced fire and faced poison gas might be looked upon as good judges as to whether the latter should be prohibited or permitted, but there is, has been and probably will be a strong objection raised to it. This was well set forth by the Geneva conference on that very question.

THE DISAGREEMENT

Now that the long deliberation by the jury over the Daugherty-Miller case is over, with the rejoicing and manifestations of surprise over the outcome still underway, the question is whether the case will be dropped or whether another trial will be insisted upon.

The case was a long time coming to trial and it was underway a long time and even though it was not possible to convince the jury of guilt or innocence in the case of either defendant there was much brought out which it would seem ought not to remain undetermined.

The twists and turns of the cases were many. It was not an easy job to dovetail them together but the prosecution succeeded to the extent of getting half of the jury satisfied that the charge against Daugherty was correct and all but two convinced that the former alien property custodian was guilty. In view of the tangle, the mutilation of books which would have given additional proof, death of witnesses and the failure of the accused to testify the task of the prosecution was certainly an uphill one, with elements entering in which gave a chance for doubt.

But the fact that one jury has failed to agree doesn't necessarily mean that another would or that the evidence could not be better presented another time in view of the wrestling that has been done with the various phases of the case. It will be with interest that the decision is awaited as to what the next step will be. United States Attorney Buckner will probably determine what that will be. That he has received widespread praise for the manner in which he handled the prosecution indicates that recognition of the efforts that have been necessary to dig up the facts in the case and present them to the jury against men of prominence who were charged with conspiracy to defraud the United States. The seriousness of the matter and the large amounts involved indicate that what might govern in other cases cannot necessarily be followed in this instance. One test need not necessarily be regarded as final.

REGISTRATION OF ALIENS

Every now and then there arises the case of those who have neglected to comply with the immigration laws of the country. Perhaps even more frequently are there those instances of persons returning to Europe and then being held up at the port of entry because they are not citizens, never have been and they failed to provide themselves with means of identification or to get back within the proper limit of time. Steadily there are those instances where aliens are being gotten into the country in violation of the law.

In too many of these cases those in charge of enforcing the immigration laws are held up as autocratic and unreasonable. They are blamed because the laws are what they are, because they haven't the authority to violate or stretch them and because someone failed to look out for his own protection.

Commissioner General of Immigration H. E. Hull believes that the remedy for most of this needless trouble lies in the registration of aliens This is a step which has long since been urged by Secretary of Labor J. J. Davis for the purpose of stopping the bootlegging of aliens and it would of course be of inestimable help in determining many other questions which are raised concerning them.

Such a method is no different than is employed in other countries and those who are living here without becoming citizens, who may have come in by breaking the law, are bound to have greater respect for the country which upholds its regulations. It likewise furnishes proper protection for those who have been legitimately admitted to the country and who have a right to stay here and become citizens. Our experience with the immigration problems and the bootlegging of aliens point more and more strongly to the value of registration of aliens.

RUSSIA'S POSITION

Moscow's representative in London has given out a statement to the effect that it is possible that negotiations may be undertaken between soviet Russia and the United States for the adjustment of Russia's debts to this country. Of course he may be right, but thus far there has been no indication of it in this country.

The situation seems to be that Russia is in need of loans. It realizes that this country is the place where under ordinary circumstances it might expect to obtain them, but it knows that it would be folly to undertake anything of the kind as long as it owes what it does to the United States and thus far it has not been disposed to settle. The fact is that it has clung to the idea of making claims against the United States by which too largely offset the debts.

But now when it is said to be ready to abandon such offsetting claims it has apparently got to the point where it understands the mistake it has been making and that it is proving a serious handicap to itself. But the idea of thinking, just because it may be ready to agree to pay in order to obtain loans which are needed, whether they are necessary to stabilize internal finances or to improve credit, that the United States is going to depart from its clearly stated position as to what Russia must do before there can be any recognition of that government is preposterous.

Soviet Russia may be changing for the better, and it is to be hoped that it is, but it cannot be expected that Uncle Sam is going to jump at its beck and call until the needed changes are completed. Other countries have rushed in for trade reasons but with unsatisfactory results. The United States has as yet seen no reason for reversing itself.

ALMOST A CASUALTY

"There have been times," confessed the Hyde Park man to his friend from Woodlawn on the morning train, "when I have dreamed of how heavenly life might be if all wives were born dumb! But Imogene is still so mad that she won't talk to me and it's beginning to wear thin with me! Do you suppose she'll ever be the same?"

"Well, somebody in the family always comes back mad from a trip and it might as well be Imagene as you," was the brief consolation he drew. "Didn't she have a good time?"

"She says her nervous system is wrecked and that I did it," the Hyde Park man proceeded. "It was a wonderful, perpendicular resort down there in the mountains of North Carolina, the sort of place which looks as though somebody and thrown it against a mountain side and it had stuck! Whenever one went for a walk he had to go either straight up or down because any traveling in a horizontal direction would have shortened one leg permanently. All the trails were along the edges of 1,000 foot drops and all the mountain paths were lonely and bumpy. Why, a walk down there was not a diversion but an enterprise.

"But something must be done besides inflating the lungs with ozone and saying you'll make it no trump and so I started out one day by myself for a hike. Imogene witnessed my departure with forebodings. She knew, she told me kindly, that I would be certain to break my neck if I tried to get up and over that mountain top by myself and since I had come down there for the scenery, why didn't I just remain sensibly on the veranda of the hotel and regard it, spread out as it was in all directions? Why were men made such restless creatures, ever seeking danger? Please, wouldn't I stay home? So I went, of course, it being a grand day for a jaunt.

"The rest of this incident is entirely from Imogene's point of view. The afternoon went on and I failed to return. She wrecked the bridge game by her constant dashes to the porch to peer up and down the trails. Sympathetic guests who had been there before dragged out all the old legends of visitors who had fallen over Lovers' Lan by mistake or got caught in a bramble bush and eventually starved to death. They said it was too bad, wasn't it, that it was such a large, heavy man, because in an emergency a slighter person has so much better chance of grabbing onto saplings and hanging on till rescue appears. They asked her if I was accustomed to the Red Rock trail I had taken and when she said no, they went, 'Tck, Tck,' with their tongue tips and shook their heads sadly.

"All this did not add to her peace of mind. She was very low when she at last went upstairs to dress for dinner. Everybody had told her not to worry after they had finished their hard-luck stories, so she endeavored to be blithesome. Too nervous to wait for me up in her room, she descended to the lobby where large, comfortable ladies said, 'My dear, he's certain to walk in any minute,' with one breath, and in the next asked her if she had ever heard of the man from New York who went over that identical trail and never was heard from again.

"By dinner time the whole hotel was interested in my case and the dining room was extra lively and cheerful with chatter concerning my possible fate. Imogene ate some soup and then went out on the veranda, where she could watch till it grew too dark. People took turns joining her and peering up and down and asking irritably why on earth I had done such a fool stunt, anyhow.

"There were at least 60 places along that trail where I might have fallen over the edge, and Imogene said she saw my mangled remains at the foot of all of them. Oh, if I were not mangled, I had caught my foot in a root and tripped and broken my leg. There I lay on a lonely mountain peak unable to move and nobody likely to come by for week or years so far as she knew! It grew to be half past eight, and at last the hotel force took a hand. They decided to send out scouts to search for me.

"This seemed to put an official stamp oh my being a tragedy, and Imagene dissolved completely, all the pleased women quarreling over who should put the next cold compress on her head and having a grand time. Just as 'the searching party, armed with lanterns, rope, axes and whatnot were about to step off into the dark there was a wild yell from some man broadcasting the news of my safe arrival.—Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, who has become acting premier and foreign minister of the Peking government, is well known to Americans. His education was received in the United States and he served for a time as the Chinese ambassador at Washington. Dr. Koo won his doctorate degree at Columbia university, New York city, where he was a favorite pupil of the professors in the departments of political science and government. He also was extremely popular with the student body, and was admired for his intellectual attainments and his oratorical powers. Dr. Koo began his public career as secretary to the president of China. He was appointed minister to Mexico, later to the United States and was then transferred to the post in London. In 1921 he returned to Washington as a representative of China at the arms conference.

Make the Most of Books

By James Hosmer Penniman, Litt. D

Each Must Choose for Himself

Let the books that you select be those that have the approval of men competent to judge, but bear in mind that the wisest man cannot select the books that will best suit others; each must choose for himself. People are always glad to recommend the books that have helped them but they cannot tell whether such books will help you. You must find out for yourself, no one else can do it for you. Do not be afraid to ask anyone who knows more than you do. There is no information which people are so ready to give as about books, indeed when you ask them they feel flattered. When Franklin wished to make friends with a man that he suspected of hostile sentiments he borrowed a book of him and returned it promptly.

YOUR HEALTH

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

By Samuel Kleinberg, M. D., New York Member Gorgas Memorial Institute

Infantile paralysis is a disease of the nervous system resulting frequently in paralysis of the muscles of the legs, arms, back and abdomen. It occurs most frequently in the summer and fall, and at all ages, though the large majority of the patients are children.

There are some new cases every year, but sometimes, as in 1907 and in 1916 the disease comes in epidemics afflicting many thousands. We are not quite sure of the exact cause, though it is reasonably certain that the disease is due to a very minute germ.

Scientific medicine is thoroughly familiar with the course of infantile paralysis and can prevent many of the after effects.

Deformities of the back, hips, knees, ankles and hands often can be prevented by early and careful treatment. This disease requires, in most cases, a great deal of attention, even under the most favorable circumstances. It is necessary to do everything possible to prevent avoidable deformities.

Knowledge of this disease enables us to help practically every case, no matter how severe the deformity or of how long a duration. By means of massage, muscle training, various types of splints and a host of specially designed operations, most patients can be improved and aided in becoming independent and self-reliant, as far as sitting, walking and ordinary duties are concerned.

The most difficult problems arise for those who live at some distance from big cities, who have permitted deformities to continue for months and years without treatment. Today no patient suffering from infantile paralysis should be considered hopeless.

By the use of a brace, crutch, or an operation, a child with a complete paralysis of a limb from the hip to the toes, a so-called dangle limb, can be made to walk. A person with a paralyzed arm can surely be improved by muscle training tendon operations, etc. A child with a paralyzed back and curvature of the spine can be markedly improved in muscle power and posture so that he can get about comfortably by the use of corsets, exercises or by operations.

Do not decide from hearsay or upon a neighbor's advice that your child cannot be helped. Make sure before you permit a crippled child to go through life under a handicap that can be lightened.

IN DAY'S NEWS

THE "F. F. ZS" OF SULULAND

Two hundred Zulus were arrested near Eshowe, native capital of Zululand, by South African police for inciting a revolt among tribesmen, according to a recent dispatch from Cape Town. A witch doctor, presiding over a ceremonial, was about to murder a woman that "war tonic" for the warriors might be extracted from her hands, when the police raided the assembly.

"Revolts among the Zulus are not common occurrences today," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society. "Since the British defeated the Zulus in '79, following intermittent savage raids on the Cape Colonies, the Zulus have gradually ceased their hostilities and have been somewhat amenable to the influence of Christian missionaries representing many creeds and countries. Zulu history seethes with narratives of bloody conquests, beginning when the principal tribe numbered a few thousand toward the end of the 18th century, and lasting until they were finally subdued by the whites.

"The Zulus are the 'F. F. Zs' of Zululand. The men are physical giants, with more than average intelligence of South African natives, and a native dignity that marks them as true aristocrats in their own environment. Unlike other tribes who continued to use primitive methods of warfare, the Zulus studied the modern British system and established a well trained native army. This development made it possible for them to conquer hostile tribes until they dominated the native population of the Cape and caused the British to lose many men before their resistance was overcome.

"The women are also excellent physical specimens; strong, erect and graceful. Both men and women are lively and sociable, gifted with natural ability and they display the proud bearing of conquerors.

"The Zulu roamed at will over South Africa before the conquest of the white man, but most of them now inhabit the highlands of Zululand, a semi-tropical reserve in the northeastern part of Natal Province, which has been set aside by the British government for their use. Zululand is slightly larger than New Jersey with a population about twice that of Trenton. Except for a few white settlements dotting the 210-mile harborless coast on the Indian ocean, and a few scattered white settlers in the inland villages, the reserve is populated entirely by the natives. As far as possible, themselves but the Provincial government of Natal and the South African parliament keep an ever watchful eye on their activities.

"When the Zulu boy has found an affinity, who may be one of many, he declares himself to her father, and is informed how much 'Labola' is necessary to affect a legal marriage. 'Labola' consists of a gift of from 10 to 20 cattle to the father-in-law as a guarantee of good faith, and evidence that the prospective husband is able to provide. The title to the cattle and their offspring do not pass to the father who holds possession of them, but to the children for whose benefit the 'labola' is held in trust. Should there be no children, and in event of the death or divorce of the wife, the cattle are returned to the husband, provided he has been kind and faithful. If he is guilty of cruelty and is divorced, all rights are forfeited and the cattle are held for the benefit of the divorced wife.

"The women do the work and provide for the family. The men attend the herds and hunt. A wife hoes the fields and reaps the harvest, but her husband cannot appropriate any part of the grain or stores which she has laid by. It is her duty to provide food for the husband and children and care for the 'kraal'—the Zulu home consisting of a fenced-in cattle pen, surrounded by native huts. If any member of the family must hire out as a domestic, the lot usually falls to the man as the women seldom leave their homes. Native men are employed in the villages as cooks, waiters, housemen, washmen, messengers, nurses, and in most cases are superior to women as servants. A Zulu tribesman, with feather bedecked head, pulling a 'rickshaw' is a common sight in Natal.

"Although polygamy is recognized and practiced by the Zulus, each wife is accorded the same consideration and treatment and the relation between them, odd as it may seem, is harmonious and affectionate. Jealousy, malice and hatred is seldom seen. A man may have as many wives as he can provide for, but he must not look a mother-in-law in the face and, if he should encounter her, he immediately covers his face and avoids her as graciously as possible. A wise provision perhaps when one thinks of the man with 40 wives, and all of his mothers-in-law living in the same village."

TRAFFIC

By the Albert Russel Erskine Bureau for Street Traffic Research University of California, Los Angeles

An important cause of traffic congestion and accidents is to be found in the weaving of vehicles over the roadway surface and their failure to maintain regular lines. This varies a great deal from city to city, but in no place is there an alignment of traffic that makes for a full use of the roadway surface.

Weaving in and out is caused principally by the requirement that drivers overtaking slower behicles ahead shall pass to the left. Permission to pass either to the right or left would bring a great improvement, making it possible for lines of traffic to be kept regular in alignment and to pass along side of the adjacent lines with a minimum of friction.

The use of white paint lines to mark the centers of roadways has done much both on the highways and city streets to keep drivers on their own side of the road. This same method of marking can be used successfully to keep traffic in line on each side of the street and to make possible the fullest use of the roadway.

This full capacity is especially required at street intersections, where traffic is controlled by officers or signals. Without some regulation in alignment drivers arrange themselves in such a manner that only a fraction of the road surface is used. At intersections lanes should be established parallel with the center line of the roadways, and not less than nine feet in width. The boundaries of the lanes should be of white paint or some more durable substance.

The lines should extend back at least 100 feet from the intersection. Drivers should be required to keep within the lanes as marked. In this manner the intersection will carry its maximum traffic. A roadway 27 feet in width will carry three lines if each vehicle keeps in its own line. Where drivers are allowed the some roadway will rarely carry more than two lanes.

The weaving of vehicels on curves has led to the general use of the center line marker on highways. Vehicles tend to cut the curve, following the line of least resistance. This type of marking can be developed and used with value on city street which curve, especially on parkways and boulevards. For the distance that the roadway curves, lanes should be marked approximately 10 feet in width following the curvature of the center line. This method of alignment becomes especially necessary on heavily travelled ways where the normal flow of traffic is reduced by vehicles getting out of line. Lines of drivers following the marked lanes will pass around curves with at little interference to other traffic as do railway trains passing others upon curves.

Danny Is Rescued

Let faith and hope your way attend;
The longest voyage has an end.
—Old Mother Nature.

Putt-putt-putt-putt-putt-putt! Danny cocked up his little round ear. Then he cocked up the other little round ear. That is, he cocked them up as much as those little round ears could be cocked up. That was a queer noise. He wondered what it meant. Never had he heard anything quite like it. It seemed as if it were pounding right into the side of the can in which Danny was afloat in the Big River. Putt-putt-putt-putt-putt-putt! It was coming nearer every minute. Danny knew it was because it sounded louder and louder.

Out fell Danny.

"Oh dear!" whimpered Danny. "I wish I could peep out. I wish I could see what is making that queer noise. I wish I could see where I'm going. I wonder what's going to happen next. Whatever did I leave home for in the first place?"

Now, coming up the river there was a motor boat. You have guessed that. It was this boat that was doing all that "putting." There were several young ladies in the party in that motor boat and they were having a lovely time as that boat went putting up the river. By and by one of them spied a queer looking floating on the water up ahead. "What is that thing?" she cried.

"Just an old rusty can," said the man who was steering the motor boat. "Just an old rusty can floating right side up."

"Do you suppose there's anything in it? Let's pick it up," said a young woman.

So the motor boat was veered over toward the floating old can, and some one reached over and lifted the can out of the water. "Do you suppose there really is anything in it?" inquired a voice.

Some one reached over and picked Out fell Danny. Out fell Danny right up the can, turning it upside down, in the midst of that party on the boat! But he wasn't in the midst of that party long. The party simply wasn't there. Such a squealing and screaming you never heard. It was a fortunate thing that that boat could not be easily upset. If Danny had been some sort of monster he couldn't possibly have occasioned more excitement. If Danny had had time to think he might have felt a little bit set up to discover that one small person like himself could scare such great big giants. It really was funny.

But poor Danny didn't see the fun. He was just as badly scared as anybody. He had been rescued, but he didn't like the rescue. The one thing in all the great world he wanted just then was to get out of sight. He couldn't get out of sight soon enough. He ran around inside that boat and the moment he began running there were more frightened squeals. Finally Danny found a little closet under on of the seats with the door open. There were some pieces of rope and some cotton waste in there. Danny darted in. It was dark and comfortable. It reminded him of a little cupboard he had become used to an airplane, the one in which he and Nanny had one time lived.

Now, no one had seen Danny dodge in there, so no one thought to close the door. This was fine for Danny, for it meant that he could get out without any trouble. But such an uneasy party as that motor boat contained all the rest of that trip up the Big River! You see, all the ladies in that party were continually expecting Danny Meadow Mouse to pop out at them from somewhere. But Danny didn't pop out, and late that afternoon the motor boat reached the end of its voyage. It had brought Danny miles and miles up the Big River. It had given Danny the biggest lift he had yet had on his way home.

Stories That Recall Others

Oh, Doctor!

While doctors are accustomed to being called in the wee small hours of the night, one of the medical profession was a little surprised recently to answer the door at 3 a. m. and find his next door neighbor there.

"Could I use your phone, doctor?" she asked excitedly. "The baby is sick and I want to call the doctor."

Anonymous

The class in third grade language was learning as many new words as possible each week. The teacher requested that each pupil find a new word, learn to spell it and use it in a sentence.

One day little Mary made an enthusiastic contribution.

"My word," she proclaimed with much pride, "is anonymous. a-n-o-n-y-m-o-u-s. It means 'without a name.' My sentence is: 'The new baby at our house has been anonymous for almost a month'."

Multiple Signatures

Signing her name 11,564 times in two hours was no exhausting task for Miss Gertrude Robinson Smith, president of a National Women's club, aided by an ingenious device called a signagraph.

Each stroke of her pen, says Popular Science Monthly, sets in motion 20 little fountain pens working simultaneously.

Stop Bad Breath

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets bring no griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c. All Druggists.

HOW TO REDUCE VARICOSE VEINS

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first-class drug store and apply it night and morning as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is a harmless, yet most powerful germicide and two ounces last a very long time. Indeed, so powerful is Emerald Oil that old chronic cases of Piles are often entirely absorbed and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. Lee & Osgood Co. sells lots of it.

SURPRISE SHOWER GIVEN TO MISS ROSE DEMPSEY

Tuesday evening a surprise shower was given to Miss Rose Dempsey, No. 7-1 Boswell avenue, in honor of her approaching marriage. The evening was spent in games and music, after which a delicious luncheon was served by her mother, Mrs. Antone Dempsey assisted by Mrs. William Dempsey. Those present were the Misses Gertrude Shaw, Gladys Simcox, Julia Iwan, Nora Finton, Dolly Mitchell, Sadie Shea, Margaret Daley, Irene Stockdale, Rose Derosier, Parmelia Derosier, Mrs. Richard Schneider, Miss Frieda Dempsey and Miss Rose Dempsey. The bride-to-be received many useful and beautiful gifts.

Gyro-Camera

One of the disadvantages of the film camera is that the scenes have to be arranged and photographed in stages, as up to the present no device has been produced which would enable the operator to follow, say, an actress from room to room, filming as he walked. It has nearly always been necessary to use a tripod.

But now an English firm has produced what the writer calls a gyro-camera, which is an ordinary film camera with a gyroscope incorporated. This makes it possible to carry the camera and take films while walking, and without imparting to them flicker due to swaying as the operator walks.

The gyroscope is stopped and started by electrical means, and actuated by a press-button.

WEDDING
DeSario-Malerba

At St. Patrick's church, Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock, in the presence of over 300 relatives and friends Miss Mary Malerba, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Malerba of No. 20 Oak street and Artigleo DeSario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfonso DeSario of Staten Island, N. Y., were united in marriage by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael H. May, who celebrated the high mass. The alter was very beautifully decorated with gladioli and spreading palms. Henry J. LaFontaine had charge of the music.

Mrs. Minnie Lafarto of Staten Island was the matron of honor and the Misses Eleanor Calderola, Annie Calderola, Frances Malerba and Teresa Del Re were the bridesmaids. Antonio Fiore was the best man. Rose Fiore was the flower girl and the ring bearer was Jack Malerba. The bride was charming in a gown of white georgette beaded with rhinestones, with a tulle veil, caught up with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses, carnations and lilies of the valley. The matron of honor was gowned in beaded and embroidered pink georgette and carried ophelia roses and carnations. Miss Eleanor Calderola wore peach taffeta, Miss Annie Calderola, sea blue taffeta, Miss Del Re, yellow georgette and Miss Malerba, pink georgette. All carried shower bouquets of asters.

After the wedding ceremony there was a breakfast at the home of the bride's parents No. 20 Oak street and in the evening there was a reception and dance at Olympic hall. Malerba's orchestra furnished the music for the dancing. Later in the week Mr. and Mrs. DeSario will leave for a wedding trip after which they will make their home on Staten Island, where the groom is in the coal business. The bride received numerous beautiful and useful wedding gifts. The floral decorations for the wedding were by Hawkins, the florist.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sforza, Paul Peligrino, Benedetto Gesmundo, Mike Albanese, of Harrison, N. Y., and Mr. and Mrs. Tony Fiore and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Fiore of Staten Island.

FUNERAL
Dr. John F. Corcoran

The funeral of Dr. John F. Corcoran of Braddock, Pa., who died at Atlantic city, was held from the home of his father, Jeremiah Corcoran, Clairmount avenue at 8.15 o'clock Wednesday morning. At 9 o'clock there was a solemn high requiem mass at St. Mary's Memorial church. There was a very large attendance of relatives and friends and a wealth of very beautiful flowers.

Rev. Charles Corcoran, cousin of the deceased, was the celebrant of the mass, Rev. William A. Keefe, pastor of St. Mary's church was the deacon, and Rev. Frederick M. Coholan was the sub-deacon. Mrs. M. J. Farrell presided at the organ and played Chopin's funeral march as the body was carried into the church. At the offertory Mrs. Farrell sang Pie Jesu and for the waiting hymn she sang Our Lady Della Strada.

The bearers were Dr. John W. Callahan, Dr. Paul F. Gadle, Frank Donnelly, John Kelley, Luke Riley, all of Norwich and James Ryan of Pawtucket, R. I. Burial was in the family plot in St. Joseph's cemetery. Undertakers Shea and Burke had charge of the funeral arrangements.

HARTFORD CHURCH INVITES NEXT BAPTIST CONVENTION

An invitation extended by the Central Baptist church of Hartford to hold the 1927 state convention there was accepted by the Connecticut Baptist convention on Thursday, the closing day of the 103rd annual meeting, held with Union Baptist church, Mystic.

Rev. B. N. Tumble of Meriden was elected president of the Connecticut Baptist Educational society at a meeting in the morning.

Other officers elected were: First vice-president, Dr. H. N. Thompson, Stonington; second vice-president, the Rev. J. C. Osborne, Danbury; secretary, E. E. Sundt, South Willington; treasurer, Chapel S. Carter, Ansonia; auditor, J. Buckley, Ansonia; trustees, Professor Kenneth Latourette, New Haven; Curtis Gladding, Hartford; the Rev. Ellis Gilbert, West Hartford; Dr. J. N. Hackey, Hartford, and Miss Edith King.

The conference came to a close with an afternoon and evening session.

At the afternoon session, the committee on proposed changes in the time of meeting of the association and the date of the convention, recommended that article one of the by-laws be amended to read:

"That the annual meeting of the convention be held the first Tuesday following the second Wednesday in May."

The question was finally left to the board of managers to decide the time of meeting best suited.

Rev. E. T. Tomlinson, of New York, spoke at the afternoon session in "the ministers and missionaries' benefit board," and Rev. Ellis Gilbert, of West Hartford, took "law enforcement" for his subject.

Rev. P. F. Wolfenden, of Bristol, reported for the committee on evangelism and appointments to the state young peoples' council were made for the several associations as follows:

Ashford association—Meriam Packer, of Mansfield; Amasa Pierce, of Danielson.

Fairfield association—Alice Anderson, of Bridgeport; Eugenia Prior, of Stamford.

Hartford association—Clinton Jackson of West Hartford; Ida M. Lackey, of Hartford.

New Haven association—Elsie Root, of Meriden; Clarence Umberger, of New Haven.

New London association—Ruth Sellew, of New London; Mervin Loffingwell, of Norwich.

Stonington Union association—Jean Bentley, of Noank; Mabel Frink, of Jewett City.

A ministerial conference was led by Rev. D. A. Pitt, of Norwich and the subject of "evangelism" was considered.

Rev. Harold B. Camp, of New Haven, was the speaker at the evening session, his subject being "What are the [illegible]?"

TESTIMONY ABOUT SIDEWALK IN WOMAN'S $15,000 SUIT AGAINST CITY

Trial of the $15,000 damage suit against the City of Norwich, brought by Mrs. Elizabeth Jennes of this city as the result of a fall on Summit St., December 24, 1924, was started in the superior court before Judge Newell Jennings at New London Wednesday morning. The trial occupied the entire day and when court adjourned late in the afternoon the defense was still introducing testimony.

Samuel Jennes, son of the plaintiff, was the first witness. He testified that on December 24th, 1924, there was hard ice on the walk and had been for some days. There was also snow on the walk.

Dr. N. B. Lewis of this city testified that the plaintiff received a dislocated shoulder and that he had attended her for four or five weeks.

Don Houghton, Norwich X-ray expert, showed X-ray pictures of Mrs. Jennes' shoulders taken December 25, 1924, March 4, 1926 and April 27, 1925.

Dr. David Susler testified that he has attended Mrs. Jennes since March 11, 1925. He stated that due to her condition and the fact that she had diabetes it was impossible to reset the shoulder permanently. He stated that she will always have 75 per cent incapacity of her arm.

Samuel J. Schwartzburg testified to the condition of the walk which he said was in a slippery condition, before the accident and during all that winter. There was four inches of packed snow and ice on the walk, he testified.

Jacob Crumb, Edith Jennes and Meyer Blumenthal testified along similar lines.

Michael J. Donovan testified that on the morning of the 24th of December there was a drizzling rain which froze and the walk was glare ice. He used the walk daily and couldn't remember any trouble walking on the walk December 23rd. The same condition prevailed a week previous, he testified.

Dorothy Jennes, Mrs. Rose Boyer and Roy Jennes all testified as to the condition of the walk on December 24, 1924.

The plaintiff, Mrs. Elizabeth Jennes was then called to the stand. She testified that she left the house about 7.30 o'clock that morning and went to Alofsin's store to make some purchases. On the way down she was holding onto the fence because of the slippery condition of the sidewalk. Going back home she slipped on Summit street near a telegraph pole, nearly in the rear of Mt. Calvary Baptist church. She testified that she hurt her arm and has not been able to use it since.

The defense witnesses then took the stand. H. B. Wightman, civil engineer, testified as to the condition of the walk on January 6, 1925. On that date he visited the location and took a picture. He testified as to the grade of the sidewalk and street.

William H. Callahan of the Norwich water department, testified as to the rainfall during the month of December, 1924. He testified as to the records of the water board which showed no snow fell during the month up to December 24th.

At this point court adjourned for the day to come in again this (Thursday) morning when trial of the case will be continued.

MAKES UNIQUE RECORD WRITING LIFE INSURANCE

All records since the New England Mutual Life Insurance office was first opened in Norwich in 1845 by Thomas Robinson, have been broken by the present district manager, Louis M. Crandall. At the present time he is holding 49th position among the company's agents in America. Three weeks ago Crandall celebrated his 208th consecutive week, four years on the state honor roll, having written each week during the four years from one to eleven applications representing a volume of paid-for business each week of from $1,000 to $70,000. The company bulletin has the following to say of his record:

"Four consecutive years for Crandall. The pilot is delighted to join "L. M." Crandall of Norwich, Conn., in celebrating, with two cases for $10,000, the completion of four years of consecutive weekly production. We congratulate him on his record, and on the increased volume with binding receipts. Business sold on the cash basis is really "sold". May the good work continue and may the people of Norwich grow in appreciation of the service Crandall is rendering them through extending New England coverage."

After school was dismissed two weeks ago Monday "L. M." worked hard until the chamber of commerce dinner and when that was over he continued his work until 2 o'clock Tuesday morning, mailing a report to Hartford of five policies delivered totalling $26,500 and two new policies written for $12,000 as a starter for the first week of the fifth year of his efforts to maintain the continuous weekly production record.

His best month's production was $105,000 in the month of June. An especially interesting part of Crandall's record for this year is the fact that he has so systematized and arranged his work that for a period of five months every call that he made resulted in finding the party in when called upon, getting the application signed and the applicant examined, and in most cases the first premium deposit, all on the first call. Statistics show that an average of 25 calls is made to secure an application by agents in all parts of the United States. Mr. Crandall's average has been four applications out of five calls until he tried this special test.

"L. M." states that whatever success he has made in the insurance business has been in a large measure due to the helpfulness of friends and fellow members of the Hartford Advertising club, Connecticut Underwriters, Lions club, teaching and fraternal organizations and members of the Building and Loan association of which Mr. Crandall is a director."

MRS. MARION E. DAKIN SPEAKS TO G. & E. CLASS

The lecture room at the Norwich gas and electric department building was well filled Wednesday afternoon, when the state nutrition specialist, Mrs. Marion E. Dakin, from Storrs college, was the speaker. This was a surprise lesson arranged by the regular home service expert, Miss Gladys L. Peckham, who is at Philadelphia attending the convention of the National Gas association.

Mrs. Dakin's topic was "Diet For Weight." She considered the various properties of food and the effect of different foods, in lessening or adding to the weight of the body. A portion of her instructive talk was devoted to diet for children.

At the close of the formal lecture she answered a number of questions from members of the assembled class, later conferring with individual members, who waited to consult with her.

The machine was brought back to the city by a wrecker, having the right rear wheel broken.

DR. GULLIVER'S GRANDSON TO WED PORTLAND GIRL

Of a grandson of Rev. Dr. John Gulliver, for many years a pastor of Broadway Congregational church, Norwich, a New York paper says:

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Porter of Portland, Conn., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Eugenia Barnard Porter, to Ashbel Green Gulliver of New York. Miss Porter attended the Ethel Walker school at Simsbury, and for five years has been studying music at the David Mannes Music school in New York and at Ecola Normale re Musique de Paris.

Mr. Gulliver is the son of Mrs. William C. Gulliver of 1148 Fifth avenue, New York. He attended Groton school and was graduated from Yale in 1919 and from Yale Law school in 1922. He is a member of Wolf's Head. During the war he served as second lieutenant of field artillery. He is at present practicing law in the office of Alexander & Green, 120 Broadway, of which firm his father, the late William C. Gulliver and his grandfather, the late Judge Ashbel Green, were members. Mr. Gulliver is a brother of Mrs. Charles Sheldon of Washington D. C., who was married in New York, May 12, 1909.

The young man is a cousin of the members of the Gulliver family of Norwich Town.

RECEIVED MANY GIFTS AT SURPRISE SHOWER

Tuesday evening about forty relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morris J. Anderson of 78 McKinley avenue, where a miscellaneous shower was given Mrs. Anderson's sister, Miss Alice M. Ager in honor of her approaching marriage to J. Elliott Ames of Norwich Town. The affair proved a total surprise to the young couple as they entered the double living rooms where the guests awaited their arrival. Immediately they were seated in the dining room beneath a magnificent arch made of autumn leaves, hyderangea, zinnias, marigolds, with burnt orange crepe paper to carry out the color scheme.

Games were enjoyed and an exhibition of the Charleston was given by Miss Charlotte Albertine of Jewett City, who wore an orange crepe paper dress trimmed with autumn leaves. The bride-to-be received a large hope chest which was filled with many beautiful presents which included linen, cut glass, silver, aluminum and pyrex wear, pictures, a clock, a new rag carpet made by Miss Ayer's grandmother and several checks and gold pieces. A wash tub filled with kitchen utensils completed the shower.

Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. B. W. Albertine, Miss Delsie Ames and Mr. McDevitt.

AMNESIA VICTIM IS IDENTIFIED BY HUSBAND

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Identification of a woman found wandering in Baltimore last night, unable to tell her name, as Mrs. Edward C. Cavanaugh was confirmed this afternoon by her husband who went to her bedside in City hospital.

The identification first was made through the mother superior of the Academy of the Holy Name in Baltic, Conn., on the basis of information contained in an Associated Press dispatch. Formerly a trained nurse of Hartford, Conn., Mrs. Cavanaugh is now a resident of Baltimore. Her husband said she disappeared from her home early yesterday.

Mrs. Cavanaugh formerly resided at Quaker Hill, Waterford, and at Hartford and when she was first taken in charge by the Baltimore authorities two addresses that were found helped in the identification.

Two connecticut addresses, one with the name of a nun attached, led police to query authorities in cities of that state. "Mother M. Francis, the Academy, Baltic, Conn.," and "Hartford, Conn.," were inscriptions found in the woman's billfold. Once during quizzing by police matrons she mentioned the name "Cavanaugh." A baby's ring with the initial "C." also was found among her effects, together with Catholic medals and a rosary.

At Quaker Hill it was learned on Wednesday that Mrs. Cavanaugh came to that place in 1919 with her husband who was agent for the Tide Water Sales Co., at Quaker Hill until August 1, 1925. The couple had one daughter, Paula, who attended the Academy of the Holy Family at Baltic. The daughter is now about 14 years old.

The mother superior of the Academy of the Holy Family at Baltic stated Wednesday that there is little doubt but that the woman at Baltimore is Mrs. Cavanaugh, a trained nurse, whose daughter, Paula, was a pupil at the academy.

Mrs. Cavanaugh left Hartford on August 1 with her 14-year-old daughter to join her husband in Baltimore. The proprietor of the boarding house declared that Mrs. Cavanaugh was suffering from nervous disorders as a result of domestic difficulties with her husband, with whom she had been living only intermittently for the last year. According to the informant, Mrs. Cavanaugh probably left her husband's home in a worried condition after several meetings of unpleasant attempts at amicable settlements with him.

Mrs. Cavanaugh has a sister in Torrington, and a brother in Baltimore and another brother, Arthur Donohue of this city. Before coming to Connecticut, she had been a nurse in a Catholic hospital in Maine.

On Mohawk Trail Trip

The office force of the Carpenter Manufacturing Co. left the city early Wednesday morning for a trip over the Mohawk Trail as guests of C. Edward Carpenter. They were to have breakfast in Williamstic, and dinner at a well known inn on the trail, completing the trip so as to reach home by night. The trip was made in two automobiles.

The Norwich Delphian chapter is to begin its season with a meeting Saturday at the home of Mrs. Edward D. Fuller, on Broadway.

Mrs. Burrill A. Herrick of Providence a former resident of Laurel Hill avenue, is being entertained by Stonington relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred N. H. Vaughn of Rockwell Terrace have as their guest the latter's sister, Mrs. John J. Crawford, of Mt. Vernon.

Mrs. Benjamin W. Bacon of New Haven and Mrs. Alfred Lawrence Aiken, of New York will arrive in town today (Thursday) for a visit at the home of the former's father, Gen. William A. Aiken.

The second meeting of the Study club for the season is to be held the coming Monday. The opening meeting was with Miss Alf Stephens, at Pinehurst, when the afternoon's program was provided by Mrs. Wallace S. Allis and Miss Amy L. Cockswell.

Parlor Becomes Garage

In London a resident of Muswell Hill found himself with a 12-room house on his hands but no garage and no place on his lot on which to build one. The house had a wide front, and one side constituted the morning parlor while the other was a drawing room. He remodeled the front, building an artistic gateway and turned what had been his parlor into a garage. The large windows were converted into garage doors so that the general effect of the front of the house is not seriously disturbed and his garage is not only handy but adequate.

YOUR SICK CHILD IS CONSTIPATED! LOOK AT TONGUE

Hurry, Mother! Remove poisons from little stomach, liver, bowels

Give "California Fig Syrup" if cross, bilious or feverish

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, can't sleep, eating and acting naturally, Mother! see at once if the little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad, or has colic, diarrhoea, sore throat, full cold, tongue coated, or you don't know what is wrong, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" and then don't worry. In a few hours you will see how thoroughly it works the poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well and playful child again.

Mothers can rest after they have given "California Fig Syrup" because they know it never fails. Millions of mothers keep it handy because one spoonful now saves a sick child later. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Remember, genuine must say "California." Refuse any imitation with contempt.

WILLS REALIZES HE IS THROUGH AS RING WARRIOR; SHARKEY AFTER TUNNEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 13—(AP)—Jack Sharkey of Boston tonight sat on the doorstep of fistic fame as Harry Wills passed into the background of the heavyweight picture with ring earnings estimated by boxing men as nearing half a million dollars.

"I guess I'm through," the big sweedeore said, blaming his unexpected defeat last night by Sharkey on a strained back coupled with his long absence from the ring. But his friends pointed to the fact he would be able to retire as the second richest man in American pugilism, yielding only to Jack Dempsey in the matter of accumulated wealth.

For what was probably his last ring bout, the Senegambian received $90,000, slightly more than twice the purse of his conqueror, Sharkey. Total receipts of the fight were announced today as $133,514.70, a record gate for Ebbets field, scene of the contest.

The defeat of Wills today had elevated Sharkey to a place alongside Jack Dempsey, the dethroned champion, who says he still entertains hopes of regaining the scepter, and Tex Delaney of Bridgeport, Conn., new light-heavyweight title-holder.

At least Humbert J. Fungazi who promoted the Sharkey-Wills bout today so viewed the situation, announcing he would bend efforts towards bringing Delaney and the Boston fighter together in his next big fistic venture.

"I have Sharkey signed for two more battles," he said, "and in one of these I expect to send him against Delaney. The latter has promised to give all his future New York bouts under my management, but I probably will have to wait until next May to stage the match in one of the big baseball parks."

Sharkey, however, will go spanning for Tunney immediately.

BOXING SHOWS AT WESTERLY THIS SEASON

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Oct. 13—To ease the minds and answer the questions of many hundred local and out of town boxing fans the committee on boxing at the Lorraine Community club announce their opening show on Tuesday, October 26th.

Matchmaker Phil Fortin has rounded up some of the boys but he is not quite ready to tell the fans the lineup although it is rumored that the local boy Jim Ross will meet Shatraw of the Sub Base who still holds the welterweight championship of that locality. Jim met the sailor last April but the question was not settled due to an accident in the second round when Shatraw sprained a ligament in his shoulder. But now that the shoulder is all better the old timers are hoping the match matures.

All boxers or managers interested in showing their wares will get in touch with Matchmaker Phil Fortin at 15 Wilford Court, Westerly. Phone 2475.

CLOSE RACING FEATURES SECOND DAY AT STAFFORD

(Special to The Bulletin)

STAFFORD SPRINGS, Oct. 13—Close finishes and straight heat wins featured the racing card of the second day of the Stafford Fair held here this afternoon. The 2.11 trot was the feature of the afternoon going four heats before Herbelwin nosed out J. B. X. and Brandywine for first money. The first three heats were close brushes between Herbelwin and J. B. X., the latter winning the first heat and the former the next two. In the final heat J. B. X. had apparently used up all the speed and finished fourth.

Minnie Edwards took the 2.14 pace in straight heats although hard pressed by Peter Taggert in the last half-mile in each heat. Hyde drove Gladys Axworthy to a straight heat win in the 2.20 trot with Walter Hermit taking second place each time. The summaries:

McCLUGGAGE, ACAD. FOOTBALL PLAYER HAS APPENDICITIS

Everett McCluggage of Lisbon, one of the most promising of the Academy linemen, is lost to the team for this season owning to an acute attack of appendicitis for which he underwent an operation at the Backus hospital on Wednesday afternoon. McCluggage complained of sharp pains in his side shortly before practice Wednesday and was immediately rushed to the hospital where it was found he was suffering from acute appendicitis and an operation was immediately performed.

It was found that he had suffered a rupture of the appendix and late Wednesday evening he was resting as comfortably as could be expected. McCluggage was one of the most promising of the Academy linemen and had been playing a hard game and brilliant game. In the East Greenwich game on Saturday he looked exceptionally good. He has been playing at guard but during the past few practice sessions and on Saturday he played a part of the game at a wing position. The Academy team will feel the loss of McCluggage greatly as he was a strong defense man.

FAIR STAR HAS EASY TIME IN LAUREL FEATURE

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Fair Star, racing in the colors of the Foxcatcher farms, made a runaway of the Fairfax handicap for two-year-olds, feature of a card at Laurel today that brought thrills and heavy winnings to the players of long chances. The star was breaking on top, kept the lead throughout the mile run and had no trouble beating Buddie Bauer to the wire in 1:38 2-5. Bostonian was third. Backers who saw a bunch in the Fair Star, Foxcatcher, and Fairfax, were rewarded at the rate of $11.10 per $2 investment. Every winning horse at Laurel paid over 3 1-2 to 1 today.

Golden Prince stunned the Maryland gathering by returning $886.30 for a $2 par-mutual ticket in winning the third race at six furlongs for two year old colts and feldings. It was the highest price paid a winning horse's backers in many years in Maryland and shared the record of $306, set by High Star last season. Lansard, at 7 to 1, won the Kowanus claiming stake at Jamaica, feature of an ordinary card, galloping the mile and a sixteenth in 1:45 4-5. Endor was second and Buck Harris third. Laura Dilanti and Sells, favorites, finished in the ruck.

VETERAN TRAINER RECALLS MANY FAMOUS STARS

AMHERST, Mass., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Dwight "Doc" Newport dug into his memories today, when told that Frank Sheehan of Cornell had been training the Red and White athletes for 29 years to find he had handled Amherst athletes for 38 years, said to be a record for such service at one institution.

President Coolidge who was graduated in the class of '95, came out of "Doc's" memories as "an unusually silent spectator" at Amherst's athletic contests while he was a student at the college. A former star of the Purple's gridiron fondly recalled by the veteran trainer was Harlan Fiske Stone, a justice of the supreme court. Justice Stone played guard on the championship eleven at Amherst in 1895.

Alfred E. Stearns, head master of Andover academy, was credited today by "Doc" as having been one of Amherst's hardest hitting and best second basemen in the history of the college's baseball.

CALDWELL OUT OF GAME WITH A SPRAINED ANKLE

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 13—(AP)—Bruce Caldwell, Yale's star halfback, sprained his ankle in scrimmage here this afternoon and his place in the first eleven was taken by Larry Noble. In both of Yale's games this season, Caldwell has been the outstanding figure and the most consistent ground gainer and forward passer. It is not definitely known whether the sprain is serious enough to keep him out of the Dartmouth game Saturday.

The Dartmouth team will leave Hanover Thursday night, reaching here Friday morning. Headquarters will be established at the Hotel Clark in Derby. Dartmouth will practice in the bowl for two hours Friday afternoon.

Many Dartmouth graduates are expected to attend a re-union here Friday night and following the game on Saturday the members of the Dartmouth team will be given a dinner by the alumni.

While a record early season crowd is expected at the Dartmouth game, it is now assured that the bowl will be filled for the Army game October 30. Every one of the 78,000 seats has been ordered, it was announced tonight by the Yale athletic association and there will be no public sale for that game.

WINDHAM AND PLAINFIELD IN CLASH SATURDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 13—Getting into trim in an effort to prove more than a match for the Plainfield high school gridiron eleven when they play at Recreation park here Saturday afternoon, is considered no small job by the Windham high pigskinites. Coach Thomas A. Callaghan anticipates a fast contest and he had been drilling his team through a program of dummy tackling, signal practice and hard scrimmage. It's business every minute in preparation for the game.

Windham has started out to continue its remarkable undefeated record of three past seasons and with this as a precedent the mentor and his men are being cautious. The first team will enter the field against Plainfield. It is doubtful, however, whether "Lorrie" Haggerty, who sustained injuries in the Westerly game last Friday, will be one of the players or not.

ST. LOUIS PLAYERS MAY BE GUESTS OF TOMMY CORCORAN

Within the next few weeks baseball fans of eastern Connecticut may get a glimpse of a number of the players of the Cardinals, world's series baseball champions as they roam through the woods in this section of the state. It is reported from Voluntown that a party of ball players, including a number of the Cards will be the guests of Tommy Corcoran, veteran leaguer and umpire at his farm in Voluntown for a few days hunting trip. Tommy was one of the fastest shortstops that ever drove a spike into a diamond or snagged a hot one over second. He keeps in touch with the big league teams and when officiating in the Southern association as an umpire met many of the boys that are under the big tent today.

LOCAL BOY GETS TOUGH BREAK AT PORT CHESTER

After training faithfuly for several months in preparation for the New York-Port Chester marathon which was held Tuesday Alex Charnetski, local boy lost an opportunity to run in this noted classic when he was not permitted to run by the examining physician. Each runner was given a thorough physical examination before the race and Charnetski was one of 13 or 15 to be barred because of not measuring up to what the physicians considered as physically fit. The intensive training by Charnetski for the run is thought to have weakened him more than he suspected. The local boy pleaded to be allowed to run but in vain and he had to watch the race as a spectator. It was a hard blow to the local boy and Alex has the sympathy of many frends.

ACADEMY TEAM WILL SEE YALE-DARTMOUTH GAME

The members of the Academy football team will attend the Yale-Dartmouth game at New Haven on Saturday through the courtesy of local people who will take the boys to the game by automobile. The object of this visit aside from the pleasure of seeing the game is for the Academy players to get an idea how the game is played on college gridirons.

Friday the squad clashes with the Westerly high team at Westerly in what is expected to be a real test of the Academy football strength. Last Saturday Westerly was beaten by the Windham high team by one lone touchdown which in itself proves that Westerly is no easy opponent.

REILLY WILL MANAGE DELANEY FOR THREE YEARS

NEW YORK, Oct. 13—(AP)—A contract under which Pete Reilly of Bridgeport, Conn., will continue as manager of Jack Delaney, world's light-heavyweight champion, for three more years was filed with the New York state athletic commission today.

As he appeared before the board, Reilly announced that Delaney's objective this winter would be a fight with Gene Tunney. To strengthen his position as challenger, Delaney stood ready to engage Harry Wills, Jack Dempsey or Jack Sharkey, Reilly said.

FIRST PENALTY IN 300 MILE RACE INFLICTED

BRANDON, Vt., Oct. 13.—(AP)— The first penalty for late arrival in the eighth annual saddle horse endurance ride was inflicted today during the third 60 miles of the 300 mile ride. Dolly, entered by Battery A., 15th field artillery, went three miles off the road when Sergeant Yarronski, her rider, lost his way, and came in 21 minutes over the nine hours allotted for each day's ride. The overtime cost her three points.

The other eight horses of an original field of 14 starters finished on time and in good condition.

GEO. BURNS CHOSEN MOST VALUABLE PLAYER IN THE AMERICAN LEAGUE

CHICAGO Oct. 14—(AP)—George Burns, first baseman of the Cleveland baseball team of the American league was designated today as the most valuable player in the league during 1926.

A veteran of thirteen years of service in major league baseball Burns was practically the unanimous choice of the committee of eight baseball writers, who made the award. He obtained 63 points in the balloting out of a possible 64 for inclusion on the American league honor roll, where stand already the names of Cobb, Speaker, Collins, Sisler, Ruth, Johnson and Peckinpaugh.

Second, but with scarcely half as many votes as Burns the award committee placed Johnny Mostil, centerfielder of the Chicago White-Sox, with 33 votes, while only one vote behind him ran Herb Pennock, pitcher for the New York Yankees.

Burns capped his brilliant 1926 performance with a major league record for two base hits, knocking out 64 to break the mark formerly held by Tris Speaker, his team's manager. He batted .358 in 151 games, and had three triples and four home runs among 216 hits for a total of 298 bases. He batted in 114 runs, ranking second to Ruth; took part in 122 double plays, and had 1,499 put outs, 99 assists, and but 19 errors. He scored 97 runs himself.

The Cleveland first sacker broke into the American league with Detroit in 1913, served two years with Philadelphia and went to Cleveland, which sent him to Boston but got him back in 1924.

For six years he has batted well over .300, his best mark being .361 in 1921.

Pecknpaug won the honor last year with 45 points. The only player ever to be the unanmous choice for the honor was Ruth, chose in 1923.

Twenty players were named in the balloting, in which playing managers and players already chosen for the "Hall of Fame' are not eligible to consideration.

The results of the voting follows: George Burns, first, Cleveland 63.

John Mostil, centerfield, Chicago 33.

Herb Pennock, pitcher, New York 32.

E. C. (Sam) Rice, centerfield, Washington 18.

Harry Hellmann, centerfield, Detroit 16.

Henry Manush, outfielder, Detroit 16.

Al Simmons, outfield, Philadelphia 16.

Robert Grove, pitcher, Philadelphia 12.

Leon Goslin, outfield, Washington 9.

Henry (Lou) Gehrig, first baseman, New York 7.

Tony Lazzeri, second base, New York 7.

Bib Falk, outfield, Chicago 6.

Robert Fothergill, outfield, Detroit 6.

Oscar Melillo, second base, St. Louis 6.

Henry Rice, outfield, St. Louis 6.

Oswald Bluege, third base, Washington 5.

Phillip Todt, first base, Boston 5.

Gordon Cochrane, catcher, Philadelphia 4.

Joseph Judge, first base, Washington 4.

Martin McManus, second base, St. Louis 4.

Robert Meusel, outfield, New York 3.

Emory Rigney, shortstop, Boston 3.

Ira Flagstead, outfield, Boston 2.

Walter Gerber, shortstop, St. Louis 2.

John Titcher, St. Louis 2.

William Jacobson, outfield, Boston 1.

TULANE AND OHIO STATE SPEEDING TOWARD NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—(AP)—A green clad figure from the far south and a battering ram from the middle west, with a touch of scarlet in his football costume, loomed tonight as distinct menaces on the football horizon for two New York elevens Saturday.

Tulane university was moving north from New Orelans with Johnny Manville, a back with good control, prepared to attempt to throw bullet-like forward passes past the New York university secondary defense. At the same time Columbia university viewed with alarm the towering figures of Marty Karow, who showed a blue and white team one year ago how bucking can be utilized to the best advantage when Ohio State won at Columbus.

Coach Crowley of Columbia does not expect the Ohio State offense to be built about Karow's charging attack to the exclusion of the overhead game but the big Buckeye back's rushes are a threat that can not be ignored.

MOTHER OF ROGERS HORNSBY IS LAID TO REST

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 13.—(AP)—In a tiny graveyard tucked away in the bend of the Colorado river, tender hands late today laid to rest Mrs. M. D. Hornsby, mother of Rogers Hornsby, manager of the world's championship St. Louis Cardinals.

She died here Sept. 29, her last wish being that "her baby", Rogers, should stay with the Cardinals and lead them against the New York Yankees in the world's series. He consented to this only after relatives had agreed to defer the funeral until conclusion of the diamond classic.

At the brief services at the grave, Hornsby gave way to his grief. Tears streamed down his face, and the hands, which for six years swung the most feared bat in the National league, trembled.

CHINA'S CHILD WORKERS ORGANIZED INTO UNION

A unique labor union has been formed in China by representatives of the juvenile workers in Shanghai mills. About 20 representatives were present and were addressed by an old-time labor hand at one of the Japanese-owned cotton mills. Resolutions were adopted calling the union into existence and providing for the collection of 5c cents a month from each juvenile member. It was decided to press for a reduction of working hours for miners from 12 hours to 8 hours a day, and to work for increased pay and for schools which the youngsters may attend after their work day.

STATION WINDOW BROKEN NOT BY BOYS THIS TIME

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Oct. 13.—

Vandals have caused annoyance to New Haven railroad authorities by their breaking of glass at the Westerly waiting station of the New Haven road. Several weeks ago four panes were broken in the shelter at the west-bound tracks and railroad police were sent to Westerly from New London to investigate.

A repetition of broken window glass occurred Wednesday morning about 6:30 o'clock when the glass in the lower sash of the window between the ticket office and the east exit door from the main station was heard to crash as the thick pane fell on the station platform. Baggagemaster George Lamb found the exit-door sprawled on the station floor about twelve feet from the window, a young partridge. Undoubtedly the bird had heard that the law in Connecticut was off that day and speeding by the station veered into the window with disastrous results to both bird and window pane.

Capt. C. A. Kelley of the New Haven railroad police stopped off from New London and saw to it that the wreckage was cleared up and he personally to believes that other broken glass about the New Haven property was caused in the same manner.

A year or two ago a large plate glass window in the store of the Duff-Lowery company on High str et was broken by a projectile as it winged its way higher like out of Wilcox park and crashed through the window.

Recorded in the office of Westerly town clerk are the following transfers: June 11, Charles P. Champlin to George G. Kenyon, two certain lots of land, one of 1,500 square feet, and the other of 800 square feet both on the east side of Rock street.

Harison Kinnear to Louis Pendleton et ux lots on the south side of Dover street and Nos. 270 and 274 Prospect [illegible] street.

[illegible] to Salvatore [illegible] lot on the west side of Pond and Pierce streets.

Harmonious and devoid of contests was the Rhode Island republican state convention in Elks auditorium, Providence, today for the purpose of nominating state officers and representatives to congress from the three Rhode Island congressional districts. The district convention held following the state convention adjournment. Present from Westerly at the state convention and the second district convention were the following delegates: Mrs. Edris T. Dutson, John D. Nichols, Farquhar Smith, Clifford W. Campbell, Mrs. Isabelle C. Chapman and Herbert P. Clark, alternate for Samuel H. Davis, who was in New York city.

Samuel H. Davis and Mrs. Isabelle C. Chapman were the names presented for Westerly members of the Republican State Central committee by Clifford W. Campbell, in the roll call of cities and town, as the unanimous choice of the Westerly delegates.

At the second district convention Richard E. Aldrich of Providence, a summer visitor at Watch Hill, was named by Roy Rawling of the town of Richmond.

LIGHTNING CAUSES HAVOC DURING EVENING STORM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 13.—Lightning striking the large elm near Pawcatuck river bridge, in the front yard of the People's Mission, 25 West Broad street, tonight, scattered a barrage of fire and broken limbs a hundred feet in all directions. Twenty-six panes of glass were broken in the front windows of the mission and the yard was covered with broken wood and leaves.

In the Silverstein block adjoining, windows were broken, Lewis Silverstein who was sitting at the window, suffered from shock. A four foot section of a limb was hurled across the street, striking the forward left fender of the Hudson car in which was seated Joseph Monte, the owner, who escaped injury. The car was damaged, a big dent being made in the hood.

Canned goods were hurled from the shelf, of the Economy store in the building adjoining the mission. The bolt apparently struck near the top of the tree and followed down a large limb splintering it and throwing wood in all directions.

In the barber shop of LaPere and Montalto, on the second floor in the next building a clock was stopped at [illegible]. Occupants of the barber chairs hastily left their seats figuring that they had had all the close shaves they needed for one night.

Some witnesses described whirling balls of fire which crashed to the ground at the time of a loud peal of thunder. Pedestrians on the sidewalk sought shelter in doorways. There was a sudden heavy downpour of rain.

On High street in Westerly 16 transformers were burned out and many stores and offices were without lights. The storm did not last more than 10 or 15 minutes.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINEES TOWN COMMITTEE'S SLATE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Oct. 13.—Democratic nominees for senator and representatives from the first and second districts of Westerly, as announced by Joseph P. Montague, secretary of the democratic town committee, are:

Senator—Barnard J. Christy of 9 York avenue; representatives—District 1—John El McHale, White Rock, and district 2, Thomas V. B. Clancy, party leader of Westerly. The slate was named by the town committee.

This action follows the vote of the Westerly democratic caucus of last Friday night and the names by law had to be in the hands of the Rhode Island secretary of state on Wednesday by midnight.

A definite campaign for Pawcatuck World war veterans' memorial, a design of which has been accepted, is anticipated after a meeting of the joint memorial committee of Harley P. Chase Post, V. of F. W., and the Pawcatuck Board of Trade, which was held in Veterans hall, Pawcatuck, Wednesday night.

Elvin B. Byers, chairman of the Harley P. Chase Post committee, had charge of the meeting in the absence of Admiral Herbert O. Dunn, general chairman of both committees, who has left Westerly for a trip to Florida.

At annual session of past Rhode Island councilors of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, held Tuesday in East Providence, Edwin H. Blackler of Westerly from Hope council, No. 6, J. O. U. A. M., was elected Rhode Island state councilor. There were also a number of other Westerly members of the order to receive state offices at this meeting at which there was an attendance of more than 150 to vote to hold the Rhode Island state convention next year at Westerly. Eighteen new past councilors were admitted.

It was an all day session that lasted from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. In addition to Mr. Blacker, ho now holds the highest position in the state, the other officers were chosen as follows: Albert Germeuhausen of Providence, state vice councilor; George E. Harvey, Wakefield, state secretary; Henry F. Sweetland, Ekonk, state treasurer; Fred Rogers, of Woonsocket, state conductor; John Bosworth of Providence, state warden; Victor F. Leach, Pawtucket, state inside sentinel; Charles Chappell, Jr., Ashaway, state outside sentinel; Pardon H. Cranston, Providence, state chaplain; Henry W. Sutcliffe, Westerly; national representative for four years; William H. Gardiner, Providence, chief organizer; Jason P. Salisbury, Providence, editor for "American" and publicity committee; Everett C. Lawton, Westerly, state judiciary committee; Henry H. Potter, Westerly, chairman of credentials committee.

Improvements are progressing about the town of Westerly school property corner of High and Pleasant streets. The new cement walks have been laid and the work of regrading the school grounds in progressing shrubs are to be planted along the front walks and in the middle of the rear yard. This rear yard, which serves as a playground, is to be enclosed by a woven wire fence.

The second of the fall series. Dr. John Champlin, was the speaker, Wednesday, at the noon luncheon of the Westerly Lions club as chairman of the Rhode Island Public Welfare Commission, he told of the work that is being done in the various state institutions under the supervision of this body, including the state prison, Sockanossett school for boys, Oaklawn school for girls, the Exeter school and the State hospital.

Town Treasurer James M. Pendleton was in Providence Wednesday.

Henry D. Smith of Norwich was a motor visitor Columbus day with Westerly friends. His son Edward was the guest of friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar W. Chapman and Mr. and Mrs. James Spellman of Pawcatuck are on an automobile trip to Niagara Falls.

Rufus F. Stiles of Pawcatuck left Wednesday morning for Burlington, Vt., to be in attendance upon the Vermont Medical convention. Mr. Stiles has just returned to his Westerly home from the New England Welfare conference, held in Concord, N. H.

Mrs. Harriet M. Greene and son F. Stewart Greene, of Westerly who have passed the summer at Pleasant View, will leave for New York by the New London sound steamer the first of the week. Sick Children Love "Cascarets" For the Bowels

Give "Candy Cathartic" for a bad cold, sour stomach, constipation

Get a 10-cent box now.

Most of the ills of childhood are caused by a sour, disordered stomach, sluggish liver and constipated bowels. They catch cold easily, become cross, listless, irritable; feverish, restless, tongue coated, don't eat or sleep well and need a gentle cleansing of the bowels—but don't try to force a nauseating dose of oil into the little one's already sick stomach—it is cruel, needless and old-fashioned.

Any child will gladly take Cascarets Candy Cathartic which act gently—never gripe or produce the slightest uneasiness—though they cleanse the little one's system, sweeten the stomach and put the liver and bowels in a pure, healthy condition.

Full directions for children and grown-ups in each package.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this gentle, thorough laxative which costs only 10 cents a box at any drug store.

NOANK

Rain is badly needed in the village. Many cisterns and wells are dry. Because of the lack of rain people are carrying water from different places and the fire engine has been called out to fill cisterns at houses where water is needed. This is the worst dry spell the village has had in many years. It looks as though Noank would have to send after the man who can make it rain any time.

The old bridge near the casino at Groton Long Point is to be torn down. A new one will replace it. In the summer time a great deal of traffic goes over that bridge. The new bridge is to be wider so two automobiles can pass. The contract has not been let yet, but it is to be given out soon. The old bridge has been in use for ten years.

SEVERAL ADDED ATTRACTIONS FOR GOVERNOR'S DAY AT STAFFORD FAIR

(Special to the Bulletin)

STAFFORD SPRINGS, Oct. 13—There was an attendance of over 5,000 at the Stafford fair today, about half the number which attended the fair Tuesday. Today was known as Governor's day and Governor John H. Trumbull and staff were present, arriving at the fairgrounds about 2 o'clock and remaining for about two hours. The distinguished guests of the society were escorted to a special box in the grandstand by the New Departure band and the following fair officials, who acted as an official reception committee: President R. W. Smith, Vice President A. R. Mitchell and F. H. Baker, William G. Park and S. B. Sandford, members of the board of directors. Governor Trumbull was introduced to the fair audience by ex-senator William G. Park and made a brief speech. In view of the fact that the governor and his staff could not remain for the entire program a change was made in the program, the feature acts being staged while the governor's party remained in the stands.

Features of the fair today included the dog show, run under the auspices of the Stafford Springs Kennel club, 215 dogs being entered, many of them the best blooded dogs in their respective classes. Features at the show included Mr. Libby's prize chow. Mr. McElwin, winner at the sesqui-centennial show at Philadelphia and Mr. Gilbert's grand champion of Germany, Asta Von Bodnen, who held his championship for three years. The prizes in the show totalled $500 and a large silver cup, the offering of President Smith.

Another special feature was the cattle show and as an added attraction the 34 prize winning oxen were paraded in front of the grandstand for the entertainment of the distinguished guests of the society.

The exhibition halls and other attractions at the fair also drew large crowds and the fair attendance was fully as large as could be expected, being most pleasing to the officials of the society.

Police protection at the fairgrounds was given by members of the Hartford police department, the Springfield, Mass., police and the state police from the barracks at Stafford Springs.

DESCRIBES EXPERIENCES IN TORNADO AT MIAMI

The following letter received by Herbert W. Lucas from a friend in Miami gives a vivid description of experiences during the recent tornado there;

You have asked me to give you some description of this horrible and never-to-be-forgotten hurricane, and this I will endeavor to do as I have a few moments to spare; and if the account which I give seems disconnected and disjointed, please just charge it up to the after effects of the hurricane.

Of course we had received prognostications that a hurricane was due here—and especially in the vicinity of Key Largo—but very little attention was paid to the predicted tornado, as the last one they had in Florida (in July, you will remember, while I was in Memphis on my vacation), passed almost by Miami and everyone here seemed to think and feel that this again would be her (Miami's) fate. Well, to tell the truth, there is practically nothing one can do even though the hurricane was prophesied before hand. To go inside and under shelter and remain there is just about all the precautionary measures I can imagine one can take. Anyhow, Friday night, Sept. 17 (Oh, that memorable date—can I ever forget it!) Ida and I retired as usual, around 10 o'clock, realizing that a terrific gale was blowing outside and having in mind, too, that a hurricane was predicted. Strange to say, however, we neither of us felt much alarmed, even though the little lady in the apartment just across the way came repeatedly to our door and said, "Girls! Girls! Do not disrobe; the night is much too stormy to think of undressing and going to bed." We laughed at her and said we thought we were just as safe in one place as another anyway. The hours wore on. We realized that no sleep would we get, for the trees began crashing to the ground, windows began crashing in, signs (for we live in the uptown district) were being torn from their fastenings and blown hither and thither and the horrible sound of glass, glass, crashing everywhere could be heard all about us. About this time everybody in the third floor of the Saragossa (the apartment in which we live) began excitedly talking to everybody else, there was much running up and down the halls, whispered conversations and strange and weird sounds both inside and out. Finally the owner of the building came through the halls, bringing candles to all and urging in no uncertain voice the necessity of all arising at once and dressing as quickly as possible and going at once to the first floor, announcing that there was no water, no lights, and that there was immediate danger of fire. That's when I did get scared—when Mrs. Brown said, "Immediate danger of fire and no possible way to check it"—no water power, no lights, nothing but total darkness everywhere and this gale of 180 miles per hour blowing all the time. My dear, you will never know my feelings! Not a drop of water and not a light in the entire city.

Ida and I quickly donned our clothes and as quickly as possible went below, where all the guests in the apartment were assembled—huddled I should say—as quiet and startled as could be. A time like this certainly makes of us all brothers and sisters. I imagine if there was anyone there not on speaking terms with anyone else they then and there forgot all about it and all were of one accord in gratitude that thus far we had been spared.

(For the worst was yet to come—you doubtless know that we had two hurricanes—the second much more violent than the first and it was the second which took the awful toll of life and limb). Daylight, it seemed would never dawn. However, just about this time we could see out of the few windows left in the wrecked apartment that automobiles were being dashed about as if they were bits of paper, furniture of all kinds being hurled into the air and recklessly against anything that happened to be in its direct course. Some automobiles were being forced down the streets at a terrible rate of speed by the terrific wind. I cannot, with my meagre and limited vocabulary, find words to tell you of the horror, the helplessness, the terror of it all.

We remained on the lower floor of the apartment all the remainder of the night—not one of us scarcely speaking, and the windows on the second and third floors crashing and falling every second—plastering falling and the most terrible noise of wind and rain imaginable. Finally the back door on the first floor, which is of glass, blew out and the gust of wind and the splintering of glass sounded like a thousand hyenas turned loose. Such a sound you have never heard—horrible, horrible! Then the water (for the rain was pouring down in blinding torrents all the time) poured in a constant stream through the halls, into the rooms and everywhere. The men in the apartment nobly risked their lives, with plastering falling, glass crashing and debris of every kind being hurled all about them, trying to sweep the water out as fast as it came in, but all soon realized it was a useless—a hopeless undertaking. Now that the plastering on the second and third floors was crashing and falling, it looked as though the roof of the building would surely be lifted from the house. This did not happen, by nothing short of a miracle. The Saragossa is one of the good old apartments here, however, and was built splendidly, or she never would have remained as she did—with just windows and doors blown out by the force of the wind—the roof remaining on, the pieces of timber would occasionally fly in and crash windows and hit people without inflicting any terrible wounds as far as those in our particular apartment were concerned, but sad to say, this was not the fate of many others who received fatal injuries, and, in some instances, met death.

About 6 o'clock Saturday morning the wind began to subside and everything seemed real peaceful. I often have heard of a "lull after a storm," and I now know full well how to appreciate what it means. Oh, the delightful and blissful feeling that one has passed through it safely by the mercy of God—the wonderful security one feels and the relaxation of mind and body! Picture these things if you can. They were so wonderful and so blessed to all of us that I simply cannot resist mentioning how one feels when he has passed through such a harrowing experience.

All of us now began to look about and see the terrible havoc on all sides, and we did thank the dear God above us that He had so mercifully spared us. On all sides, on all hands by wreckage—roofs torn from buildings, from homes, automobiles driven into the bay, boats of every kind, large and small craft, helplessly washed ashore on their sides—big steel barges all along the bay front and in Royal Palm park; literally hundreds of little vessels all along the bay front—just everything to bring one to a full realization of the terrible devastation. One little boat had been just landed right in the Royal Palm park and placed there just as if nothing had ever happened. A sailor and his wife and little fox terrier were all safe, happy and rejoicing that the winds had blown them ashore and not even damaged their little craft. Hurricanes do some funny stunts—just literally destroy one fellow's property and leave untouched the next door neighbor.

Ida and I felt that we must hasten to the telegraph office and send word that we were safe (this was Saturday morning about 7 a. m., and before the second hurricane had swept the town). This we attempted to do, much to the horror of all, but we felt we must do it. Well, do it we must and so about 7 o'clock Saturday morning we sallied forth, headed for the Western Union Telegraph office to send a message of our safety to the home folks. The Western Union office, however, we never reached, but got as far as the Postal, where we rushed in and waited in line, the fury of the hurricane which we thought had abated being renewed every minute. Still we were hoping to get a message through. While we stood thus in line the velocity of the wind was increasing momentarily and the rain began pouring down in perfect sheets. We now began to realize that we were in immediate danger. Finally the young man took our message and by this time we were standing in water up to our ankles. The young man in charge of the office said he would try to get all messages through, but did not know when it would be possible to do so as all the wires were down. We were willing to take a chance on anything, for I knew my precious mother and family would be frantic, and Ida felt the same way. Well, we turned, hoping to start back to the apartment, but lo and behold, the police were on guard at the door and commanded all to stand back until a place of safety could be secured. We were scared to death. The water by this time was pouring in through the doors as if there had never been a window or door in the building; and truly now there were neither, the wind having swept them away. The water began pouring from above us, plastering falling, electric fixtures crashing to the floor and flames running up and down the wires which had connected the fixtures. Everybody was as still as death—not a word, not an outcry! All were speechless. Finally the policeman returned and took us to what is known as the Seibold Arcade in which is located Spears Candy Shop. There is a stairway right in the shop which leads to a sort of mezzanine floor above. Well, up on this mezzanine floor the policeman took us and commanded us to remain right there, not to move, and there we remained for four and one-half hours, with the fury of the gale increasing every minute, for it was on the second go-round of this horrible hurricane that the great toll of life was taken. After about four and one-half hours the rain ceased and the wind subsided so that we were allowed to depart; but it was hard business, for the water stood in the streets four to five feet deep. Ida and I waded up to our knees right in the heart of the city back to our apartment, and when we arrived there the cheerful announcement was made to us that everything we had had been destroyed by water, that the windows had all blown out and great pieces of timber from the roof next door had splintered glass everywhere. Little did we care! We were alive by the mercy of God, even if the little room and everything in it was destroyed.

Sunday Morning

We went to Trinity Methodist church, which is on Fourth street, just a short distance from us, as we are on Third arteet. There we learned of the proclamation by the mayor for all who possibly could to go to the McAllister hotel and offer assistance to the various committees which were being organized to do relief work. Finally Ida and I enlisted with the Red Cross and found plenty to do. We worked mostly at Trinity Church Emergency hospital and relief station, where they brought small children and homeless people, men, women and children who had been bereft of homes, and we did what we could in the way of nursing small babies and cleaning and making ready beds for persons who were prostrated from exposure and nervous exhaustion; but we did not treat surgical cases here, the McAllister hotel being the place for surgical cases, as well, of course, as all hospitals, which were crowded to overflowing, thus making it necessary that practically every church, school, hotel and public building be converted into emergency hospitals.

I simply cannot relate all the horrors, all the pitiful and heart-rending things that I witnessed, but today is sunshiny and people are going in and out, and optimism is in the air. You cannot imagine that people who have been rendered homeless, penniless, etc., could now smile and go about rebuilding their homes and doing everything to restore the damage which has here been done. It is predicted by many persons here that Miami will become a greater, a more beautiful and more prosperous and peaceful city than ever before; that the wonderful spirit manifested here by her people has proved beyond speculation that real moral fibre is inherent in the people composing the population and that they will go about re-establishing their "Magic City" with faith in the future.

I feel that it does not take war to develop heroes. There are thousands of them right here in Miami who have done what no soldier on the battlefield has done. Little children have overnight become men, as far as bearing responsibilities are concerned. One lad of whom I have personal knowledge rescued his four younger brothers and little wee baby sister and they were picked up and brought to Trinity church where their wounds were dressed and they were given food and clothing. They did not know where their parents were, but the little boy—Joe, the oldest of all, ten years old—tried in every way to keep his little brood from crying for their father and mother, telling them they would be there by night time. Night time came—no father, no mother. Then the heart of this brave ten-year old lad little Joe, gave down for the first time. He had gotten the baby sister to sleep, a task which she would permit no other human, nurse or other person, to perform. The little fellows who had been clinging to him all day, begging, "Joe, Joe, don't leave us, don't leave us," had fallen asleep from sheer exhaustion; but Joe remained awake, with the most thoughtful look I have ever seen upon the countenance of a ten-year old child. Every time a new person arrived, every time the least noise stirred upon the threshold, Joe was there to see if there could be news from mother and dad. None came, and finally his courageous heart broke and the first tears this little boy had shed began to course down his brave cheeks and he sobbed as if his little heart would break, for he had forced himself to believe that night time would bring mamma and papa home again. He refused to be comforted, and was allowed to weep alone as he requested. Finally a step was heard, and "Gang way! Gang way!" This time little Joe did not stir; he had lost all hope. But wonder of wonders! On the stretcher which was brought into the little church relief station was the injured mother of this little brood. Joe was quick to sense something in the air and quickly rushed to the side of the cot and there he found his precious mother, all injured and hurt, but smiling because she had been restored to her little ones. Also, the big manly father came, following in the wake of the Red Cross doctor and others, uninjured. It was my privilege to witness the reuniting of this family, though one of the children sustained a broken back from which it is doubtful if he will ever recover.

This is all. All, at least, I can write you. Just the reviewing of these things makes my heart bleed.

GIRLHOOD TO MOTHERHOOD

Iowa Woman Found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Always Helpful

Vinton, Iowa.—"When I was seventeen years old I had to stay at home from school. I finally had to quit school, I was so weak. I suffered for about two years before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, then I picked up one of your books and read it. I began taking the medicine. Now I am a housekeeper with six children, and I have taken it before each one was born. I cannot tell you all the good I have received from it. When I am not as well as can be I take it. I have been doing this for over thirteen years and it always helps me. I read all of your little books I can get and I tell everyone I know what the Vegetable Compound does for me."—Mrs. Frank Sellers, 510 7th Avenue, Vinton, Iowa.

Many girls in the fourth generation are learning thru their own personal experiences the beneficial effects of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mothers who took it recommend it to their daughters as a dependable medicine.

POETRY

The Hawkbit

How sweetly on the autumn scene,
When haws are red amid the green,
The hawkbit shines with face of cheer,
The favorite of the faltering year!

When days grow short and nights grow cold,
How fairly gleams its eye of gold
On pastured field and grassy hill,
Along the roadside and the rill!

It seems the spirit of a flower,
This offspring of the autumn hour,
Wandering back to earth to bring
Some kindly afterthought of spring.

A dandelion's ghost might so
Amid Elysian meadows blow,
Become more fragile and more fine
Breathing the atmosphere divine.

—Charles G. D. Roberts

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Mrs. Newlywed, to butcher: What sort of a roast do you think would go well with a blue-and-white dinner service?—The Progressive Grocer.

Paul—I hear you and your girl had some words.

George—I had some, but didn't get to use them.—Washington Star.

Passenger (to motorman)—Can't you go any faster than this?

Motorman—Sure, I can, but I have to stay with the car.—Vassar Vagabond.

Friend (to recently married couple): "Well, how do you like married life?"

Cook: "Well it seems strange being in the same place so long.—London Opinion.

Doctor: "Yes, you ought to walk to your store every day."

Hardware Merchant: "You think that will restore me to health?"

"It will if you don't get run over."—Good Hardware.

You have participated in many investigations.

"Many," agreed Senator Tweedle.

Have you succeeded in calling public attention to anything important?

Yes. To myself as an investigator.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

"This is a good restaurant isn't it?" said the customer to the waiter who had brought his order.

"Yes," replied the waiter, "If you order a fresh egg here you get the freshest egg in the world. If you order a good cup of coffee its the best in the world, and so on."

"Yes, I believe it. I ordered a small steak."—Tit-Bits, London.

Mrs. Annie Footitt is dead and will be missed by many of the English speaking visitors to Paris. Mrs. Footitt was the widow of the famous English clown, Footitt, who, with his colored partner, Chocolat, entertained several generations of Parisians, notably at the Noveau Cirque. When he retired from the circus ring, he and his wife opened a restaurant, just off the avenue of the Champs Elysees, which became popular.

The first Scout's merit badge to go to a Louisiana boy for displaying a thorough knowledge of reptiles, and one of the few such medals to be awarded in the United States, has been given Martin Burkenroad, 16, of New Orleans. COSTS MRS. RUTSKA $212 FOR SELLING HOOCH AT $1.00

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 13—Madona Rutska was fined $200 in the police court this morning for selling half a pint of hooch to a couple of civilian sailors who were roaming about the city yesterday. That was a pretty large sum to pay to get a dollar, the price the sailors paid, but Mrs. Rutska had the money and she paid something more than $212 into the court treasury. The woman was represented by counsel and demurred to the complaint. She was given to understand when found guilty that she would be sent to jail if she violates the law again and is detected at it. The sailors who bought the liquor were in court to testify as to the facts connected with the sale but their testimony was not needed, as the woman by her demurrer practically admitted the offense.

Edgar T. Thomas of the Hotel Mohican apartments, proprieter of the Thomas Transfer company, was operated on this morning at New Haven hospital. His condition this afternoon was stated to be as comfortable as could be expected, but the outcome of which could not definitely foretold. Mr. Thomas figured in an automobile accident several months ago and at which time his ribs were injured. About three weeks ago his health gave indication of declining and he finally was compelled to take to his bed. Medical treatment did not give Mr. Thomas relief and recently he became extremely weakened. Yesterday a specialist from New Haven was summoned to New London and after making an examination, he advised that an operation be performed at once. Mr. Thomas was taken to New Haven by automobile so to be prepared for the ordeal this morning.

Patrolman James McKenna in making his rounds at Ocean Beach last night discovered a light burning in the cottage at 163 Bentley avenue and owned by a man named Goldberg, of Norwich. The windows and entrance were secure, preventing the officer from entering, so the light was left burning.

The Gronton state police this morning received information that an automobile, which was stolen in New Haven September 13, was in a garage at Mago Point. Sergeant Clifford Giorgas and Sergeant Patrick Murphy, the latter of the New London department, went to Mago Point and learned that the automobile they sought was in a garage on Main street, this city. This afternoon the officers determined that the car in question was not the stolen auto, but was in possession of its rightful owner.

Ada R. R. Weed has sold to Mildred Weed Beebe a house and lot on Montauk avenue.

The funeral of Mrs. Abbie P. Snow, widow of Rufus W. Snow was held this morning at 10.30 o'clock at her residence, 65 Ashcraft road, the services being conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth. The body was forwarded to Brookville, Me., for burial.

The funeral of Gertrude L., wife of Henry F. Macomber, was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at her residence, Ye Faire Harbour apartments, 921 Broad street, and was attended by many mourners. The services was read by Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, rector of St. James' Episcopal church. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

George Headley Brown, 44, son of the late E. John and Ida Taber Browne, died this morning at his home at Golden Spur, East Lyme. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Bessie Rowley Browne, a brother, Elmer E. Browne of this city, and by his aged grandmother, Mrs. Eunice E. Taber, with whom Mr. Browne had made his home for several years. He was formerly a resident of New London and at one time was in the restaurant business with his father on State street; afterwards he conducted a restaurant on Bank street. He was employed for several years by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, also conducted a truck farm in Center Groton. He was a member of Fairview lodge, I. O. O. F., Groton. Mr. Browne had been ill for about four years with tuberculosis.

There has been a perceptible disappearance of automobiles from the streets thus early in the season, whether because of absence of strangers in the city or because owners are not using their cars to the extent they formerly used them is not known.

Three bonds were called in the court this morning. John Shaffer and John MacDonald were drunk and boisterous yesterday and were arrested. They were charged with intoxication and breach of peace. To secure their liberty each gave a bond of $50 for appearance today, but they failed to show up in court. Their bonds were called. Frank Book, also charged with intoxication, failed to appear and answer a complaint so his bond of $25 he gave was forfeited.

The men were at the home of Shaffer and there they put the place out of order. They pulled down pictures, broke furniture and practically wrecked the place.

Joseph Burr today sold his residence on Montauk avenue to Charles Di-Barberri. The house is a practically new one.

Members of New London lodge of Elks are interested in the report which will be made by the committee considering the proposed sale of the property of the lodge on Washington street and the purchase of another site for their home, or the remodeling of the present structure. There is a pretty generally expressed opinion that the Elks will continue to occupy their property as at present, and there is doubt whether any changes of consequence will be made in it. An old member of the lodge declared to the Bulletin representative today that there was not as general interest taken in the lodge now as there was when there were fewer members by a couple of hundred.

Clyde Wells, a sailor in the government service, was found to be operating an automobile without having a license. He admitted his offense and explained that he had just bought the car he was driving in Groton where the seller told him he could operate the machine till he could obtain a license. This advice he accepted as good, and that was his undoing. He was so conscientious in admitting what had happened that the court nolled the complaint.

New London Italians were mightily pleased with the experience they had at Hartford at the dedication of a monument to Christopher Columbus Tuesday. They won a prize for having come a longer distance than other societies present.

There is considerable construction work being done in New London at present, but there are few buildings going up. The work is generally that of remodeling or repairing.

NORWICH DRIVER'S CAR STRIKES A BLIND MAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 13.—Daniel Donovan, 558 Main street, aged and infirm because of practically total blindness, was struck and injured this afternoon by an automobile driven by Horald A. Quidgeon, R. F. D. No. 1, Norwich. Mr. Donovan's injuries, it is believed, are not serious.

Quidgeon had parked his automobile on Main street, near Stony Hill and decided to turn the auto around. As he was doing so Mr. Donovan started to cross the street, feeling his way by means of a cane. Mr. Donovan could not see the automobile and Quidgeon failed to observe the pedestrian in the highway with the result that Mr. Donovan was struck, though not thrown to the pavement. He was assisted to his place of residence nearby and given medical attention. Mr. Donovan was proprieter of a grocery store on Main street many years, until his health became impaired.

Two young men, who claimed to reside in New York, but who are employed on construction work at Fishers Island, were arrested this evening by Patrolmen John Clifford and Michael Dorsey charged with intoxication. They were locked up and will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning. The pair had obtained an inside cargo of hootch from one of the North Bank street drinking places and about 8:30 o'clock they were making a nuisance of themselves on State street, near the railroad station, so much so that proprietors of business establishments made complaint to the police. Until the two men were locked up the police station did not contain a prisoner, something unusual the night before a session of court.

C. H. Ketchum, 150 State street, parked his automobile in violation of the city ordinances on State street this afternoon. He was ordered to present himself in the police court tomorrow morning, by Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy.

Louis Belgrade, 60, proprietor of a grocery store, 3 Montauk avenue, died suddenly of heart disease at his late residence, 15 Steward street about 2:30 o'clock this morning. He was a native of Russia and is survived by his wife. Mr. Belgrade had attended one of the theatres Tuesday night and returned home in apparent good health. After he had retired and had slept for several hours he became ill. Medical aid was summoned, but Mr. Belgrad expired before the physician arrived. Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman was notified and after an investigation pronounced death due to angine pectoris.

EXCHANGITES HEAR TALK ON INSURANCE RATES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 13.—The Dean schedule of fire insurance, increasing the rates, was explained in an instructive talk given at the Willimantic Exchange club meeting in Nathan Hale hotel this evening, by Messrs. Torrey and Buchanan of a Hartford insurance company. A full attendance, with several guests, listened to the explanation of the insurance experts. The talk was localized by recommendations of what the city can do in securing adequate fire equipment to counterbalance the increased rate. President Sherman P. Hollister was in charge of the meeting.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theater

The Show Off hilarious screen version of George Kelly's great American comedy that convulsed Broadway for the solid year is the headline attraction of the notable program opening today, with a cast including such popular and capable players as Ford Sterling, Lois Wilson, Louise Brooks, Gregory Kelly and Clair McDowell, each one with a role as exactly suited to their talents as if written expressly for them. It makes great entertainment. The Show Off is the story of a familiar character in every town the bluffing, boasting show off who knows everything, butts in everywhere and fixes everything and by sheer brass makes good in the end and his typical American family who suffer from his continual cracking, he's just a lot of bluff but he sure is funny. The Show Off is a great success because all its characters are real people, just like we all know and for good entertainment it is just about the best thing on the screen this season. The other feature of the big double program is Wild Justice with Peter the Great the famous dog star, a throbbing tale of the north country filled with romance and red-blooded action and a charming love story. A drama in which all humanity in summoned to witness. With tender emotion one of the most beautiful storeis of dog devotion ever told and Peter the Great is the most intelligent dog that ever displayed it's skill in a film drama. Added attractions include Gene Tunney in the sixth chapter of the great serial story of adventure, The Fighting Marine, the Palace Topical Events with latest world wide news showing among other scenes of interest the final game of the world series at New York and Walter Lang and his concert orchestra. Truly a program of exceptional merit in each and every number and one that no one can afford to miss.

Eastern Brank of Maytag Company

The eastern branch (headquarters in Philadelphia) of the Maytag company of Newton, Iowa, has set a world's record in merchandising. This branch has just received the largest individual shipment of merchandise ever known. Five solid trainloads, 130 carloads. More than 11,000 Maytag aluminum washers valued at $2,000,000. This great shipment was routed over five different railroads in order to insure rapid delivery. These five special trains identified by posters and banners were given clear right of way over the various roads and were met at various points along the route by prominent men and city officials. It is stated by members of the sales organization of the eastern branch that every washer in this mammoth shipment will be disposed of in less than 30 days. Trainload shipments of Maytag washers have not been uncommon the last few months. Three trainloads have been sent into California. Three trainloads into the Pacific northwest and a trainload into western Pennsylvania. The daily production of Maytag washers at the factory has already reached the astounding figure of 1250. This number will soon be increased by 300 or 400 a day upon the completion of additional factory buildings now under construction. Among these buildings is a new aluminum factory, credited with being one of the largest aluminum foundries in the world.

Sales of the Maytag washers have shown a very decided increase, particularly during the last few years. With sales of but $1,000,000 in 1920 the total sales of last year reached the $35,000,000 mark. During the first eight months of the present year an increase of more than 60 per cent has been reached which should bring the total sales for 1926 well above the $50,000,000 mark.

The Maytag company builds but one product, the Maytag aluminun washer, and was founded more than 30 years ago by F. L. Maytag, the present chairman of the board of directors.

The Russian Symphonic Choir

A folk song is essentially the expression of a nation's soul. It is, therefore, more or less local in appeal and seldom overflows the boundaries of the land of its origin. Sometimes the melody is appropriated by people of other lands, but the song in its entirety, words, melody and structure, remain the property of its people. However, there have been a few folk-songs which on account of their particular human appeal have become almost international in scope. Home, Sweet Home, is such a song; Swanee River, although of Negro origin, is known the world over. And lately, the Russian folk-song known as the Volga Boatmen Song, has spread its plaintive melody from the Russian plains and the shores of the majestic Volga over the vales and dales of other lands. The chant of toiling masses pulling barges up on the Volga must have struck a responsive chord along the Mississippi, as the Symphonic choir will sing here at the Rhine, the Seine and may be even on the Nile. Still it takes a real Russian to sing this song to perfection. And local music lovers will have an opportunity to hear this song given with the proper spirit, when the Russian Slater Hall on Wednesday evening, October 20th.

Tickets for this one concert may be secured at Cranston's store. Beginning on Friday morning tickets will be sold to those interested in this splendid concert in order of arrival at $2 each.

Bread Theater

Johnny Hines, the world's fastest, most dynamic and funniest comedian, fairly outdoes himself in his latest celluloid cyclone, Rainbow Riley, which together with Marshall Neilan's circus story will be shown today for the last time.

Friday and Saturday in No Man's Gold Tom Mix comes riding back in a part that fits him as snugly as he fits into the saddle of his wonder horse, Tony. Here again is the Tom Mix who handles a pair of fists with almost the same deadly effect that he handles his guns; does some riding that makes the heart race and then nearly stops it when he crashes down into an old shack in a tool bucket; destroying the shester of a gang of ruffians who were after the secret of a hidden mine.

You have not seen Mix at his best until you see him in this latest Fox film, No Man's Gold, which will have a two days run at the Bread commencing Friday.

Broadway Theater

Douglas Fairbanks certainly may be said to have made the best of the glamorous, stirring story of The Black Pirate which he introduces to his eager fandom at the Broadway theater this week. The Black Pirate sails suspensefully along in the traditional romantic course of the favored and vivid tales of fighting buccaneers and buried treasure. The action, while its star is about, runs swiftly and he is emphatically about, all the time. Our hero captures a vessel single-handed after a series of most remarkable gymnastic feats atop, beneath and generally about the ship, he becomes, practically, captain of a pirate crew; along toward the end. In case you haven't guessed it—he rescues the fair lady after some spectacular under-water swimming, attended by cohorts of deep sea swimmers. Mr. Fairbanks, as a matter of fact, seems in excellent form, and what, after all, could be more suited to his talents than a ship literally loaded down with pirates on mischief bent and a fair lady to be rescued after startling encounters?

A large supporting cast aids Mr. Fairbanks materially in his mad career, particularly outstanding being Donald Crisp as a sympathetic Scotch pirate, Sam de Grasse as villain-in-chief, Anders Randolf as a pirate chief and Billie Dove as the fair lady in distress. A rousing musical score adds much to the production, which was applaunded by capacity audiences the first half of this week and prom appearances will continue to do so for the three days more.

An augumented orchestra and short features are also on review for your entertainment.

Special Lecture Course

SCHOOL COMMITTEE IN WILLIMANTIC ORGANIZES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 13—The school committee with the three new members, Raymond A. Parker, Walter R. King and William B. Sweeney, who were recently elected, met and organized for the year at Windham high school this evening. John Reilly who succeeded the late William J. Sweeney was re-elected chairman. Superintendent of Schools Egbert A. Case was re-elected secretary.

The following were the committees appointed by Chairman Reilly: Teachers, H. Clinton Lathrop, John Reilly, Dr. F. E. Guild, Joseph F. Gaudreau and Raymond A. Parker; properties, Egbert A. Case, H. C. Lathrop, W. B. Sweeney; transportation, Dr. W. P. S. Keating, W. R. King and Raymond A. Parker; supplies, W. R. King, Dr. F. E. Guild, Dr. W. P. S. Keating; library, W. B. Sweeney, Dr. F. E. Guild, E. A. Case; evening school, R. A. Parker, J. F. Gaudreau, W. B. Sweeney; graduation, J. F. Gaudreau, Dr. W. P. S. Keating, Walter R. King; auditors, H. C. Lathrop, John Reilly.

The reports of Dr. Keating, as health inspector and John A. McKenna, truant officer, were read and accepted. It was voted that the chairman secure in writing the case of a local resident seeking free tuition at the Natchaug grammar school for a child alleged to be a non-resident. The secretary was instructed to refer the application of North Windham residents for free transportation of five students of Windham high school to the board of selectmen. Secretary Case was further instructed to correspond further with Dr. A. B. Meredith, commissioner of the state board of education, relative to making a survey of Willimantic for the establishment of a trade school. A petition for a physical training class in the evening school was tabled for future discussion.

JUDGMENT FOR PASTER IN SUIT AGAINST PLOTSKY

Judgment for $650.62 in a finding for the plaintiff on the complaint and counter claims was handed down Wednesday in a memorandum of decision by Judge Newell Jennings of the superior court in the case of Morris Pastor against Louis Plotsky, both of Norwich.

Judge Jennings' memorandum of decision is as follows:

"The evidence offered in support of the allegations of the counter claim fell far short of proving those allegations by a fair preponderance of the evidence. I find for the plaintiff on complaint and counter claims.

"The amount due on principal at this time is $500. Interest on the face of the mortgage ($3,541.75) is due from Dec 2d, 1925, to this date. I find the amount of the debt now due to be $650.62.

"In view of the comparatively small amount of money due at this time and the fact that no insurance can be written on the property, the time for redemption should be short. I fix the day of redemption as the first Monday in November, 1926."

RALLY IN STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Rallying tendencies predominated in the stock market today as control of the price movement was wrested from bear traders who had conducted an aggressive campaign for more than a week. Occasional flurries of profit taking and bear selling continued, but urgent liquidation of speculative issues appeared to have run its course, leaving the market in a strengthened technical position.

Although fluctuations in many of the active shares were erratic and confusing at times, impressive buying of representative railroad and industrial issues was in progress at the close. The demand embraced such stocks as Allied Chemical, U. S. Steel, Pullman, General Motors, DuPont, Timken Roller Bearing, Atchison, Nickel Plate, Chesapeake and Ohio and Union Pacific, in which the gans ranged from 2 to 7 1-2 points.

Offsetting the restrictive influence of a 5 1-2 per cent. rate for call money were several constructive developments, including the formation of a world-wide export association for the co-operative marketing of copper, favorable dividend announcements by the Woolworth and Gillette Razor companies and the maintenance of steel operations at their high level despite a legened from automobile manufacturers.

With these factors bolstering the market, it was soon apparent that prices had reached resistance levels on the decline. Drives against U. S. Steel, General Motors, and other prominent issues temporarily dislodged offerings of stock but these were readily absorbed. Closing prices represented a net gain of 2 1-4 points for steel and 3 3-8 for General Motors.

Two of the outstanding strong features were Timken Roller Bearing and Colorado and Southern, both of which were elevated to new high prices for the year. Reports that important railway equipment contracts were about to be closed sent Timken up 7 1-2 points to 71. Colorado and Southern touched a new peak at 96 1-4 and closed 11 3-4 points net higher at 94 3-4 on buying credited to Burlington interests and to purchasers looking forward to an early resumption of dividends.

An early gain in Woolworth was cancelled by profit taking which followed the announcement of a $1 extra dividend. Signs of pool liquidation were noted in the heavy selling of Electric Refrigeration and Canada Dry Ginger Ale, and considerable pressure was brought to bear against Continental Baking "A", Union Bag, Reid Ice Cream and Pan-American Western corp's.

Trading in the foreign exchanges was featured by a rally of more than a cent in Norwegian kroner to around 28 1-4 cents, the highest point in several years. The advance followed a revision of stabilization plans under which the Bank of Norway probably will undertake to carry the currency gradually back to parity above 26 cents. Italian lire fell back to the 4 cent level and other exchanges showed little variation.

Price movements in the commodity markets were mixed. Cotton continued its slow recovery, closing 11 to 14 points higher. Wheat declined about 3 cents a bushel on favorable weather news and coffee yielded 28 to 33 points. Sugar prices were little changed.

Call money renewed at 5 per cent. but the rate was advanced to 5 1-2 after banks called some $15,000,000,000 of outstanding loans. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

NORWICH TOWN

The mid-week service of conference and prayer of the First Congregational church is to be held this (Thursday) evening.

Friday evening the Home Missionary sewing circle of the Congregational church, Mrs. Herbert L. Yerrington president is to hold an informal social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Storrs, of Lee avenue. It is expected that members will be accompanied by their husbands and men friends, and there is no limit as to age, children also being privileged to attend. They will wear old fashioned costumes.

Several from the Home Missionary society of the Congregational church will go to Willimantic today (Thursday) to attend the semi-annual meeting of the Women's Congregational Home Missionary Union of Connecticut at the Congregational church.

Because of the rally arranged by the Newspaper Council of Girl Workers to be held Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Central Baptist church, there will be no Christian Endeavor service this evening at the Norwich Town Congregational church.

A former Greeneville resident, Mrs. Hattie Lund, of Boston, is the guest for a week or more at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Bennett, of Lafayette street. Prior to coming to the Bennett home Sunday last, Mrs. Lund visited for three weeks with friends in Preston.

While digging potatoes Tuesday morning, at his Fairview park vegetable garden Roswell J. P. Brown, of Uncas street unearthed a potato that weighed precisely two and one-half pounds.

John S. Bennett of Lafayette street, has been attending the session in Philadelphia of the American States convention of the American Legion in session there. Mr. Bennett is one of three delegates appointed from the county.

Friends and neighbors were sorry to learn of the sudden illness, the early part of the week, of John F. Welsh, of Harland Road. He was operated on at the Backus hospital Tuesday for a serious case of appendicitis.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the Farmers' Missionary society held Wednesday afternoon in the Congregational chapel. The president, Miss Susan W. Hyde presided. Mrs. Harriet Hyde Zumbro spoke interestingly about Recent Happenings at Madura, India. Extracts from letters by school graduates were read and pictures of new buildings were shown. These included a picture of the school dormitory which has been erected by [illegible] of Binghamton, N. Y. who [illegible] the late Rev. GOVERNOR'S EXECUTIVE SECRETARY SPEAKER BEFORE ROTARIANS

Edward L. Kelly, executive secretary to Governor John H. Trumbull, was the speaker at the weekly meeting of the Norwich Rotary club and took for his subject "The Mechanics of the State Offices." In his talk Mr. Kelly although not touching on any political issues told of the amount or work that the governor does and also the large amount of correspondence received at the executive offices.

Mr. Kelly, who for a number of years was a resident of Colchester, prefaced his talk by saying that he was glad to be the guest of the Norwich Rotary club as he had made many friends in Norwich during his residence in Colchester. He went on to say that as political issues were banned in Rotary he would speak on some of the state departments as it came under his notice through his office of executive secretary. There is an attitude of unconcern, said Mr. Kelly, regarding affairs of state. Little interest is taken in politics by a large majority and he cited a recent case where he met a man in a drug-store who did not even know who the candidates for office were in his district. These people are only one step removed from those who try to overthrow the government said Mr. Kelly.

The governor's office is regarded as more or less of al clearing house for the problems of every individual who has a pet scheme or thinks things are not being conducted according to his ideas. Hundreds of letters arrive at the executive offices daily. People write asking for pardons for friends who are in prison or in jail or who they feel have not been treated justly by the courts. From the Norwich State hospital alone come an average of 5 or 6 letters daily from patients these who profess that there is nothing mentally wrong with them but they are confined by relatives and others who have designs on their money. Probably twice as many letters come from Middletown. These must be read and answered one way or another.

Some of the executives have tried to make investigations but it was simply a waste of time. We of the executive staff must get the idea that all departments of the state are functioning properly and honestly. Then when things come to us we refer them to the proper departments and feel that they will be taken care of in the proper manner. Then we have countless letters requesting proclamations by the governor on this and that idea. Senator Bingham recently said that he believed that there were at least 10,000 paid lobbyists in Washington and I believe he was very conservative at that. Some one gets an idea and it is taken up by a few and finally a state or national organization take sit up and the lobbyists begin their work in the legislatures and the national government. Some of these ideas and theories have real merit. Besides all this the executive officers have the routin work to dispose of which is even greater with the legislature in session than it is now.

The legislature is elected on the second of November as well as a governor but the legislature must convene first. The legislature approves the governor and a sheriff brings in the governor and he is duly sworn in and then there is an adjournment of a week while legislative committees are being made up. Bills flow in and there are thousands of them at each session. These are classified and sent to committees for hearings and reports. Each is sent to the engrossing clerk for punctuation and grammatical correction. Then it goes to the printer, and then comes back the proof and the executive secretary gets it and reads it for sense. If the bill has been passed it goes to the secretary of state and the governor for his signature or veto. The governor has only three days in which to sign or veto and, with many bills being presented to him daily while the legislature is in session he has plenty to do in just reading the bills that perhaps he has never seen before. If the executive offices get through their work by midnight they are lucky.

The destiny of our government lies not in beautiful government buildings and other imposing architectural buildings but in the breasts of our citizens. William Penn once said that "A government may be good but if the people are bad it will not endure but if the people are good it will survive." In closing Mr. Kelly urged more individual attention to affairs of state by at least knowing who the candidates are and voting at the elections.

Mr. Kelly was warmly applauded for his talk which was highly interesting and instructive.

At the business session Judge Nelson J. Ayling presided and Joseph C Worth acted as song-leader. Johnny Egan was again at the piano in the absence of Henry J. LaFontaine. Charles Colt, chairman of the Armistice day committee, who was present at the meeting spoke on the Armistice day celebration saying that all organizations were pledged to participate and that the committee was endeavoring to make this one of the biggest Armistice day observances in the state. He said that the committee through Thomas E. Donohue of New London, state athletic commissioner, was trying to get Gene Tunney, ex-marine and now heavyweight champion of the world to attend the celebration.

An appeal was made to the members of the club by Alfred G. Bliven, chairman of the Boys Work committee, for the loan of cars to take local boys to the Yale-Brown game on Oct. 23rd. The boys are to be the guests of the Yale Athletic association at this game.

Secretary Jewett spoke of the Ostend convention and also read a communication from the Springfield Rotary club relative to the establishing of a Sunshine club for crippled children. The object being to send crippled children to the Shriners' hospital at Springfield at the expense of the Rotary clubs of New England.

Among the many guests at the meeting was Charles S. Greene, a member of the Oakland, Calif., Rotary club.

ASSURE ELECTION OF 14 G. O. P. REPRESENTATIVES

At least 14 republican candidates for the 1927 house are assured of election November 2, barring successfully organized efforts to write in names of candidates not nominated at the caucuses, it developed Tuesday night when democrats in about half the towns of the state held their caucuses.

In the more than 100 towns which held democratic caucuses Monday and Tuesday night, but one contest for a democratic nomination has been reported, that in Derby Monday night.

In Burlington the first candidate nominated, Ernest B. Hinman, declined to accept, and Howard E. Alderman was named as the second choice of the caucus. In Winsted the democratic town committee today named Theodore Waterbee as a candidate for the house, to fill the vacancy left by the withdrawal of Lyman P. Case, a republican, who declined nomination at his own party caucus Monday night, only to be nominated by the democrats who met in caucus at the same time.

Democratic caucuses held Tuesday night were generally marked by small attendance in Windham, which nominated Frank P. Fenton, 1923 house minority leader, as one of its candidates there were 13 present at the caucus. Willimantic's population was given at 13,861 in the 1920 census and cast 1948 votes for the democratic presidential electors in 1924. A neighboring town, Chaplin, which endorsed the republican candidate, had 12 party members at the democratic caucus last night. Chaplin, in 1920, had a population of 385 and in 1924 cast 29 votes for the democratic presidential electors. The chairman of the democratic town committee in New Fairfield reported that he had called no caucus because there were no "available candidates."

Republican candidates for representative were endorsed in Bethlehem, Chester, Durham, Hampton, Plainville, Salisbury and Simsbury. Plainville, one of the two Hartford county towns which did not name a democratic candidate is the home of Governor Trumbull. Willington, for the third biennial period in succession held no democratic caucus. Wethersfield and Washington democrats apparently assured one republican representative in each town's delegation of two by naming only one candidate.

BEQUESTS TO ACADEMY AND TO PARK CHURCH

Under the terms of the will of the late Mrs. Harriet Blackmar, the Norwich Free academy and the Park Congregational society are each bequeathed $1,000 in "loving memory of my son, Dr. John Blackmar."

The will has been filed for probate with Judge Nelson J. Ayling of the probate court. Mrs. Mildred Blackmar, daughter-in-law of Mrs. Blackmar is made executrix under the will and with the exception of a few other personal bequests is willed the residue of the estate.

Waterford Democratic Nomination

Giles A. Beckwith was unanimously nominated for representative by the democratic caucus in Waterford Tuesday night. The following were nominated for justices of the peace: John C. Geary, Augustus C. Stearns, Anthony Silva, Charles A. Gallup, Austin Peabody and Lawrence W. Perry.

Jolly Ten Social Club Met

The Jolly Ten Sewing club met Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Lillian Corellie of Boswell avenue. An enjoyable evening was spent and refreshments were served by the hostess. Next week the club will meet with Miss Loretta La Fleur of 47 West Thames street.

WINDHAM NOT TO JOIN SIX CHURCH CONFERENCE

The Congregational churches of Hanover, Newent, Jewett City, Pachaug, Plainfield and Preston City held the October conference at Preston city on Wednesday, Rev. George Clark, pastor of the church presided. Devotional exercises led by the pastor, with prayer by Rev. Giles F. Goodenough of Ledyard opened the services and asked for a report from the committee appointed at the previous conference, Miss Lucy Baldwin, chairman of the committee introduced Rev. G. H. Reese of Central Village who withdrew the request made at that time by the Windham county conference to be allowed to unite with this conference. The motion was made by Rev. William Prentiss of Plainfield and seconded by Rev. W. J. Reynolds of Lisbon that this action be accepted, and it was so voted. After a welcome by the pastor, he read the scripture from John 3. Prayer was offered by Rev. C. H. Ricketts of Norwich. An anthem was sung by a chorus choir of ten. The sermon was by Mr. Reese. His text was John 3:4, his theme being The Evidence of the New Birth. He spoke first of the authority of the writer as one who had been an intimate associate of the one he wrote about. It was written to all mankind. The purpose was in order that men and women might have the assurance of fellowship. He enlarged upon the necessity and manner of the new birth. One fine point he made was why we should stick at all the religious questions and lives we do not understand, and yet never question material facts we do not understand—like electricity. The mystery of the new birth is of God not of man. The evidence is the overcoming of the world—the evil influences in our own selves, and the world recognizes whether we do or not by our lives we live before them.

Mr. Clark added a few words, saying, his idea of overcoming the world was to say to a temptation Stay there and I pass. After the benediction same was served in the church vestry.

In the afternoon after a devotional service with prayer by Mr. Reynolds, and a short talk by the pastor, the roll of the churches was called by the scribe Mrs. E. H. Hiscox of Jewett City. There were one hundred and forty-one present including 16 from Hanover, 12 from Newent, 28 from Plainfield, 8 Pachaug, 13 Jewett City, 40 Preston City and 29 visitors. The record of the last conference was read by the scribe Rev. Mr. Prentiss gave a notice of the concert to be given in Plainfield by the Welsh Choral society. Mrs. Hiscox gave notice of the meeting of the Missionary association to be held in Willimantic today (Thursday). Miss Lucy Baldwin then spoke about the message it is wished to have Mr. Reese to carry back to the Windham county conference. That "although the committee thought that amalgamation would not be a wise plan, we always have welcomed guests at our conferences, and are always willing to extend the hand of fellowship and work shoulder to shoulder with our neighbors. This conference would be glad to welcome any member of the Windham county conference at all of our meetings." Her message was echoed by the applause from everyone present.

The collection was received by Rev. Mr. Muttart of Hampton and Rev. Mr. Reynolds after an anthem by the choir, the discussion on Sunday school work was taken up by four men, the classes, Rev. W. J. Reynolds; selection of teachers, Rev. D. L. Stone; teacher training, Rev. W. L. Muttart, and the lesson, Rev. W. C. Prentiss.

A vote of thanks was extended the church for its hospitality and the service closed with the benediction by the pastor. The decorations were asters, zinnias and palms.

TRUMBULL ASKS MORRIS TO POINT OUT WASTE

Stating that Charles G. Morris was dealing in generalities and not in specific facts, Governor John H. Trumbull issued a statement Wednesday answering the attacks made upon Connecticut economy by the democratic nominee. The governor was also sharp in explaining his position on Mr. Morris' statement regarding the independent voter.

"Last week Mr. Morris quoted me as saying that I 'had no use for the independent voter,' said Governor Trumbull. 'I said this was untrue. My attention has been called to a more recent interview of his, where he now says that I 'was quoted' as making this statement, and that he had 'no reason to doubt' that I meant it. This, of course, is different from his first statement, wherein he tried to be definite. I answered the first statement promptly. It isn't necessary to answer the more recent one because I am interested in facts, not inferences or rumors.

Denies Extravagance

"Mr. Morris in a somewhat evasive manner has tried to reply to the questions which I asked him by saying that the highway department is wasteful and that Connecticut is run extravagantly. I previously said to him that the latest government report of the federal trade commission showed that of all states in the Union, Connecticut's increase in taxation for state purposes was the lowest.

"In cutting expenditures, I asked him just where he would curtail. Would it be in the state's educational work, highway construction, in its institutions for the insane, epileptic, deformed or in its correctional institutions? His only answer is that 'wasteful methods' are used in the highway department and that deficiency appropriations are allowed to some department heads.

"Connecticut's highways are the best in the United States. To build and maintain these highways we have not issued millions in bonds, as is the custom in many other states, but have made current income do the work.

"The day of the horse and buggy is past and the day of the automobile is here. Certainly, Mr. Morris cannot advocate a sizeable cut in the highway program of this state and be fair with the thousands of people who drive automobiles and who pay for these roads. He has said that wasteful methods are employed in the highway department. This is altogether too vague. Where is the highway department wasteful and what would Mr. Morris do to eliminate the waste which he professes to have knowledge of? He says that 'any person who drives an automobile' has seen this waste with his own eyes.' This statement is absolutely unfair unless Mr. Morris can tell us something specific. Mr. Morris should know that practically all the state highway department's construction is let by contract and that competitive bids determine who shall do contracting work for this department. If Mr. Morris has seen waste as he has driven along the highways, the contractor who is responsible is the loser, not the state.

"If outside of generalities, Mr. Morris can show wastefulness in fact, let's have it. Perhaps, again, we will find that this 'wastefulness' was 'reported' to him and he had no reason to doubt it.

"Mr. Morris should also know that in Connecticut the general assembly meets but once in two years, and in the meantime when any special reason arises for a department or institution to exceed its appropriation granted by the legislature, the board of control passes upon it, and either grants or rejects the request. Under the law the governor of the state is a member of this board, and I can assure Mr. Morris that as a member I have passed upon each and every request for appropriation. Will he please point out to me one request which may have been granted which was not necessary, or not good business on the part of the state to grant?

"Like his former statement, Mr. Morris' recent attack on Connecticut economy is not specific. I believe the people of Connecticut like to hear about facts, specific and tangible facts. I have repeatedly said Connecticut is the best managed state in the Union; that it heads the list of states in its entire freedom from indebtedness; it has increased its taxes less, its highway system is the best in relation to its size, and in general its departments and institutions are efficiently and economically operated.

Asks Definite Statement

"Mr. Morris says that the state has doubled its expenses and taxes during past seven years, and this is not economical or efficient from the taxpayers' standpoint. If he would properly prepare himself before making such a statement, he would find that during the time he mentions Connecticut has kept up to date. Horse car days have passed, and the state has a normal growth each year with normally increased demands. He would also know that out of its income the state has provided for the payment of our indebtedness of $11,000,000 incurred by a democratic administration. He would also discover that the 48 states as a whole, during this period, increased their per capita receipts from taxation over 32 per cent. The six New England states increased their per capita receipts from taxation about 34 per cent. Connecticut's increase was about 30 per cent.

"This is a definite statement. If Mr. Morris would be as definite in his statements, it would not be necessary for me to continue asking questions.

"When a state pulls itself out of indebtedness left by democrats, increases its taxes less than other states, and runs its business efficiently, it is undoubtedly difficult for a democratic aspirant to office to be specific in his statements."

DIPHTHERIA ON THE WANE SAYS HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Fewer cases of diphtheria were reported to the state department of health for the first nine months of 1926 than for the corresponding period of any recent year. In view of the increasing use of toxin-antitoxin to protect children against diphtheria, this result is gratifying.

Diphtheria usually reaches its low point in incidence during August and begins to increase in prevalence in September. This year the number of cases reported dropped from 50 in August to 42 in September. Only once before in the last twelve years has this occurred. In 1923 the number of cases reported dropped from 124 in August to 115 in September.

The number of diphtheria cases reported in Connecticut so far this year by months from January to September inclusive were 185, 183, 190, 65, 83, 53, 47, 50 and 42 respectively. There were reported for first 9 months of each year from 1915 to 1926 inclusive, totals of 1418, 1350, 1308, 1632, 1760, 2195, 2241, 1799, 1655, 1423, 12[illegible] and 898 cases respectively.

It will be noted from these figures that the decline in number of cases has been steady and consistent in the past five years with a rather marked drop during the present year. A study of the monthly incidence of diphtheria for the past 12 years indicates that with very few exceptions fewer cases have been reported each month for the present year than for the corresponding month for any recent year.

Taken altogether the figures available would indicate a lessened prevalence of diphtheria. This experience in Connecticut is shared by other states, particularly in communities where the use of toxin-antitoxin to protect children against this disease has become general.

THIRTY YEAR REVIEW OF TRINITY PARISH LIFE

FRIGIDAIRE provides greater food space than other electric refrigerators of equal size. This is because the highly efficient and economical frost coil, an exclusive Frigidaire feature, occupies less space than the brine tank previously used, permitting greater food storage capacity in a cabinet of any given size. Larger supplies of perishable foods can be carried at one time.

Greater food capacity, quieter operation, freedom from vibration, lower operating cost, a wider range of models, the more precise engineering and manufacturing methods of General Motors, greater beauty of design, proven dependability in service—these are the things that have made Frigidaire the choice of the overwhelming majority of users of electric refrigerators.

EVENING OF PLEASURE ENDS IN DROWNING OF TWO WOMEN

Bodies Were Found Near the New Haven Yacht Club at Morris Cove—Residents Living in the Vicinity Reported Having Heard Cries From the Water—The Bodies Were Identified as Those of Mrs. Mildred Terrell, 19, Who Was Married, But Had Not Been Living With Her Husband, and Mrs. Moorrva Leonard Pedo, Who Had Been Married Twice—A Male Companion of the Women is Missing—The Women Had Been Entertained on Board a Yacht.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 14.—(AP)—An evening of pleasure aboard a yacht in New Haven harbor had a tragic ending for two women, whose bodies were found today on the beach near the New Haven Yacht club at Morris Cove.

After an all day investigation the women drowned were identified tonight as Mrs. Mildred Terrell, 19, of 44 Daggett street this city, and Mrs. Minerva Orr Pedo, whoe home address has not been learned. Mrs. Terrell's father, who viewed the body said she had not been living with her husband for some time. Mrs. Pedo has been married twice.

Near the bodies were the overturned boat from the yacht Capsicum, on which they had been entertained. Farther up the shore lay the oars, while on the beach in various places were a man's overcoat, and hat, two women's handbags and a cushion such as might be used in a boat.

The owner of the coat and hat, identified as Barney P. Howco, of Philadelphia, is still missing. According to Ommodon Ommondson, captain of the yacht, Howco and he entertained the young women on the boat last night until nearly 11, when Howco, known locally as "Barney," and the women started ashore in the boat. His first intimation of the tragedy, Ommondson said, was when employes at the yacht club, finding the bodies and the boat this morning, rowed out and told him.

The yacht is the property of Sherman Hoyt, a yacht designer of Oyster Bay, L. I., according to Ommondson, who said Hoyt had gone to Boston and left him in charge. Calling upon "Barney" at a local hotel in the evening, he said the latter suggested they have a little party on the boat with two women Howco knew.

Coroner Eli Mix reported finding on the boat evidences of gin, cocktails and brandy, with glasses which had been used, and cigar and cigarette butts. Omondson said there had been some drinking, but that the victims were not intoxicated when they left the Capsicum.

One woman, the older, was about 23 years old, with brown hair and gray eyes. On her finger was a wedding ring with no initials and a garnet-set ring. The other was about 19, with brown hair and eyes, and had no rings.

One of the handbags yielded a slip of paper with Howco's name and hotel room number. The other had a little over $11 in small bills and change and what appeared to be a list of intended Christmas presents, without any names other than "mother," "dad," and similar uninforming designation. On the same sheet was what appeared to be a partial budget, or a list of purchases.

A discarded man's suit on the yacht yielded only some small change and a white gold watch, without identifying marks.

Residents in the vicinity reported hearing cries from the water at about the time Ommondson said Howco and the women were leaving for shore, but the cries were not apparently for help and nobody thought there was need for investigating. One woman who heard cries was asked to appear at a hearing to tell her story.

Howco, the missing companion of the women on the fatal trip, is said to be an expert stage-rigger employed on the stage of the new Yale theater here. At last report he had not returned to his work or to the hotel in which he has been living for a time, and efforts to locate his body by dragging the water between the yacht and the club float had produced negative results.

Ommondson, captain of the Capsicum, is being detained pending the outcome of investigations. Medical Examiner M. M. Scarbrough said today this his report on the basis of what he had been able to discover as yet, would be accidental death from drowning.

The search for the body of Howco was abandoned late tonight but probably will be continued tomorrow morning. No trace of the man has been found. He has a brother in Philadelphia but it is not known whether or not he lived in that city. Howco is married and has three children.

Mrs. Terrell was married in Woodbury where a daughter was born. The child is now four years old. Mrs. Terrell and her husband separated and she went to New York where she was employed for a time as a dancer. She then went to Waterbury to live and came here with her parents about two months ago. She told relatives last night that she had secured employment at a restaurant as a waitress. She left her home last evening supposedly on her way to work. That was the last seen or heard of her until the body was found this morning.

Mrs. Piteo was living with her second husband, James Piteo here. She separated from her first husband, Jack Leonard, some time ago.

Captain Ommondson said tonight he had visited a restaurant where he met the two women. Later Howco joined the party and they went to the yacht. The captain was released by the coroner.

Ernest Sirolle and Gertrude Blair, who, it is believed, saw the four in the restaurant before the yacht party, will be questioned by the coroner.

LEGION REFUSES TO AFFIRM ACTION ON WORLD COURT

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The American legion in national convention today refused to reaffirm the action taken at its Omaha convention last year at which time it favored the adherence of the United States to the world court. A resolution reaffirming that action was rejected by a three vote after speeches had been made that the world court had become a political question and that to adopt the resolution would be violating the legion's constitution which provides that the organization cannot be used for the dissemination of partisan principles. The merits of the world court were not discussed by those who opposed the resolution.

The question of a unified air service for the army and navy went over for another year after the convention committee on aeronautics had adopted a recommendation that there be one department of air services with secretaries of equal importance for land, sea and air forces. The committee, after long conferences, was prevailed upon to change the recommendation to an expression that it "look with favor upon" the proposition. The committee also agreed to the appointment of a committee of nine to study the entire question and report to the next convention.

San Antonio, Texas, won the 1928 convention of the legion after a contest with Miami and Denver. The Florida and Colorado cities made the selection unanimous after they saw the way the delegates were voting. Detroit withdrew her invitation with the understanding that it will be renewed for the 1929 meeting. Boston wants the legionnaires in 1930, and so notified the convention, next year's convention will be held in Paris, France. With a reconvened session in New York when the legionnaires return home.

The convention will adjourn tomorrow after the election of a national commander and five vice-commanders.

REFRIGERATION SYSTEM CAUSE OF TWO DEATHS

DANBURY, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The electrical refrigeration system is being removed from a new five-story apartment house here, following the death of two and the critical poisoning of another according to Medical Examiner Stratton by methide, a form of methyl chloride, escaping through a loose cap in the system.

The dead are Frank W. Force, 55, and his grandson, Henry Fromme, 9 years old. Mrs. Force is in a critical condition in the local hospital. They had moved only yesterday into an apartment in the building, coming here from Henrietta, Okla. Mr. Force was connected with the factory here of the American Insulator corporation.

Coroner John J. Phelan, of Bridgeport has begun an inquiry into the deaths, to ascertain the nature of the gas used as a refrigerant. The owners of the building commenced removal of the system immediately after the discovery of the deaths.

LEGIONNAIRE'S IDENTITY HAS BEEN ESTABLISHED

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14 (AP)—Facing thousands of members of the American Legion, assembled in annual convention, "Jerry" Tarbot," the legionnaire without a name, without relatives and without memories, learned definitely for the first time today that he had served with the American expeditionary forces in France. His identity, however, still remains a mystery.

Standing in a brilliant circle of light cast upon a tiny platform in the sesqui-centennial auditorium, Tarbot peered into the faces of the vast assemblage in the hope that some one would recognize.

"Does anyone recognize this man?" asked the chairman.

After several minutes of unbroken silence Tarbot stepped from the platform with head bowed in disappointment. Then suddenly the cry: "I know that man! I know that man!" rang out. It came from Benjamin Spang, a sesqui-centennial guard, who said he thought Tarbot had served in his regiment overseas.

"I recognize him," said Spang, "as a member of the 16th company, fifth regiment, United States Marines. I was in the 47th company, and both companies were in the same battalion. I was a sergeant and often boxed against a man named Sullivan in the 16th company; I remember Tarbot as a man who used to hang around when he were boxing."

Then Spang and Tarbot, whose memory goes back only three years when he was released from a Stockton, Calif., insane asylum, began to compare notes.

"I remember seeing you," said Spang, "at Colombe and Nevars and again at Bulleau Woods."

"Yes," said Tarbot, visibly straining to roll back the curtain of the past. "I remember going into action with 24 men led by Lieutenant Robinson." Spang said that Lieutenant Robinson had died during the war.

CAUSES OF DEPRESSION IN THE COTTON INDUSTRY

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Changes in fashion, in process, in location and in distribution are four great factors that have brought about a "time of great difficulty" for the cotton mills of New England, James R. MacColl of Pawtucket, R. I., told the National Association of cotton manufacturers tonight. Mr. MacColl, who is president of the Lorraine Manufacturing company of Pawtucket, R. I., declared that there was different answers to the problem.

He suggested that they might be "for some mills, standardization of production and adequate advertising; for others, diversity of production and more direct dealing with the final consumer."

The trend of cotton manufacturing is undoubtedly to the south, he said, have upset the industry, have eliminated certain garments and have reduced the amount of material used.

FRENCH RADICALS CONTROL POLITICAL SITUATION

BORDEAUX, France, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The thrice split radical party, which became the master of the political situation in France after the elections of 1924, only to lose its grip through the difficulties of the financial situation and internal strife, today began here the difficult task of reuniting its various factions.

The three day convention and the decisions that it makes are of vital interest to the present Poincare cabinet which may stand or fall on the result.

The extremists within the party have taken the attitude that the present coalition with the socialists must be revamped and that the party members must be summoned to retire from the Poincare cabinet. This would mean the downfall of the present ministry as soon as parliament convens.

Edouard Herriot, radical socialist leader, who is minister of education in the Poincare government, is the center about whom most of the controversy will revolve. If his participation in the government should be disavowed, it is felt that the national union cabinet of Poincare would suffer a swift breakup.

The moderates within the radical party are inclined to support a resolution under which party unity would be declared on the principal that a solution of the present financial and monetary problems in France required the support of a union government for the time being. Adoption of this programme would save the ministry.

NEWGATE PRISON TO BE SOLD AT PUBLIC AUCTION

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 14.—Historic "Newgate prison" in East Granby will be sold at public auction, on October 23, it became known here today. The police, known as "America's Newgate prison," was originally the Simsbury copper mine and was used by the colony of Connecticut in 1773 as a permanent prison for Tories. Later, it was taken over by the state military authorities. In 1793 it was made a state prison and continued as such until 1827.

For years it has been in the possession of the Phelps family. The property including the adjoining Phelps farm containing 150 acres, will fall under the auctioneer's hammer.

America's "Newgate" was modeled after the famous Newgate prison in London, England. The old English prison was formerly a debtors' prison and was later pulled down.

The Newgate prison in East Granby is one of the historic places of interest in the state and yearly many tourists go through the old copper mine on which formerly stood the massive prison. Many relics of former years remain in the dungeons.

FIND JUROR HAD BEEN IN AN INSANE ASYLUM

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The discovery that one of the jurors selected to try Joe Saltis, alleged gang leader, for murder in connection with the removal of John "Mitters" Foley, alleged rival, had hallucinations and four times had been confined in hospitals for the insane, stood out in today's record of gangland activities in Chicago.

Meanwhile no progress had been made in the solution of the mystery surrounding the slaying of Hymie Weiss, North Side gangster and a companion and the wounding of three other men in a machine gun ambush in North State street Monday evening. No arrests had been made and the coroner's jury waits until tomorrow to resume its inquest over the victims.

The state insisted today that the entire jury be discharged and a mistrial declared in the Saltis case, but the defense asked that a mental test be given the juror and that if he were found mentally unfit to sit in judgment of Saltis, the trial continue with 11 men.

PRISONERS WRECKED SEWING MACHINES IN WETHERSFIELD

HARTFORD, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Two prisoners at the Wethersfield prison, either in a fit of frenzy or because of some mental disorder, according to prison officials, on Monday afternoon wrecked several sewing machines in the shirt factory in which they were working, it was learned today.

Seizing suddenly pieces of iron pipes, the supports of tables in the work rooms, the two men, before the two guards or the rest of the 60 prisoners in the work room realized what was being done, rushed down one of the aisles and demolished several machines before being subdued and controlled. The two guards assisted by prisoners quelled the outbreak and the two offenders were placed in confinement pending a possible investigation into their sanity.

COUNCIL OF CATHOLIC WOMEN ELECT OFFICERS

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Mrs. Arthur F. Mullen of Omaha, today was re-elected president of the National Council of Catholic Women; Mrs. Carl J. R. Hayes, New York city, was chosen third vice president; Mrs. Agnes Bacon, providence, R. I., treasurer, and Miss Anna D. Gamble, Harrisburg, Pa., secretary.

The convention will be held next year in Washington, D. C., in accordance with the practice of holding it there alternate years.

NON-STOP PANAMA CANAL FLIGHT TO BE POSTPONED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The navy's non-stop Panama canal flight, scheduled to start Oct. 19, probably will be postponed a month, Secretary Wilbur said today, because of unexpected delays in completing the two planes to be used.

James Doherty, 53, died suddenly at his home in Portchester, N. Y., having suffered a heart attack.

424 Auto Accidents in State Last Week

There Were Eight Fatal Accidents, With Eight Resultant Deaths—Five Mishaps in Norwich.

HARTFORD, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Hartford, with 48 accidents reported, leads New Haven by one in the number of automobile accidents reported in Connecticut cities during the week of Oct. 3-8, according to records of the state motor vehicle department. Bridgeport and Waterbury occupy third and fourth places, respectively, with totals of 30 and 29.

The state total for the week was 424, as against 423 for the corresponding week last year. City totals are 236 for 1926 and 255 for 1925. There were eight fatal accidents during the week, with eight resultant deaths. Last year, there were ten fatal accidents, with ten fatalities.

The number of accidents reported in remaining cities follows:

New Britain, 17; Stamford, 13; New London, 11; Danbury, 10; Greenwich, 9; Meriden, 7; Middletown, 6; Norwich, 5; Norwalk, 2; Winsted, 2.

THE BETHLEN HONGARIAN GOVERNMENT HIS RESIGNED

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The Bethlen government has resigned. This ministry took office in April 1921. Count Bethlen handed the resignation of his cabinet to Regent Horthy this evening. It is understood that he will be asked to reconstruct his ministry next week.

President Von Sczlovsky of the National assembly is slated for the all-important post of minister of interio, succeeding M. Rakovsky, resigned. Louis Valko, Bethen's trade minister, becomes foreign minister a portfolio held by the premier himself. Mr. Hegman will become minister of trade.

The resignation of Premier Count Bethlen was forecast as early as last June. He was then returning from the league of nations session in Geneva, where he was slapped in the face by a Hungarian.

During its tenure of office, lasting more than 5 1-2 years, the Bethlen government went through most hectic times; yet with the aid of the League of Nations, and Jeremiah Smith, of Boston, Behlen pulled his country out of its financial difficulties.

It was in 1921, just after Count Bethlen had taken office, that the trade Emperor Charles clandestinely entered Hungary to have himself proclaimed king in the Realm. This was frustrated by the allies and Admiral Horthy, the regent.

LEDGERS AND RECORDS FIGURE IN MORSE TRIAL

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The identification of ledgers, documents and other records by which the government expects to prove its charges of using the mails to defraud continued today in the trial of the three sons of Charles W. Morse and 14 other defendants.

The Morses, Edwin A., Harry F. and Benjamin W., and their co-defendants are charged with mail frauds in connection with their handling of the affairs of the United States Ship corporation, the United States Transport company and the United States Steamship company. The alleged frauds were committed in 1919 and the indictments were returned in 1922. The elder Morse is not on trial.

Bart Murray, an accountant employed by United States Steamship company, testified that some of the company's books were taken to the company's new offices in Augusta, Me. Others were taken to Washington and placed in the office of Milton J. Lambert. The books were removed, Murray said, at the direction of George M. Burditt, one of the defendants.

SMITH CLAIMS HEARST IS ALLIED WITH REPUBLICANS

HORNELL, N. Y., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Governor Smith here tonight charged that William Randolph Hearst, the publisher, and one time democratic candidate for governor, is allied with and directing the campaign of his republican opponents in the gubernatorial race, Ogden L. Mills, the governor, speaking to a Hornell audience that packed the Majestic theatre, flatly charged that the publisher's influence "has resulted in degrading the republican campaign to the unusual Hearst level."

"It seems," he said, "that the fates have decked that in every political contest in which I take part there is the sinister figure of Hearst and all that he stands for in the eyes of the American public. The type of campaign is the same one which Hearst employed to villify and slander William McKinley, Grover Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt, Elihu Root, Charles E. Hughes, and practically every decent leader of both the great parties."

BROWNING SAYS HE SPENT ABOUT $30,000 ON "PEACHES"

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Edward W. Browning spent more than $150 a day to retain the love of "Peaches," his 16-year-old bride, he said today.

From the time of his marriage six months ago until "Peaches" recently left him, he said he spent about $30,000.

"Of this," he said, "about $15,000 went for clothes for Peaches; about $5,000 for diamonds, and the other $10,000 for flowers, fruit, theatre tickets, dinners, lunches, parties and incidentals.

"I gave Peaches $300 a month or pin money and I never questioned her as to how she spent it. I even gave her $200 a month for pin money for her mother. And yet I could not please them. Mrs. Heenan was forever reminding me how fortunate I was that Peaches married me."

Mr. Browning asserted he still hoped to be reconciled with his wife and said he did not contemplate any legal action.

DRUMMER CHAMP IS THE YOUNGEST CIVIL WAR VET

KEENE, N. H., Oct. 14.—(AP)—James W. Price, who Wednesday night won the world-wide old time drummers' contest at Lewiston, Me., claimed to be the youngest Civil war veteran in the country. He enlisted June 25, 1862 in the 14th U. S. Infantry at New London, Conn., as a drummer boy. He was born in St. Johns, N. B., February 18, 1851. His home is in Sullivan, N. H.

Bandits Ruthless in Jersey Mail Robbery

Killed Postal Employe and Wounded Three Other Persons—65 State Troopers On Their Trail.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Eight bandits today killed a postal employe, wounded three other persons and looted a mail truck of $100,000 or more. Riding in two powerful cars they crashed into the truck kand its convoy of one motorcycle policeman at Sixth street and Elizabeth avenue on the edge of the business section, raked the streets with hand machine guns and sawed off shotguns, broke into the truck and escaped with five bags of mail.

John Enz, well known semi-professional baseball player and driver of the truck, was toppled to the pavement, fatally wounded in the first round of shots.

The others wounded were: Patrick F. Quinn, Enz's helper, shot through the right side, left wrist and left leg.

Policeman Jacob Christman, knocked from his motorcycle by one of the bandit cars, two bullet wounds in the left leg and one in the right.

Arthur Decauter, bystander, shot in the arm.

At 5 o'clock a force of 65 state troopers, armed with rifles, were mustered at Pluckamin headquarters. They were deployed about the Watchung mountains in the belief that the gun men were at bay. Major Mark O. Kimberling, in charge, sent for reinforcements of 50 men, and the order to close in was expected to be given before midnight.

The robbers' victims were shown no mercy. The truck was proceeding south on Elizabeth avenue. As it drew up to the Sixth street intersection, the leading bandit car, containing four men, pulled from Sixth street in front of the truck. Enz applied the brakes and the second car swung to the rear, crashing into Policeman Christman and throwing him from his machine.

As the cars came to a stop, men leaped from both machines. Three turned their attention to the men on the driver's seat of the truck and Christman. Operating their hand machine guns from the shoulder, the robbers sent a spray of bullets in all directions. Christman was shot as he lay helpless beneath his machine; Quinn, jumping from the seat with pistol in left hand, was incapacitated by a bullet through the wrist. Enz was shot through the head and fell unconscious, dying a few moments later.

The three who were not firing at the victims formed a circle about the automobiles and set up a hail of .45 calibre bullets and slugs, which sent the few pedestrians on the streets scurrying to cover. None could give a coherent account of what happened.

A large crowbar and wire nipper were used to gain entry into the truck.

Of the mail sacks contents, more than $100,000 was known to have been consigned by the Federal Reserve bank of New York to the Elizabethport Trust company. Bank officials would not reveal the exact amount other than to say that it was considerably more than $100,000.

Ten postoffice inspectors from the New York and Philadelphia divisions are working on the case under the supervision of O. B. Williamson of Philadelphia.

Williams refused to say whether the mail was registered or estimate the total of the loot.

ORDERS HAVE BEEN GIVEN TO "SHOOT TO KILL" BANDITS

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Armed with sawed off shot guns, riot guns, rifles and revolvers state, county and city police, with country constables and volunteers, tonight patrolled the highways and by-ways of New Jersey's hill country in the northern and central sections of the state, in search of mail bandits who today killed a postal employe at Elizabeth, wounded three other persons and escaped with $100,000 or more.

There were orders of "shoot to kill" in dozens of cities, towns and crossroads in the greatest drive against the killers the state has known. The drive, however, was but an extension of one begun last week when Newark alarmed at a double killing in an attempted robbery of the air mail at Shelton set every police reserve and detective to combing its underworld for killers and slayers.

"BUM" RODGERS ONE OF MURDEROUS BANDITS

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Oct. 14—(AP)—John J. "Bum" Rodgers, James "Kille" Cunniffe, and Vincent or Paul McCormick, all with long criminal records, are members of the band that shot down the driver of a mail truck in Elizabeth today and escaped with over $100,000, Capt. Lamb of the state police asserted tonight.

"The gang has at least 20 members," Capt. Lamb added.

State troopers have insisted that Rodgers accompanied a man said to have been Cunniffe when Frank Kearney and his son were shot down on the Stelton road near New Brunswick when what is thought to have been a plot to hold up the air mail went wrong.

HOG CHOLERA PREVAILS IN ILLINOIS, IOWA, NEBRASKA

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Hog cholera is decimating the extensive herds in Illinois, Iowa, and Nebraska and upsetting the provisions and corn markets in Chicago and serum is not available in quantities sufficient to fight the Epizootic, according to reports here today.

The swine are dying by the hundreds as the disease spreads. The carcasses are being burned as rapidly as possible, but its inroads are increasing.

In Illinois, where Dr. F. A. Laird, the state veterinarian, termed the Epizootic "the most devastating the state ever has known," the spread was attributed to flood waters carrying filth and germs, birds flying from farm to farm, and even to germ-carrying mosquitoes.

For two weeks the Chicago board of trade has seen the spread of the disease as a decided factor in the provisions and corn markets.

The price of corn has been pulled down by the prospect of fewer swine on farms to be fed, thereby reducing the outlets for large corn stocks.

On the other hand the provisions market has been unsettled by the prospect of a reduced supply of material for the packing plants and the rushing to market of immature pigs.

DIRIGIBLE LOS ANGELES MAKING FLIGHT TO DETROIT

After Negotiating the Pennsylvania Mountains, the Great Airship Flew to Pittsburgh, Circling City Once While Throngs in the Streets Watched—Maintained Speed of 50 Miles as Far as Pittsbuhg—Later Was Reported Flying Low at Rate of 15 Miles an Hour—Over Akron, Ohio, the Dirigible Was Traveling at a High Rate of Speed.

AKRON, Ohio, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The navy's giant dirigible Los Angeles tonight neared Detroit after completing safely more than two-thords of its journey from Lakehurst, N. J.

The hangar mate of the Shenandoah headed north from here at 10:59 p. m., after negotiating a course considerably to the north of the route which last year ended in a fatal crash of the Shenandoah.

Akron, home of the lighter-than-air craft building industry in America, greeted the giant dirigible with tooting of factory whistles and cheering as it sailed over the city. From 6.30 p. m. when the navy dirigible passed over Pittsburgh, radio station "WDAC" here was in touch with the ship's radio operator. A brief conversation was held with Lieutenant Commander Rosendahl as the ship slid quickly over the Rubber city.

The navy dirigible entered Ohio at East Liverpool at 8.30 o'clock tonight after maintaining a speed of about 50 miles an hour from Lakehurst to Pittsburgh.

Although behind the unofficial schedule, the big ship was speeding along at a rate estimated to bring her to her mast in Detroit soon after two o'clock tomorrow morning.

After traveling at a steady 50 or 60 miles an hour speed all afternoon through Pennsylvania, the dirigible slowed down after passing Pittsburgh and was five hours in reaching this city, only 110 miles on an air line.

Crossed Penn. Mountains.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Octo. 14.—(AP)—The navy dirigible Los Angeles successfully negotiated the Pennsylvania mountains this afternoon, appearing over Connelsville at 4.30 p. m. The big ship, en route from Lakehurst to Detroit was headed for Pittsburgh. She was flying very low but making good speed.

Circled City of Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The Los Angeles pierced the heavy smoke clouds hanging over Pittsburgh at 6.15 p. m. tonight.

When the big silver bulk first appeared, it was a dark blot against the sky. As it passed down the Monongahela river a blast furnace was opened wide in a side hill. The red glare struck the silver sides of the big ship giving Pittsburghers an excellent view of the navy's pride of the air.

The Los Angeles was making slow time and flying very low. The roar of her motors could be heard in the streets. The ship circled the city once while throngs in the streets watched and then continued its steady progress towards the Ohio state line in its course to its goal, Detroit.

Passed Low Over Beaver Falls.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Oct. 14.—(AP)—The dirigible Los Angeles passed over Beaver Falls, which is about 18 miles from the Ohio state line, about 7.30 tonight.

Akron, 55 miles from the state border, is the next Ohio city over which the ship was scheduled to pass. It should reach there around 9.45 p. m.

Sandusky was due to see the big bag next, 70 miles from Akron on an air line. The Los Angeles should pass over there around 11 and sail over Toledo approximately an hour later.

A. F. OF L. ENDS CONVENTION; MEETS NEXT IN LOS ANGELES

DETGIT, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor, completing the business program of its 46th annual convention, today directed its executive council to inquire into relations between the Mexican government and labor organizations of that country.

A committee report proposing the action commended the executive council for "the dignified way" in which it had handled "a delicate and intricate incident in our foreign relations."

Aproval of the committee report by unanimous vote came after an hour of debate.

The convention tdoay also emphatically reaffirmed its non-partisan policy in political activity, and approved continuation of the federation's endeavor to abolish child labor by amendment to the federal constitution.

A resolution advocating opposition to American adherence to the world court was referred to the executive council with the observation that determination of national policy toward the court was not now before the country.

"Labor shows no favoritism," said the committee report on the political program, "in its loyal and effective support of progressive forward-looking candidates for public office."

William Green, president, and Frank Morrison, secretary; Daniel Tobin, treasurer, and eight vice presidents were re-elected by unanimous vote.

The convention adjourned its 1st session at 6 o'clock. The executive council will meet tomorrow to dispose of business demanding immediate action.

Los Angeles will be host to the 1927 convention.

QUEEN MARIE PASSED REAL AMERICAN DAY

S. S. LEVIATHAN, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Queen Marie, voyaging to the United States on an American steamer, had a distinctly American day today. There was an American breakfast and luncheon, with the wife of a former American president, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, as the queen's guest at the mid-day meal and later Marie entertained an American boy, from New Rochelle, N. Y., in her suite.

After two days of rather rough weather, the seas were smoother when the queen rose at an early hour. She had a cup of tea and a little while afterward sat down to the American breakfast of buckwheat cakes, maple syrup and sausages, prepared by Billy Linn, the chief steward, in compliance with the request of the first lady of Rumania.

Marie was delighted and decided to continue her American diet. The luncheon menu included chicken a la Maryland and corn fritters.

Sidney Heller, the New Rochelle boy, paid a visit to the royal suite this afternoon, and after seeing Marie, asserted stoutly: "The queen is all right."

MOVING TO REMEDY THE LOW PRICE OF COTTON

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 14.—(AP)—The wheels of the machnie, fashioned by merchants, bankers and planters of the south to remedy the situation incident to the low price of cotton began to move here today as the executvie supervisory committee initiated plans for market stabilization this season and subsequent reduction of cotton acreage.

Dr. Tait Butler, agronomist, chairman of the executive committee named by the south-wide cotton conference, met with B. W. Kilgore, Raliegh, N. C., and J. W. Fox, Scott, Miss., committeeman to start the relief program.

This program, evolved after long hours of deliberation by financiers and southern farm economists, calls for retirement of 4,000,000 bales from the current market and the reduction by 25 per cent in cotton acreage for the coming two years.

Dr. Butler today sent an invitation to Eugene Meyer, chairman of President Coolidge's federal cotton commission recently named to confer on the crop emergency, seeking an early conference in which the whole program may be gone over.

THIS YEAR'S POTATO CROP IS BELOW THE AVERAGE

WAKEFIELD, Mass., Oct. 14.—(AP)—This year's potato crop will be six per cent greater than the potato harvest of 1925, but will be 15.3 per cent below the five year average of production according to revised estimates issued today by the United States department of agriculture. Adverse weather conditions in the north central late crop potato states in the past month caused a slight decline in the expected production. The prospect, it was added was for "a strong market and good prices."

The condition of the crop on Oct. 1 indicated a production of 350,821,000 bushels, or 2.99 per capita.

The New England crop gained 3.7 per cent during September to a forecast of 44,172,000 bushels, which is 3.3 per cent more than last year's harvest but short of the five year average by 4.3 per cent.

Maine is the outstanding leader of all states with a present forecast for a crop of 35,545,000 bushels as compared with 37,170,000 in 1925 and the average of 34,790,000.

LORD ASQUITH RESIGNS AS LEADER OF LIBERAL PARTY

LONDON, Oct. 14—(AP)—Lord Oxford D. Asquith, whose criticisms of the policy adopted by Former Premier David Lloyd George during the general strike last May revealed serious discord within the liberal party, today resigned his leadership of the liberals.

His resignation probably will be followed by the election of Mr. Lloyd George, now liberal parliamentary leader, to the leadership of the party, although there are other aspirants, notably Sir John Simon, one of the critics of the former Premier in recent months.

In his letter to the liberal party announcing his resignation as leader, Lord Oxford indirectly attributed the action, which he described as irrevocable, to the dissension which had arisen between himself and Lloyd George. He declared that he was firmly convinced of the correctness of his own attitude toward the general strike, but that he could not and would not take part in internal political controversy.

"MISS X" IN M'PHERSON CASE WAS MISS RACHEL WELLS

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 14—(AP)—The woman who made affidavit at Salinas, Calif., that she was the "Miss X" of the Aimee Semple McPherson case, and occupied for ten days at a cottage at Carmel, Calif., with Kenneth G. Ormiston, was Miss Rachel Wells of Philadelphia, it was testified today by Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Sielaff.

The testimony was made while Mrs. Wiseman, San Francisco stenographer was on the stand in the preliminary hearing of the Los Angeles evangelist on charges of conspiracy to defeat justice.

Wiseman declared she sent money given her by Mrs. McPherson to Miss Wells at Philadelphia to come here and pose as the Carmel cottage companion of Ormiston, former radio operator of Mrs. McPherson's angelus temple in this city.

PRAISE FOR THE WOMAN WHO CONCEALS HER AGE

NEW YARK, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The woman who conceals her age is a public benefactor, Dr. Eugene Lyman Fiske, medical director of the Life Extension Institute told the conference of the New York State Federation of Woman's clubs today.

"Through her determination to stay young in face and figure," he said, "she has set up a higher standard for men as well as for her own sex."

Some rules he advanced to guide women in staying young were: Take no poisons, including alcohol and tobacco, into the system; bathe daily, "including the face;" have kindly thoughts daily "for your own sex and extend them with discretion to members of the other sex;" and "don't be afraid to marry—married women live longer than spinsters."

WILLIMANTIC

Office, 864 Main St. Telephone 1131-2.

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 14.—Joseph Adeleizzo, an inspector for the state highway department, was charged with assault on Charley Oluowicz, one of the laborers on the reconstruction work on Columbia avenue, when presented at the session of police court Thursday morning. The assault, as related in Tuesday's Bulletin, took place Monday. Adeleizzo admitted that he struck the man, but said that he did so in resenting disparaging remarks made by Oluowicz regarding his ability as an inspector. Oluowicz and three associate employes testified that the complainant was struck without cause. The man was knocked down and when he got up Adeleizzo repeated the act. Oluowicz is a resident of Colchester.

In view of the fact that Adeleizzo has no authority over the laborers in his capacity as inspector, the court felt that he had no right to take the alleged administration of good order on his own shoulders. Judge Foss imposed a fine of $2 and costs, amounting to $10.15. Adeleizzo took an appeal to the next term of the Windham county superior court and a bond of $100 was furnished by William A. Pultz, of Lebanon.

MEN COME FROM BALTIC TO HEAR EVANGELIST

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 14.—Dr. Milton S. Rees, of Rochester, N. Y., noted evangelist, who is conducting union religious services here, addressed a large delegation of men from Baltic who came to this city this evening by special trolley and automobiles. They were led by Rev. E. C. Conklin. Friday evening will be Young People's night, when the Sunday schools of this city and vicinity will participate in the service. The various schools will be seated in groups with their banners and each school will contribute one or more features to the program for the opening service. As usual the Saturday program will be omitted. In an excellent sermon Wednesday evening Dr. Rees said that there was more "churchchianity" than Christianity among the members of the modern church.

William K. Jordan of this city was in the police court, Thursday morning, when a charge of reckless driving, held against him, was modified to one of speeding, to which he pleaded guilty. Jordan was arrested by Motorcycle Officer Bombria as he raced down Windham road in a Cadillac. According to the officer, Jordan was stepping at fifty miles and hour. Jordan said he was going 38 miles an hour and the road was clear of traffic. The court imposed a fine of $25 and costs, amounting to $33.15.

Doris Thompson, 20, was charged with disorderly conduct, when given a hearing in police court Thursday. Through her guardian ad litem she admitted her guilt and was sentenced to the State Farm for Women at Niantic for an indefinite period. The Thompson girl's case has been under investigation for some time by a representative of the State Humane society. It was shown that she had been misbehaving for four years.

But seven deaths were recorded at the town clerk's office as having occurred during August. They were: 3, Adelaide Gingras, 68, cerebral hemorrhage. 8 John Piskor, 10, septo infection. 8 Daniel Charles McGuinness, 21, cerebral embolism. 11, Mary Jane Adams, 85 chronic myocarditis. 13 Luella P. MR. AND MRS. H. W. CHAMBERLIN RESIGN AT TOWN FARM

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 14.—Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Chamberlin have resigned as superintendent and matron respectively of Windham town farm, where they have served with ability for the past 16 years. The resignations became effective Thursday, having been reluctantly accepted by the board of selectmen. Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlin are to remain until their successors are installed. They are closing a period of service to the town which stands out as an enviable record for efficiency and faithfulness. The town farm has been conducted at very low expense, the inmates have been happy in their declining years and the farm and almshouse have always been maintained in excellent condition. The Chamberlins have served through the years under alternating republican and democratic administrations. They claim now that they are entitled to a rest and that is the only reason given for their resignation. With the exception of two years since 1908, they have been in charge of the town farm and almshouse. When they assumed their duties there were 45 inmates. At present there are 22, 15 men and seven women. After a vacation of several months, part of which will be spent on a motor trip through the New England states and New York—a second honeymoon they call it—the Chamberlins will make their home on Brown avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nolan have been secured to succeed Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlin. Mrs. Nolan has been assisting Miss Chamberlin for some time as matron. Mr. Nolan has been employed by the state as janitor at the local State Normal school. He recently resigned.

Twenty-one births were recorded at the office of Town Clerk Frank P Fenton during August, as follows.

1. George Richard, Jr., son of George Richard and Eileen Beatrice Millrey Simmons; John Francis, son of Joseph and Mary Kranzer King.
5. Peter, son of Frank and Katy Lavoko Postemski.
6. Henry Wesley, son of Albert and Edna LaFiamme Bigelow.
7. Natalia Nye, daughter of Stanton LeRoy and Eva Grant Curry Briggs.
12. Virginia Marguerite, daughter of Frederick J. and Doris Gertrude Daniels Bodreau; Marie Eveline, daughter of Appolinaire and Marie Berube Bertrand.
19. Mabel Susan, daughter of Albert Elmer and Bertha Burns Carter.
13 Ruth Elizabeth, daughter of William and Effie Smith Downing.
14. Mary Phillis, daughter of Henri Francis and Loretta Labby Belair.
20. Raymond Joseph Robert, son of Joseph Henri and Yvonne Briere Lemieuse.
21. Sophie, daughter of John and Katie Gaminna Wawel.
23. Angelo, son of Rosario nad Vinsenzinia Giraldena Gallo.
26. Mildred Teresa, daughter of Henry Paul and Agnes Grimes Dubuc.
27. Joseph Arthur, son of Ernest and Lea Duchesneau Tellier; Normar Arthur, son of Arthur N. and Victoria Blouin Jolie.
28. William Ellis, son of Louis and Matilda Kastendick Hodis; Norman Eugene, son of Charles and Anna Mann Warrender.
30. Theresa Mary, daughter of Joseph and Lillian Elizabeth Peltier Petras.
31. Therese Isabelle, daughter of Adelard and Delia Routhier Dumais; Francis Xavier, son of Adelard and Delia Routhier Dumais.

Harry McGrath, an employe of A. W. Bryne & Son, of Hartford, which now has the contract to lay the new pipe connection as part of the improvements of the municipal water system now under way, is a patient at St. Joseph's hospital, suffering from a fracture of the leg just above the knee, sustained Thursday morning near the tail-race at the pumping station in Mansfield, when a small tractor which he was operating, toppled over and pinned him to the ground. McGrath was rushed to the hospital where he was attended by Dr. A. J. Girouard.

Charles M. Thompson of Hampton, came to the front Thursday with a statement that the democratic caucus in Hampton last Tuesday night did not endorse the republican candidates for representative and for judge of probate. There were only four members of the party at the caucus, according to Mr. Thompson. As no agreement could be reached on a candidate for representative, the name of John H Flitz was mentioned for endorsement, but Mr. Thompson objected and no action was taken. Miss Gertrude Pearl was nominated for judge of probate.

One of the heaviest rain storms of the season which drenched this section about 6 o'clock Wednesday night, failed to cause a marked rise in the water in the water supply lead at the Mansfield pumping station. Superintendent Willard N. Brown said Thursday that the pond was not below normal level. The rainstorm was accompanied by some thunder.

Willimantic reported but one case of scarlet fever to the state department of health for the week ending Oct. 9.

One of the tubes in the boiler of the west mill of the Holland Silk Manufacturing company blew out, filling the rooms with volumes of steam through the roof shortly after shutting down for Wednesday afternoon. The fires were drawn and speeder repairs started. The mill was closed, however, Thursday morning, while work was completed, and it was reopened in the afternoon.

Try-out night for new professional acts about to join circuits proved a great success at the Capitol theatre here Tuesday, according to Manager Bartlett who said that the attendance was practically a capacity one. The merit of the acts was judged by the hearty applause from the audience.

Herbert W. Huber of the Willimantic Trust company returned Thursday afternoon from attending an international bankers' convention in Los Angeles. Chief H Clinton Lathrop of the Willimantic National bank also made the trip.

THE nutrition experts of two great universities — The Directors of two famous cooking schools — The Editors of a nationally known food magazine with her staff — These were the experts who helped us in perfecting White Rose Bread.

No woman in her own kitchen could be so exacting—so particular about every detail of mixing and baking, about every single ingredient used!

The result is a loaf truly comparable to the best homemade bread.

You will notice the difference the moment you taste White Rose Bread. Notice its texture — firm and even, almost like cake texture! See how evenly it slices — how perfectly it toasts.

And its flavor — only a richly made loaf could taste that way! White Rose Bread is not only made of the finest ingredients, but it is slow baked. This brings out the flavor more perfectly, gives White Rose Bread a delicious tender crust—makes a loaf more nearly like the best homemade bread.

Try White Rose Bread today. Your own grocer has it. It is baked twice each day so that you may have it fresh whenever you order.

A Double Treatment for Colds

IT is an obstinate cold indeed that can resist the direct, double action of Vicks VapoRub. When it is rubbed over throat and chest at bedtime, Vicks acts in two ways at once:

(1) Direct to the inflamed air passages with its medicated vapors, released by the body heat; and

(2) Direct through the skin like an old-fashioned poultice, "drawing out" the tightness, soreness and pain.

Head or chest colds may easily sap your vitality and undermine your health. Don't neglect them.

DANIELSON

ABOUT $3,000 IN TAXES OVERDUE IN THE BOROUGH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Oct. 14—Borough Tax Collector Sidney H. Perry said today that he has received approximately $25,000 in borough taxes. This year's budget called for $28,000 in taxes from borough residents, so about $3,000 of the amount remains uncollected and overdue. Collector Perry will now take up the work of getting the money due from delinquents.

PATSY HALEY RECALLED BY ELDERLY RESIDENTS

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 14—The Patsy Haley who was the third man in the ring at the Sharkey-Wills bout at Ebbetts field down in New York, Tuesday night was at one time, nearly 30 years ago, something of a ring artist on his own account and came into this territory to do some training. He was one of a stable of boxers that had headquarters at Putnam, but came here doing road work and for social visits. Haley became very well known within two or three years of that era and there are old-timers here who remember following his ring fortunes with interest. For years past he has often acted as referee at important bouts in and around New York and rates one of the best in the business.

Killingly High school's football team will play the opening game of a schedule necessarily curtailed this year on October 29, when it will meet the Putnam High school team at Putnam. The next game will be with Plainfield High school at Moosup, November 5. On Armistice day the East Greenwich academy team will come here from Rhode Island for the first home game of the series. Killingly plays Southbridge High at Southbridge on November 19, and will close the season here on Thanksgiving day with Putnam High as opponents. The Killingly squad is small in number this year, but is made up of spirited and ambitious players who are expected to make a creditable showing.

Joseph Natorski, Andrew Jawroski and Miss Bertha Jawroski, injured early Wednesday evening in an automobile accident at the foot of South Killingly Hill, as told in Thursday's Bulletin, were somewhat too comfortable during Thursday. Mr. Natorski was confined to his bed at his home here and Mr. Jawroski and his daughter were at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam, where they were taken after the accident. All will eventually recover. Mr. Jawroski complained of pains in his chest and in one shoulder. His daughter is cut about the face and probably will bear scars for life. The party was returning from Providence, where they had gone that the Jawroski girl might visit an eye specialist when the accident happened.

Thursday morning at Moosup, the funeral of Louis Lantagne, killed on Tuesday in Moosup when he was struck and run over by a gasoline driven motor car on the New Haven road, was held from the home of his son, Adolph Lantagne, with funeral services at All Hallows' church, at 9 o'clock. Rev. J. E. McCarthy was celebrant of the solemn mass of requiem, with Rev. J. C. Mathieu and Rev. Oscar Normand deacon and sub-deacon, respectively. Burial was in the Sacred Heart cemetery at Wauregan. The bearers were Fred White, John Brousseau, Augustus Godreau, Frank, Eastes, Arthur Gauthier and Maxime Grenier. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

William E. Ryan of Stoughton, Mass., will be one of the speakers for subject Breeding for Vigor and Vitality, when the Poultry division of the Windham County Farmers' association meets at Brooklyn Friday of next week. This is to be a quarterly meeting of the poultrymen and such meetings usually attract attendance from various parts of the county. Roy Jones, poultry specialist at Storrs, and County Agent F. L. Dyke of Putnam also will take part in the program.

There was a story about town on Thursday relative to a big motor truck that hauled in here late one night this week with a load of furniture aboard. It appears that the truck crew found the furniture scratched and maliciously cut up and upon discovering this turned about and went back to Providence with it. There are various versions of why the furniture was willfully damaged, one being that it was a sort of sabotage over some labor trouble, but nothing very definite about the affair is known here.

There is not a groceryman or meat dealer in town Thursday who would not agree with you that it was a perfect day for a half-holiday. It will be recalled that men in the lines mentioned in Danielson this year agreed to extend their half-holiday period through October. They have two more such afternoons to contemplate.

Brooklyn politics are seething this fall and voters over there will be subjected to lively canvassing for their support at the coming election. It so happens that Killingly will having nothing to match this lively Brooklyn interest in the November election.

Among other things borough officials did at their meeting this week was to order payment of the new fire alarm apparatus installed during the summer at the central fire station on Academy street.

A greatly reduced force of workmen from the peak number there at one time when work was being rushed is now employed in finishing up contracts at the high school building. The south wing and the domestic science department in the north wing is now getting the greater part of the attention of the workers.

Union street running between Main and Water streets, just south of the Main street crossing, will be considerably improved after the plan of its layout is completed and the approval of the voters is obtained.

Danielson golfers will be included in the annual handicap competition for the Hooker Golf club challenge cup. This is an event that is open to all amateur golfers who are residents of Windham county and is to be held on Saturday of this week, starting at 10 a. m. Play will be for 18 holes and cards must be completed on Saturday. The challenge cup becomes the property of any player that wins it three times.

Announcement that the national convention of the American legion is to be held in Paris next year has stirred the imagination of World war veterans here, especially those who were overseas. In the past it has not been an infrequent experience to hear a soldier say "I'd like to go back over there and look around a bit as a civilian." Now that the convention of next year is to be held there with the prospect of scores of thousands going back, ex-service men here are talking about getting funds together and making the trip.

PROVIDENCE MAN AND NIECE IN BAD AUTO ACCIDENT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Oct. 14.—A car driven by Michael Kearns of Providence, who was accompanied by his niece, Miss Ilone Mesyna, also of Providence, skidded on Grove street, near the corner of the cemetery this afternoon and crashed into a telephone pole. Both occupants were severely cut over the left eye, and in addition Mr. Kearns had his leg badly cut. They were taken to the Day Kimball hospital and after their injuries were treated they took the bus to Providence, the destination for which they were bound.

THROAT ARTERY SEVERED WHEN CARS COLLIDE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 14.—Miss Hazel Erickson, a maid at the home of John F. Reardon, agent of the Grosvenordale Mills at North Grosvenordale, was in an automobile accident on Woodstock avenue last night that nearly cost her her life. An artery in her throat was severed. Dr. Overlock, surgeon at the Day Kimball hospital where she was taken was not sure that she would survive the night, but her condition this evening is much improved.

She had gone to South Woodstock to see her sister, and her brother-in-law, John Shippee was taking her home in his car. On Woodstock avenue he turned out to pass another car and collided with a machine driven by Aime Salvas of Putnam, an employe of the Putnam Woolen company. Mr. Salvas had a rib fractured and possibly other internal injuries. Both are patients at the hospital but Mr. Salvas' injuries are not considered serious.

The cars were wrecked. There is a sharp curve on Woodstock avenue near the filling station near where the accident occurred and the road was slippery, owing to the brief but severe rain storm.

JAMES HARVEY SAWYER DIES AT NILES, MICHIGAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 14.—Word has been received here of the death of James Harvey Sawyer, 82, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Edna Nolan, in Niles, Michigan. He was born in New York city, son of James H. and Sophie Sawyer, December 10, 1843. His father was an artist of note and while he maintained a studio in New York spent his summers in Woodstock. While he was quite young, Mr. Sawyer's parents moved to Putnam and occupied the farm which was afterward sold to the town of Putnam and which is now the town farm.

In 1863, Mr. Sawyer enlisted in Company B, 18th Regiment, Connecticut Volunteer Infantry and served throughout the war. He was married to Sophia Putnam, daughter of Rev. Mr. Putnam of this city. Two children were born to them, Edna Sawyer and Herman P. Sawyer. He is survived by his daughter, Edna Sawyer Nolan, by ten grandchildren and two great-grandsons.

Mr. Sawyer went to Chicago a number of years ago. Last year he made a visit to relatives and friends in Putnam and vicinity for the first time in 40 years and was here for several months. Although he was nearly 84 years of age, he was in excellent physical health while here and his brain was very alert.

The first fall meeting of Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter, D. A. R., drew a large attendance. Members of Aaron Wood Elderkin chapter of Willimantic and Sarah Williams Daniels of chapter of Danielson were guests. After the business meeting, Mrs. Mary B. Bishop, state consulting registrar gave an interesting report of the meeting of the regents and officers held at Windsor, September 22, and of the 33rd state meeting at Hartford, October 5. Miss Gertrude Perry of the programme committee introduced Miss Elsie Littlefield of Melrose Heights, Mass. who played two piano numbers, "The Two Larks," by Lefchetsky, and "Venetian Boat Song," by Godard, and as an encore gave An Artistic Study, by Godard.

The speaker of the afternoon, Joseph D. Little, gave an interesting talk on the "History and Romance of Old Silver," illustrated by lantern slides. The slides showed the development of the fork and spoon and some very good pictures of other silver articles. His talk was mostly discussion of flat and hollow silver, making special reference to the gold and silver utensils spoken of in the Bible, and of that used by the Egyptians and other early races. Mr. Little's talk proved him thoroughly conversant with his subject and that he has put a great deal of study and research into the matter. After the lecture, he identified two pieces of silver brought by members of the chapter.

Putnam lodge of Elks was entertained by a social session, vaudeville and smoker after the regular business meeting this week. The grill committee served a quohaug chowder.

At the meeting of Israel Putnam lodge of Odd Fellows the initiatory degree was exemplified on five candidates. Refreshments were served after the work.

An Associated Press item in The Bulletin a few days ago had the following: "Burlington, Vt. This city claims one of the oldest women in the country. She is Mrs. Angeline Willette, who yesterday arrived at her 105th birthday."

Mrs. Sarah Bosworth Bradway of Eastford, a real Daughter of the American Revolution was 105 years old April 20, 1926, hence is nearly six months older than Mrs. Willette.

The next County Quarterly Poultry meeting conducted by the Poultry division of the Windham County Farmers' association will be held at Grange hall in Brooklyn on Friday, October 22. An excellent programme has been arranged.

William E. Ryan of Stoughton, Mass., will speak on Breeding For Vigor and Health, and Feeding For Egg Production. Fertility and Hatchability. Roy E. Jones, poultry specialist and County Agent Davis of Putnam will also have a part in the programme.

George Mason and William Lambert of Killingly, the latter a former resident of Putnam, were fined $20 in the Danielson court for obstructing the highway. They said it was done as a joke.

Three high school teachers, Miss McCormick, Miss Pease and Miss Dudkins chaperoned a party of high school girls on a baking trip. The party went to Attawaugan where they hiked to the Macdonald cottage at Phillips grove, where they enjoyed to the fullest extent a hot dog roast, followed by canoeing, before they hiked back to their homes in Putnam.

The condition of Andrew Jaworski and his daughter, Bridget, aged 13, of Brooklyn, who are patients at the Day Kimball hospital where they were brought after an automobile accident on Dark Lantern Hill, Wednesday evening, is said to be very satisfactory. X-ray pictures indicate that Mr. Jaworski's shoulder blade is broken. Other than severe cuts about the face and head, the girl is not injured. Joseph Natorski, the driver of the taxi was not hurt except for bruises and cuts.

Putnam chaped American Red Cross will send to the National Red Cross headquarters the sum of $765.01 as the result of a canvass for funds for the relief of sufferers of the recent hurricane disaster in Florida. This fund was raised by the chapter and its branches as follows: North Grosvenordale, $75; Thompson, $200; Woodstock, $83.25; Pomfret, $100; Putnam, $306.76. Included in the Putnam amount are two items for which the chapter is indebted to Mr. Alpert of the S-A Amusement company, through whose kindness a collection was allowed to be taken at the theatre on that day, amounting to about $40 and the proceeds of the Sunday benefit show of September 26, which was $26.65.

The officers of the chapter have extended thanks to all who assisted in the work in any way, thereby enabling the Putnam chapter to come across as it has always done in every time of need.

Funeral services for Roland Harquoll, whose tragic death occurred while hunting were held this morning at nine o'clock at St. Mary's church. It was a very largely attended funeral as the young man had many friends here and in Killingly. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

In the solemn requiem mass, the pastor Rev Charles H. Bedard, was celebrant, Rev. Arthur Routhier, deacon and Rev. Adrian Dykeman subdeacon. The bearers were Edward Aubin, Albert Reeves, Leonard H. Hesard and Rene Herard, all of Attawaugan, Armand Derosier and Armond Levesquet of Putnam.

BUS OPERATION

Railroads in Pennsylvania, like railroads elsewhere, are feeling the effects of motor competition. With the public showing a desire to travel by bus instead of by train it is expected that accommodations will be provided for them.

In their efforts to meet this situation and to end the uneconomic situation caused by having to run trains to which there are no patrons, or not enough to pay expenses, the Pennsylvania and the leading railroads operating in the interior of that state for workers for authority to use bus...

These applications have been denied by the Commission. It was maintained that it would mean a monopolistic control of that form of transportation. From this decision it would appear that it was not supposed to be the function of railroads to operate motor bus lines, even to supply transportation lines which would serve the public as the railroads have been doing and are anxious to do.

It has been repeatedly demonstrated that an efficient competition that will render first class service is far preferable to a handful of rich companies or private lines which are handicapped by lack of capital and experience. The idea of giving preference to established transportation companies would seem to be quite as sound for Pennsylvania as for other states. It is strange reasoning that the railroads of that state are satisfactory for the operation of steam lines but want that business is gone and has passed to

LEGHORN PEN BEST FOR THE WEEK AT STORRS

There was another drop in production in the Storrs egg laying contest during the 49th week, the 1400 pullets laying 3200 eggs, or approximately 41 per cent. This is a drop of 310 eggs when compared with the production for last week, but it represents a gain of 353 eggs when compared with the record for the corresponding week a year ago. Up to last Saturday night the contest flock had a grand total of 221,939 eggs. This is an average of 159 eggs per bird.

Harold S. Lennon farm entry from Corvallis, Ore., made the best score for the week with a lay of 50 eggs. Another pen of the same breed entered by George B. Ferris from Grand Rapids, Mich., was second with a production of 49 eggs. The Lewis farm Barred Rocks from Davisville, R. I., were third with a record of 46 eggs, and the White Leghorns entered by Wakefield Bros. from Red Bank, N. J., were fourth with a lay of 43 eggs.

There were no changes among the leading pens in the contest, and as only three more weeks remain in the laying competition, the Tolvonen Leghorns from Orford, Pa., are sure of making the best record among the 144 pens entered. Their score up to last Saturday night was 2287 eggs, or better than 228 per bird. The Pennsylvania entry has a lead of 36 eggs over their nearest competitor. Another pen of Leghorns owned by R. W. Colman from Medina, N. Y. This latter entry can be counted upon to finish second among the pens entered.

So far as winners in the different varieties are concerned several predictions can be safely made at this time. In the White Wyandotte class, the entry of The Lonquets from West Cornwall, Conn., appear to have things all their own way and will finish first. The same can be said of John Z. LaBelle's Rhode Island Reds from Ballouville, Conn., which earlier in the year made a strong bid for the winner's honors among all entries. R. W. Davis & Sons' entry from Rockland, Me., will win in the Barred Rock class and A. T. Lenzen's White Rocks of Attleboro, Mass., are finishing first in the "Other Varieties" classification.

The leading pens in each of the principal varieties are as follows:

White Wyandottes

The Lonquets West Cornwall, Conn.	1972
Thomas H. Matteson Davisville, R. I.	1931

Barred Rocks

R. W. Davis & Sons Rockland, Me.	1959

WEDDING
Brown-Pike

Last Monday afternoon the home of Mrs. Mary E. Pike, at Brooklyn, this state, was the scene of a very pleasant family gathering for the marriage of her daughter, Marion and Arnold P. Brown of Melrose, Mass.

The bride was attended by her twin sister, Miss Mildred Pike of New York and the best man was the groom's brother, Shepherd F. Brown of Malden. The bride was given away by her brother, Ernest Pike of New York. She looked charming in a gown of pink georgette and carried bride roses, the bridesmaid wore georgette and carried pink roses. The house was prettily decorated with autumn foliage, the marriage ceremony being performed in front of a bank of autumn leaves, and made very impressive by Rev. Chowes A. Downs, the double ring service being used.

The bride has been employed in Boston for the past three years and made her home in Brookline, where she has made many warm friends as the number of showers given her indicates. The groom is the son of Mrs. Hannah Brown of Melrose, Mass., and the late Fred S. Brown of Jewett City, this state. He is assistant manager in the Multiple Wanding Co. of Malden, where he has been since leaving Jewett City. The wedding gifts were numerous and useful, including silver, china, cut-glass, table linen and gold. From the ushers and the gift was a silver set, from the bridesmaids a dinner set of Haviland china. The bride's business associates gave her a generous purse of gold. The Multiple Wanding Co. remembered the groom with a handsome check while the treasurer of the company sent his personal check of a goodly sum.

The happy couple left by automobile in a shower of rice and confetti for Lake George and the White mountains, returning by way of the Mohawk trail. On their return they will reside at 27 Melbourne avenue, Melrose, Mass., where Mr. Brown has just completed his new house. They will be at home to their friends after Nov. 15.

Junior Week Day School Opening.

The junior week day school of the Central Baptist church holds its opening session this afternoon (Friday) at four o'clock in the primary room. Boys and girls 9, 10, 11 and 12 are welcome to the school. This year the study is to be based on Mrs. Nellie C. K. Wadhams' book, "Project Lessons On the Gospel of Mark," comparisons being made between the homes, occupations, customs, amusements, food, clothing, religious laws and ceremonies, schools, holidays, etc., of Jesus' day and our own. The teachers will be Miss Ruth Hamilton and Miss Edith Ellis, assisted by Miss Dorothy Spencer as pianist and secretary. Sessions will be held each Friday at four o'clock.

E. J. MULLINS MAKES TOP SCORE IN EAGLES' PINOCHLE

At the Eagles' weekly pinochle Thursday night E. J. Mullins took first prize with high total of 7,650, while E. P. Mullins was second with 7,010. John Coney finishing third with 6,965.

After an absence of several weeks many of the old timers returned to the fold, including "Doc" Caughey, who had 6,475 for his evening's score.

Next Wednesday the team journeys to New London for the third night's play of their tournament with the Jibboom club.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hawkins, who have spent the fall at their cottage at Eastern Point, were in Boston during the past week.

The Wednesday Afternoon club held the first of the season's meetings this week with Mrs. Allyn L. Brown, at her home on Brondway. The hostess had the paper, which was on Mark Twain.

Following a preliminary meeting at the home or Mrs. Aurin E. Payson, on Bryad St the Mah Jegg club is to hold the opening meeting of the season Wednesday next with Mrs. Philip T. Welles, at Norwich Town.

A farewell luncheon of eight was given Monday by Mrs. Elijah S. Burdsall for Dr. Gerdrun Bruns, who left Fort Point Thursday afternoon for her home near Berlin, Germany. Dr. Bruns is sailing Saturday on the White Star liner Homeric, for Cherbourg.

Mrs. Burdett White will leave Willington, Oct. 20th for St. Petersburg, Florida, where she will join Mr. White at their winter home, he having gone earlier by motor with his son, a student at a college in Florida.

FOUR NEW DIRECTORS ELECTED BY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEMBERS

One hundred fifty-seven members of the chamber of commerce voted in the final election for four directors, which closed at 5 p. m. Thursday. The four new members who were elected as directors for a term of two years are: Nelson J. Ayling, Herbert B. Cary, Archibald Mitchell, and Ernest O. Rodier.

The six directors who remain for another year are: E. LaRue Bliven, Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, James L. Case, Roy D. Judd, James M. Morton and William G. Park.

These ten directors will meet soon to select two other members who will serve on the board for the next two years. Later the officers will be chosen and the program of work for the new year will be established. The program is created from the most popular suggestions from the members.

The annual report of the chamber will be distributed in a few days and the annual meeting will be held Tuesday, October 19th, in accordance with the by-laws. The speaker for this event is Champe S. Andrews, who is one of the foremost orators in New England. Mr. Andrews, who is director of sales for the National Folding Box Co. of New Haven, has travelled extensively throughout the United States. He is a southerner by birth and his experience qualifies him to speak on his subject, "Why I Became a Yankee." Those who attend this meeting are assured of a most profitable and instructive evening. The speaker is absolutely sincere in his faith in the future of New England. An interesting program has been prepared for this meeting which will begin at 6:30 p. m. in the Wauregan hotel.

HOYE FAMILY REUNION HELD AT TAUNTON, MASS.

The second annual reunion of the Hoye Family association was held on Columbus day at Odd Fellows' hall, in Taunton, Mass., about 150 attending. At the luncheon, grace was said by Rev. Thomas P. Dougherty, pastor at East Taunton and a member of the association. The afternoon's entertainment program was in charge of J. Gregory Hoye of Randolph, Mass., the chairman being Miss Mary Hoye of Taunton. There ware songs by Dr. Leo McCready of Jamaica Plain, Mass., and Miss Barbara Hoye of Randolph; a poem written by Sister M. Barbara, of Bay View seminary, Providence, was read, and there were interpretive dances by the younger members of the association. Letters of regret were read from Monsignor Thomas Conaty of California and other members unable to be present.

In the election of officers, Mrs. Mary Hoye of Taunton was elected president, Dr. Fred Hoye of New Bedford treasurer, Miss Louise Hoye, New Bedford, secretary, J. Gregory Hoye of Randolph and Dr. L. O. Miskell of New Bedford, directors. The assembly rooms and tables were attractively decorated for the reunion and there were timely souvenirs and favors. In attendance from Norwich was Mrs. Walter S. Skelly (Mary Driscoll, daughter of John Driscoll, and Margaret Hoye of Taunton) with her children, John S., Patricia and Barbara Skelly, of West Thames street.

FAMINE IN CHINA HITS MISSION FIELD

The famine in China, of which news dispatches have given reports during the past months, has brought a response in the mission field where Rev. Edward Huntington Smith, a Norwich Free Academy graduate, has been working for many years. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen S. Smith of 374 Washington street and graduated from the Academy in the class of 1895.

A recent letter from him, written Sept. 1, from Foo Chow, China tells of the terrible famine which fares all this region. No rain has fallen for three months and the crops are dead in the fields. Several weeks ago Mr. Smith wrote of taking 275 pounds of rice up the Inchokeiver to his home station in order to have it for his boys' school and his girls' school.

Many letters come to him like this one from one of his young preachers: "No rain since June. Our crops are all dead, we have no hope—we must all die, our family is eight souls, we must all starve. Pray to Go that we may die soon, there is no hope. The idolators pray to their idols for rain—we have prayed and prayed to God—why does he not hear our prayers?"

Cholera is killing 200 persons in Shanghai every day for the past weeks, but famine is worse than all the plagues. "Don't send us any Christmas gifts, only money, money with which to save lives," he writes. Anything sent as a "special gift for famine relief" to Rev. Mr. Smith through the treasurer of the American board will be gratefully acknowledged.

The Bulletin is holding a number of news items which will not be used, since they were not signed by the persons sending them in. It is absolutely necessary to know the name of the writer of every item mailed to the paper.

CONGREGATIONAL WOMEN ATTEND MISSIONS MEETING

The semi-annual meeting of the Woman's Congregational Home Missionary Union of Connecticut, eastern district was held in the Congregational church, Willimantic, on Thursday. The attendance broke the record for there were 328 reported present. Mrs. Allen Latham of this city presided at the morning session. The doxology opened the service followed by prayer by Mrs. Henry J. Thayer of Putnam. Mrs. Henry Laurens of New Haven spoke of the home Service Units gifts. The total valuation of gifts this last year is $4,883.30. Hartford Center church leading all gifts in the state. They are sent to six hospitals located in Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Porto Rico, Colorado, and South Carolina and also to 17 schools. Malcolm Moyd Dana told of the Mohegan Lagger Parish work in which he is engaged in cooperation with Rev. Mr. Barnes in the communities about the Mohegan, Montville and Salem churches of this county. A real laboratory of religion, a department of rural life engineering and intercollegiate house center is being worked out, students from colleges planning to come for retreat. Boy and Girl Scouts interests and community affairs bringing the people together were told with inspiring interest to the listeners. Mrs. Hilda L. Ives held the closest attention as she rapidly and vividly sketched the work she has been doing in Aroostook county, Me. Her subject was Spiritual Ozone from Farm and Field. The material and physical help for the needy people who had no church, which brought them to see God through such service, was a practical demonstration of the way missionary work can be applied anywhere when one spends any time in the rural districts.

Miss Sylvina C. Norton of Westminster has become the new president of the W. C. H. M. U. of Connecticut and a recognition service was held at this service Miss Elizabeth F. Putnam of Norwich for New London association and Mrs. Robert H. Fenton for Windham association greeted Miss Norton pledging the loyalty and support of the members of the societies. Mrs. J. Romeyn Danforth, vice president of eastern district offered prayer. The morning session closed with a reception for Miss Norton. In the receiving line were Mrs. W. G. Hart of Hanover, Mrs. Henry J. Thayer, Putnam, Mrs. Allen Latham, Norwich, Mrs. Robert Fenton, Willimantic, Mrs. J. Romeyn Danforth, New London, and Mrs. E. A. Faust, Jewett City.

A delicious luncheon of hot meat loaf, gravy, scalloped potatoes, cabbage salad, jelly, nut bread, rolls, cheese and coffee was served in the parish house. At each plate were song books from Plaut-Cadden's and led by Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock, the pastor, many of the songs were sung during the dinner hour.

The afternoon session was opened with an organ recital by Morgan St. John. His numbers were: Grand Chorus (Dubois); Adagio (Bizet) and Cantilene Nuptiale (Dubois). Mrs. G. E. Williams, soprano, and Mrs. F. G. Remington, alto, sang "Whispering Hope by Hawthorne as a duet. After the singing of Amerlia, Mrs. Oscar E. Maurer sonducted an inspirational service reading from Ephesians of the majesty and wonder of God.

Mrs. Frank Warner, president of the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions, who is the leader of all the women of America in mission interests spoke on The Woman's Share. She dwelt principally on the woman's organization in the local churches which should never be given up. Women should be trained in local churches and then be used in larger work geographically. If she'd not be women, alone who are interested in missions but every individual in our church life should be a missionary person. It is up to the women to undertake this job, and it will be a success because it is a hard task. See conditions oneself—it interests you as well as the church. She told several incidents of her wide travels in this and foreign countries which showed the need of missionary interest which one could never forget.

Mrs. J. Fulton Ferguson was to speak on Treasury Records, but had charts which every one might read, and did not talk on figures, but pleaded for support we can give, if we are not able to do the real work.

The offering was received. Mrs. Latham announced the total attendance as 322. New London association had 146, United Church, Norwich, having 25 present. Later Hanover stood for 26, 50 per cent. of their membership. Windham County association had 147, 63 being present from Willimantic, which was 50 per cent. of their membership.

Mrs. Latham then thanked Mrs. Abel of Willimantic for her work as hostess and for the delicious luncheon, the restful organ recital and the singers, the speakers and her helpful committee, and especially the publicity committee, Mrs. E. H. Hiscox of Jewett City, for her publicity work, especially so frequently keeping the meeting before the people in the columns of the Norwich Bulletin. She said one auxiliary president wrote her saying it looked as if we were preparing for a presidential election.

Miss Norton spoke briefly on Home Horizons. She said that only 21 per cent. of Congregationalists in Connecticut were giving to missions. If each would get one woman, man and child to help, this percent would be greatly increased. Undertake the project of projectifying the work. If one cannot attend the meetings read the Congregationalist, and the Missionary Magazines. Be informed and interested and then reach out in all this land into the world.

The sessions closed with prayer and benediction by the pastor. The church was very lovely with its fall decorations of autumn leaves, pine boughs, and flowers, as were the tables in the parish house. The local committees for Willimantic were Dwight Abel, hostess; Mrs. Arthur Gates and Mrs. Fred Staebner, registration; Mrs. James Harroun, luncheon tickets; Mrs. Robert Branch, decorations; Mrs. Edward Taylor, luncheon and Mrs. Edward Peck of Westchester, literature table. There was an exhibit of home service unit articles. The program committee was Mrs. Allen Latham, Mrs. W. H. Dawley and Mrs. A. H. Vaughn, Norwich; Mrs. E. A. Faust, Jewett City; Mrs. W. J. Park, Hanover and Mrs. Henry Thayer Putnam, reception; Mrs. E. P. Eccleston, New London, recognition service; Miss Elizabeth Day, Colchester, delegates; Mrs. E. A. Harris, Norwich, music; Mrs. Henry Johnson, Norwich, transportation; Mrs. Dwight Abel, Willimantic, local arrnagements; Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, Jewett City, Mrs. A. L. Smith, New London, Mrs. H. J. Thayer, Putnam, publicity.

The list of delegates were for New London county: Colchester 13, Pachaug 2, Groton 4, Hanover 26, Jewett City 7, Lebanon First 3, Ledyard 5, Lisbon 2, Mystic 3, New London first 20, New London second 13, Park church, Norwich, 12, Norwich Town 4, United church, Norwich, 25, Preston 4, Slaem 2, Stonington 1, Westchester 5, Versailles 1.

TEACHERS FROM SCHOOLS OF FOUR TOWNS MET

The regular teachers' meeting of Sterling, Voluntown, Lisbon and Canterbury was held at the Bishop school in this city Wednesday a. m. Supervisor Edwin B. Floyd of this city opened the meeting with some suggestions and helps for the teachers. Miss Risley of the Lisbon schools gave a talk on the construction of maps from using salt and flour which was very helpful. Miss Lewis of Sterling gave a short talk about organizing a city and their school. Miss Hack of Canterbury gave a talk on the organization of a similiar city called "Spotless Town." This idea of work is being carried out in the school study course. Mr. Floyd then gave the announcements and other information necessary for the work. As the teachers are discussing a book on "Foundation Methods" by Kilpatrick it was proper to have a talk on the work assigned. Mrs. Peckham of Voluntown gave an excellent discourse on the Wider verses the Narrower method. Mr. Tieney also gave a talk on the same material. A. E. Story, assistant treasurer of the Chelsea Savings bank gave a very helpful talk on the Thrift Work. In the afternoon an art talk was given by Mr. Whistler of the state department. He had many posters and books which gave an idea of carrying on the art work.

The next meeting will be the annual State Teacher's Convention, October 22. After the art lecture the meeting was adjourned. The various teachers had a display of school work in the hall which was carefully examined by all.

The following is the list of schools an dteachers under Supervisor Floyd: Voluntown, Center school, Principal Mary E. Peckham, Rebecca Pease, Ella Gray; Wylie school, Margaret E. Tanner.

MR. & MRS. JOHN IRISH WILL TODAY OBSERVE DIAMOND ANNIVERSARY

Today (Friday) is the diamond wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John Irish of 146 Laurel Hill avenue. Sixty years ago on Oct. 15, 1866, John Irish and Miss Emily Nash were married in the home of the bride's parents 331 Main street, Norwich, by Rev. Edgar F. Clark, pastor of the old East Main Street Methodist church.

Mr. Irish is a native of Preston City, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jedediah Irish. His wife is the daughter of Asa and Emily Corning Nash. Ten years ago, on the date of their golden wedding, they made a visit to the building, 331 Main street, where they were married and which is now the Hemschell Tire & Rubber Co. shop.

In recalling their wedding day Thursday, Mrs. Irish remembered that 1866 was a very cold fall, winter setting in unusually early. Mr. Irish's mother, Mrs. Nancy Irish and his brother, Henry, were coming in from Preston City in the stage coach and not wagon. It was snowing and so heavy was the fall that the stage driver and the men passengers had to get out and shovel out some blocked places along the rough country turnpike. The delay kept the expected wedding guests from reaching Norwich until nearly 8 o'clock that evening.

Although Mr. Irish has been seriously ill this summer he is now able to be out and about, so that he could attend the patriotic exercises at Shantok state park on Columbus day. Thursday he was out among his dahlias and was able to cut some choice ones of his own growing, for friends.

Today (Friday) Mr. and Mrs. Irish are invited to be dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Morgan, at East Lyme. Mr. Morgan is a member of the 26th Regt. Conn. Vols., which was recruited at Norwich and is one of the firm friends of Comrade Irish, a member of the First Conn. Cavalry and adjutant of Sedgwick Post, No. 1, of Norwich.

Through the courtesy of former neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Irish will be motor guests on their trip to East Lyme of Mrs. Frederick S. Crowell, while on the return trip they will be guests of Mrs. James L. Crawford and daughter, Miss Helene. They will be accompanied to East Lyme by Mrs. Irish's niece, Miss Lola Belle Roath, daughter of the late Capt. Warrington and Louisa Nash Roath, who came from San Francisco four years ago to make her home with her aunt, after her parents' death.

Mr. and Mrs. Irish have always been active in Grand Army and Woman's Relief Corps work. The former was for years a member of the Norwich police force.

They will receive many congratulations on reaching such an unusual anniversary in married life, especially since both are now in very comfortable health.

ACADEMY PLAYS WESTERLY HIGH AT WESTERLY THIS AFTERNOON

The Academy football team will clash with Westerly High at Westerly this Friday afternoon in what should be one of the most important games on the season's schedule.

Westerly is reported as having an exceptionally fast eleven this season and put up a great game in losing to Windham High, 6 to 0. As Windham has been an outstanding contender for the state football championship for some time this defeat is considered no mar on the Rhode Islanders record. Coach Rogers will send his strongest lineup into the fray and as there are 10 of last year's regular eleven on the squad the Academyites can look forward to a busy afternoon.

Coach Earle E. Bergman of the locals has been drilling his charges hard during the week in anticipation of a fight battle. The hard weeks practice was finished off with a light signal drill on Thursday afternoon so that the squad should be in A-1 shape for the game. The absence of McClintock will be keenly felt by the team as he was a tower of strength on the line.

The probable starting lineup for the Academy follows:

Marks re, Kahn rt, Shea rg, Fox c, Columb lg, Sweezey or Fiske, lt, Moore or Hussey re, Williams qb, Malone, Viviano or Labenski, hb, Capt. Del. Brewer, fb.

A large crowd of supporters is expected to accompany the local athletes to the game and lend encouragement to the lads during the game. It has been quite some time since the Academy has defeated Westerly on the latter's grounds as it was necessary to go the 1926 representatives of the Red and Gold to break the record and bring a victory back to the Rose of New England.

This afternoon's game will not be an interscholastic affair as none of the Academy have previously participated from the Rhode Island Commonwealth. The kickoff is set for 2:30 p. m. sharp.

CRITICS UNDECIDED ABOUT RANKING RICHARDS AS NO. 1

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—(AP)—Metropolitan critics already have taken up the unofficial task of ranking American tennis stars for 1926 with a sharp division of opinion as to whether William T. Tilden or Vincent Richards is entitled to No. 1 position.

Admitting that the ranking problem has been complicated by the sweep of French racquet-ists through the national championships event and the passing of Richards from the amateur fold, some observers contend that the season's record of the former Olympic champion entitles him to the top position.

Although Tilden's downfall in the title tournament was hastened by an injured knee, those commentators point out that Richards won three of his four matches against the dethroned king and that he was the only American player to reach the semi-final round. Other critics however feel that "Big Bill" should top the list for the seventh time.

The official ranking committee of the United States Lawn Tennis association will not undertake its task until mid-winter, but critics see before them another problem in fixing the position of two veteran members of the "Big Four"—R. N. Williams and William M. Johnston. Neither reached the final round of a singles competition during the season. Each was eliminated early in the Sea Bright invitation event, Johnston defaulted at Newport, when he became ill, while French players defeated both in the national championships.

NUTMEGS EXPECT TOUGH BATTLE FROM NOANK

The Nutmegs, from all reports are in for a tough battle when they tackle the Noank Crushers at J. B. Martin park on Sunday afternoon. The downstaters are reported as having a powerful grid-iron squad and should furnish the locals with plenty of opposition throughout the entire contest.

The Nutmegs held a stiff practice on Thursday evening in anticipation of a tough battle and should be in first class condition by game time.

A large crowd is expected to turn out and support the Nutmegs in their attempt at giving local fans fast football contests. Mileski, Christy and Kramer of the Greeneville Tigers have been signed by the Nutmegs and will be in the lineup Sunday.

AGGIE TEAM OFF FOR GAME WITH MAINE

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Conn., Oct. 14—A Connecticut Aggie football squad of nineteen men left here tonight for Orono, Me., where on Saturday the strong University of Maine eleven will be played in what shapes up as one of the most important New England conference games of the season.

With the exception of quarterback Schofield, who is still bothered with a bad knee injury, the squad is in excellent shape and ready for a stiff contest with the Pine Tree staters.

AGGIE FRESHMEN TEAM PLAYS AMHERST FRESH TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Conn., Oct. 14—The Connecticut Aggie freshman eleven will receive its first test tomorrow afternoon, when the Massachusetts Aggies Two-Year school team is played at Amherst, Mass. Coach L. A. Alexander has been drilling his squad for the past three weeks, with the result that a well balanced eleven will represent the Nutmeggers tomorrow. This year's team apparently is a great improvement over the fresh eleven of a year ago, mainly in its offensive strength, though it remains to be seen if the yearlings will display as much ground gaining ability in a scheduled game as they have in practice. They look good, however, and Connecticut followers expect them to put up a strong game tomorrow against the Bay staters.

SIX WESTERN TEAMS OFF FOR FOREIGN FIELDS

CHICAGO, Oct. 14—(AP)—Six western conference football teams entrained tonight for foreign fields, four to meet Big Ten rivals and two to grapple with intersectional foes in week-end contests.

Chicago preceded its departure for Philadelphia, where Pennsylvania is Saturday's foe, with a brisk practice session and several thousand rooters sent a band went to the station to see the Maroons good luck. Johnny Mc Donough, quarterback, has a bandage his neck, a survival of the Maryland game and may not play Saturday.

Illinois' headline conference tilts bring Iowa to Illinois and Minnesota to Michigan. The two teams which battle in those battles will be touted as title favorites. Seldom have two pairs of formidable conference rivals clashed so early in the season and with so little information in each others power.

JOE DUNDEE AND ZIVIC BATTLE AT GARDEN TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—(AP)—Joe Dundee, crack Baltimore welterweight, and Jack Zivic of Pittsburgh, meet in a ten-round scrap tomorrow night at Madison Square garden to determine opponent for the 147-pound champion, Pete Latzo of Scranton.

The winner has been promised a title match during the indoor campaign at the garden.

Dundee has been established a strong favorite as a result of knock-out victories this season over Mickey Walker the former champion, and Eddie Rumbrook. Zivic has a reputation for aggressiveness, however, as well as hitting ability and may spring another title upset.

Two other ten-round welterweight bouts are on the garden card. Lew Tendler, Philadelphia southpaw veteran, meets Farmer Joe Cooper of Indianapolis in one while Paul Debaie of Los Angeles mingles with Al Mancini of England in the other.

WORCESTER TEAM LOSES FIRST GAME IN ENGLAND

STOURBRIDGE, Worcester, England, Oct. 14—(AP)—The soccer football team of the Sportsmanship brotherhood of Worcester county, Massachusetts, met defeat today in its first game on English soil. Playing against Stourbridge team, the Americans were defeated 5 to 2.

Lack of combined play prevented the visitors from taking advantage of numerous opportunities, although they played a sharp game. E. L. Utter and Tom Cooper for the Americans and Whitney, who played at goal for the wire. In the second half Whitney dislocated his shoulder and was taken away in an ambulance.

DAD PRESIDENT OF MICHIGAN; SON PLAYS WITH CORNELL

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 14—(AP)—When Michigan State college lines up against Cornell on the gridiron this Saturday father and son, as representatives of rival institutions, will have a close interest in the game.

In the distinguished guest's box atop the Cornell field will be Dr. Kenyon Leech Butterfield, president of Michigan State college since 1924. His son, Victor Lloyds Butterfield is a member of the Cornell varsity football squad and one of its most promising candidates in the backfield.

YONKERS WINS BOYS NATIONAL BASEBALL TITLE

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14—(AP)—Yonkers, N. Y., today won the boys' baseball championship of the United States by overwhelmingly defeating Pocatello, Idaho, team 23 to 6 in the final game of the American Legion series in the sesqui-centennial here.

The New Yorkers took the lead in the first inning and never relinquished it, outclassing their opponents.

Judge Kenesaw K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner, threw out the first ball.

Miss Jenny Leads Field

GREENWICH, Oct. 14—(AP)—Sixty women golfers teed off today in the one-day golf tournament, played at the Greenwich Country club under the auspices of the Westchester-Fairfield Women's Golf association.

Miss Mary Jenny, of the Hudson River club, won the low gross score prize with a 43-47-90. Mrs. H. C. Scarsdale club, captured the low net with 106-25-81, and the association cup went to Mrs. Gilbert Bowditch, of Greenwich, who turned in a 108-30-78 card.

INDIANA TO APPEAR ON HARVARD 1927 SLATE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 14—(AP)—William J. Bingham, director of athletics at Harvard, announced tonight that University of Indiana would appear on Harvard's 1927 football schedule. The game between the Crimson will be played at Crambridge on October 29.

At the same time it was rumored in Harvard athletic circles that a temporary interruption of football relations between Harvard and Dartmouth was possible, due to the fact that the powerful western team had been added to the schedule for next year. Officials declined to confirm or deny this report, on the ground that the 1927 schedule of games had not as yet been fully drawn up. The date allotted to Indiana on the 1927 schedule is that which Tufts fills this year.

Director Bingham let it be known that only four of Harvard's 1927 dates had as yet been decided definitely.

After the Indiana game on October 29, the Crimson will meet Princeton, Brown and Yale on successive Saturdays. The Harvard-Dartmouth game this year is scheduled for October 23.

Negotiations with Indiana were opened after a home and home series with Michigan for the season of 1927 and 1928 had been discussed and announced. Reports that Harvard planned to drop its Princeton game next year in order to meet Michigan at Ann Arbor resulted in a conference of Big Three athletic heads in New Haven last week. After that conference it was announced that there was no danger of a rupture of Princeton-Harvard athletic relations. Harvard later explained that the Michigan game had been given up because a faculty rule at Harvard limits the team to one game a season away from Cambridge.

YALE TEAM IS BADLY CRIPPLED BY INJURIES

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 14—(AP)—With the footbal battle with Dartmouth two days away, the injured list in the Yale varsity eleven continues to grow.

The development of a knee injury to Guy Richards, veteran left tackle, in yesterday's scrimmage, leaves Yale's list of regulars who will be missing from Saturday's clash to three. Caldwell, star halfback, also was injured in yesterday's scrimmage and his sprained ankle will keep him out of the game until the Army battle October 30. Bill Webster, each guard, whose ankle has kept him on the bench for nearly a month, is the third missing regular.

The Yale coaches admitted they had a problem on their hands in filling the gaps. They have called in Sidney Quarrier, of Short Hills, N. J., to fill Richards' place. He played on the scrubs' team last year and was a member of the varsity crew last year. Dud Charlesworth is playing in Webster's berth. Larry Noble has resumed his place at halfback and will carry the brunt of the Yale attack on Saturday. He was displaced several weeks ago by Caldwell when the latter's brilliant performances in practice and in the opening games earned him a place on the varsity team.

Two other Ells, Vandegrift, right tackle, and Fishwick, right end, are on the injured list. Vandegrift has a bad ankle but the coaches have hopes that he will be able to play on Saturday. Fishwick is suffering from a slight bone but he was able to take part in the signal drill today.

ARMY GOLF FINAL WILL BE PLAYED TODAY

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14—(AP)—Major E. L. Naiden, Washington, D. C., and Captain J. H. Gay, meeting the final round tomorrow for the golf championship of the United States army.

In the 36-hole semi-final round of the tournament today at the Huntingdon Valley Country club, Major Naiden defeated Lieut. Barne Furnholmen, Fort Bliss, Tex., 5 and 3, while Capt. Gay eliminated Lieut. C. A. Quaile, San Antonio, Tex., 10 and 8.

Montreal and Taylor Matched

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—(AP)—Young Montreal, Providence bantamweight has been matched for a ten-round bout at Los Angeles, November 6, with Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind., recognized as an outstanding title claimant in the 118 pound division.

TAFTVILLE A. A. BASEBALL TEAM

TAFTVILLE A. A. HAD CREDITABLE RECORD DURING PAST SEASON

With 40 games won and 17 lost and two resulting in a tie score, the Taftville A. A. lined up what was a very creditable record for the season. A schedule of 59 games is a stiff schedule for most any semi-pro club and the record shows out as one of the best of the eastern Connecticut semi-pro clubs. Taftville played the hardest schedule this year of any of the Taftville teams of previous seasons. Manager James H. Treloar booked games with the fastest semi-pro clubs in the state and also threaten with flying trips into the Connecticut valley series by the Riverview clubs late in the season.

Among the teams beaten by Taftville are the New Departure club of Bristol, Kensington, Falcons, New Departure of Meriden, Norwich City Giants and Jewett City clubs. By virtue of these victories Taftville laid claim to the state semi-pro title and in an effort to get settled played a five game series with Riverview winning two games and annexing the deciding game in one of the best baseball classics ever played in Connecticut.

Taftville finished second among the Riverview clubs although there were only three who topped the .500 mark. Those topped the .500 mark. Those who hit better than .300 were Lefty Gauthier with .361 and Ray Yerrington with .347. The batting averages of the Taftville players who participated in a considerable number of games during the successful season. The season's summary follows:

Esposito Gets Verdict

STAMFORD, Oct. 14—(AP)—Mike Esposito, Connecticut batamweight champion, was given the decision over Dodo Jackson, of Jersey City, N. J., in the star 10-round bout at Columbus hall here tonight.

In the semi-final bout Johnny Larson, of Pennsylvania, won on a foul from Peter Chouvaris, of New York in the seventh round of a scheduled 10-round bout.

Wesleyan Freshman Schedule

MIDDLETOWN, Oct. 14—(AP)—The Wesleyan university freshman football team will play four games this fall, the schedule given out tonight being as follow:

October 16, Pomfret academy at Pomfret; 23, Amherst freshmen; 30, Connecticut Agricultural college freshmen at Storrs; November 6, Williams freshmen at Williamstown.

The Elizabeth Street school football team challenges any grammar school team in Norwich, especially Broadway school. For games call the school.

MANCHUS, IN EXILE, CLING TO ETIQUETTE

TIENTSIN, Oct. 14—(AP)—Court etiquette of centuries casts a shadow of the once regal ispremacy about the throneless majesties of China.

The houshold clings tenaciously to a vestige of traditional form and sacredly observes respect for the young emperor without an empire.

In the small, carefully guarded house in the Japanese concession to which Hsuan Tung, tenth of the great Manchu line of emperors and empress dowagers, adventurously fled two years ago, "Ching An! Ching An!" the quaint and musical usage, are the first words that daily reach the ears of the "Son of Heaven." The Manchus still are punctilious in their observance of age-old etiquette in the present day travesty of the once great court now in exile.

As his tutors and more important followers tender their daily greetings to the head of the fallen Ching Dynasty, so does the second consort of Hsuan Tung repair daily to the apartment of the empress and bid her "Ching An!"

Some of the ancient forms have been modified as a result of more democratic leanings on the part or the descendant of Chien Lung and of the foreign influences which have had so great a part in the moulding of his character and intellect. His acquired taste for many foreign things occasionally involves him in situations at variance with traditional royal usages, but without loss of inherent dignity.

The new tastes came through his distinguished tutor, a former English official in the east, and the young emperor has admitted to his friendship several of the more cultured foreigners in Tientsin, where his exiled household is established.

He reads and speaks English, is fond of western dancing, is learning to drive the new touring car he has just acquired and is particularly interested in western engineering and mechanical contrivances. He recently visited the leading foreign newspaper and printing offices here and betrayed a most native and intense curiosity in the various machines and appliances. He went, of course, incognito, and as hundreds of Chinese are employed in the establishment the foreign staff was a great pains to see that there were no untoward occurrences.

The last of the Manchu rulers does not find life too monotonous. He is an active young man with an alert and intensely curious mind, and although his movement outdoors is dictated by the cautious discretion of his followers rather than by his own eager choice, he has already seen more of the life of the common people than his predecessors.

It is useless to alter bad laws unless you are able to obey good ones.

CUB BASE WINS FROM LEAGUE ISLAND MARINES

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14—(AP)—New London submarine base defeated the League Island Marines, 7 to 6, in a football game at the stadium today before a big crowd of American Legion conventioners. A pass, Kosik to Murphy, resulted in a touchdown in the second period, and Meska kicked the goal.

Speedboys vs. Majestics

Sunday at Ashland park, the fast Jewett City Speedboys will take into camp the powerful Majestic A. C. of Westerly. Both teams claim to have a clean slate for the season and a fast game can be expected from the kick off to the last whistle. The team will enter the field with the same men that beat the Nutmegs last week with the exception of Capt. Cub Parkhurst, who is away and will not be able to play the rest of the season. The management has signed the famous quarterback West, formerly of the General Electric. Capt. Smith will call his men for scrimmage Saturday and will go through different formations. The team is expected to be in the pink of condition for Sunday's game.

The management is still booking games for the coming season. Will all fast clubs wishing games write to William Bakanowsky, or call 17-13 Jewett City.

FAILED TO PROVE HERSELF HEIR OF LOTTA CRABTREE

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Chief Justice Rugg, in writing the opinion of the full bench of the supreme court in an order today denying the motion of Carlotta Cockburn of Denver, Colo. in her effort to prove herself an heir of Lotta Crabtree, wealthy actress, denied that the fact that a justice of the court was an executor of the will would have any influence in the decision. The justice referred to was William Cushing Wait.

MANY TEAMS WITH UNCROSSED GOAL LINES WILL BATTLE ON SATURDAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—(AP)—Football teams with unblemished reputations will see blots placed upon their escutcheons in Saturday's play unless an unprecedented number of scoreless ties are registered. Neither Yale, nor Dartmouth, meeting in one of the feature games of the week, has had to line up near its goal posts to see an opponent try for point after touchdown.

Cornell called on to defend its unrossed goal line, against a western invasion from Michigan state, did not expect an easy afternoon. Columbia, viewed with some apprehension the appearance of Ohio State, although the Buckeyes have had two touchdowns counted against them.

Penn State carried the colors of the east into the west to meet Notre Dame at South Bend.

Syracuse plays the Army, the Orange team also defending its perfect defensive position along with its honor.

A Colgate team with a record of not having been scored on meets Pittsburgh, which has been scored on in each of the three games payed.

Navy considered formidable, was called on to beat back an attack by Princeton, handicapped by injuries, in keeping its record clean.

Brown was favored to keep its record on straight against Bates, but Washington and Jefferson presented a menace to Carnegie Tech's success in stopping scoring plays.

Although both have been scored on, Chicago and Pennsylvania, were expected to stage a keenly fought contest. Philadelphia, continuing a rivalry began on the football field in 1876.

Two southern teams play in the east. Tulane comes from New Orleans, in the last lap of an early season schedule featured by its mileage, to play New York university. William and Mary, oldest southern college and second only to Harvard in seniority, moves on Cambridge to make a contest of the Gray Beards.

Two rugged teams meet in the game between West Virginia and Georgetown at Washington while Rutgers and Holy Cross were expected to supply an interesting affair for Newark.

The Quantico marines fly to Bethlehem, Pa., to play Lehigh, following the example set by the fighting leathernecks, Gene Tunney, in going to the scene of battle by airplane.

CHIEF THOS. E. BROWN HOST TO STATE POLICE CHIEFS

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 14.—Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown was the host this afternoon to some thirty members of the Rhode Island Police Chiefs' conference. Chiefs of Rhode Island cities and towns gathered soon after 1 o'clock at the county courthouse on Union street. In sixteen automobiles the chiefs rode to Bradford, where they visited the granite quarries of the Sullivan Granite Works, also visited the Smith Granite Works in Westerly. Westerly's shore resorts of Watch Hill Pleasant View and Weekapaug were next visited and then the members of the conference assembled at the Haversham Inn for dinner. Following was the menu:

Oyster Cocktails
Rhode Island Clam Chowder
Pickles Cucumbers
Toast Rhode Island Turkey
(with dressing)
Mashed Potato Mashed Turnip
Beets Creamed Onions
Apple Pie with Cheese
Coffee

Presently William E. O'Neil, chief of the Providence police department, presided at the meeting at the inn following which Colonel George A. Neville, a firearms identification expert, demonstrated the process used. The following chiefs were present: Maxime Fenn, Cumberland; James McGinley, Central Falls; James Arop, Lincoln; James E. Cuff, Johnston; Thomas F. W. Dolan, Westerly; Noah Knowles, Thomas E. Robinson, Barrington; Thomas E. Harrop, West Warwick; E. W. Adams, East Providence; William J. Allaire, North Smithfield; James J. Crapan, Warren; Frank H. Dean, Hopkinton; Thomas J. Smith, East Greenwich; William J. Dugan, Portsmouth; Frank Gerreraux, Burrillville; Arthur Cranston, Warwick; William L. Kay, Hope Valley, Hopkinton; Frederick E. Coe, Woonsocket, and Col Everett S. Chaffee, superintendent of Rhode Island department of state police and Harold R. Shippee of the Rhode Island State Board of Public roads and George R. Wellington of the R. I. State Board of Public roads.

The following are named to represent the delegates the Westerly Woman's Christian Temperance Union at the State W. C. T. U. convention in East Greenwich next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday: Mrs. Louise Babcock, Mrs. Jennie Nichols, Mrs. Nellie Grant, Miss Lula Clark, Mrs. Alice Smith, Mrs. Fannie Richmond, Mrs. Jennie Parker, Miss Lizzie Martin and Mrs. Jennie A. Dawley.

"The Mexican Question" was the subject of a lecture delivered Wednesday evening by Peter Collins, nationally known eloquent lecturer and student of international affairs, who spoke in the auditorium of the new parochial school of the Church of the Immaculate Conception. His visit to Westerly was sponsored by Narragansett Council No. 21, Knights of Columbus.

Fred Clarke, a former Westerly resident, motored from Providence Thursday to Westerly.

Mrs. Thomas W. Reynolds of Stonington borough visited Westerly friends Thursday.

Arthur L. Perry has been confined to his home by illness.

Col and Mrs. Arthur N. Nash have returned, after a tow weeks' motor trip in the Adirondacks.

Mrs. O. E. Wood of Shelter Harbor left Westerly Thursday afternoon for Camp Devens where she will visit this winter with her son, Col M E Wood.

MYSTIC

The three days' sessions of the Connecticut Baptist state convention has kept the members of the church extremely busy. Tuesday was the banner day; automobiles lined High street to Burrows street on the north and to New London road on the south and Library street was filled, the overflow running some distance into Elm street. Monday night the young people had a banquet in Odd Fellows' hall which was far too small to accommodate all. The older people were served in church. Tuesday noon 126 were sent to G. A. R. hall, where Mrs. Leota Wilcox, president of the Woman's Relief Corps, assisted by Mrs. Jenson, Mrs. Pollard, Mrs. Eldridge, Mrs. Lamb, Mrs. Tift, Mrs. Goodwin, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Burdick, Mrs. Decker and Mrs. Phillips, served a hot dinner. Over 225 had dinner at the church and many went to the restaurants. For the woman's banquet Tuesday at 5:30, 208 were seated at the tables. Miss Mary L. Howard of Hartford was toastmistress, with Mrs. E. E. aKtes of Hartford pianist. Between the courses four missionary songs were sung. The menu was fruit, chicken salad, rolls, ice cream, cake and coffee. Several were introduced and made brief, witty speeches. The laymen's banquet at Hotel Mystic overwhelmed the management, so many were present. An enjoyable time was spent, with Captain J. F. Laughton and others speaking. When the evening session opened at 7:45 the large auditorium was filled and some were unable to find seats after extra seats and chairs were brought in. The pageant, "Our Inheritance", under the direction of the author, Mrs. C. H Barrett of Hartford, was given, presenting a beautiful spectacle. When Deacon Cliff, past 80, and another old soldier aided by a Boy Scout carrying the flag, followed by another veteran Mr. Gardner, appeared the audience applauded. Several girls in white, with red white and blue sashes were in the choir and sang the various numbers. Wednesday was another full day, but with not so many present, some leaving in the afternoon for home. The women's society of the church served dinner to more than 200. They served supper at 5:30 to a good number who had remained for the closing service. Rev. Harold B. Camp of New Haven was the speaker, subject, "What are Churches For?" He made an earnes plea for everyone to win and keep the young people. He is a young man and full of the right spirit for service. The organist and choir have been present each evening and gave anthems. Much praise is due Mrs. Julia B. Coates, who has been chairman of all the meals, assisted by Miss Nellie Beebe and all the women in the church. The new pastor, Rev. L. J. Shepler is much pleased over the success of the convention. It met here in 1867 and again in 1909. Next year as told in Thursday's Bulletin, it meets in the new Central Baptist church, Hartford. Several prominent speakers from outside the state were heard during the convention.

Rev. and Mrs. Herbert B. Hutchins are visiting Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Williams at Old Mystic.

Mrs. Charles F. Vincent of Groton was a caller here Tuesday.

Charity chapter, No. 61, O. E. S., was visited by Mrs. Grace Chidsey, worthy grand matron and her associate grand officers, Tuesday night, for inspection Degrees were conferred on a class of candidates.

The degree team of Mystic Rebekah lodge plans to meet tonight (Friday) for a rehearsal of degree work.

Some from here went to Stafford Springs to attend the annual fair.

Miss Ella Wheeler of North Stonington has been the guest of Mrs. George Packer this week

The small plot of land and a building, corner of Elm street and New London road, has been sold by J. B. Copp to E. C. George.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

CLOSING DAY OF THE FAIR WITH ATTENDANCE OVER 4,000

(Special to The Bulletin)

STAFFORD SPRINGS, Oct. 14.—With perfect autumna weather to give the homegoing crowds pleasant memories, the Stafford Springs Agricultural society closed the third day of its 67th annual exhibition at the fair grounds today, with an attendance estimated at over 4,000. The crowds were slow in gathering but at 1.30 when the races got under way there was a good sized assemblage in the grandstand, and along the race track.

In every department the fair this year has been a tremendous success. Fast racing has marked the three days' program, good vaudeville acts have been put over each day, and the midways have provided a variety of interesting features for the crowds which have thronged the streets of the busy village

Horse racing today included the 2.11 pace, with a $1000 purse, taken in three straight heats by Tex Prince with Hodson up, with stiff opposition from Hazel McKelyn, with Martin driving. The 2.17 trot purse of $500.00, and the 2.17 pace, with $500 purse were the other features on the half mile track and were fast time.

The entries in the main Exhibition hall were left intact until late in the afternoon, when the exhibitors combined in forming a replica of a busy city public market at the rush hour—apples, pears, peaches, plums and vegetables of all kinds being briskly disposed of to bargain-seeking housewives.

The first displayed was unusually fine this year and many special prizes were awarded. One of the largest exhibits on display was entered by D Henry Gillett of Somers, and fine displays of fruits and vegetables were also entered by A. H. Buell of Westford and William Clark and Sons of Vernon farm produce displays were larger than usual and attracted more entrants. Special awards for grain and corn were made.

Vaudeville acts this year were particularly good and the committee in charge of this department of the fair received due credit for the effort required in bringing a first class entertainment to the grounds. Joe Hodgini, expert horseman and comedian rider, was one of the best comedy acts ever presented on the local platform, and the elephants of Robinson, a remarkable act, was equally well received by the throngs on the three days.

Cattle which yesterday were one of the main features of the exhibition in general were being taken back to the home stables tonight.

Fair officials, especially the president, R. W. Smith, Secretary David P. Mitchell and Racing Secretary Lott O'Halloran, were well pleased with the attendance records, probably the largest in the association's history.

One of the choicest assortments of imported European liquors was seized singlehanded by Deputy Customs Collectors Turgeon of Swanton early this morning two miles north of St Albans.

INTENTIONAL SECOND EXPOSURE

PEP AND STICK-TO-IT-ATIVENESS.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

A western paragrapher of unusual discernment says he divides folks into two lots; the "pep and promise" crowd and the "facts and finish" gang. The first set are full of pump-and-holler; the second of git-up-and-git-thar.

The pep and promise crowd are at the time hunting the bacon. When they find it, they execute a few selected war dances about it, and proudly call on an admiring world to observe what fine fellows they are.

Whereupon the facts and finish crowd go and get the bacon and bring it home.

This classification of humanity reminds me somewhat of two colts I once owned. The first one, known familiarly as "Punch," was a high stepper and given to prancing. He could never wait quietly for the harness to be put on and buckled. He pawed, and he plunged, and he curveted, and he tossed his mane hither and yon. He was so anxious to get going that he was impatient of the necessary preparations for sale and effective progress. They delayed his ardor.

The older colt, named "Moses" because of a certain dignity which was noticable even when he was a youngster, was different. He seldom moved an ear of an eyelash while being harnessed. He really seemed to take little interest in the process, other than to indicate a somewhat restrained dislike of the whole business.

When you finally got the two hitched together and out on the road, "Punch" started off like an arrow from the bow. He lifted his front feet high and tossed his head in the air and made such a display of act on that one would have thought he was doing two-thirds of the very lease. "Moses" on the other hand, just plodded along in a bored sort of way, making no attempt to show off and apparently taking almost no interest in the whole performance.

The observant driver, however, did not fail to notice that, after the first eight or ten rods, "Moses" kept his end of the evener up. He didn't get up into the air anything like as high as "Punch," but he got along the road quite as fast. The observant driver also noticed that, after a few miles of letting each one gang his ain gate, "Punch" somehow lost most of his energy and "Moses" thereafter set the pace and did something more than his fair share of the work.

These days are largely devoted to the worship of "pep". In whatever phase of human work you may be interested the word which is most common on your associates' lips is "pep." "So-and-so is going to be a success, he's so full of pep," they say of some more than usually vibrant young aspirant after mercantile honors. "Lawyer So-and-so will be a judge before he's 40, he's so full of pep," they say among themselves at the bar meetings. "That new farmer over at The Hollow will revolutionize farming in that district, he's so full of pep," say the rural onlookers.

Well, perhaps.

And then again, perhaps not.

Said Ahab of Israel once to Ben Hadad of Syria: "Let not him that girdeth on his armor boast himself as he that taketh it off."

Also there is a homely old adage in our current English which advises against the counting of chickens before they're hatched.

There used also to be a simple parable in our old primers telling of the maiden on her way to market with a basket full of eggs on her head. She got to thinking of how she would sell the eggs and buy laces and ribbons and tog herself out so fine that all the swains would chase after her. "And then I will toss my head at them—like this," whereupon off went the egg-basket, all the eggs were broken, and she went back home, laceless and cheerless, and without anybody giving her even a second glance.

In this world of harsh and often cruel facts, it isn't so often to "pep" as to performance that its rewards go.

It isn't the man who is always "going to do" something big who wins but as often as the quieter man who goes ahead doing day after day, without spurging, the innumerable little things which duty puts before him.

It isn't the man who promises that the world ties up to, but the man who pays.

It isn't the brilliant dreamer who usually wins the race but the persistent runner.

"Dogged does it," is another saying current in some parts of old England. And who hasn't heard in New England the remark that "Brag is a good dog but Holdfast is a better."

We all of us admire men of brilliant parts, men of genius or lofty aspirations. Yet, when we want pratical help, we seldom go to them but to some steady plodder who makes up for his lack of inspiration by his promptness or perspiration.

Like the patriarch of former times, I have been young and now I am old. I have seen many young farmers start out in the spring like war-horses sniffing the battle afar off and rejoicing in the blare of the trumpets and the shouting. They laid out a campaign whose strategy would have done credit to a Napoleon which were as glowing as those of a Wall street promoter. They began with a "pep" which scared the blue-birds and sent the angleworms burrowing in subsoil to escape the rucken.

They kept it up, too, sometimes for two weeks, sometimes for two months. But I can't for the life of me recall a single one who kept it up for so long as ten years. The most of them "petered out" before the first season was done.

"Unstable as water, thou shalt not excel," said Jacob to his eldest son, Reuben.

The world is full of Reubens. They are "peppy" enough, in all conscience; moreover, they usually mean well enough. But they lack the stubborn persistence which keeps everlastingly at it and refuses to be turned from its path by obstacles or defeats.

Please note that there are two dictionary meanings for that adjective "stubborn." One is: "Unreasonably obstinate; not to be moved or persuaded by reason." That kind of stubbornness is a vice for which there is no defence and small excuse. The other definition is: "Perservering, persistent, steady, constant." And that kind of stubbornness is a practical virtue. Indeed it is the most efficient and result-getting virtue in life.

When Gen. Grant sent out to take Petersburg and Richmond, his one reiterated and persistent order was: "By the left flank, march." Day after day it was issued and was repulsed; day after day the order went out for the next morning: "By the left flank, march." Steadily and slowly but surely as fate, he moved "by the left flank" till he had found the weak point he knew must somewhere exist in the enemy's lines and had broken through it. Where a more "peppy" but less persistent general would have repeated after a temporary defeat, he calmly repeated his famous order: "By the left flank, march." Thus, by sticking to it regardless of obstacles or set-backs, he finally opened the road which led to Appomattox and peace.

What was good strategy in a campaign against an intrenched foe on the battle-field is good strategy in less deadly but almost equally strenuous campaigns of industry.

Farming is no exception.

We must remember, also, that farming is not a mere flurry of a fight; it is a war of a lifetime. It is not to be lost by a single smashing defeat, nor won except by a series of small victories. The farmer who sets out to be a dairyman and then flops over to poultry at the first set-back, is not likely to prove eminently successful at either task. He who starts in at raising potatoes and then shifts over to something else when the bottom drops out of the potato market and leaves him only a loss,—as it is sure to do, sooner or later,—he is not a predictable success.

It is the farmer who plans a campaign to last over many years, who discounts its ups and downs beforehand so far as he can, who mixes discretion with energy and patience with "pep" and, above all, who doggedly sticks to it, through foul weather and fair, through poor seasons and good, through disappointment as steadfastly as through attainment,—it is that farmer who may be expected to reach, if not shining success, at least some measure thereof.

"Pep" is a good thing in its place. But it isn't the whole team. Personally, I rather liked that "Punch" colt of whom I have written about. He was a nobby-looking critter and he unquestionably meant well. But poor little "Moses" had staying qualities which he lacked. "Moses" wasn't anything like as showy as "Punch." Nobody ever turned to look at him as he pranced down the village street. But, when the wheels sank into a rutted mudhole and the load stopped with a disheartening suddenness, he stubbornly set his shoulders into the collar and strained against it with steady persistence, while "Punch" was inclined to go up into the air, and fall back if the load didn't move at the first rush.

Wherefore I sold "Punch" to the first buyer who appreciated his "pep" and kept steady little "Moses."

I wanted a horse which I could depend upon and which wouldn't go all to pieces at the first little bit of trouble.

If such qualities are desirable in a farm horse, they are more than desirable,—they are essential in the farmer himself.

This doesn't mean that the farmer should be so "set" in his ways that he can't or won't change them under the mandates of necessity or the offerings of opportunity.

His first business is to hoe the row he has begun upon; to hoe it as well as he knows how, and to hoe it to the end.

But that doesn't require him to shut his eyes and stuff his ears against all possibilities of improving his work and bettering his product. He is not a machine nor an automaton. He is a reasoning and, often, a reasonable being.

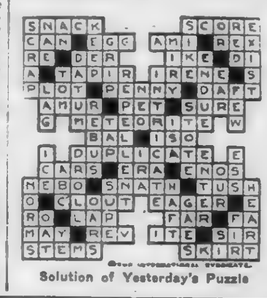
He is not called upon to spend his whole life butting against an impassible wall of failure. At the same time, he is not fit for his job if he abandons the furrow he has started to plow the first time his plow-point breaks under a stump or a boulder.

It may need some "pep" to strike the first furrow around a big field. So far, so good. But it calls for persistence, for perserverance, for doggedness of determination, to stick to it, dreary day after day, till the last sward has been turned.

It is through their lack of this inflexible stick-to-it-ativeness that some farmers, like some generals and some statesmen and some at every other task fall down and are thrown into the scrap-heap.

One name for such unfortunates is "quitters."

THE FARMER.



Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

DAYVILLE

In the annual report of the Hartford headquarters of the Diocesan Bureau of Social Service, the Roman Catholic organized charity system of the state, Mrs. John Riley, Windham county, chairman of Willimantic, reports as follows: Dayville council. Chairman, Miss Julia O'Neill, membership 75.

The council has attended to some of the needs of the parish; visited the town farm with gifts for inmates; sent $15 to a woman whose husband was in a sanitarium; sent flowers to those who were ill and had masses said for departed members. Christmas baskets were sent to the needy; one hundred dollars donated to church decoration fund and three hundred and eighty-seven dollars expended for furnishings for the rectory.

Simple Remedy For Bad Stomach Gives Quick Relief

In need of Strong Medicines or Diet—Famous but Simple Old English Recipe Keeps Stomach in Fine Condition, Banishes After-Eating Distress

If you are a victim of Stomach Troubles—Gas, Sourness, Pain or Bloating—you may have quick and certain relief by following this simple advice.

Don't take strong medicines, artificial digestants or pull down your system by following unnecessary starvation diets.

Never hurry your meal or overeat of anything, but within reason most folks may eat what they like—if they will keep their stomach sweet, clean and active and free from the souring acids that hinder or paralyse the work of digestion.

And the best and easiest way to do this is to follow every meal with a small amount of pure Bisurated Magnesia—a pleasant, harmless and inexpensive form of Magnesia that promptly neutralizes acidity and keeps your stomach sweet and clean.

A week's trial of Bisurated Magnesia, which may be obtained from any druggist for only a few cents, will easily convince you of the great value of this old English recipe.

Danny Walks the Tightrope

Only those who persevere
Can hope to see the goal draw near.
—Old Mother Nature.

All was quiet in the motor boat which had brough Danny Meadow Mouse so far up the Big River. Danny was now the only one aboard. He had suspected this for some time, but he hadn't been sure. He had remained hidden in a little cupboard under one of the seats, and had been very comfortable there because he had had a soft bed of cotton waste. He had even become so used to the putting of the motor boat that he didn't notice it at all. He had even gone to sleep. He had been awaked by the stopping of the motor. Then there had been a great deal of tramping about by the people in the motor boat, a lot of talking about by the people and splashing and other noises which had sent little chills of fright playing tag all over Danny. But after what had seemed to Danny a very long time all these noises had ceased. He could hear the sound of voices growing fainter and fainter, and finally he couldn't even hear these.

When at last Danny did venture to peep out all was still and the stars were beginning to come out. It didn't take Danny long to discover that he was all alone on that boat. He examined it from one end to the other. He found some crumbs, which helped to stay his appetite, and then he began to think about continuing his journey. [illegible] he must get ashore.

[illegible] on the edge of [illegible] around it. No[illegible] was [illegible] to shore for [illegible] one end, the bow, seemed [illegible] a rope to some[illegible] the river. From [illegible] there was [illegible] on the stern and [illegible] looks to me," said [illegible] have to swim if I [illegible] But I don't want [illegible] water is moving too [illegible] would carry me [illegible] get to shore. [illegible] was swift right there. It was swift and it made out toward the middle of the river, rather than toward the shore, so Danny was quite excusable. You could hardly blame him for not wanting to plunge into the water.

"Where there's a will there's a way," he said

For a long time Danny sat there and studied and studied. "Yes, sir," said he, "I guess I'll have to make up my mind to swim." Right that very instant Danny noticed that rope from the stern of the motor boat to the shore. He brightened up right away. "I wonder why I didn't notice that before," said he. "I ought to be able to walk that. If I stay here I'll be a sort of prisoner. There are only two ways of getting away from here: one is by swimming and the other is by walking that rope. If I fall off the rope I'll be no worse off than I'll be if I tried to swim. I'll just try it."

So Danny Meadow Mouse climbed up on the rope and slowly and carefully crept out for a foot. Then his heart failed him and he went back. Finally he tried it again, and this time he went a little farther. The farther he went the bolder he grew. Danny was walking the tightrope. He had almost reached shore when the current swung the boat and gave that rope a sharp twitch. If Danny hadn't happened to be holding on with all four feet he certainly would have been thrown into the water. As it was, he gave a faint little squeak of fright and then scrambled to shore as fast as he could go.

"Where there's a will there's a way," said he as he touched the solid ground once more. But you and I knew that long ago.

NOANK

The fishing fleet that went to Block Island Wednesday to fish from that port was surprised to find that the fish had left there and gone to another run. The fish left over night and the boats only got a barrel each. Where did the fish go? is the question. The boat Julia came from Montauk with 17 barrels of fish and the captain said the fish were running fair there. Off Point Judith the fish are not so plenty, so that the fishing boats from Stonington find it hard to fill three barrels.

It was reported around the docks that Captain Thomas Tengelson of the boat Marion lost a large fish net this week, out at the fishing ground. The net was worth about $300. It was used for mackerel.

Philip Steele is employed as weaver at the night force in the Robertson mill in Mystic.

Gurdon Wilcox of Westerly is spending a few days in the village.

Wednesday evening at 9.30 an auto with two women in the car and a woman at the wheel was coming from Massachusetts to Groton Long Point. When on Fort Hill, just below the Spicer home, the road was slippery and the car left the road on the right side and went on the bank between two tree stumps not far from a stone wall. Three young men were coming from New London on their way to the village. The men got out and helped the women get their car back on the road. The automobile was not damaged.

The rain Wednesday evening did a little to help the village for people was carrying water from different places. On East Main street where the gutter was stopped up over 4 inches of water was across the road after the big shower.

Elbert Palmer is in North stonington for a short stay.

Mike Passi is working for the Noank Mason company.

The house of A. Bocchiacci on Pearl street is nearly completed and the family is soon to move into their recently purchased property. The wiring has been completed by a New York company.

Charles' Tea gardens are having an addition of a sunparlor on the East Side which overlooks the water.

The D. of A. held a meeting Wednesday evening with reports read by Mrs. Bertha Ashcroft who recently attended an out of town convention.

Many from the village attended the meeting and supper of Charity chapter, O. E. S., No. 61 at Mystic. The Grand Officers of Connecticut were entertained.

Mrs. Horace Sheldon has returned to her home in Hope Valley after spending a week with relatives in Noank.

The Methodist church is being painted.

Edward Ashby has returned from a visit in Hartford.

E. Sinnott of Hartford is down at his cottage at Groton Long Point for a few days.

Arthur Fish was in New Haven on Wednesday.

Rev. Walter Ariken of Hartford, a former pastor of the Baptist church is in Noank renewing friendships. Mr. Ariken was coach of the old Nuggetts basketball team years ago and all his friends were glad to see him about the village again.

The house of John Fitzpatrick on Clark court is being renovated and painted.

Miss Virginia Bushey has returned to her home in Upton, Mass.

Capt. Henry Langworthy of the fishing boat William Morse has arrived in New York from George's banks with a cargo of tile fish. The boat has been gone for 10 days.

Gabe McGaw who has been suffering from fish poisoning on his right hand has returned to his duties with the Chesebro Fish company at the town dock.

Raymond Rathbun has gone to Brooklyn, Conn., to spend a few days with friends.

Neil Kenneth has returned from Boston.

Miss Katherine Farrese has closed her studio in Church street and has returned to her home in New York.

J. Sherman Potts has left for New York after spending the summer in the village.

Accident Film

The German Red Cross has recently produced a popular film on first aid in accidents. It is 1,500 meters long and takes 55 minutes to run. The film shows how to treat cuts, scratches, burns, fractures and sprains and those apparently drowned or suffering from exposure. It is planned to be shown not only in public moving theaters, but also to illustrate lectures for factory workers, policemen, members of ambulance corps, nurse and schools and colleges. Red Cross societies of other countries may use this film, either through purchase of copies or by applying for the rights of presentation from the German Red Cross.

JEWETT CITY

PAST NOBLE GRANDS MEET WITH RUTHIE REBEKAH LODGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 14.—A largely attended meeting of the past noble grands of Ruthie Rebekah lodge was held in the lodge room this afternoon, the home order entertaining. Guests representing Niantic, Groton, Norwich, New London, Willimantic and Plainfield were present. The dinner menu: Tomato soup, roast ribs of beef, escalloped potato, cabbage salad, Concord grapes, English rolls, coffee.

Funeral services for Mrs. Marie Lambert Ritchotte were held at St Mary's church Thursday morning. Solemn requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. John H. Landry, with Rev. Herbert Hennon deacon and Rev. John J. McCabe sub-deacon.

The attendance of relatives and friends was large and the floral remembrances were beautiful. St. Anne's society attended in a body. The waiting hymn was sung by Mrs. Noel Garand. The bearers were Joseph Arseneault, Joseph Ayotte, Maxime Seymour, Gasper Dugas, Henry Ballou and Joseph Boisvert. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, in Lisbon, where Father McCabe conducted the committal rites. Hourigan Bros. were the funeral directors.

Mrs. John Peringer and Miss Louise. Maynard were pleasantly surprised Monday evening at the home of the former, when friends arrived unannounced for a double birthday party Mrs. Peringer was presented a silk bedspread and Miss Maynard a silk umbrella. Games, dancing and Victrola selections, with entertaining specialties by several of the guests went to make up an exceptionally enjoyable party. Miss Madaline Raill and Miss Estelle Jodoin starred on the banjo and ukulele. Miss Freda Sholes gave a violin solo, with accompaniment by Cleo Couture. During the evening the Charleston by Miss Couture and the Spanish Fandango wedding dance by Misses Rosana Gobiel and Miss Raill received rounds of applause. Miss Bridget Shippee was a prize winner with her burlesque acrobatic stunts.

The table was decorated in a color scheme of orange and black, with both birthday cakes with lighted candles in the center. Delicious refreshments were served by Miss Rosanna Gobiel, Mrs. Arculis Cloutier, Natalie Harper and Alica Jodoin. The refreshments were sandwiches, pickles, cake, coffee, fancy cookies, candy, peanuts, ice cream and punch. Others present were: Alice Jodoin, Freda Sholes, Bridget Shippee, Cleo Couture, Madaline Raill, Rosanna Gobiel, Natalie Harper, Mrs. Arculis Cloutier, Mrs. Henry Viegard, Mrs. Henry Ouilette, Estelle Jodoin, Mrs. John Oakes.

The following item appears in the annual report of Health Officer Dr G. H. Jennings: The year's work of the district nurse shows an increase in the number of sick calls with a slight decrease in the expense account. Total number of calls made 2618. Expenses for year, miscellaneous $87.66, salary for nurse $1,679.08, in car $334.59, making a total of $2,101.33. Balance on hand Aug. 31, 1925, $147.62. From nurse, outside calls, $207.30: Metropolitan Ins. Co., $1,393.50; John Hancock Ins. Co., $30.75; Red Cross chaper, $204.; town of Griswold, $209, making a total of $2,035.55; leaving a balance on hand of $81.84. A small number of children has been vaccinated and a few have had the toxin-antitoxin treatment for diphtheria.

Some enterprising chap, in a mid-dle western town, also a knitting firm in a Connecticut city, have of late conceived the idea that the borough of Jewett City, county of New London needed an application of neck-ties and suspenders, the latter being no new-fangled presidential contraption, just plain "galluses". Some favored ones got four neck-ties and four perfectly good pairs of suspenders. Some were not opened at all, some got the rag bag while the larger part completed a round trip on a stamp for return.

The Catholic Women's council gave a largely attended whist in the church hall Wednesday evening. The prizes awarded the winning players were: Women's first, Elizabeth Dudkowski; second, Mary Zawestoski; consolation, Anna Catherine Brennan; men's first, Louis Morey; second, William Driscoll; consolation, Daniel Shea.

The following from Jewett City at-tended the meetings of the Woman's Congregational Home Missionary union of Connecticut, held in Willimantic Thursday: Mrs. F. E. Robinson, Mrs. C. D. Wolf, Mrs. Jay Ricketts, Mrs. E. A. Faust, Mrs. John Stewart, Mrs. Walter Marshall and Mrs. E. H. Hiscox.

The freaks of the frost of last Sat-urday night are to be seen in that all uncovered flowers in the borough were ruined. Parties passing the Pilgrim dahlia gardens in Newent Thursday afternoon noted no sign of frost. Last fall the Old Clue Watson gardens with over 100 plants and 42 varieties were in finest bloom several weeks after the Pilgrim gardens were ruined by frost that skipped the Quinebaug valley.

The Connecticut company will doubt-less appreciate the anxiety of one Jewett City woman, who did her bit Thursday in reducing cost of the operation of the gasoline coaches to a minimum. The busses leaving on the hour for Norwich make a regular stop and the driver announces Jewett City at a point near P. O. square. They will stop anywhere to pick up or leave passengers. Thursday a woman whose home is in one of the up-town streets of the borough, walked a quarter of a mile to P. O. square to take the bus for Norwich. Some fellow passengers inquired, "Why did you walk down, they would have stopped at your corner?" The woman replied that she had been told that the cost to stop and start a heavy bus was a considerable item, so she had saved them an extra stop. Who said something about the female of the species? What man would be so considerate?

POMFRET

The Windham county chairman of the Roman Catholic Diocesan Bureau of Social Service, Mrs. John Riley, of Willimantic has reported to Hartford state headquarters as follows:

Pomfret council. Chairman, Miss Margaret Morris, Membership 73.

The service program was carried out as usual and comprised visits to the Day Kimball hospital with gifts of fruit and flowers for members and others; visits to the town farm; relief work among the needy of the parish.

A Christmas tree with program and gifts was provided for all the children of the parish.

Transportation has been paid for five persons living at a distance, that they may attend mass and Sunday school.

Ten dollars was donated to the scholarship fund and $400 to the pastor for church work.

Through the influence of a council member vestments and altar linen were provided for a church unable to procure same.

Funds were raised through whists membership and a bazaar about $80 being expended.

After three unsuccesaful attempts within a week, Mr. Henrietta Woolsmith and Henry Howard were married at Camden, Pa. The first attempt failed when the couple arrived too late to procure a license. The second time the best man left them waiting at the church. Selecting a different church for their wedding they were dismayed to find it had no pastor for the summer. Even at the fourth attempt, the schedule was not perfectly kept, for the bride's daughter failed to show up.

The new DIETZ BREAD baked with the old Dietz skill—

Fresh from the oven twice a day!

WHEN Mr. Walter Dietz purchased the Dolly Madison bakery, he at once set about reorganizing it and equipping it to supply the fine bread which, for forty years, has been associated with the Dietz name.

This new Dietz Bread Mr. Dietz honestly believes is the best he has ever baked.

He used to consider his old loaf perfect—with the perfection only years of experience, the finest ingredients and a wonderful recipe could give. But new experience has brought him even further skill—taught him the secret of new improvement which he has used in making the new Dietz Bread.

He has installed in the Dolly Madison bakery a wonderful new type of oven. It insures a new uniformity and dependability in baking which give added tenderness to the firm loaves, greater crispness to the evenly browned crust. With this new oven two bakings a day are possible, so that the delicious loaves reach your grocer twice a day—fresher than ever before!

Your own choice of ingredients

Dietz Bread is made of the same quality of ingredients you would use at home. But the flavor and texture of the loaf are even better because, instead of just the one kind of flour you use, several fine flours are blended to insure uniform gluten strength and rich wheat nourishment.

Get Dietz Bread in its homey red and green wrapper from your grocer today. It has the wholesomeness and honest goodness you require for your family. Dolly Madison Baking Corporation, Springfield, Mass.

FORTY years ago some of the best bread makers in New England began buying Dietz Bread.

Because they recognized in the loaf made by Dietz the same choice of ingredients, the same honest care, which they gave to their own baking. Dietz Bread was at home with the other well-cooked foods on their tables.

Father and son, the Dietz family, has carried on the tradition of making fine bread. Always they have had before them an ideal—a loaf perfect in appearance, in nutriment, in texture and in flavor.

FT. NECK IRON WORKS, NEW LONDON DEEDED TO A BOSTON OIL COMPANY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 14.—The deed transferring title in the former New London Marine Iron Works plant, Fort Neck, to the Beacon Oil company, Boston, was received for record at the office of City Clerk Julian D. Moran today. The purchasing company intends to establish a huge gasoline storage plant on the property, bringing tankers here and unloading their great cargoes of automobile fuel at the wharf of the concern. The property was sold several weeks ago.

FREEMAN ELDER CHOSEN TO DEBATE CAMBRIDGE MEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 14.—Freeman Elder, of this city, will be a member of the University of Pennsylvania team which, on October 18th, will debate the representatives of Cambridge university, England, at Houston hall, on the Pennsylvania campus. Mr. Elder is the son of Rev. Joseph A. Elder, 66 Williams street and is a junior in the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce. Last year Mr. Elder was a member of the University of Pennsylvania team which defeated Lafayette college and Brown university. Prior to entering the university, Mr. Elder debated for four years on the team at the Bulkeley school, this city, where in addition to his forensic accomplishments he was editor of the school paper, a member of the baseball squad and of the school senior honorary society.

Cambridge university will be represented by H. G. G. Herklots, Trinity college; A. L. Hutchinson, Christ's college and Wilfred Gurney, Fordham, Magdalene college. Mr. Herklots is editor of "Granta," the best known university journal in Europe and is doing post-graduate work in theology. He is also well known as an author. Hutchinson is the nephew of Sir. Arthur Shipley, master of Christ's college and is president of Milton society, the debating society of the college. Mr. Fordeam has been president of the Magdalene law society and his reputation as a speaker in the Cambridge union has made many prominent men, including members of parliament, seek his services as a political speaker.

STEAMER COOK GETS BOOZE WITHOUT ANY DIFFICULTY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 14—Frank Thomas, colored, a big fellow who is six foot, four inches when he stands erect but who can get down on the floor as nimbly as a squirrel, is a cook on the sound steamer New Hampshire of the New England Navigation company. He has been so employed for several weeks, but yesterday for the first time came ashore here and started out with companions to see the town. When the party returned to the steamer Thomas was what he called "lit up." He was in a funny mood, too, as he sought to rid himself of his exuberance by joking and hustling his associates in the kitchen of the boat. Thomas became a bit strenuous and bustled things about to an extent that the opinion prevailed that he had a razor and might wield it. If he was to do anything of that sort his friends wanted to get away. Finally the New Haven road's police department was notified that there was trouble brewing on the boat and Thomas was taken into custody. He was charged with intoxication and with breach of the peace, when the police court convened this morning. He pleaded guilty to both charges thought he said he didn't know what he did, except to go about town with his companions. He said that he supposed, when he started out that he was going to a picture show. He abandoned that idea when he was led to places where he could get drinks. He did not know where the places were located, but he did remember that he had "a few." Thomas was harmless, so the court was lenient with him to the degree that he was fined only $10.

C. H. Ketcham drew a fine of $5 for parking his auto on Masonic street for a period of more than an hour yesterday. He told the court that he was aware that he should not have parked his car beside the fire hydrant, but that he went to change his clothing and was gone a longer time than he supposed he would be. The court did not regard the excuse as a reasonable one and imposed the fine.

Tom Twomey and Mike Dowling, a couple of strangers, reporting that they came from Fishers Island, were quite intoxicated and very mussy yesterday when Policeman Dorsey took them into custody. They appeared in the police court this morning very penitent and without any disposition to be boisterous. They were told to get out of town, or take a ride into Franklin street, so they decided they would leave the city.

Sidney H. Miner has sold a building lot off Evelyn street to Lawrence F. Saunders.

TAILOR MAKES COMPLAINT PATRONAGE IS SLOW

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 14—A tailor complained today that he never had so many finished clothes on hand as at present. Patrons order clothing and delay taking and paying for them for months. It is said that autos use the money that should be paid for clothes. Often deposits are left before the clothing is made, but after that the owners seem in no hurry for the garments and the tailor is obliged to wait for his money. A second tailor was asked as to the situation complained of and he verified what had been said and declared that he had goods to the value of nearly a thousand dollars awaiting owners to settle for them. Under the law the goods must be retained six months before they can be sold.

There seems a probability that the public wharf and the approaches to the New York boats, the ferry and the Long Island boats will be better illuminated at an early date than they are lighted at present. A survey of the section about the railroad tracks, the crossing to the boats and the ferry is being made with a view to placing more lights there. Such a move would clean up a section where men have loitered in the evening and where there is darkness to a degree that makes the section unsafe. Automobiles are driven to the New York boats in greater number than ever, and pedestrians are passing there at all hours of the evening up to the time the boat leaves. Additional lights there would be a manifest benefit to all who use the crossing.

The demand for street improvement just now is greater than it has been in many months. At the council meeting this week plans contemplating the expenditure of about $72,000 were laid before the meeting. This had to do with improvements about the Coast Guard academy and the expenditure, or a great deal of it is deemed necessary if the academy is to be kept here. Improvements have been asked for on Dnison avenue and Grove street, on Walden avenue and on Beckwith St., and there are other highways where improvements will be sought. The total, if the improvements are made are estimated at close to $100,000. That is a lot of money to be expended on the highways of this city, but the money can be expended to good advantage if a way to raise it can be found. A good many taxpayers are complaining because much cash is needed for repairs, or rather because real estate is obliged to furnish such a large proportion of the needed money. They say they get little or no benefit from the expenditure while the autoists are almost wholly benefitted. It is pointed out that fire and police protection is all that the average property owner receives in return for the taxes he pays, while the roads are used almost wholly by the busess and the autos. A bus franchise and the busses used on the road recently sold for $155,000, and that the value was in the fact that the busses could operate over streets which the city and the state had paid for. It appears to be true that the owner of a little property who does not own an automobile gets very little for the money he pays in taxes.

The real estate business has slackened up a bit at a season when the greatest number of sales are anticipated. Why this is so no one seems able to tell, but all the dealers declare that the sales are few now.

The advance of the season has cut down the number of traffic ordinance violators. Where there were several cases every day there are so few now that they do not average one a day.

The brick paving on Bank street is receiving repairs, for the surface of the road has been so uneven that there has been general complaint. A gang of men is taking up and relaying the pavement and smoothing out the uneven spots. Between the rails of the trolley company the greatest depressions have been noticed. These will all be removed during the coming week.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Trione have returned from their wedding trip, which was to New York and New Jersey.

It is claimed by hunters that raccoons will be more numerous this season than they have been in many years. The harvest moon will be full in a little more than a week and the hunters will then be in the woods at night. East Lyme and Lyme are the best hunting grounds hereabouts, if coons are sought. The animals are found near cornfields for chiefly there they get their feed.

A man who was employe as a foreman at the Ship and Engine company plant during the war and who has been away from here some ten years, is a visitor here now. He says the city has changed a great deal in that time and that buildings that have been erected are a credit to the city. But he says that what New London needs is manufacturing. He expressed the brief that the city would never by very prosperous until such time at its industries were increased. He is located in Maine now.

The police report unusual quiet in this city at present in the line of work they are engaged in, and that the number of arests has decreased very much during October. But, they say, there is always a lull before a storm and they look for the average number of arrests during the balance of the month.

Theives continue to operate at Ocean Beach, principally due to the fact that many of the cottages have been vacated for the winter. This afternoon Samuel Kernicky, 5 Deerfield avenue, Hartford, made complaint to Patrolman Dennis Murphy that his summer residence, 16 Midway place, had been entered within a fortnight and articles of value had been stolen. Principal among the plunder obtained by the thieves were an oak table, silk floss mattress and two leather seated chairs.

William W. Winchester, 66, former resident of New London, died yesterday afternoon at Providence, in which city he had made his home several years. He is survived by his wife, three sisters, Mrs. Phoebe Scoville and Miss Mary Winchester, of this city and Mrs. George Jeffrey, of Providence, formerly of New London. Mr. Winchester died following a lingering illness, which resulted in an operation at a Providence hospital in an effort to save his life. Mr. Winchester resided in New London practically his entire life, conducting wall paper and paint stores on Main street and Green street. He removed to Providence about five years ago.

Twenty-six men and women were made voters at the session of the board of registrars in the municipal building yesterday and last evening, those being administered the oath being Anna A. Bannon, 25 Nameaug avenue; Mary E. Beckwith, 10 Huntington street; John Bartolucci, 26 East street; Bruno Camilluci, 6 Chelsea street; William C. Cruise, 905 Bank street; Thomas A. Cessara, 194 Hempstead street; Rose E. Fabricant, 121 Blydenburg avenue; Florimond Flynn, 65 West Colt street; Carrie E. Harvey, 82 Howard street; Anthony F. Jordan, 28 Squire street; Edith E. Little, 4 Pacific street; Stanislav Linnik, 136 Crystal avenue; Felice M. Morrison, 22 Chappell street; Francis B. Mahan, 189 Broad street; Louis Margolis, 679 Bank street; Rock W. Pulaski, 535 Main street; Edward Raymond, 80 Thames street; Garwood F. Seipel, 106 Shaw street; Peter Slenkowski, 315 Huntington street; Frank Sheriff, 12 Reed street; Albert Talbot, 66 Willetts avenue; Walter Talbot, 66 Willetts avenue; George A. Williams, Jr., 390 Broad street; Henry J. Weldon, 159 State street and Nathan Zemel, 532 Main street.

At a meeting of the Masonic club, held last evening, 17 members were initiated. Treasurer Oliver D. L. Burrows' report showed the organization to have a good balance in the treasury.

The steel tug B. M. Thomas was launched from the ways of the New London Ship & Engine company this afternoon. The tug was sponsored by the wife and daughter of B. M. Thomas, marine superintendent in the employ of VanScriver Construction company, Philadelphia, for whom the tug is named. The tug, which was built for the Hafnesport Mining & Transportation company, Philadelphia, a subsidiary of the VanScriver company, slipped from the ways smoothly and without any semblance of mishap. As soon as the boat had taken the water, she was brought back to the plant and moored at the main wharf where the work of completing the superstructure will be speedily completed. The Thomas is 89 feet long, with 21 1-2 beam and a depth of 11 1-4 feet. She is equipped with a Diesel engine of 500-horsepower and with electrical steering gear.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace.

Tonight for one night only, the Palace will present on the stage another one of its popular semi-professional vaudeville shows. Those who were present last Friday evening know how good the performance was and can be counted on to be on hand tonight when even a better performance is promised. To others we can say that the popular verdict is that these semi-professional acts are in many cases superior to some of the so-called professional acts and as an evidence of their quality, two acts from the first show and three acts from last week's show were booked by New York agents after the performance for the regular vaudeville circuits. Tonight's bill will present all new acts in addition to the big picture programme at the regular admission prices, on the screen.

The Show Off hilarious screen version of George Kelly's great American comedy that convulsed Broadway for the solid year is the headline attraction of the notable programme with a cast including such popular and capable players as Ford Sterling, Lois Wilson, Louise Brooks, Gregory Kelly and Clair McDowell, each one with a role as exactly suited to their talents as if written expressly for them. It makes great entertainment. The Show Off is the story of a familiar character in every town—the bluffing, boasting show off who knows everything, butts in everywhere and fixes everything and by sheer brass makes good in the end and his typical American family who suffer from his continual cracking, he's just a lot of bluff but he sure is funny. The Show Off is a great success because all its characters are real people, just like we all know and for good entertainment it is just about the best thing on the screen this season. The other feature of the big double programme is Wild Justice, with Peter the Great the famous dog star, a throbbing tale of the north country filled with romance and red-blooded action and a charming love story. A drama in which all humanity is summoned to witness. With tender emotion one of the most beautiful stories of dog devotion ever told and Peter the Great is the most intelligent dog that ever displayed its skill in a film drama. Added attractions include Gene Tunney in the sixth chapter of the great serial story of adventure. The fighting Marine, the Palace Topical Events with latest world wide news showing among other scenes of interest the final game of the world series at New York and Walter Lang and his concert orchestra. Truly a programme of exceptional merit in each and every number and one that na one can afford to miss.

Breed Theatre.

Tom Mix is back. The old Tom Mix. The two gun, two fisted, hard riding buckaroo with rough and ready cowpuncher togs. Back in a picture that will make you grip your chair and hold your breath while you are wondering what's coming next.

No fancy clothes in this but a real story of western adventure with action, suspense and thrills in logical sequence, and the title tells the story. "No Man's Gold." If you are a Mix fan, and who is not, you will have a chance to see him in the best thing he has done in years, at the Breed theatre, today and Saturday.

Not only are Tom and his wonder horse, Tony, seen at their very best, but so also is that blonde beauty and real horsewoman, Eva Novak. She is back with Tom racing, fighting and loving through the mystery that surrounds the hidden treasure. A treasure consisting of a vast mother lode of virgin gold in a cave to which no one man has the secret. Forrest Taylor gives a fine presentation as the prospector who discovered the mine and last but by no means least the part of his little son, Jimmy, as played by Micky Moore, is a remarkable big of acting by a very fine and typical American boy.

Russian Symphonic Choir

There was a time when, to hear a concert by a choir, was to spend an entire evening listening to church music, religious chanties and hymns, and the classic choral works of Handel and Bach. While this music is majestic and general in its appeal, still it made the evening somewhat monotonous. Lately, folk songs became a conspicuous part of such choral programs and thus introduced a not of variety and popular appeal into concerts by choirs. But the Russian Symphonic choir, under Basile Kibalchich, which will make its local appearance at Slater Memorial hall on Wednesday, October 20th will introduce a new kind of choral music, never before heard on such programs. In addition to church music and folksongs, this choir will offer arrangements of popular light classics, originally written for the piano and known to every music lover. These arrangements have been made possible by Mr. Kibalchich's original ideas applied to choral singing and thus for the first time a Prelude by Chopin or a song without words by Schumann will find a place on the program. The reserved seat chart is now at Cranston's store where seats may be secured at $2 each.

BREAKS A COLD IN A FEW HOURS

First dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" relieves all grippe misery

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling! A dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" taken every two hours until three doses are taken will end grippe misery and break up a severe cold either in the head, chest, body or limbs.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages; stops nasty discharge or nose running; relieves sick headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

"Pape's Cold Compound" is the quickest, surest relief known and costs only thirty-five cents at drug stores. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Don't accept a substitute.

It is often difficult to get even with people who owe you money.

Special Offer to Rheumatics

Local Druggist Guarantee — Money Back If Old Time Remedy Does Not Bring Quick Relief

What chance does any sufferer take when Rheuma is guaranteed to banish all torturing Rheumatic pains and swollen joints or money back.

Why not investigate this offer? Talk to Lee & Osgood Co. about it. Rheuma must drive the Rheumatic poison from the system, bring swollen joints back to normal and relieve all agony or it costs nothing.

People so crippled that they could not walk have been freed from the iron grasp of the demon, Rheumatism, with the Rheuma treatment.

No matter how skeptical you may be, nor how many remedies you have taken to relieve your suffering, you owe it to yourself to try Rheuma on this money back offer. All druggists sell it. Everybody can afford Rheuma. It's not expensive and absolutely harmless.

Broadway Theater

Piracy holds sway in this city this week, all because Douglas Fairbanks as The Black Pirate has captured the Broadway theater audiences. Business has been rushing according to the management ever since "Doug" and his pirate crew arrived. So if you want to watch 'em work, you will have to go early. The pirate adventures are made all the more fascinating because they are shown in natural color. Beautiful Billie Dove is leading lady, and nobody in town, we are told, blames Doug for losing his heart to her in the picture.

Picture remains today and Saturday when it leaves. See it presented with a perfect musical interpretation by the augmented orchestra.

Big Joe, Wins Work Marathan

Out of Chicago—city of big winds, big accomplishments and big men—comes a tale of business loyalty and love of the job which will make most executives scratch their heads in amazement and wonder if, after all, they are living in the 20th century.

When Joseph Sebastian entered his company's service 46 years ago, he was but 16 years of age and tipped the scales at 90 pounds. But as the years sped, Joe's laugh, and happiness in his work, and healthful appetite, all combined to add 160 pounds to his manhood and he now weights over 250 and is proud of it.

Big Joe, as he is affectionatey called by his associates, put up orders. That's his job and he loves it. Advancing years have never interfered with his speed or accuracy. His employers call him "the champion coffee order-filler of the world."

Only a few weeks ago Big Joe packed, single handed, 5000 pounds of coffee in one day. This included many small lots of 25 pounds. And in addition, he did considerable grinding. On that occasion Big Joe admitted to being a bit weary—"for the first time in 46 years," he said.

"Think of a man," said his boss, "who loves his fellow workers so well that he refuses to be promoted above them! That's Big Joe." Several years ago when offered the position of superintendent he replied, "I appreciate it, sir, but I don't want the job. I have been one of the boys too long."

Think of a man who in nearly a half century of service has loved his work so well that he has refused all vacations. But two days, in 46 years, has he been away from the job. On one of those days Big Joe was married—he took a whole day for that. Then two half days, at different times, were spent in attending family funerals.

And thing of how conscientiously Big Joe must have guarded his health and watched his daily habits in order to pile up such a record of faithful attendance.

This story of Big Joe was recently discovered by W. S. Quinby who went to Chicago to merge with the Chicago branch of his house the Bell-Conrad Co., of that city. Big Joe is this concern's oldest employee. In going through the packing department, Mr. Quinby observed an amiable giant of advancing years who showed more energy and earnestness in his work than any of the younger men there. His interest was aroused and inquiries brought out the facts as stated.

"Here," said Mr. Quinby, "is an outstanding example of a painstaking, conscientious workman who enters whole-heartedly into the spirit of his job. We are proud of him, proud to be associated with such a man—and with reason. In looking back over one's business life, it is a pleasure to know that one has provided the kind of employment which keeps workers happy. That, it seems to me, is a requisite of success, also one of its great compensations."

Mr. Quinby is not unaccustomed to long service records. The organizations of which he is the active head—namely, the W. S. Quinby company of Boston and New York and the W. S. Quinby-Bell Conrad company of Chicago—have many employees with them continuously from 35 to 40 years, quite a few having been with the Quinby company from childhood to middle age, their only job, and one for life. All of them agree that the coffee business keeps them fit and featly.

PASSENGER FATALLY HURT— NIANTIC DRIVER ARRESTED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 14—Paul Kushner, Niantic, discharged at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital today, having recovered partially from injuries sustained a week ago when his automobile overturned in Waterford, was arrested this afternoon by state police from the Groton barracks, charged with manslaughter. Curtis Roy Penney, 23, Somerville, Mass., one of the occupants of the automobile died from injuries he suffered a few hours after his admission to the hospital. Kushner was admitted to bail of $2,000 by Judge Frederick N. Dimmock, Waterford. The accused man will be given a hearing in the Waterford, town court next Monday afternoon.

SUFFERED WITH CONSTIPATION 25 YEARS

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brought relief in 3 weeks!

Read this remarkable testimonial to the power of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN over constipation:

"I prize your ALL-BRAN. I have been using it three weeks for constipation. I had had this trouble for 25 years and had tried everything, but could never get any relief—but since using your bran I can truthfully say that I am entirely cured and feel like a new man."

Yours truly,
THOMAS A. HENLEY, JR.

Blotchy skin, eruptions, spots before the eyes, headaches—these all tell of the ravaging inroads of constipation. Don't let this dire disease send its poisons through your body. Check it now and save your health and happiness!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation permanently if used regularly or money refunded. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, every meal.

Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek, Michigan. Kellogg's is 100 per cent bran. Ready to eat. Delicious with fruit or cream—also in cooking. Served in all restaurants. Sold by all grocers.

MARKET WAS STRONG

NEW WYORK, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Under the leadership of prominent railroad shares, the stock market pushed ahead to higher ground today, although it was unsettled at the close by a severe selling movement which reduced many of the early gains. This attack, directed chiefly against the motors, quickly undermined the position of other industrials, but closing quotations revealed a preponderance of advances for the day.

Reports that a further revision of the Nickel Plate merger terms would soon be agreed upon started lively bidding for the Van Sweringen rail issues, whose impressive showing overshadowed substantial advances in some of the other carriers. Attention was focused on Chesapeake and Ohio, which rallied more than 10 points to 175 1-4 and closed at 172 3-4. Nickel Plate again crossed 200, Pere Marquette climbed more than 5 points to 178 and the Erie issues came back to life with rallies of a point or more.

With the latest figures on car loadings pointing to another month of large earnings for the railroads, a steady investment demand was maintained for the high grade carrier stocks. Delaware and Hudson was the most spectacular feature, jumping 5 1-2 points to 178 1-2, while Atchison, New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio and Norfolk and Western closed 1 to 2 3-4 points higher.

The late selling wave which swept over the market struck hardest against Mack Trucks, which tumbled from above 100 to 95, the lowest price since 1924. U. S. Steel, General Motors and other leaders which had made substantial progress earlier in the day also yielded to selling pressure, but maintained a portion of their gains.

Meanwhile liquidation of minor specialties which had been going on without any effect on the rest of the market increased in volume, carrying scores of issues to the lowest points of the year. Among these were Electric Refrigeration, National Cloak and Suit, Manhattan Electrical Supply and most of the fertilizer stocks, including American Agricultural, International Agricultural and Virginia-Carolina Chemical issues.

Earlier in the day, the combination of sound covering and renewed outside buying lifted a number of representative industrials 2 to 6 points. These included U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, Dupont, Coca-Cola, American Smelting, Allied Chemical, United Cigar stores and U. S. Industrial Alcohol.

Commodity markets displayed a better tone. Wheat prices advanced about 2 cents a bushel following an upturn in Liverpool and the recovery in the cotton market was carried a step farther as plans to meet the emergency created by the record crop. Sugar prices were little changed but coffee was slightly lower.

Another sharp rally of three-fourths of a point in Norwegian Kreuger dividend interest in foreign exchange trading with a jump of more than 50 points in Spanish pesetas. Chinese and Japanese currencies were weak.

Call money held at 5 per cent all day with sufficient offerings for all demands. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Nov. 16th session will be held in Trinity Methodist church, Norwich. This is a continuation of the Young People's Institute held at Willimantic Camp Ground last June.

JUDGE RESERVES DECISION IN $15,000 DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST CITY

Following the completion of the testimony in the $15,000 damage suit which Mrs. Elizabeth Jennes of this city has brought against the City of Norwich for a fall on an icy walk on Summit street, Judge Newell Jennings took the papers in the superior court at New London Thursday. The court's decision will be announced later.

Mrs. Jennes fell on an alleged icy walk on Summit street December 24, 1924 and claims that as the result of the fall she has lost 75 per cent. of the use of her shoulder. It was testified by witnesses for the plaintiff at the court session Wednesday that the shoulder which was dislocated, can never be reset permanently owing to her stout condition and the fact that she has diabetes.

When court convened Thursday morning the defense, in charge of Corporation Counsel William H. Shields, continued th introduce testimony. Street Commissioner John C. Donovo was called to the stand. He testified to the streets being icy that morning and that he sent men over to sand Summit street.

Foreman Jeremiah Sullivan of the street department testified to sanding the walk that morning. He told of securing a load of sand and going to Summit street to sand the walk. He could not remember whether he sanded the walk before 8 o'clock.

Dennis D. Driscoll another city employe testified along similar lines as to the sanding of the icy walk. Driscoll finally admitted under cross-examination that on the morning of the 24th, there was just one yard of sand in the barn from which the sanders worked with the pails.

Thomas C. Dillon, weather observer of New London, was called to the witness stand by Corporation Counsel Shields, who, with Attorney Charles V. James, represents the defendant, but outside of giving his position as U. S. weather observer, was unable to testify further because of the objections of the plaintiff attorneys, John H. Barnes and Edwin W. Higgins, who claimed that the weather in a seaboard town like New London could not be compared with that of Norwich.

Before objecting to Mr. Dillon's testimony, Attorney Barnes asked the court for permission to ask the witness just one question upon the answer of which he would base his objection to further testimony.

Attorney Barnes was given that permission and he attempted to ascertain if it wasn't true that the temperature on a stated day was different in New London than in Norwich and Mr. Dillon several times stated that he had never recorded weather in Norwich and therefore could not say.

"Well, forget about New London or Norwich and leave the records out of it," said Attorney Barnes. "Call it Kalamazoo and Johnny-cake town." He then said that one should be considered as a seaboard town and the other as further inland, but Mr. Dillon was non-committal.

Attorney Shields attempted to question the witness but Attorney Barnes objected to several questions. The objections were sustained and exceptions noted for the defense attorneys.

George Pitcher was called in rebuttal and testified to there being several small holes in the walk. Weather records covering the period from December 15 to December 24, 1924, taken from The Norwich Bulletin's daily weather reports were also introduced as evidence. At the conclusion of the trial the court took the papers.

THREE CASES READY FOR SUPREME COURT ARGUMENTS

The supreme court of errors for the second judicial district (New London county) will convene in this city next Tuesday at 10 a. m. according to notices sent out by Judge George E. Parsons. Among the cases scheduled to be argued is the case of Benjamin A. Armstrong, and others against Antone Leverone, in which the defendant took an appeal from a decision of the lower court in connection with his securing a concession in Bentley arcade Ocean Beach.

Only eight cases appear upon the docket and but three of these will be reached, four of which were ordered being slated for continuance until the next session of the high tribunal in April, 1927.

One case on the docket, that of Ruby Parker against Sidney A. Brown, should not have appeared but through an error on the part of counsel it still remains on the docket. It will not come up, however, for the case has been withdrawn.

The three cases to be argued comprise the Armstrong-Leverone case, appeal by the defendant; William Werbiwowski against the Falls Co., et al; appeal from compensation commissioner and appealed by the Falls Co. and the American Mutual Liability Insurance Co.; Orin M. Dutroman, et al against Otto Anderson, Sr.; appeal by defendant.

The other cases which are expected to be continued are: Leon Ball-Cottrell, et al against Charles P. Cottrell et al, individually and as executors; appeal by plaintiffs.

Jacob Solomon against Harry M. Shlosky; appeal by defendant.

Michael F. O'Hara against Trinity Oil Heating Co., et al; appeal by defendants.

Thomas E. Donahue, administrator against Claude Z. Jette; appeal for defendant.

STATE BOARD TALKS OF DEVELOPING FORT SHANTOK

The state park and forest commission held its monthly meeting at Hartford Wednesday afternoon and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Lucius F. Robinson; secretary, E. H. Wilkins; treasurer, Walter P. Filley. The matter of acquiring a tract of land known as Bluff Point in the town of Groton for park purposes was discussed. The tract contains about 600 acres and has a frontage on the sound. It is planned to ask the coming legislature for an appropriation for the purchase. The tract belongs to the Gardiner estate.

The board also discussed the development of a new state park at Fort Shantok at Massapeag in the town of Montville which was formally opened this week, was discussed.

WHIST SERIES STARTED BY POQUETANUCK GUILD

The first of a series of whists to be given by the Woman's Guild of St. James church, Poquetanuck, was held Thursday at the home of the Guild president, Mrs. Charles Weeks. Luncheon was served at noon and consisted of crab salad, potato salad, sandwiches, assorted cake and coffee.

Whist was played during the afternoon, the prizes being won by Mrs. Charles Harkness, Mrs. Jennie Williams, Mrs. Robert McClure and Henry Nomar.

Mrs. Weeks was assisted in serving by Mrs George Murphy, Mrs. Charles Harkness, Mrs. Fred Nicola, and Mrs. Samuel Whitmarsh. The card tables were in charge of Mrs. Lillian Lucas. The next whist to be held by the guild will be an evening whist at the home of Miss Olive McKelvey.

The machine, while near the intersection of North Main street and Eighth street, caught fire from a short circuit. The fire was practically out when the firemen arrived. The damage was slight.

Celebrated Two Birthdays

The Misses Celia and Julia Cook were very delightfully surprised on Wednesday evening by the members of the M. M. club in celebration of their 18 birthdays.

The evening was enjoyably spent in the playing of games and dancing. The M. M. C. ukelele orchestra increased its popularity by rendering very new and lively music. Refreshments were served. The club members present were: Anna Gresser, Louise Courbois, Celia Cook Anna Peringer, Julia Cook, Theresa Peringer, Julia Ulrich and Mae Ulrich.

The Misses Cook received a variety of lovely gifts. The club gifts were a fountain pen to Miss Celia, and a silver compact to Miss Julia.

Formerly Lived In Stafford

Harvey Chapman, who was born at Westford, this state, June 1, 1860, died last Monday at his home in Hamden, Mass. Mr. Chapman lived in the west after his marriage but in 1885 settled in Palmer, Mass., then lived in Stafford this county, and later established a hardware business in Springfield, Mass. His surviving children are Mrs. William Robbins of Columbia, Mrs. Charles Wheelbreton of Somers, and Ernest Chapman of Springfield, Mass.

REIDEL DIVORCE SUIT CONTINUED TO TUESDAY

The divorce suit of Raymond W. Reidel of Hartford against Gladys M. Reidel of New London, is said to be the aftermath of a brief navy romance some four years ago. Mr. Reidel is suing on the ground of three years' desertion dating from April, 1923, but Mrs. Reidel claims they lived together as husband and wife until March 21, 1924. With testimony to that effect next Tuesday, when the case will be resumed in Hartford before Judge Nickerson she said in an interview she hopes to prevent her husband from getting a divorce because there has been no desertion for the required statutory period of three years.

Her husband charged her with accepting the attentions of Lieutenant H. E. Rosencrans, who is now stationed in China, while he was stationed in New London from January 1924 until the early months of 1926. He testified to seeing her in the company of the lieutenant on numerous occasions and that he believed she preferred the society of the officer to that of her husband.

Mrs. Reidel was working as a yeomanette at the submarine base at Groton at the time of the marriage which was not announced for a year, and Mr. Reidel claims that her visits to his home in Hartford were for the purpose of discussing the situation and also Mrs. Reidel's plans to secure a divorce.

Mr. Reidle and Gladys M. Farmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Farmer of Niantic, were married April 25, 1923 by Dean Samuel Colladay at Christ church cathedral, Hartford, and in his complaint Mr. Reidel alleges his wife deserted him within a week of the wedding. It is said the marriage was not announced until May 7, 1924, and almost simultaneously Mr. Reidel announced he would not be responsible for bills contracted by his wife. Mrs. Reidel is said to be employed in a clerkship at the Groton submarine base.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Vail and Mrs. Charles Knight have returned to Chaplin after spending three months at the Vail cottage at Crescent Beach.

No Hurry

A hot breakfast now in 3 to 5 minutes

DON'T believe that just because your mornings are hurried you must deny the family hot, nourishing breakfasts. Quick Quaker is faster than plain toast.

That means the most delicious of hot breakfasts without muss or hurry.

It means the excellently "balanced ration" of protein, carbohydrates and vitamines—plus the "bulk" that makes laxatives less often needed—every day for you and yours.

Do as thousands are doing. Start every day with Quick Quaker.

Your grocer has Quick Quaker—also Quaker Oats as you have always known them.

HUNTING SEASON

In fall, when frost has nipped the grape and pumpkin vine,
Gay pheasants, grouse and old Bob White are in their fattened prime.
That is the halcyon season for the fleet, sleek sporting dog,
The breed that "knows its knittin'" in meadow, field or bog.

The long haired English setter, lean, sheen and hard as steel,
"Heels" to the word of hunter as they set off for the field.
His long "flag" waves in ecstacy, his nerves and muscles taut—
The scion of aristocrats, he looks and acts the part.

At home in field or water, he gets a lot of fun
From standing staunch on cowering birds and waiting for the gun;
Then searching for the feathered dead, with senses keen and true.
Descendant from the Spaniel—a blue blood through and through.

MAGNETIC STORM CAUSES VIVID NORTHERN LIGHTS

Created Earth Currents That at Periods Stopped the Operation of Telegraph and Cable Wires—For a While Yesterday Afternoon Nearly Every Wire in the New York Offices of the Associated Press Was "Dead"—Radio Communication Was Not Affected—The Lights Surged Over the Northeastern United States and the Canadian Maritime Provinces.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP)—A magnetic storm of unusual intensity swept over northeastern United States and Canada today.

Going on one of its worst rampages in many months, aurora borealis, the maker of celestial fireworks, caused earth currents that stopped the operation of telegraph and cable wires entirely for a period this afternoon, and throughout the day, crippled both land and cable service.

Some transmission or market transactions between Wall street and London was caused by the magnetic disturbance this morning.

Western Union reports indicated that the disturbance apparently did not go much if any west beyond New York, but that the wires in this locality were paralyzed at different periods during the day affected messages going to and from all sections of the continent to foreign countries. For instance this afternoon nearly every wire in the New York offices of the Associated Press was "dead" in Canada, the Canadian Press and telegraph companies reported found their wires not greatly affected.

Efforts were made by telegraph experts to make adjustments to meet the sudden changes in earth currents, but aurora borealis worked too fast for human skill.

A vivid display of aurora boreal's was visible here shortly before 10 o'clock tonight, the beams shooting up toward the zenith across a perfectly clear sky.

PRESS WIRES TIED UP BY MAGNETIC PHENOMENA

BOSTON, Oct. 15—(AP)—Aurora borealis, that strange electrical force that is also known as northern lights, surged over northeastern United States and the Canadian maritime provinces today interrupting telegraph communication and typing up press association wires all the way from New York to St. Johns, N. B., and North Sydney, Nova Scotia, were affected.

At the western union offices in Boston ground currents registered voltages as high as 40 and 60 volts. United States government leased wires suffered the same way as commercial and press wires.

Radio communication, however, apparently was unaffected. Commercial and government stations reported that they had noticed no trouble from the aurora. Telegraph companies succeeded in overcoming the sudden interruptions of service by discarding the ground at times, as a part of telegraph circuits and using all-metallic circuits.

GOV'T ARMED GUARDS ARE TO DEFEND THE MAILS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Armed guards adequately equipped to defend the mails from the depredation of gangs of armed bandits were decided upon today by President Coolidge and his cabinet as a result of the Morristown, N. J., mail robbery.

"If it takes the army and navy to do it the United States mails must be protected and the lives of postal employes safeguarded," declared Postmaster General New in a statement at the meeting.

The postmaster general suggested that persons having large payrolls should pay by check instead of in cash and thus obviate the necessity of banks having such tempting amounts of money through the mails. He said segregation to make it a capital offense to attack the United States mails with arms would be recommended to congress by the postmaster general.

"Any man who does it has murderous intent and the world is a good deal better off without him" Mr. New said. "There is not another country on the globe where such things are more rare today than in our own. It cannot be suppressed by one means it would by another. Wholesale hangings might get further than anything else. It would curb their enthusiasm anyway."

MAN'S BODY MAS FOUND HANGING FROM TREE

ROCKVILLE, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The body of an unidentified man was found suspended from a tree on land owned by William J. Bower in the town of Vernon, three miles from Rockville, today. The man had been dead between four days and a week according to the medical examiner.

The body was discovered by two hunters, William E. Kibbie, Jr., of Ellington and Horace P. Pease of Somers. An old hammock rope had been used by the man in taking his own life.

The body was described as that of a man of middle age, weighing about 170 pounds and five feet six inches in height. He was dressed in a dark gray suit, black working shirt, new black felt hat and tan working shoes.

In the man's pockets were found 37 cents in change, a watch and a railroad ticket dated September 25 and stamped "from Douglas, Mass., to Putnam, Conn." He also carried a safety razor, a bar of soap and an extra pair of stockings.

The state police are investigating.

INVESTIGATING FINANCIAL METHODS OF MORSE CONCERNS

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.— (AP) — That James M. Beck, formerly solicitor general of the United States, orally approved minutes of United Steamship company meetings which show that $2,500,000 in stocks and cash was turned over to N. L. Gilbert, a clerk in the company, was the testimony today of Thomas A. Sherman, a witness for the government in the Morse rail fraud trial. The government contends that Gilbert was a "dummy".

The government is investigating the financial methods of 17 defendants charged with using the mails to defraud. Three of the defendants are sons of Charles W. Morse.

Sherman, one-time president of the New York, Norfolk and Washington Steamship company, which the government said it will show as absorbed by the Morse interests, testified the minutes of the meeting were taken by him to Beck, on instructions from the elder Morse.

Sherman could not recall who suggested the insertion of Gilbert's name in the contract ratified by the directors according to the minutes.

4,000 PIECES OF MAIL IN FIRST AERIAL SERVICE

HARTFORD, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Postal authorities here at the Colonial Air Transport, inc., produced approximately $2000 worth of collectible material in the first air mail flights here last July, it was revealed today when New York postage stamp companies quoted envelopes bearing the first flight cancellation on the Hartford-New York and Hartford-Boston route at 50 cents each. Superintendent of Mails Frank D. Munger today estimated that 4,000 pieces of air mail matter were dispatched from Hartford during the first day of that service 2,500 to New York and 1,500 to Boston, each bearing a special cancellation. Such envelopes, known as "flown covers," form a branch to stamp collecting.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY THE AMERICAN LEGION

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15—(AP)—Howard P. Savage of Chicago, was today elected national commander of the American Legion in what was the stiffest fight for office in the history of the organization.

The election was made suddenly by acclamation when the national convention was in an apparent deadlock. His principal opponent was Colonel J. Monroe Johnson of Marion, South Carolina, who withdrew while the 21st ballot was being taken. The delegates struggled for nearly five hours to break the deadlock.

It took but a few minutes to name the other officers who are: Vice commanders, J. G. Sims, Marysville, Tenn., Thomas Rushin, Helena, Mont., John A. Towne, Waterville, Me., Stafford King, St. Paul, Minn., and John E. Curtiss, Lincoln, Neb.

Chaplain, the Rev. Joseph J. N. Wolfe, rector of St. Barbara's Catholic church, Philadelphia.

The new national commander is general superintendent of maintenance of way of the Chicago Elevated railway and is 43 years old. He was a member of the 55th engineers and served with the regiment in France as a first lieutenant in constructing and repairing railroad.

Four candidates were placed in nomination for commander. The other two were Thomas A. Lee, of Kansas and Jay Williams, of South Dakota.

A majority of the delegates on the roll of the convention was necessary to make a choice, or 519 votes. On the first ballot Colonel Johnson received a vote of 448 against 487 for Savage while Lee took the lead on the second ballot 492 to 453.

He lost it on the third but regained it on the seventh and kept in the lead to the end.

BOY SCOUTS SEARCH WOODS FOR MISSING MAN

STAMFORD, Oct. 15.—(AP)—A large group of Boy Scouts in charge of Executive Wilson Benney searched through the wooded section of North Stamford all day for trace of John Smith, 75, who has been missing from his home since yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The search was unsuccessful.

Smith went walking with two dogs and was last seen headed toward the estate of Gutzon Borglum, noted sculptor. The Boy Scouts were called out last night and searched during the night and all day today. They were spread out a few feet apart and covered every portion of the wooded section. Several groups of residents and relatives also aided in the search.

No trace has been found of the two dogs.

PLINY JEWELL PRESIDENT OF INVESTMENT BANKERS

QUEBEC, Que., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Pliny Jewell of Boston was elected president of Investment Bankers association of America at the closing session of its meeting here today.

Vice presidents elected were Joel E. Ferris, Spokane; Arthur H. Gilbert, Chicago; Henry R. Hayes, New York; Robert H. Mounton, Los Angeles; and B. A. Tompkins, New York.

Alden H. Little of Chicago was elected executive secretary; Clayton G. Schray, Chicago, assistant secretary; Samuel O. Rice, Chicago, educational director; Arthur G. Davis, Chicago, field secretary and Frank M. Gordon, Chicago, treasurer.

SECRET SERVICE GUARD FOR SON OF PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15—(AP)—A secret service man has been detailed from Washington to remain with John Coolidge son of the president and Mrs. Coolidge, at Amherst college.

The orders have been issued under the general policy of the secret service which is charged by law with the protection of the persons of the president and the members of his family.

BELGIAN FINANCIER VICTIM OF BURGLARS

BORDEAUX, France, Oct. 5—(AP)—Alfred Lowenstein, Belgian financier who recently offered to lend the Belgian government $50,000,000 without interest, is the victim of a band of burglars, who entered his villa near the frontier, last night. The men are said to have taken "several million francs' worth" of [illegible]

PAISLEY, Scotland, Oct. 15.—(AP)—William Coats, one of the original directors of J. and P. Coats, Ldt., thread manufacturers, who died Aug. 31, had a net personal estate of 3,936,085 pound ($19,090,200), but left no will. The death duty payable to the government amounts to 1,530,818 pound (7,966,900).

BERGAMO, Italy, Oct. 15—(AP)—A portrait of the Countess Challant by Bernardino Luini (1475-1533) has been found in an antique shop here. The picture, said to be of great value, is held to confirm the belief that the countess, who was beheaded in 1523, was Luini's model for the fresco of St. Catherine in the monastery at Milan.

MAY MOBOLIZE MILITIA FOR NEW JERSEY BANDITS

NEWARK N. J., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Governor A. Harry Moore today offered to mobilize the militia of New Jersey in pursuit of the Elizabeth mail bandits who yesterday killed a postal employe, wounded three others and escaped with $160,000 in cash.

John J. "Bum" Rodgers and James "Killer" Cunniffe, who state police declared planned and led yesterday's attack in which sub machine guns, capable of 40 shots a minute raked the scene, also are charged with many of the other outstanding holdups which in a year of crime in this state have netted almost a half million dollars in cash and cost the lives of 15 persons.

Governor Moore's offer was made this afternoon to Mayor Kenah of Elizabeth. The governor suggested that the mayor and Colonel Schwarzkopf, superintendent of state police, confer as to the advisability of sending the state's 2,000 soldiers to aid the small army of police now invading the Watchung mountain region and scouring the territory for yesterday's killers.

Three suspects were held without bail in Elizabeth in connection with yesterday's killing.

5,000 MEN SURROUND THE WATCHUNG MOUNTAINS

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Oct. 15.—(AP)—An army of 5000 state and city police and citizenry tonight closed in on a thirty mile circle which since late yesterday has been thrown about the foothills of the Watchung mountains in the hunt for the Elizabeth mail bandits who killed one man, wounded three others, and escaped with $160,000.

It is the belief of Major Mark O. Kimberling, in charge of the force, that the gun men growing more desperate as the chase continued, have found refuge in abandoned quarries or the huge rock crevices between Liberty corner and Chimney rock, at the extreme southern end of the area.

Colonel H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the state police, after telephone conversation with Governor Moore made the rounds on the various posts.

"After making sure of your man, shoot him down without warning," was the command to every trooper.

NEW HAVEN POLICE FOUND BODY OF BARNEY P. HAWCO

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Police working with grappling hooks today found the body of Barney P. Hawco, of Philadelpia, third victim of a boating accident here Wednesday following a "party" aboard a yacht in the harbor. The bodies of Mrs. Mildred L. Terrell, 50, and Mrs. Minerva Orr Pierce, both mothers, were found on the beach in Morris Cove yesterday morning.

Discovery of the body of Hawco puts an end to theories advanced by private investigators that Hawco had reached the beach after the boat, carrying the three toward the shore from the yacht, overturned. It was thought that perhaps he had disappeared to avoid the investigation of the tragedy.

The man's body was found about 150 feet from shore at about the spot where the boat is believed to have overturned. Police officers who brought it to the surface expressed the opinion that Hawco's clothing had caught on the base of an old wood pier.

James Hawco, of Schenectady, N. Y., brother of the dead man, was at the scene of the tragedy when the third body was discovered.

Ormonn Ommandson, pilot of the yacht upon which the party was held, set out in the yacht for City Island today, following a conference with Sherman Hoyt, of Oyster Bay, N. Y., owner of the boat. Ommandson was released by the coroner last night.

MISS KATHERINE BRYNE OF PUTNAM TO BE HOSTESS

HARTFORD, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Miss Katherine Byrne, of Putnam, vice-chairman of the republican state central committee will be hostess to state central committeewomen and vice chairmen of republican town committees at a luncheon to be held at the Hotel Bond next Friday. The luncheon will be for the purpose of urging all republican women workers to bend every effort to get out the republican vote on election day. Speakers will include Senator Alice Patterson Merritt, Hartford; Mrs. Helen E. Lewis, representative from Stratford, and president of the Fairfield county women's republican club; Mrs. Herman Hubbard, Old Lyme; Mrs. R. J. Whitham, Groton and Mrs. Alice Russ, Stafford, republican national committeewomen.

OBITUARY.

Rev. Edwin A. Corbett.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Rev. Edwin A. Corbett, native of this city and widely known as the "Bishop of Wall street" and New York religious "plain clothes man" died at the Homeopathic hospital here today after a short illness. He was in his 65th year.

National notice came to Rev. Mr. Corbett when he planned an "anti-wet" parade in New York in 1921 in opposition to the parade planned by Samuel Gompers, who marched [illegible] the streets of that city to demonstrate their opposition to the Volstead act.

Slumping Causes Break In Prices of Stocks

Leading Railroad and Industrial Shares Were Hammered Down 4 to 11 Points. . .

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Under a deluge of selling orders which swept over the market from all sides, stock prices plunged downward today in one of the most dramatic declines in many months. Many leading railroads and industrial shares were hammered down 4 to 11 points at the close after extreme losses in some of the high priced specialties had reached as much as 13 points. The day's turnover exceeded 2,000,000 shares.

Coincident with the sharp reaction in stocks, serious attention was given in financial circles to the suggestion of one of the best known business prophets that the present era of sustained industrial prosperity might soon give way to a long, slow decline in trade. At the same time the weekly business reviews sounded a distinct note of caution, pointing out that "surface irregularities" were becoming more prominent and that wholesale and retail buying was being retarded.

The reduction in the purchasing power of the south, due to the low prices prevailing for cotton also was emphasized as a heavish influence. Despite prompt measures to meet the emergency created by the record breaking crop, the trade reviews reported that effects of the cotton slump were being felt, particularly in the reduced buying of goods.

Although the wave of liquidation which struck the market apparently had its origin in a professional raid, it was soon given additional force by a general scramble to unload stocks and by distress selling, stop loss orders were quickly uncovered and weakened margin accounts closed out, giving momentum to the decline.

Signs of competitive price cutting in the motor industry opened the automobile shares for attack and their abrupt breaks weakened the resistance of other shares. U. S. Steel and General Motors were driven down nearly 5 points each and Dupont and Cast Iron Pipe closed more than 11 points lower. Hudson Motors, Allied Chemical, Baldwin Locomotive, Atlantic Refining, Pullman, Atlantic Coast Line, Nickel Plate, Chesapeake and Ohio, Atchison and New York Central were among the many issues to crumble 3 to 7 points.

TO ATTEND CANADIAN FISHERMEN'S RACES

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Captain Ben Pine, winner of this week's schooner race for the championship of the Gloucester fishing fleet, and Captain Clayton E. Morrissey, whose vessel, the Henry Ford, finished second in the series, left tonight for Halifax to attend the races off that port to decide the Canadian schooner championship.

Captain Pine, whose seamanship amazed Gloucester fishermen when he steered the Columbia to a double victory here, has challenged the winner of the Canadian contest to a matched race off Gloucester later this month. Should the challenge be accepted Captain Morrissey will handle Pine's vessel in the international tilt. After the final race here on Tuesday, Capt. Ben announced he had retired from the game.

In Halifax the two Gloucestermen will watch the performances of the rival contenders, M. Bluenose of Lunenburg and Haligonian of Halifax. Capt. Crouse, skipper of the latter vessel, has promised to race the Columbia should he win at Halifax.

MADISON OFFICIALS GUILTY OF HOLDING ILLEGAL SESSIONS

MADISON, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Probate Judge Arthur W. Marsden and Selectman Clarkson H. Meigs, two members of the board of admission, were found guilty today of holding an illegal session of the board on Sept. 20 to make voters and were fined $25 and costs. The case was heard by Justice of the Peace Earle A. Barker of Branford, in Madison town hall, all Madison justice having been disqualified because of political connections.

Selectman Austin M. Ackerman, also named in the action, was not identified as having participated in the illegal session and was discharged by the court. Selectman Joseph Schmidt, the fourth member of the board, had refused to attend the session.

Marsden and Meigs appealed the decision under bonds of $200. The appeal is returnable in the common pleas court in New Haven the first Monday in November. The case today was continued from last Saturday.

STORM WARNING ISSUED BY THE WEATHER BUREAU

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The weather bureau tonight issued the following storm warning:

"Advisory, 10 p. m., pressure is below normal and falling slowly between the Bahamas and Bermuda. Some evidence of tropical disturbance of slight intensity about 500 miles north of Santo Domingo; direction of movement uncertain, but probably northward."

Ramek Ministry of Austria Has Resigned

Result of Demands of Civil Service Employes for an Increase in Wages.

VIENNA, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The Ramek ministry, which has been in power in Austria since Jan. 15, 1926, today resigned as a result of the demands of the civil service employes for an increase in salaries. Former Chancellor Seipel probably will form a new ministry.

Chancellor Ramek said that the demands which the civil service employes had made for increases were so large that he found himself unable to accede to them without endangering the stability of the governmental budget. Government salaries already absorb seven-eighths of the state's revenues, the chancellor stated. It is understood that he felt he would rather resign than to take the additional responsibility upon his shoulders.

Only recently the entire civil service of Austria threatened to go on strike unless the government agreed immediately to discuss increases in salaries involving $45,000,000 annually. At that time the government said that it only had $7,500,000 available for increases.

MYSTERY IN CORRUPTION OF INDIANA POLITICS

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Several bits of mystery today complicated the already tangled threads of the grand jury investigation into charges that Indiana politics was corrupted by D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan.

Two traveling bags, to which were attached tags bearing Stephenson's name were taken into the grand jury room by a witness whose identity was kept secret.

Three travelers reported that their automobile was stolen and their baggage ransacked at Delaware, Ohio, and officials admitted that it seemed apparent attempt had been made to gain possession of evidence reported en route from the east.

Mildred Meade, a 23-year-old girl said to have been a confidente of Stephenson was still missing after a search of several days.

The grand jury after hearing Thomas A. Daily, an attorney of Indianapolis, and a republican member of the state senate, adjourned to meet again Monday. Senator Daily was one of six state senators to whom Thomas H. Adams, publisher of the Vincennes Commercial, first presented his charges of alleged corruption. Adams urged the senators to press for a special session of the state senate to consider charges.

That move apparently has been abandoned because of legal complications and Adams now plans to go before Senator James A. Reed's senatorial campaign committee at Chicago Monday, to ask that body to delve into the Indiana situation.

Adams had been called to testify but illness prevented his appearance. He dictated a statement reiterating his charge that Marion county politicians dominated by Stephenson had framed indictments against officials of the state highway commission recusing these officials with illegally disposing of surplus war material turned over by the federal government.

ANNOUNCEMENT MADE OF REPUBLICAN RALLIES

HARTFORD, Oct. 15.—(AP)—John H. Bartlett, first assistant postmaster general, will speak at a republican rally to be held in the grammar school auditorium, New Britain, Oct. 22, it was announced by the speakers' bureau of republican state headquarters today. Benjamin W. Alling, of New Britain, republican candidate for attorney general, and the New Britain candidates for the senate and house will also speak at the rally. Mr. Bartlett, a former president of the civil service commission was governor of New Hampshire, his native state, from 1919 to 1921.

Other republican rallies announced today are: Oct. 25, Shelton, Governor Trumbull, Representative John P. Lynch, West Haven; Judge Robert L. Munger, Ansonia; Mrs. Alice Russ, national committeewoman: Oct. 23, Enfield, Lieutenant-Governor J. Edwin Brainard, Secretary of State Francis A. Pallotti and Congressman E. Hart Fenn; Middletown, U. S. Senator Hiram Bingham, Governor Trumbull and Benedict M. Holden of Hartford.

CANADA CAN DO WELL WITHOUT KU KLUX KLAN

BARRIE, Ontario, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The Ku Klux Klan is an importation from the United States which Canada can do well without, Justice Logie declared during his address to the jury in the case of William Shelly, convicted yesterday on charges of attempting to blow up St. Mary's Roman Catholic church.

The lumber industry of the country is maintaining a uniform level of high activity, the movement being slightly larger than a year ago.

Mysterious Bunk

Once in a blue moon now some bright, old fashioned cynic says: Aw, I never read the advertisements. They're full of bunk."

But when one starts to look for it, the "bunk" in advertising shows a mysterious tendency to be absent. Specimens of it are hard to locate.

The reason for this is simple. Bad goods cannot be successfully advertised. To stand up under the pitiless glare of publicity, merchandise must be honest. It must live up to its promises. Otherwise you would quickly cease to buy it. So that advertisers discovered a long time ago that for them, too, honesty was the best policy. More!—the only possible policy, if they were to remain advertisers!

Read the advertisements. They are full of honest information and interesting news. They show you ways to be more comfortable. They make life easier. They help you to be happier and healthier. They teach you prices and values. Read The Bulletin's advertisements every day.

RESPONSIBILITY OF VOTING ATTRIBUTE OF CITIZENSHIP

Fact Emphasized by President Coolidge in Extending Greetings to Members of International Oratorical Contest—Declared All Those Who Can Qualify Are Under the Most Solemn and Binding Obligation to Register Their Decision at the Polls—Correct Decisions Rest With the Great Body of Candid and Representative Citizens.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(AP)—An appeal for all citizens to exercise the franchise was made by President Coolidge tonight in extending greetings to the members of the first international oratorical contest in the Washington auditorium.

"Whenever a choice is to be made in electing a public officer," the president asserted, "all those who can qualify are under the most solemn and binding obligation to register their decision at the ballot box. To fail in that is to be disloyal to our whole system of self-government. On our theory that the people are sovereign, to neglect to vote is to abdicate.

"We do not pretend to rely for correct decisions on the judgment of the selfish and interested few, but rather on the patriotic choice of the great body of candid and independent citizens. We rely on the expression of the impartial voters. A true election representing the unhammered expressions of their will is the voice which speaks with divine authority."

In outlining the attributes of good citizenship Mr. Coolidge placed with the appreciation of the responsibility of voting, respect for American institutions of government, and obedience to the law. All these attributes, he asserted, would in his opinion "not be found except among a religious people."

The oratorical contest he commended as a movement which would interest young people "in a study of the science of government especially as exemplified in the institutions of their own countries."

"In the United States, he continued, it would, it is hoped, lead to a broader knowledge of fundamental principles of government especially as exemplified in the American constitution."

"While each of our citizens must have sufficient faith and knowledge to reinforce their belief in America" he continued, "after all, good citizenship is not so much a matter of information as of indisposition, not so much of the head as of the heart, not so much dependent upon knowledge as upon sentiment. Those who want to do right have little difficulty in finding out the right. • • •

"Observance of the law is the very essence of self-government. It is the main source of certainty in all social relationships. Without it all those elements would be lacking on which we are dependent for economic structure. The protection of property, the security of the person, would be gone. The entire basis for credit would be lacking. No standard of value for property could exist. Justice would vanish. The whole foundation of civilation would crumple. The protection of the weak would disappear. The sole reliance would be force. Might alone would rule.

"It is to rescue the people from these conditions that constitutions are adopted and statutes enacted. But all these will be of little avail unless there is fostered and nourished in the minds of our citizens a rugged respect for law and obedience or its decrees."

WON INTERNATIONAL ORATORICAL CONTEST

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Herbert Weng of Hollywood, Calif., tonight won the first international oratorical contest.

Young Weng, who a few months ago won the American championship here, wrested the title of world champion school boy orator from four other students representing as many countries, each speaking in his native tongue. Second place was given to Jose Munoz-Cota of Mexico City.

The other contests were Herbert Moran of Toronto, William Meades Newton of Liverpool, and Maxime Raymond Puel of Nancy, France.

LOS ANGELES SPEEDING EAST 70 MILES AN HOUR

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 15.—(AP)—The navy dirigible Los Angeles, sailing through smooth air at a height of about 2,000 feet and speeding eastward at a rate of about 70 miles an hour passed over Buffalo at 9:35 o'clock tonight bound for her base at Lakehurst, N. Y.

With threatening weather impending, Lieutenant Commander Charles F. Rosendahl, decided, after a satisfactory test of the Shenandoah moving east to Detroit to abandon the trip planned for tomorrow over southern Michigan and Ohio and started on a course over Lake Erie and New York state for the home base.

Leaving Detroit at 1:45 p. m. the Los Angeles was first reported from Put-in-Bay, Ohio, at 3:25 p. m. and over Millbrook peninsula ten minutes after. The Lorain, Ohio, coast guard station sighted the ship at 6:10 p. m. and nothing further was heard from her until she turned southward from Lake Erie and crossed the coast line, eight miles southwest of Buffalo at 9:10 p. m.

On the way across Lake Erie observing messages came from the crew who reported winds favorable, and prospects for a safe and speedy journey home. Over Buffalo the Los Angeles wireless operator was in touch with the University radio station, but had no message to send.

The night was cloudy and because of the height at which the Los Angeles sailed few persons caught a glimpse of the airship.

ACROBATIC STUNTS LED TO DROWNING OF DAVIS

PARIS, Oct. 15.—(AP)—D. P. Davis, secretary New York and Tampa real estate operator, was drowned because he persisted in displaying his acrobatic talents upon a window ledge in his drawing room aboard the steamship Majestic on Wednesday morning and called for help too late when he fell into the sea, Leroy B. Delaney, his attorney said today.

Mr. Davis' ten-year-old son, George Reilly Davis, who is now probably heir to at least $10,000,000, was sleeping soundly in a cabin adjoining the drawing room when his father fell overboard. Mr. Delaney said that the boy was broken hearted when he was told of the tragedy. Mr. Delaney is looking out for the youngster until he ascertains the boy's actual guardian.

Mr. Delaney described rumors that Mr. Davis had committed suicide as "pure rot" saying that he had left the real estate operator shortly before midnigh on Tuesday with the understanding that they were to resume the discussion of their business affairs on Wednesday.

As further refutation of the theory that Mr. Davis might have committed suicide, Delaney said that he would not have brought his publicity man, his office salesman and his young son along if he had contemplated such an act. Furthermore, the lawyer said, Mr. Davis had lost nothing in the recent hurricane in Florida.

Delaney was equally emphatic in stating that there were no differences between his client and Mrs. Davis.

STRUCK AND SERIOUSLY INJURED BY TROLLEY

HARTFORD, Oct. 15.—(AP)—William H. Kerr, 57 years old, of No. 41 South Quaker lane, West Hartford, a cashier at the Phoenix Insurance company, was struck and seriously injured by a trolley car about six o'clock tonight on Asylum avenue, 150 feet west of the Hartford Golf club entrance.

According to a member of his family, Mr. Kerr frequently walked home from the insurance office for the sake of exercise. He was walking west, close to the car tracks when he was struck. The trolley car was one of the one-man type and was operated by Ephage Barron.

QUEEN MARIE TO LEAVE STEAMER AT QUARANTINE

(By The Associated Press)

S. S. LEVIATHAN, Oct. 15.—Queen Marie on the third day of her ocean voyage spent tea time in the suite of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson. It was the birthday of the widow of the American war president and the queen and her family attended the birthday tea by invitation of Mrs. Wilson.

There was a birthday cake—a large oblong caramel coated loaf decorated with pink roses and Mrs. Wilson's suite was filled with flowers sent by the steamers officers and many passengers.

Mrs. Wilson wore a black costume. Queen Marie wore a sapphire velvet gown with flaring skirt, which indicated the waistline very clearly. It was trimmed about the neck and hem with white fur. She wore pearls and a sapphire pendant.

Princess Ileana was dressed in a simple mulberry silk frock virtually without trimming. A single strand of pearls was bout her neck.

This morning Queen Marie made it known that she and her party would leave the Leviathan at Quarantine, making the journey up the harbor to the southern end of Manhattan Island on the special welcoming boat. Previously she had expressed a desire to see the skyline of New York from the deck of the liner, but upon learning that the plans for her reception at New York called for her leaving the steamer at quarantine, she emphasized that it was not her desire to upset the arrangements.

TWO BOYS CHARGED WITH SERIES OF WANTON ACTS

MACHIAS, Me., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Trailed through a series of wanton acts described by police as running from burglary and the malicious destruction of cottage property to terrorizing the inhabitants with gun fire, Harley Grover, aged 11, and Vernon Worcester, aged 9, both of Jonesport were brought here today for hearing on charges resulting from the alleged acts.

According to the police the boys started out late Wednesday afternoon and made a tour of the cottages along the shore near the village, entering where they could and wrecking things generally within. With double barrel shot guns found in one of the cottages, they proceeded to West Jonesport where under cover of darkness they are said to have entered a barber shop, the plant of the Underwood Canning company and the sardine schooner Candage, in each causing serious damage in a wreckless fashion. At the store of Charles Huntley they stole two bikes on which they pedalled out of the village discharging their guns in regular bandidt style, keeping up their firing until after the midnight hours.

Finding they were being pursued, the boys returned through the woods to their homes where they were taken into custody by sheriff's deputy, D. O. French, one of a posse which had been turned out at the call of terrorized citizens who thought real bandits had taken possession of the town.

THREE OFFICIALS OF A PITTSBURGH BANK ARRESTED

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Three officers of the Brotherhood Savings and Trust company, Pittsburgh's only labor bank, were arrested tonight after $250,000 to $400,000 of the bank's funds were reported missing.

The three officers were: R. A. McCrady, president; William Kelly, vice president, and J. L. Nelson, treasurer.

No charges had been placed against them late tonight pending official investigation of the disappearance of the funds.

That the funds were missing first was reported to police by McCrady.

TOOTH OF CHIEF UNCAS STOLEN BY NORWICH BOY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 15—Clarence G. Palmer of 92 High street, one of the staff of local letter carriers, has received acknowledgment of his recent gift of one of the teeth of the famous Mohegan Indian chief, Uncas, made to the American Museum of Natural History at New York. The tooth, which was the twelfth molar of the great chief, is accepted gratefully as a contribution to the collections at the museum.

Mr. Palmer has possessed the tooth for three years. It has been in the transfer of ownership since 1833 when the remains of the Mohegan chief were removed to a spot now marked by the Uncas monument on Sachem street in Norwich. While the workmen were at dinner the skeleton of Uncas was left on the ground awaiting interment; George Phillips, a boy of fifteen and with the desire for some devilry, stole three teeth of the skull. Two of the teeth he gave to parties now unknown and the third one he gave to Lydia Hopkins, an aunt of Thomas Sterry, then a resident of Norwich. Lydia Hopkins in turn gave it to the father of Mr. Sterry and he gave it to his son, Thomas, an engraver in Norwich for several years, who made his home on High street in this city. He died here in the spring of 1926. Mr. Sterry gave the tooth to Mr. Palmer. He had often expressed a wish that the relic be placed in Slater Memorial museum in Norwich but the museum is not historical and those in charge reluctantly declined to accept relics of this nature. Consequently, the tooth, which dentists say is the upper twelve-year molar, is now in the Indian department of the New York museum of which Dr. Goddard is in charge.

LAZY TAFTVILLE FATHER ENDS UP IN BROOKLYN JAIL

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 15—Ovila Senecal, 49, of Taftville, who was fined $16 and costs in court Wednesday morning on a charge of intoxication, was taken to Brooklyn jail Friday. His relatives refused to pay his fine, which he will consequently have to work out in the county institution. The officials of the court hold no sympathy for the elderly man. Senecal is robust and thoroughly able bodied but it is learned from his family that he has absolutely refused to work for the past eleven years. The law rules that relatives must provide for a pauper, so in desperation, the family sent the man to an old man's home in Canada. Recently the authorities of the home gave him up as hopeless and notified the family that he would not be taken care of there any longer. His young son spent considerable money to bring the father back here and clothe him with an entirely new outfit. Among other depredations committed at his home in an endeavor to find money, the father upset the daughter's hope chest and ransacked the house in general. Tuesday night he was picked up in a doorway on Main street in a helpless condition. Senecal admitted to an official that he did not work because he was lazy.

The funeral of Hypolite Dansereau was held from the family home, 39 Arnold's Lane, Friday morning. Requiem high mass in St. Mary's church at nine o'clock was celebrated by Rev. J. F. Papillon, the pastor. Mrs. Joseph F. Gaudreau was at the organ. Burial was in the family plot at St. Joseph's cemetery where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Father Papillon. The bearers were, Alphonse L. Chagnon, Alexis Caisse, Adolphe Vaillant, Emile Roy, Dieudonne Riquier and Olivier Lussier. There were beautiful floral pieces.

Lorraine, six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Rock of 7 Elm street, sustained painful injuries about one o'clock Friday afternoon when knocked down by a Ford touring car owned and driven by Alfred Rondeau, of 195 Main street, at a point about opposite her home. The child had been playing on the opposite side of the street and suddenly darted across the thoroughfare as Rondeau drove his truck around the corner of Elm and Main streets at a low rate of speed. He turned the car sharply to one side but the fender struck the child. The little girl was not taken to the hospital, due to the objections of her mother. A physician was called and found the child suffering from bruises and lacerations about the face and head. Rondeau reported the accident to Captain of Police Frank McLean.

A children's service for all members of Sunday school classes, was held at the Methodist Episcopal church here today afternoon under direction of Dr. Melton's force, who is conducting a series of highly successful union religious services. Carrying banners, the children were seated in groups and they joined readily in singing hymns. Each group contributed to the program. Friday evening a rally of the Sunday schools of the churches participating in the revival was held.

A run-away, with a lanky white mule in the leading role, caused some excitement along Mansfield avenue late Friday forenoon. The mule, who was hitched to a light farm wagon loaded with cornstalks, sought to play a little prank by galloping up Mansfield avenue hill and heading for the country. But the hill proved too much for the long-eared steed and at the top of the grade it halted for breath. When the driver, an elderly man, appeared the mule refused to budge. With sage diplomacy the driver proceeded to gather up spilled cornstalks while the animal thought it over before making the return journey.

Ellis Jones of New Haven, a brakeman on the Air Line local freight train, is in St. Joseph's hospital suffering from injuries resulting in hemorrhages, sustained in Westchester Thursday night. It is said that a jolt threw Mr. Jones against the brakehead on the top of the freight car, from where he was thrown to the ground. He landed on his back. In the hospital he was also operated on for chronic appendicitis. He was resting comfortably Friday.

Two hundred and nineteen were enrolled in the membership drive at the Y. M. C. A. The number includes renewals and new members and brings the bona fide membership of the association to 550. As the various teams claimed they had not had sufficient time to interview their prospects, it was voted to continue the drive for the remainder of this week and final reports will be made next Monday evening.

At a whist given by Violet Rebekah lodge, No. 57, I. O. O. I find it safer to wash clothes
—this easy way

I USED to have to rub and scrub cuffs, collars, hems, etc., to get them clean and white. No wonder they became frayed and threadbare so quickly.

But no more hard rubbing for me now. I just soak my week's wash in Rinso suds—then rinse—and my washing is done—safely. Clothes get whiter and brighter than ever before.

No washboard rubbing—even the most soiled spots become snowy with a rub or two between the fingers.

Rinso makes the water wonderfully soft and sudsy. It saves my hands, too. They never get red and washworn now.

JEWETT CITY

DIVING FLOAT SINKING REMAINS A MYSTERY

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 15.—Conflicting stories concerning the sinking of the big diving float at Ashland Casino park are herein forever settled by P. W. Chase, welfare superintendent for the Ashland Cotton Co.

"No one seems able to determine the cause of sinking of this fine float which knows no equal in this vicinity or for miles around. She settled down in 15 to 20 feet of water a week ago last Sunday without much warning, though a few did witness the disappearance, but were unable to avert it.

Like many another happening the submersion of the raft has given the folks plenty to talk about. How it happened, who is to blame, how to float it again, etc. Investigations are already underway that will make those which followed the sinking of the S-51 look like the efforts of a fourth grade school teacher trying to find out who blew that spit ball.

Doc Gingras and Hal Chase have been delegated to see that the float is safely dry-docked and if they do it without the assistance of a diver they will accomplish what appears the impossible."

Dr. E. R. Fatzold of Waterbury Conn., and Dr. Charles H. Beers were guests of Byron Sheldon for a week past on a hunting trip here. All those who attended the Fish and Game club's field day at Lake Compounce Bristol, Conn., remember that Dr. Beers had charge of starting all of the bird dogs at the field trials on that day. W. Byron Sweet was there with his setter, Lieuellyn Lady.

Many in this vicinity have friends in Hialeah, Florida and will be interested to read a story which came from the national headquarters of the Red Cross Friday, also to know the latest report of the work being done and the urgent need. The story goes:

Two hundred and forty shining pennies were added to the Red Cross relief fund for Florida yesterday when little five year-old Lois Warden Heater of Hialeah, marched proudly into the Red Cross relief station and placed a very fat and heavy handerchief in the hand of a Red Cross nurse.

The eager little girl explained in her best grown-up manner that she "wanted to give something to the Red Cross". She said that she had been saving the pennies for a long, long time to buy something very nice, but that she couldn't think of anything nicer to do with them than give them to the Red Cross to help other little children who had lost their homes and clothes and doll-babies in the storm.

In a report wired to national headquarters from the Florida storm area, Henry M. Baker, director of disaster relief for the American Red Cross, cites figures which show the enormous volume of work being accomplished for hurricane sufferers by the Red Cross organization.

During the past week, Mr. Baker states, medical and nursing service was extended to 113,000 persons. This figure includes inoculation against typhoid. Food was distributed to 6,500 persons and clothing to 4,650 persons and repair jobs were approved for 12,300 persons and 50 additional tents were provided to house 2,000 persons in the Miami area, alone. During this one week, the missing persons bureau of the Red Cross handled 3,000 inquiries, making a grand total of 35,000. Latest statistics show a total of 370 dead, 6,375 injured and 17,739 families in urgent need of Red Cross aid.

John Farrell, who has been critically ill at Backus hospital, was able to sit propped up in his bed Friday. There is hope held out that he may be strong enough to come home within a few days. Many friends in his home town are anxious to learn of his possible improvement.

Reports having been circulated that Tommy Corcoran of Voluntown was entertaining or expected to entertain some of the famous St. Louis ball players. The Bulletin reporter asked Mr. Corcoran about it Friday night. He stated that he had been entertaining a house party of friends, but had not, nor did he expect to entertain any of the ball players.

The potato crop is being harvested with a good yield from most fields. Tubers weighing two to two and a half pounds are not uncommon this season, but in one field they have a way of growing in clusters, as many as seven fair sized potatoes being joined by several inches of their circumference to form one of these extra large ones.

The man with a cool million always gets a warm reception.

YACHT CAPSICUM FAMILIAR SIGHT IN NEW LONDON HARBOR THIS SEASON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 15—The yacht Capsicum, owned by Sherman Hoyt, a boat builder, and on which vessel a drunken orgy led to the death of two women and the drowning of a man at Morris Cove, Wednesday night, is a familiar craft in New London harbor. The vessel was here during much of the past summer, at anchor off the Griswold hotel, there were no orgies on the craft while she was in this harbor so far as could be learned today.

The "Capsicum" was in this port the greater part of July and August. When Mr. Hoyt, the owner was aboard the yacht and the boat was in this vicinity, he spent much of his time at the Hotel Griswold.

ELKS' HOME COMMITTEE FAILS TO MAKE REPORT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 15—The committee of New London lodge of Elks did not make any report to the lodge last evening on the proposal referred to it and which contemplates the remodelling of the present building or the sale of the property and the location of the Elks' home elsewhere in this city. It is claimed that the sentiment for a new building has subsided since the matter was broached, some time ago and that there is little possibility that any change will be made.

A comparatively few taxlists have been handed to the assessors as yet this month. Property owners have until the 1st of November to hand in their lists and escape a penalty for indifference.

A detail of a score of sailors went from the submarine base here today to Boston. They did not like to make the change, either.

Residents along Pequot avenue are wondering whether they will ever see removed the old hulk of a vessel that has disfigured the picture of the Harbor opposite Green's beach. It is unsightly, but there appears to be no one who can secure its removal.

Ocean Beach has all the earmarks of a deserted village these days. The business places are all closed and nearly all the cottages are vacant.

Although the political campaign preceding the November election has but three weeks to run, there is almost no interest shown in it. The oldest voters declare that they never knew of a greater absence of political material than is experienced at present.

More mackerel were caught by fishermen who went outside the harbor for the snappy little fish than have been landed any day since the fish struck on in the sound. There was considerable wind and the water was said to be just disturbed enough and to be free from floating bait to make the fish hungry. Many fishermen hawked their catches about the city to sell them. The fish were tied in strings of a dozen and then were carried on long sticks, making a real picture.

Joseph Busetta, employed by his father, a grocer, as a clerk, hit a very fast pace when he sped down Montauk avenue last night. He was going 45 miles an hour, when he was followed by Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin and ordered into court. The driver's excuse for violating the rules of the road was that he did not realize just how fast his Hupmobile was moving because his speedometer was out of order. He was fined $2 to remind him tha; he has offended and that he might have run down some pedestrian by his reckless speed.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles R. B. Stoeckel, today ordered the driver's license of Adam Kusiplowski, 8 Mountain avenue, suspended. Commissioner Stoeckel also ordered the driver's license of Anthony Piscatello, 8 Hamilton street, returned to the owner.

A large number of New Londoners will go to New Haven Saturday and witness the football game in the Yale bowl between Yale and Dartmouth.

The New London police recovered a stolen automobile this morning, when the car, which is owned by the City of Hartford was found abandoned. Charles Sizer, employed by the Thames Towboat company as chauffeur at the company's plant on the Thames river, observed the auto parked at the gate leading to the shipyard, about 3 o'clock. Because of the lettering "City of Hartford" on the sides of the auto and no one at the yard having knowledge of how the car came to be on the shipyard property, Sizer telephoned to the New London police that believed the auto had been stolen and then abandoned here. Sizer furnished the police with the registration of the auto 14-634. The Hartford police were communicated with by telephone and it was learned that the auto had been stolen from one of the streets there yesterday. It is believed that the thief stole the automobile for the sole purpose of getting to New London and when his destination was reached he abandoned the automobile.

The funeral of George Hoadley Brown, son of the late E. John and Ida Taber Browne, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his home at Golden Spur and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners, including a delegation of members of Fairview lodge of Odd Fellows, Groton. The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Plumb, pastor of Waterford Baptist church, and Rev. Walter N. Reynolds a former pastor of the church. Members of Fairview lodge acted as bearers. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Mrs. Christopher G. Newbury and daughter Betty left today for New York, to remian over Sunday with friends.

LAWRENCE HOSP. GRADUATES CLASS OF 19 NURSES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 15—Graduating exercises of 19 nurses of Joseph Lawrence Training School for Nurses connected with Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were held this evening at 8.15 at Plant hall, the exercises being brief and were attended by practically all of New London's physicians as well as many men and women interested in the welfare and success of the hospital. Frederick W. Mercer, president of the hospital, presided. Dr Thomas A. Woodruff, F. A. C. S., consulting ophthalomologist, delivered the graduating address and Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of the Groton Heights Baptist church, made the invocation. The graduates are: Misses Nina Minnie Brigham, Beatrice Eliza Clark, Genevieve Catherine Dray, Janet Beck Dougan, Alice Gaudreau, Jean Anderson Grant, Sarah Hendry, Pauline Ross Kerr, Catherine Patricia McGarry, Florence Evangeline Mitchell, Eleanor May Moore, Esther Erica Christina Elson, Arlene C. Peabody, Helena Janet Risch, Beatrice Larson Saunders, Mary Agnes Shea, Lillian Swanson, Mildred Elizabeth Webber, Hope Whaley.

George Wright, has vacated the property, 18 Pearl street.

William H. Burdick, 77, died this morning at his home, 711 Montauk avenue. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Minerva Burdick, Mr. Burdick had long been in poor health and for a year had been confined to his home practically all the time. He was a yacht captain many years ago and upon retiring purchased water front in Shaw's cove and had wharves constructed which several big and handsome steam yachts made their winter berths. He was born in New London and had resided here his entire life.

A Niantic boy came to the police station this evening and supplied the police with information relative to his bicycle, stolen at Niantic a few days ago. The boy stated that he had been informed that the bicycle was at the home of a Prest street boy and Patrolman Edward Riordan was sent there and recovered the wheel. It is believed that the boy who stole the bicycle will escape prosecution, although he may be presented in the juvenile court.

City Manager William A. Holt was in Hartford where he conferred with Secretary of State Francis A. Pallotti with reference to the state election next month. The principal matters discussed were the ballots that the state will provide and the use of the voting machines. The machines have arrived in New London and will be used for the first time at the November election.

Two dummy torpedoes were lost in Long Island sound this week during the practice of crews of submarines from the submarine base. The torpedoes are of great value, but are harmless because not loaded. Fishermen have been requested to be on the lookout for the projectiles.

Fritz Vogt, of Truman street, who left for Germany two weeks ago has arrived in that country for several of his acquaintances have received postal cards from him, bearing the postmark of Dresden. He will be absent about a month.

Building Inspector William Gunn today refused to allow the building at 112 Bank street to be occupied as a rooming house because of the general unsanitary conditions existing there and made it known that the building could not be tenanted until radical changes had ben made and such changes as would not endanger the health of its occupants. The building is owned by the Fitzgerald estate and is of three stories. It was intended to use the building as a rooming house for colored people.

MORMONISM REPORTED DWINDLING IN NORWAY

Before the World war, Mormons succeeded in gaining many adherents in Norwny, chiefly among very young women and elderly spinsters. Those who did not go to Utah remained at home in small congregations. As a result of a vigorous campaign against Mormonism, the congregations dwindled to insignificance during the war. Now only seven such congregations, number 800 members, are left. To recover the Mormon losses, 100 missionaries from Utah are coming by permission to start work in Norway.

Germany's Shrinkage Great

Compared with conditoins in 1914 prior to the war, Germany today has lost about 13 per cent in territory and 10 per cent in population on the basis of figures now accepted as reasonably accurate and final. This does include loss of colonies. Figures compiled by the German authorities say this means a loss of 25 per cent in coal, 75 per cent in iron ore, 68 per cent in brass, 16 per cent in wheat and rye and 18 per cent in potato production. Her merchant fleet is about 80 per cent reduced. Incidentally, the United States is the chief lender of money to Germany at this time.

NOANK

Capt. Tom Tinkerson of the boat Marion, lost his makerel net while fishing at the ground near Block Island recently. It was picked up by a Newport fisherman and taken to Newport. The finder called up Capt. Tinkerson about his find and arranged to meet him at the fishing ground Saturday to give him the net which will save him about $200. It requires a different net from the one used for flat fishing. Mackerel are running in little better now and one boat from Montauk had 600 barrels. They were taken to New York.

The company from New Britain has completed the picture "Hope". With their trunks and bags in a red Buick car and an Oldsmobile automobile, the actors and actresses left for the studio at New Britain Thursday. Mr. Bradley who took the part of the heavy-villian said Noank was the best place ever for scenery. He has been in many places and placed many pictures but the fishing village has them all beat! Capt. Pease, the man in charge of making the picture said that he is going to New York at the end of the week to assemble the picture and in two weeks it will be all done and it is to be shown in town hall before the public. The picture is turned over to a company which has a lease on it. Mr. Keefe, the leading man, has gone to Florida to take part in a picture there. The picture gang said "We are coming back to Noank next summer and spend our vacation! Gee, what a town!"

George Kay, while working at the shipyard injured his right thumo painfully. He is the first man to get hurt in the shipyard in a long time. A physician was called and dressed the injured member. Later an X-ray picture will be taken to see if any bone is broken.

Coast guard patrol boat No. 290 has been hauled out at the north ways at the shipyard for repainting and repairs. The boat came from the state pier in New London. The shipyard is the home of the coast guard boats for the last year, which has kept the yard in running. At one time ten boats were tied up at the docks, waiting to be hauled out on the different ways. Harry Morse, the owner of the shipyard, worked hard to keep the yard running so as to give the men in the village at work.

Orando Clark and hal dog Teddy, went out in the woods Thursday and brought home two large pheasants, the first ones to be taken in the village this season. Hunters say there is plenty of game, but the leaves are so thick they cannot see the birds. Squirrels are numerous.

Cancer Statistics

Encouraging statistics on cancer have come to light recently in a report issued by the New York Metropolitan Life Insurance company. The increase in cancer deaths has not been as rapid, the report shows, as many crude statistics might indicate.

More accurate diagnosis, no doubt, has something to do with he increase or apparent increase, as it has brought about the recording of cases which a few years ago would not have been detected. Another reason for the increase in the lengthening of the span of life, cancer being notoriously a disease of advanced age.

One of the most interesting points brought out by Dr. Dublin and his coadjutors is that the increase, such as it is, has been confined almost entirely to males. There has been little or no increase among women, although the death rate from the disease has always been higher among women. Another point is that the white race is more susceptible than the colored. The report states that between the ages of 35 and 55, it is probable that there has been an actual decline in the percentage of women who died from cancer, and no increase in the percentage of men. This is thought may be due in part to the campaign of education carried on during the past decade and to the number of lives saved or prolonged by early surgical intervention.

EX-SERVICE MEN TO SHARE IN NORWICH CELEBRATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 15.—There appears to be little probability of a parade in Danielson Armistice day. This is due largely to the fact that Norwich is to have a big observance of the holiday and because many local members of the Legion and Service battery is going from here to take part in the parade in that city. This exodus will mean that as many more as can make arrangements will travel out of Danielson to be in Norwich for the afternoon.

WILLIAMSVILLE FIRE CO. ORGANIZED 92 YEARS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 15.—It is a matter of 92 years since the Williamsville Fire Engine company of Goodyear was formed, a fact recalled by the activity of Goodyear citizens in preparing for an annual event the company holds. The company gets its name from the name of the village when it was formed and where it has been maintained through all the years since 1834, though within the past decade the name of the community has been changed from Williamsville to Goodyear. An interesting relic in possession of the company is the original hand-power pumper used to fight fires many years ago.

Friday morning at the Sacred Heart church in Wauregan, Rev. J. C. Mathieu was celebrant of a high mass of requiem at the funeral of Mrs. Malvina Moquin. Burial was in the Sacred Heart cemetery, Rev. Fr. Mathieu conducting the committal service. The bearers were Leo Cote, Henry Cote, Leo Frechette, Arthur Frechette, Gabriel Frechette and Adrio Champagne. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

From the home here Friday morning, the funeral of Clarence E. Hockey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hockey, was held with a service at St. James' church at 10 o'clock. The bearers were Laurent Parent, Arthur Bernier, Joseph LaPlante and Clarence St. Germain. L. F. Kennedy was the funeral director.

Killingly Woman's club is to be represented at the fall meeting of the Connecticut Federation of Woman's clubs to be held Friday of next week at the Church of Christ, Congregational, Milford, the meeting there being in charge of Milford Delphian chapter. A distinguished list of speakers will address the gathering.

Enumerators are engaged in various parts of the town of Killingly listing those liable to pay a personal tax. This involves checking the members of every household in the town, for persons between the ages of 21 and 60 years. Several weeks will be required to complete the work. Enumerators also have been engaged in making a record of the children of school age—4 to 16 years—in the town of Killingly.

Observant citizens have noted that bus stops are now marked in Danielson by painting nearby poles, much after the fashion that trolley stations were at one time designated here. A deep white banding on these "stop" poles is marked with the word "bus."

In the interest of the general work for fire prevention, those who have quantities of leaves to burn can assist in a worthy effort by exercising great care against such fires getting out of control.

The remains of a big motor truck and quantities of springs indicating that its cargo was made up of household furniture rests beside the state highway over in Rhode Island, about two miles east of the Killingly line on the Providence route. The car was destroyed sometime during the early hours of Wednesday morning, but residents near where the fire occurred say they know nothing about it. The truck is a total loss, hardly good enough for scrap metal. The truck was headed in the direction of Providence. It is said that the registration plates on the machine have been removed.

There was some business for the town court Friday morning, when Judge W. Benner Woodward heard two cases pertaining to violations of the motor vehicle laws. Arthur Jolie of this town, was fined $10 and costs for speeding. Dennis Laberge, charged with evading responsibility was fined $50 and costs, $25 of the fine being remitted.

Methodist Episcopal churches here, in Brooklyn and at Moosup are partici- pating in an institute that will extend over five Novembers with a series of each week. The first service was at the Methodist Episcopal church here Friday evening. Next Friday the meeting will be at Moosup, the following week in Putnam. Other dates are Nov. 5 at Moosup, Nov. 12 at Putnam and Nov. 19 at Danielson. The meetings are being held under the auspices of the Quinebaug District league. All interested have been invited to attend.

The recently elected officers of Danielson Federation of Charities are President, Rev. Hiradnat W. Gaylord, vice president, Sidney H. Perry; secretary, Miss Grace Shumway; treasurer, George F. Guild. The churches represented are the Congregational, Baptist and Methodist Episcopal. An effort is to be made to strengthen and organize the work of the federation which has been in existence for a number of years.

Dr. Warren A. Tanner, president of the organization, will be one of those to present a paper when the semi-annual meeting of the Windham County Medical society is held in Willimantic Tuesday of next week.

Danielson followers of football will have a special interest this (Saturday) afternoon in the outcome of the game between the Connecticut Aggies and the University of Maine at Orono because Arthur Williams, former Killingly high school back, will be playing at fullback for the Aggies.

To let for the winter, 8-room furnished cottage two blocks from center; all modern conveniences. Box 135, Danielson.—adv.

A meeting of the Men's club of St Alban's church was held at the Parish house Friday evening.

It is a matter of very great interest to the members of the church, and to many others as well, that Rev. Leonard R. Richards recently declined an opportunity to become rector of St Paul's parish in Fairfield. Members of St Alban's parish are exceedingly pleased with the splendid record Rev. Mr. Richards has made during his pastorate.

Mrs. E. E. Allen will have the members of the Reading circle at her home for a meeting Monday afternoon.

Chief John McFarland was having difficulty during Friday with people who were under the impression that no-parking restrictions have been removed and a 60-minute time limit put on along the frontage of the Shumway and Witkemair blocks. The new arrangement allowing parking there is not yet in effect. No parking opposite the Attawaugan house will remain in force as heretofore.

Hand-picked Baldwin apples $1 per bushel if taken at the orchard. A. M. Paine, East Killingly.—adv.

Chief A. P. Woodward and men engaged Friday in changing fire alarm telegraph wires in such a way as to increase the distance between them and shorten light wires.

Dancing tonight, Town-Wong-Ite pavilion, West Side.—adv.

There was a perfect jam of motor cars around the dance pavilion at Woodward park Thursday evening when Manager P. J. Sheridan possessed Mal Hallet's famous Arcadia orchestra as an attraction.

Mrs. Ada Mae Kent of Elmville will have the members of the Queen Esther circle of the Methodist Episcopal church at her home for a meeting at 8 Tuesday evening.

William A. Barrows of Pawcatuck is spending the week end with friends in Danielson.

Mrs. Beatrice B. Beckett has been in Philadelphia this week attending the American Legion convention.

Arthur C. Gillette of Lowell is visiting with friends in town for a few days.

Section men have raised the rails of the main line of the New Haven road at the Main street crossing this week to remove a slight depression at that point.

Repairs to the exterior of the building are being made at Danielson inn, recently purchased by Joseph Natorski.

Mrs. Louis S. Ingalls will have the members of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R. at her home next Thursday afternoon for the October meeting.

Apple grading demonstrations under the supervision of the state extension service are to be held at various points in Windham county. There is to be one at the Joseph Skoddard farm in Abington Oct. 28, one at the H. M. Woodbury farm in Woodstock on Oct. 28, in the afternoon, one Oct. 29 in the morning at the Ernest Buell place in Plainfield and one during the afternoon of Oct. 29, at the George A. Cook farm in Windham.

Reports from the state convention were presented Friday afternoon when the Missionary society of the Baptist church met with Mrs. George I. Eaton of Riverview.

PUTNAM

THREE DIVORCE DECREES GRANTED IN SUPERIOR COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 15.—Three divorce decrees were granted in superior court here today by Judge Alfred C. Baldwin. Mary A. Thibeault was granted a divorce from Joseph Arthur Thibeault on the grounds of habitual intemperance. She is of middle age and she married in 1923 knowing of Thibeault's drinking, but putting faith in his promise that he would stop. He didn't; he got drunk every Saturday and Sunday and she finally left him. Her allegations were supported by reliable witnesses and she was given a legal separation.

Florence Pearl Farnham was cruelly treated by her husbad, from the first day of their marriage. He was apparently jealous, did not want to have any pleasures himself and did not want his wife, who was much younger than he, to go to dances or the theatres. He struck her more than once. There was no defence and the divorce was granted.

Irene Henriques vs. Mario Henriques was the third suit. He also made a practice of using violence in his treatment of his wife and on one occasion threatened her life. They were married in New Bedford, but two years ago moved to Goodyear; in February of this year she left him. Judge Baldwin thought that she was justified and gave her a decree of divorce and custody of this one child.

OMER BERNIER WRECKS CAR WHICH HE HAD STOLEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 15.—Omer Bernier of this city stole an automobile belonging to Bill Evans of Webster which was parked last evening at Wildwood park where a dance was in progress. He is but eighteen and is said to have been under the influence of liquor. He drove the car to Putnam and on Main street near May he ran it into a telephone pole, literally wrecking the car and severely injuring himself. He was taken to the Day Kimball hospital and when he is discharged, which will probably be in the morning, he will be placed under arrest.

Dr. J. Bryden Kent, 82, who is at Day Kimball hospital having undergone a serious operation a week ago is believed to be making a successful fight for life.

At the Parent-Teachers' association meeting at South Woodstock which was held in the South Woodstock schoolhouse, the subject discussed was "Ways and Means of Helping during the School Year." Marvin Robertson of Putnam, superintendent of Rural school service and suggestions were made by several of the teachers.

Mrs. Josephine Steere, Mrs. John Child, Franklin, Constance, Alfred and Presley Wetherell have returned from a visit with friends at Nashua, N. H. They made the trip by motor and ate breakfast in Connecticut, dinner in Massachusetts and supper in New Hampshire and on the return trip reversed the order of eates in eating.

The October meeting of Oscar Swanson Post No. 67 of the American Legion was held Friday night at the post rooms at North Grosvenordale. Following the meeting, plans were discussed by the activities committee for the fall and winter season.

The United States crop of apples is reported as about 30 per cent above last year and the Connecticut crop 15 per cent above. The necessity of grading and packing fruit in an attractive manner is greater than usual. Attractively packed apples of good quality together with keeping the poor grade fruit off the market should have the tendency to keep the fruit price at a profitable figure. It is to meet this situation that co-operative packing and grading have been planned wit hthe State Extension Service, the State Department of Agriculture, the county organization is to co-operate. The following demonstrations have been arranged: Thursday, October 28—10:00 a. m. at the farm of Joseph Stoddard at Abington. At 2 p. m. at the farm of H. M. Woodbury at Woodstock Hill. Friday, October 29, at 10 a. m. at the farm of Ernest Buell, Plainfield. At 2 p. m. same day at the farm of George A. Cook, Windham.

The degree team of Israel Putnam Lodge of Odd Fellows will go to Plainfield Saturday evening, October 30, where they will work the first decree on a class of twenty-five from Protection lodge No. 10 of Central Village. Quinebaug lodge No. 34 of Danielson and Israel Putnam lodge No. 33 on Putnam on the community house. The Odd Fellows' degree team will accompany the team to Plainfield that evening and provide the music.

DEATH OF WM. H. KENYON WHO HAD REACHED AGE OF 90

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Oct. 15.—The death of William H. Kenyon, 90 who has passed many summers at the Kenyon house, Quonchontaug beach, occurred Friday morning, 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Orson C. Rogers, 8 Lester avenue, Pawcatuck. Mr. Kenyon had been in failing health for two months. Mr. Rogers his wife and daughter had planned to pass the winter in Pawcatuck. Besides his wife he is survived by his daughter, Mrs. William Holston of Quonchontaug. There are also four nephews, Dr. James Lewis of Ashaway, Dr. J. DeVere Barber and Dr. Harold D. Kenyon of Westerly and John Kenyon of Worcester, Mass. Born in Hopkinton, the son of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Kenyon, his boyhood was passed in the town of Hopkinton. He attended Westerly schools and those in DeRuyter, N. Y. He married Susie B. Hoxsie of Quonochontaug in 1861. Much of his business life was passed in Bridgeport in the stove business. About forty-five years ago he took up his residence at the Kenyon house, Quonochontaug.

The football team of the Westerly High school, eighteen in all with coach D. Harold Rogers and High School Principal Charles E. Mason will leave Westerly this (Saturday) morning by train for New Haven, where they will witness the Dartmouth-Yale game. The party will be the guests of Howard C. Dana of Boston, a graduate of Westerly High school, class of 1901 and a Dartmouth college man who supplies both train and football game reservations as well as lunch.

Westerly Highway Engineer Adolph L. Loos is a member of the committee of arrangements with Irving W. Pattersonof Walter W. Mussio, Old Stanley association president and S. H. Webster, secretary, to make plans for the fall meeting of the Rhode Island state highway association to be held on Thursday, October 21 at the town hall in Apponaug, R. I.

Congregations of the Seventh-day Baptist churches of Waterford, Conn., Westerly, Ashaway and Rockville, R. I. will make their fall pilgrimage to the First Newport church, now the Newport home of the Rhode Island Masonic society where services will be held this (Saturday) morning at 11 o'clock; Rev. Paul Burdick of Rockville, R. I. will be the preacher. The trip will be made by automobile by way of Saunderstown, Jamestown and Newport ferries.

Friday evening at Grace Methodist Episcopal church a recreational hour from 7 to 8 o'clock was in charge of Paul W. Mousell. Devotional services in charge of the pastor Rev. Marvin S. Stuving were conducted from 8 to 8:15 o'clock and until 9 o'clock class mission study classes were held for men and women young people and juniors. The service closed with prayer.

A collision occurred Friday afternoon soon after 2:30 o'clock on Mechanic street in Pawcatuck, between a Graton-Stonington electric car and Oldsmobile coach of Josiah Birch, Hillsboro farm, Stonington. The automobile was being driven down Mechanic street near the office of the C. B. Cottrell & Sons company and passing one electric car had turned out to pass a car parked on the west side of the street just as the second electric car was coming toward Westerly, in the crash the rear left mud guard and two windows of the auto was smashed. An automobile belonging to Hiram W. Barber of Westerly, parked ahead of the point of collision was also struck by the Oldsmobile, the license plate and rear fender being bent. Patrolman C. Wilson Brown of Pawcatuck was called to investigate. James Jolly was the motorman of the electric car. The driver of the auto claimed the sun shining in his eyes so he could not see the second trolley car.

A short session of the Third District court was held Friday morning at 9 o'clock followed by a brief supplemental session, for the trial of a Hopkinton case of reckless operation of an automobile. Judge Oliver H. Williams read the dockets which were disposed of as follows: Criminal docket, State vs. Thomas E. Brown, chief of police of Westerly complainant, vs. Angelo Turano, alias. Continued two weeks. vs. Samuel A. Maine. Continued two weeks.

William L. Kay, deputy chief of police of Hopkinton, complainant, vs. Amanda Jordon. Continued one month. vs. Albert Jordon. Continued one month.

John E Baird, department of Rhode Island state police, complainant, vs Raymond Patraca, alias. Continued two weeks.

Amos L. Kenyon, director of public aid of Hopkinton, vs. James Greene. Continued one week for trial by agreement of attorneys.

Civil docket. James B. Baker vs. Henry G. Gilman, alias. Continued one week. Attorney Ferguson told the court that pleading papers had been sent to Clark Caswell of the Washington county superior court by mistake which should have gone to Clerk Clark of the district court.

Vincenzo Turco vs. Antonio Di Pietro. Continued two weeks.

Frank L. Cella vs. Russell C. Duguid. Continued one week.

New writ entered before the calling of the dockets—Edward J. Reguccl vs. Thomas Koros, alias. Answered by A. T. L. Ledwidge and continued two weeks.

Trial calendar. William M. J. Talty of Providence, aged 18, was arraigned on complaint of William L. Kay, deputy chief of police of Hopkinton charged with the reckless operation of an automobile. Talty was operating a car down the steep hill into Hope Valley on Sept. 17th when a mixup occurred with a horse and wagon in the road ahead of him.

Judge Williams found the respondent guilty and sentenced him to pay a fine $25 and costs which were paid and he was discharged. Solicitor John Ferguson appeared for the state and Attorney John F Gallagher represented the defendant.

Linemen of the Western Union Telegraph company have been engaged the past week in relocating the telegraph pole line from the Pawcatuck river easterly to the Westerly railroad station. The line has been moved nearer to the New Haven railroad tracks to permit the continuation of excavation work by the steam shovel, where Charles P. Eccleston is making ready for the erection of a building with which work the former telegraph line interferred. At the Canal street intersection of the railroad property a sharp turn will be made south, to permit the line to continue up Railroad avenue without crossing the railroad parklet east of Canal street. At this time an excellent opportunity is afforded the New Haven railroad and Westerly highway authorities to get together to cut off the corner and give a more rounding sweep at the junction of the waiting station yard drive and Canal street.

Pawcatuck Lodge, No. 90, F. and A. M., T. Edward Peabody, worshipful master of Pawcatuck, held its 718th stated communication Thursday evening at 7:30 in the Masonic rooms on High street. The Fellowcraft degree was conferred on a class of candidates.

Westerly observers Thursday night witnessed an elaborate display of Northern Lights, aurora borealis, which at times lighted the entire northern half of the sky. Beginning with a pinkish tinge in the early evening the lights grew whiter and brighter and at times resembled the reflection of a bright white light from a huge mirror.

The Broad street Christian church, Rev Arnt L Schoning, pastor, held its annual meeting and roll call the past week. The reports of various church officers and committees were followed by the election of officers: President, Samuel Gigyen; clerk, Franklin C. Smith; treasurer, Orlando B. Smith; deacons, Wilfred Blackburn of Potter Hill and Carl F. Anderson, Watch Hill; trustees, Thomas Whitehead and Mrs. Ethel Miner.

George R Wellington of Cranston, clerk of the Rhode Island State Board of Public Roads was one of the speakers at the Rhode Island Police Chiefs' conference held at the Haversham inn, Thursday.

The tug Westerly, Capt. Frank Robinson, of the Westerly Towning company, having had new boilers installed at Providence, has been engaged in taking coal barge tows up and down the Pawcatuck river during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Holden of Pawcatuck were New London visitors Friday.

The death of Mrs. James Still, of Potter Hill, occured at the home of her daughter, Lilla, (Mrs. Roy Knight,) in Westerly Monday. Mrs. Still was the daughter of the late Daniel and Emmeline Palmer. Her funeral was held from her home a Potter Hill, Wednesday afternoon, and was largely attended. Mrs. Still was a home loving woman always planning for the comfort of her family, while lending a helping hand to those whom she could and when trouble came. She will be greatly missed by her children and husband. She leaves five sons; Frank of Hanover, Albert of Webster, Howard of Potter Hill, Clarence of Hartford and Lloyd of Webster, Mass. Another son died several years ago. Her two daughters are Mrs. Nettie Howard and Mrs. Lilla Knight, both of Westerly. There are also ten grandchildren.

Burial was in the family plot at Potter Hill. The floral offerings were very beautiful.

Cuticura Heals Eczema In Rash On Baby's Forehead

"When my baby's eczema first broke out it started with a red rash which later formed little water blisters. It itched all the time and he scratched it. The trouble kept getting worse and soon spread all over his forehead and both cheeks. At night he was restless and I was awake with him two-thirds of the time.

"My father advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I sent for a free sample. I purchased more and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment he was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. M. J. Raymer, 427 Court St., Utica, N. Y., Jan. 15, 1925.

Make Cuticura Soap and Ointment your every-day toilet preparations and have a clear, sweet skin, soft, smooth hands and a healthy scalp with good hair.

THE BIG COTTON CROP

If there is a shortage of certain things there is trouble and if there is a surplus it may also mean trouble, though those who are hurt in one instance are not involved in the other.

Just at the present time the cotton growers face a serious situation, not because the crop has been lost, but because they have raised so much cotton. The production is so large that it automatically lowers the price until the grower is facing the problem of getting as much for his cotton as it cost him to raise it. Reports have it that if he should sell at prices any lower he would not be able to make ends meet.

The thing therefore is to make it unnecessary for him to rush his crop to market and participate in a disorderly marketing. The fact is that he can make his situation much worse than it is if he becomes panicky.

President Coolidge has named a special commission to deal with the problem and it is believed that it will be able to relieve the situation if its plan is followed. There are government and private organizations which can and will give their assistance and they should have the close cooperation of the cotton growers.

If the big crop of cotton is dumped onto the market the result will be serious to the growers, and what should go to them will be gobbled by someone else, but cotton isn't a perishable commodity, there are large demands for it from other countries as well as this and if it is sanely marketed at a fair price the situation should be overcome. There are remedies which can be applied in dealing with cotton which might not be possible with some other things, but the situation is not going to be helped by getting hysterical about it, or by demanding that the government through a special session of congress come to the relief of something which can by employing means which are available take care of itself.

Even though it is the largest crop of cotton ever raised there will be a demand for it and the need is to regulate the sale in keeping therewith instead of creating chaotic conditions by flooding the market at the wrong time.

THE JERSEY HOLDUP

Defiance of authorities isn't confined to Chicago or the southern states. Nothing more cold blooded and determined has stirred indignation much more than the operations of the mail bandits in Elizabeth, N. J., who went about their job with cool deliberation which showed no willingness to take a chance with the drivers of the mail truck or the police or postal guards. It wasn't a case of ordering hands put up. The first warning was the running down of the mounted policeman and the shooting down with a machine gun of the driver and his companion on the truck. Death was part of the plan and in lieu of that they were determined to inflict such serious wounds that there could be no resistance.

Here is a case which rivals some of the other notorious holdups in New York and New Jersey. Suspicion is directed to a certain desperate leader who broke jail and is at liberty, but whether he is responsible as leader or participant there is a responsibility resting upon New Jersey to get the guilty ones if such a thing is possible, and once they are within the clutches of the law there is ground for the application of that much touted Jersey justice.

The transportation of large sums of money lures the highwayman, but the impression is gained that there must be some confederate somewhere who has furnished them with information concerning payrolls, bank funds or other valuable mail and when it is going to be transported. They are primed with the facts and have completely planned their attack. They know where to strike and they provide themselves with that great aid to crime—the automobile.

There is no ground whatever for the display of leniency towards those who were responsible for that holdup, death and casualties. Once they are caught they are entitled to a hearing and trial but there should be a speedy disposition of their cases. It is because so many of them have a chance to laugh at the law and the red tape that can be tangled up in it that so much encouragement is given to the criminal. New Jersey has a chance to upset a growing tendency.

VISITING THE PARKS

National parks are not new. We have had them for a great many years in greater or less number but the facilities for getting to and through them have been greatly developed and the result is that more people are visiting them each year. They are not only seeing America first but they are seeing something decidedly worth while.

More than 4,000,000 people have this year visited these places, scattered as they are throughout the country, representing a gain of 36 per cent. over two years ago and the expectation is that there will be more next year. From the number of visitors Yosemite park leads in popularity as it might be expected to in view of its nearness to large cities, but Hot Springs, Ark., runs a close second and Yellowstone park is probably third only because of its location. It is in a remote section but it had nearly 190,000 visitors.

Where national parks are concerned the automobile has been responsible for substantial increases in attendance. Those who may have desired but never thought they would get to many of these natural beauty spots have been able to because of the motor vehicle, which not only takes them there and away but transports them over the improved park roads.

The awakened interest in federal parks is the natural outcome of the tendency of the times. The tourists are bound to visit all of the points of interest which they approach. They recognize the fact that it is wise to make hay while the sun shines, and in these days the automobile annihilates distance as well as makes it possible to spend whatever time is available in such places.

But the increased interest in national parks is also to be noted in the much greater number of visitors who are visiting state parks each year. In seeking a place to drive for the day, or afternoon, according to the amount of time available the parks furnish a fine attraction and some very beautiful scenery is invariably found. The increase in visitors is logical and we doubt not that the report for the state is proportionately favorable to the national system.

REDUCING POLLUTION

From Providence comes the report that fish are being caught in the upper harbor and the reason attributed for this is that the fight against pollution has accomplished such good results that the fish are venturing into the purer water.

That is at least in keeping with the claims made in behalf of the work against pollution. While the Providence river may have presented conditions which few others did, there are many about which the claim was formerly made that fish of different kinds were caught within its waters when none are to be caught today, and if it is possible to so purify the waters of the Providence river similar results are most encouraging elsewhere.

Stream pollution has grown worse as cities and industries have developed. If nothing is done to check the condition it is certain to get so bad that a river becomes nothing better than a sewer, as was the case with the Providence river. It is too much to expect that the time will ever come when nothing but pure water will be emptied into streams, but it is reasonable to hope that pollution can be kept down through a gradual elimination of much of the wastage which is now poured into the streams, are at least that excess which the stream is not able to remove through its own means of purification.

Perhaps Providence is displaying more elation than is justified. Perhaps the fish which have ventured into the river will not survive very long, but there is some satisfaction in knowing that efforts at river improvement have resulted in a visit of endorsement by such experts on conditions there, past and present, as the fish.

TEACHING PREVENTION

There are efficiency engineers these days for the purpose of dying away with much of the waste that can be eliminated. They are supposed to bring about a better handling of work, eliminate lost motions and stop needless losses.

How long will it be before we have individuals prepared to carry on much needed work in behalf of prevention. Prevention of accidents, prevention of fires and prevention of sickness are decidedly important to industry as well as to the individual.

New York has a safety museum in which are shown various kind of mechanical appliances and where there is pointed out the protection that is afforded by the construction of safety devices. Guards are necessary about gears, fences are important about elevator shafts and various devices are vital where rolls are involved. These are required for the prevention of the loss of life and the avoidance of injuries and it is a lesson of much value that visitors or students can receive from an inspection of the exhibits in the museum. It is in keeping with instructions which are given in many lines of activity and it seems inevitable that much good work can be accomplished by those who inform themselves on these points and stand ready to put their information to good use.

The value of prevention cannot be disregarded. It is deserving of much greater attention than it gets but there are opportunities in many directions for putting it into use for the prevention of suffering, hardships and losses. The possibilities are so many that greater interest in the development of such work should be quickly forthcoming. The safety museum at the present time is a most valuable school of instruction.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The United States supreme court has said that the Massachusetts daylight saving law is constitutional. But that won't make any impression upon some.

Grover Cleveland Alexander now says he was "scared to death" when called to the box at the critical point in the series. He seemed to have that effect upon the batsmen who faced him.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Rally day for the Sunday school is one of the latest to claim its share of public recognition, and while no day has been definitely fixed upon for that purpose, the service is observed during the month of October. Such an observancee serves a very practical purpose. It becomes almost a necessity growing out of the general modern custom of the churches with their Sunday schools to close for a period in August. I am far from criticising our churches for taking such a step. Everything considered it may be the wisest thing to do, because so many families go away at least for a part of the summer. But yet we can see that it has its disadvantages, because both church and Sunday school are so slow in getting back to normal after the season closes. It is for this reason that we must resort to the unusual in getting the people, both young and old, back to the church worship and the Sunday school work.

This mid-October season with its revelry of high colors finds its parallel in human society. People are now for the most part home from the usual summer vacation. If the vacation has been a real one, jaded faculties are revived and work is generally marked by an intensity that is not unlike the colorful aspect of the foliage. There is always more or less of an intimate connection between man and his physical environment. The cooler weather of October has a tendency to give vitality to his work which is not unlike the colorful vegetation of the swamps and hillsides. Many of these are so pronounced in their blazing splendor that many who can find the time take long motor trips through the Catskills, Adirondacks, Berkshires, and the White mountain region. It is a wise thing to do if one gets something out of such luxuriance.

When an unusually helpful man or woman is taken from us we are wont to say: "How can we get along without them, they are indispensable." This is a perfectly natural attitude of mind and heart when we are under the shadow of some great loss. It is the spontaneous tribute of the highest character to the usefulness of the one who has been removed from us. And yet as a matter of fact it is very wide of the mark. And it is quite providential that it should be wide of the mark. If any one person, or set of persons, were actually indispensable to the progress of the world order, then the world order would be severely damaged by their death. But this is not so. Ever since the world began, men and women of the highest excellence have been going to their reward, but the world still continues. We felt this when Lincoln as assassinated, but the United States did not go down. It is fortunate that nobody is actually indispensable.

Were we to view death from the sociological, rather than from the sentimental standpoint, some of our ideas concerning it, at least, would be revolutionized. We call it the "king of terrors" from the viewpoint of the bleeding heart; when it comes into our homes and makes havoc with our tender sensibilities. When the tears fill our eyes and anguish is tearing our poor hearts it seems like a crushing blow. In this sense it is a terrible experience. But is there not a calmer and more rational viewpoint from which we ought to look at it. Let us suppose there had been no death since man came into the world—what then? Imagine what living conditions would be, or would have been a thousand years ago. The one thing, and the one thing only that satisfies both sociology and sentimentality is immortality, the spiritual life beyond.

The question is being raised—and with not little reason—as to whether we stand in danger of the Moslem world. If so it is because of its unity and solidarity. As we learn more about these great non-Christian faiths of the world, we find that they are not a "vast tissue of falsehoods" as was asserted in Christian Europe and America before we made a comparative study of these beliefs of the great pagan nations. They contain very much which Christianity endorses, but also other things which Christianity severely condemns. In refinement of spirit Christianity is not to be compared with Mohammedanism which is exceedingly gross, and its treatment of woman would not be tolerated in any civilized land. But its strength lies in the fact that there are no sects. It is one organic faith from the Red sea to the Atlantic ocean, and it is increasing not only in Africa but in west-Asia. This is a potent argument for continuing missions in the orient.

Much is being said at present in the public press about the "tyranny of majorities," and certainly we ought to express ourselves in the matter with no uncertain sound. But it is fully as important, and perhaps more so, that we give our opinion on the "injustice of majorities," and the blundering mistakes that majorities make. If we fully understood mob psychology we should probably see that masses of people act through expediency. They move in this or that direction because it is in the line of the least resistance. Anything new, anything that involves hard work, or anything that upsets tradition generally frightens the crowd. Take the case of Columbus how he frightened a stupid Europe with the idea of a western world. But Columbus plus Queen Isabella, a small minority, was right while the rest of Europe, a vast majority, was dead wrong.

There is an old saying that while "dead fish always float with the stream, it is only live ones that can stem the tide." Transferred to the sphere of human activity this saying means that it requires ability and courage to oppose popular opinion. To be sure there are some who are always on the "off side" because they are born twisted. They love the notoriety that comes from their opposition. But there are others who are sometimes forced to oppose popular opinion because a principle is involved. Many years ago the printing establishment of William Lloyd Garrison was torn down by an angry mob because of his attitude on the slave question. Wendell Phillips was also brutally treated for lifting up his powerful voice in cultured Boston for the same cause. In the calm judgment of posterity which of the two parties was right? Once this saying was in vogue: "Athanasius against the world if Athanasius is right."

The compartive value of the majority and minority reports is well illustrated in the Sunday school lesson for last Sunday. Moses had been instructed to appoint a committee of 12 men to spy out the land of Canaan. They did their full duty. They brought back a divided report. Ten of them were agreed as to the fertility of the soil and brought back substantial evidence of the same. They agreed as to the strength of the cities and the size of men. Moses could easily believe if the soil bore grapes so big that it required two men to carry one bunch on a pole, he could believe that it might grow men so big that an ordinary man in comparison seemed like a grasshopper. The majority advised to let such men alone. But Caleb and Joshua brought in a minority report agreeing as to the soil and the size of the men, but added words that have thrilled the world: "Let us go up at once and possess it; for we are well able to overcome it."

THE YANGTZE; LIFE ARTERY OF CHINA

The only river outside American territory on which United States gunboats are constantly on guard; the busiest river waterway in the world; and the stream whose basin holds a greater population than any other.

Such, according to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society, is the Yangtze river of China, where, because of looting expeditions by Chinese factional troops, the United States naval authorities have warned American ships to curtail sailings on part of the stream.

Busiest Water System

"The Yangtze Kiang cannot quite claim to be either the greatest or the longest river in the world," says the bulletin. "Its length is about 3,000 miles and it is therefore exceeded by the Mississippi-Missouri, the Amazon, the Nile and one or two others. In volume it probably ranks third; after the Amazon and the Congo. But the Yangtze can lay claim to a much more important factor than mere bigness or length. With its tributary rivers, lakes and canals, it constitutes the inland water system most used by man as a carrier of his commerce.

"The Yangtze rises in central Tibet at an altitude of 15,000 feet or more among the tangled mass of mountains and plateaus that also give birth to three other huge Asiatic streams: the Yellow, the Mekong and the Salween. In its journey to the sea it cuts through several distinct mountain ranges, forming some of the deepest river gorges in the world. At one point in Yunnan, the gorge of the river is 13,000 feet deep. In 1923 and 1924 these far western gorges of the Yangtze were explored and for the first time photographed by an expedition of the National Geographic society, headed by Joseph F. Rock.

Not Yangtze to Chinese

"As a whole, the river is known as the Yangtze only to the western world. It has perhaps a dozen names to the Chinese at different points along its course. Only the two or three hundred miles nearest the ocean go by the name Yangtze Kiang to the natives. The most popular names farther up are the Chinese equivalents of The Long river and The Great River.

"The Yangtze is an west-east river flowing in the lower temperate zone. Placed in the same latitude in America, the stream would rise in southwestern Arizona not far north of Yuma. It would cross Texas just east of El Paso and zigzag southeastward to Monterey, Mexico, its southernmost point. Turning northeastward it would then parallel the Gulf coast a few miles inland, passing near Houston, New Orleans, and Pensacola, to flow into the ocean at Savannah. To duplicate actual conditions this imaginary American Yangtze should, of course, have a solid block of rich territory to the south where the Gulf of Mexico lies.

Valley Hold One-Tenth Earth's Population

"On this relocated river, ocean-going ships would sail 640 miles to New Orleans, the relative position of Hankow. China is the greatest distributing center. Smaller river steamers would ascend more than 200 miles farther to Houston, the relative position of Chungking, head of steam navigation, passing en route through the famous mid-Yangtze gorges. Junks would ascend as far as the Texas-Mexican border and beyond.

"The Yangtze is the life artery of China. It drains an area of 770,000 square miles, equal to one-quarter the total area of the United States; and in this basin live approximately 175,000,000 people—once and a half the population of our 48 states. Railroads are few in this region, and the commerce that must supply the needs of this vast horde of workers and consumers (one-tenth of the entire population of the world) moves almost wholly by water; over the Great river itself and the complex network of navigable streams, canals and lakes that connect with it in its lower 1000 miles.

Natural Commercial Advantages

"At no other place in the world are three all-important economic factors making for trade so happily associated; a broad, deep natural waterway for ships and a teeming, civilized population living on fertile, cultivated soil. The Yangtze, from 30 to 40 miles wide at its mouth, is a broad open door to the sea inviting the ships of the world to enter. And enter they do. Transshipping is unnecessary for 640 miles. ocean-going steamers ascending easily that distance to Hankow. But broad as the Yangtze is, it is crowded with traffic. The traveler finds no break in the unending stream of steamers, barges, junks and sampans. And frequently he encounters one of the huge rafts of logs on each of which the crew and their families have built a little village. On these floating islands, pigs and chickens wander about, children play, and women hang out their wash and carry on other domestic duties exactly as in some little Chinese hamlet on dry ground.

"From Hankow to Ichang, a distance of about 250 miles, river steamers are used. Ichang lies at the lower end of the world-famed Yangtze Gorges. Until recent years this stretch of 125 miles through towering mountains, ur swirling rapids, could be negotiated only in native junks pulled from the shore by bands of coolie 'trackers.' It required weeks to make the trip. Now specially constructed steamers breast the ten-knot-per-hour current, steaming through in 40 hours.

U. S. Gunboats Patrol River

"Above the gorges the river widens and the steamers go on to Chungking, 35 miles above Ichang. In this stretch of 350 miles the gorge steamers fight their way uphill for 500 feet.

"When China was forced after the middle of the past century to open up interior ports to the commerce of the west, the ships of the United States, Great Britain, France and other powers entered the Yangtze to protect their interest. This is the only place in the world where the U. S navy maintains such a force on a foreign river. Since the World war this flotilla, now consisting of seven boats, has been known officially as the American Yangtze Patrol."

Sunday Morning Talk

LIFE'S VOYAGE

Life is a fixed fact, a stern and solemn reality. We are voyagers upon its broad wild sea. Our bark is launched by other hands than ours. The currents of this great sea are all setting outward from the port we have left. The winds are off shore, strong and unchangeable. Go we must. It becomes us, then, to make the best of our voyage; to make it as profitable, pleasant and delightful as we can. We must make it intensely delightful and infinitely profitable or we can make it miserable and a prodigal waste of the most precious means of enduring wealth. Numbers are diamonds, strength is wealth. Opportunities are angel visits or fortune, all should be used wisely.

The vessel we have set sail in is in architecture divine. Its beauty is like a "fairy ship" of life, riding upon the waves of the "river of peace' humans refuse to attempt its description. Its strength surpasses bars of iron and bands of steel, yet this ship may go down ere it reaches the haven before the sea. Its beauty may be marred; its strength wasted, its delicate workmanship defaced, ere the journey is half performed. Hence we should start right in our youth, take Christ as our captain and leader and He will guide us over the rough seas to the desired haven.

Make the Most of Books

By James Hosmer Penniman, Litt. D

Know Ourselves

To find out what the best books are is no difficult mattery but to find out what are the best books for us requires a self-knowledge that takes life-long study. In reading we must feel our way, we cannot tell what is best for us all at once. We need to get acquainted with our own minds, to learn what our powers and tastes are. This takes time and thought and, more than all, fair-mindedness in order that we may not form too high or too low an estimate of our abilities. "If thou wouldst profit by thy reading, "it read humbly, simply, honestly, and not desiring to win a character for learning," said Thomas a Kempis.

Stories That Recall Others

A Big Time.

Gus, a sparkling eyes boy, was quite hilarious one morning at school. The teacher on questioning the youngster received this repip: "Why, we had a big time at our house last night."

"What were you doing?" inquired the teacher.

"We was a knockin' off de plaster. We's goin' to move."

A Mixture.

Shirley is a youngster who has a penchant for inventing expressions rivaling that which Lloyd George one time coined when he said, "That is something for which I have nothing but the very slightest use."

Her latest took place in this manner: She and her adored older sister were confidently discussing the latter's reluctance to take a walk at the time her fiance was to call.

"But why," persisted Shirley, "But why do you don't want to for?"

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Senator Frederick H. Gillett of Massachusetts, who is in line for congratulations today on his 75th birthday anniversary, is now the oldest member of congress in point of continuous service. His career in the national lawmaking body dates back to 1893, when he entered the house as representative of the Second Massachusetts district. He became republican floor leader in the 65th congress and was honored with the speakership of the 68th congress. Mr. Gillett is a lawyer by profession, Amherst college giving him his liberal, and Harvard his professional, education. He had an eminent lawyer for a father and naturally his thought turned toward law and politics, in which latter field he first experimented in the Massachusetts legislature. From the beginning of his career he has been a consistent supporter of the merit system of civil service, and a foe of graft and "pork" appropriation bills.

YOUR HEALTH

ARE YOUR CHILDREN PHYSICALLY FIT?

By Andrew P. Biddle, M. D., Detroit Member Gorgas Memorial Institute

Eighteen million and more of our boys and girls are returning to school this week.

Hundreds of children, in many of our cities, will be gathered together, carrying diseased conditions inimical to themselves and dangerous to others. It will be well, therefore, for parents and teachers to give heed to the health of their charges. Especially is this true in the lower grades where children are too young to draw attention to any abnormality or to a feeling of ill being.

Inspection is particularly needed in rural districts, the villages and towns, for in the larger communities, board of health have staffs who daily or less frequently visit the schools and examine all children, who, in the judgment of the principal, need to be looked over. Those who are ill or a danger to others are sent home to the care of the family physician, and suggestions are made to him of possible deleterious affections.

All parents must realize that no child can do justice to himself if handicapped by ill health; that many cases of illness might have been prevented, if, in the early stages, the symptoms had been removed or a deformity corrected; and that the spread of a contagious disease might have been cut short, if the child had been seen early by the family physician and kept at home, away from the others.

For example, diseased tonsils often lead to running ears and subsequent deafness, to inflammatory rheumatism and heart disease. Bad teeth cause serious infection of the joints. An eye strain, which might have been easily corrected, will often cause headaches and hinder the child in its studies. Measles, diphtheria and scarlet fever leave in their wake many cases of deafness and injured eyes, impairments which may cause the afflicted child to fall behind the others.

Then, again, carelessness or the lack of time to give the child the proper food at breakfast; the hasty and improper lunch; the lack of supervision of the child's hours of recreation and of sleep often undermine its health and interfere with normal growth.

The school child's health demands first consideration. For with health comes the desire to learn, the ambition to do well. A correction here and there may prevent further inroads. A recognition in the early stage of a communicable disease may save thousands of others from a malady which may be the cause of permanent injury. The school child needs the careful supervision and has an inborn right to the protection it affords.

WHAT IT MIGHT MEAN TO YOU
If it were possible for you to look through somebody else's normal eyes and by so doing, you would have better health, increased success, greater happiness — wouldn't you take that look?
Of course! you say. But how could it bring these benefits?
By proving that the cause of your nervousness, debility or headaches—is eyestrain.

Don't say too quickly that none of these cases fits YOU. Many people suffer from defective eyes without realizing it! What a tragedy that anyone, young or old, should be regarded as unintelligent or sluggish when only his eyes are to blame!
All that you could gain from seeing through another person's better eyes, you can get from an expert examination. With everything to win and nothing to lose, can you afford to neglect such an opportunity?

FINE FOR CHILDREN!

Give them a good start in life, with happy smiles and healthy little bodies. Children need a mild corrective occasionally to regulate stomach and bowels. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a safe vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. They tone up and regulate the digestive tract. Not a nasty calomel or a habit-forming medicine, but a safe, pleasant remedy for constipation, sour stomach, torpid liver, bad breath, and similar disorders. Dr. Edwards, a widely known family physician, for many years in general practice, finds that six tablets up are greatly relished by children who like to take them. Recommended by the entire staff, Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets overcome those crabby spells that many children are subject to, keep their bodies in a fine healthy condition, skin clear and eyes bright with the light of perfect health. 15c, 30c and 60c sizes.

NO IMMUNITY FOR THE SURRENDER OF ORMISTON

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Attorneys for Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, charged with conspiracy to defeat justice today failed to shake the story of Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Sieloff, of San Francisco, that she attempted, at Mrs. McPherson's behest, to frame a trap to cover the evangelist's alleged ten day occupancy of a cottage at Carmel, Calif., with her former radio operator, Kenneth G. Ormiston.

Keyes again today spurned a purported offer for the surrender of Ormiston in return for immunity.

A telegram from Winnipeg, Manitoba, timed 9 a. m. this morning, received by Keyes read:

"Ormiston sick, will surrender if granted immunity. This is last offer. Reply through the press. (Signed) T."

Keyes' answer was brief. He said: "I will not grant immunity. That is final."

The radio operator is one of six co-defendants with Mrs. McPherson whose sworn story that she was kidnapped at the time she disappeared, May 18, for five weeks, is the basis for the present hearing.

The other defendants are Mrs. McPherson's mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy; Mrs. Wiseman; "Mr. Martin," who has figured in Mrs. Wiseman's testimony, and two persons known as "Steve" and "Rose," named by Mrs. McPherson as two of her abductors.

Send Blood by Mail

Country doctors can now send a specimen of a patient's blood through the mail and have it correctly analyzed in the most up-to-date metropolitan laboratory hundreds of miles away, Dr. Henry J. John of the Cleveland clinic describes a vacuum tube for collecting and preserving blood samples. It will hold about one and a half cubic inches of blood and contains a small quantity of a drug, fluoride thymol, in the form of a powder, which prevents the blood from clotting and reserves it to the original condition in which it was taken from the patient. The tube is easily used and will doubtless prove a great value not only to the practitioners who do not have access to a laboratory, but to insurance companies, many of which are now requesting blood sugar tests of applicants for policies.

WEDDING
Sheehy-McGrath

In St. Patrick's church, Mystic, Thursday, Miss Madeline Mary McGrath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Minnie McGrath of Mystic was united in marriage with Joseph Edward Sheehy of New York city, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sheehy of Washington, Conn.

They were attended by Miss Helen McGrath of Hempstead, N. Y., and Bernard McGinn of New York city. The ushers were Frank McManon of New York, Vincent Keleher of Derby, John R. Thur and John J. Sullivan, both of New Haven and classmates of the bridegroom.

The bridal party entered the church, which was beautifully decorated with autumn foliage, ferns and palms, as the wedding march was played by Miss Katherine McGrath of Bridgeport, an aunt of the bride. Before the nuptial mass G. Victor Grinnall of Mystic gave a violin solo and also played during the mass.

The bride was attired in white taffeta, with train and trimmed with net. She wore a tulle veil caught with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid's gown was of green satin and she wore a picture hat of black velvet. Her bouquet was pink roses.

The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. Thomas P. Mooney. The nuptial mass was sung by Rev. C. A. Leddy of Bridgeport, a former pastor.

During the service Mrs. Robert Clarke sang At Dawning and Miss Marie Fritscher, Ave Maria. Mrs. Daniel Devine accompanying on the organ. A quartet, Richard Lenihan, Edward Butler, Jr., Dr. Coyle and John St. Onge of Westerly sang during the mass.

Following the ceremony breakfast was served at Stonington Manor inn, after which Mr and Mrs. Sheehy left on a wedding trip. They will make their home in New York.

The bride is a graduate of Stonington high school and the Griffin Training School for Nurses at Derby.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the law school of Georgetown university class of '24, and is with the federal trade commission.

MULCH BEDS AND SAVE THE MULCH

All plants are benefited by a mulch of straw or autumn leaves. It takes the place in our climate, where snows do not remain long on the ground, of the natural cover most plants enjoy in their native haunts. The object of a mulch is not to keep the plants warm but to keep them cold and maintain the ground in a frozen condition once the frost has gone into it. It is best not to put on the mulch until the ground is slightly frozen.

The purpose of the mulch is to keep the plants dormant until the frost leaves permanently in the spring. It is not the cold that does the damage but thawing and freezing, starting the plant into growth only to be suddenly checked. The strain on the roots by the heaving due to the thawing and freezing sometimes breaks the roots and throws the plant out of the ground. Bulbs sometimes are forced to the surface by this heaving. A mulch prevents it.

Heavy mulch is not necessary except where it is necessary to keep the frost from penetrating too deeply. Its main purpose is to protect the frozen soil and the plants in it from the rays of the winter sun. It is in reality merely a shade. Place just enough mulch upon the beds to cover the soil lightly but completely, concealing the leaves of the plants.

In the spring the mulch should be saved as we now have means at hand to convert it in the course of a few weeks into well-rotted manure to be spaded into the garden through the new chemical compound devised by the English experiment station at Rothampstead and commercialized for distribution by an English nobleman, Lord Elveden. It has proved to be as efficient in decomposing dry vegetable refuse as the English scientists claimed.

The proceeds from the commercial sale of the preparation are devoted to further experiments in fertilizers at the English station. It solves the problem of getting stable manure to furnish humus for garden which has been a troublesome one for some time.

TWO $10,000 SUITS; FOR DEATH OF WOMAN AND AUTOMOBILE CRASH

Two suits for $10,000 damages, one against a Colchester man for injuries in an automobile accident and the other against the city of New London for the death of Amelia A. Williams, were among the new November cases filed for the superior court here Friday with the clerk of the court, Judge George E. Parsons.

Mrs. Mattie Smith of Wells, Vt., mother of Clyde E. Smith of Hartford, sues Dave Feiden and Alfred Springis, both of Colchester, for $10,000 damages for her injuries in an automobile accident about 6 p. m. on Oct. 24, 1925. She alleges in her complaint that Springis was operating the motor truck belonging to Feiden and had parked it on the Colchester-New London road without a taillight showing. There the truck was run into by her son's car in which she was riding on the back seat and she sustained a fractured skull, lost the use of her right eye, and had other injuries, all of which cost her much money and from which she will permanently suffer.

For Woman's Death.

Ralph Williams of New London, administrator of the estate of Amelia A. Williams, sues the city of New London for $10,000 damages for her death on May 7, 1926, which it is alleged was the result of breaking her leg and suffering internal injuries in a fall at the corner of Shaw and Hobron streets on April 13, 1926. It is alleged that she stepped off a curbing into a rough cobblestone gutter and that the city was negligent in permitting such conditions to exist.

Asks Injunction.

Damages of $1,000 and an injunction to compel the defendants to take steps to have an attachment lien released are asked in a suit brought against Meik and Katazyna Maguda, husband and wife, by Peter and Kate Dembrock, husband and wife, of this city.

It is alleged that the plaintiffs contracted on Nov. 1, 1925 to buy for $5,000 some land and buildings in Norwich from the defendants. On Nov. 14 they were informed that there was an attachment against the property, but as they are of foreign birth and ignorant of the English language, they claim they did not know what this meant and they went ahead and completed their purchase for which they received a warranty deer in which no reference was made nor exception noted on account of the attachment. The plaintiffs claim that they did not learn until Oct. 1, 1926, that there was an $800 attachment on the property which had been placed in an action brought in the common pleas court by one Lagoda against Meik Maguda and that it still holds.

Asks Name Change.

Henrietta M. Dombroski of Norwich brings a petition to the superior court to have her name changed to Henrietta M. Dee.

Chapman Divorce Suit.

Christopher B. Chapman of New London, who this week withdrew a divorce suit against Mary Briody Chapman of New Rochelle, N. Y., has instituted a new suit for divorce, papers in which have just been filed. They were married Jan. 3, 1893, and he alleges a statutory offense committed by his wife between May 28, 1905 and Sept. 1, 1926, at New York, Fishers Island, Wallingford and New Rochelle.

Divorce and Alimony.

Delina Warner Bedard of this city seeks divorce from Joseph G. Bedard, asks alimony of $10,000 and custody of a 15-year old daughter. She alleges that her husband has property worth $30,000 and has placed attachments against real estate in this city. They were married May 17, 1910 and she alleges cruelty since Oct. 1, 1916.

PARK CHURCH WOMEN HEAR JAPANESE MISSIONARY

The autumn meeting of the Women's Federation and parish house department of Park Congregational church opened with a luncheon in the dining room of the Hugh Henry Osgood Memorial on Friday afternoon.

Following the luncheon, Mrs. Frank Hempstead, vice president, opened the business meeting; after the usual routine business and reports of committees, a letter of resignation from the president, Mrs. Frederic W. Cary was read. It was accepted with regret and appreciation was expressed for her valuable work during the nearly three years as presiding officer. The resignation of Mrs. Benedict Pullen as guardian of the Camp Fire girls was announced and Mrs. E. A. Harris was appointed as guardian, with Mrs. Webster D. Copp, assistant. As Mrs. Frank L. Crowell had resigned as leader of The Blue Birds, Miss Elizabeth Collins had been chosen for leader.

Mrs. Hempstead spoke of the recent loss in the death of Mrs. Harriet S. Blackmar and spoke touchingly of her kindness and thought for others. Mention was made of the gift of the church clock with the Westminster chimes given by Mr and Mrs. O. L. Johnson in memory of their son Robert C. Johnson.

The meeting then adjourned to the parlors, for the program, during which Mrs. Aurin E. Payson, chairman, presided. Following her greeting she introduced Mrs Arthur W. Stamford of Los Angeles, Cal., who choose for her subject "A personally conducted tour about Kobe, Japan" A vivid description of the setting of the city with a harbor which, Mrs. Stamford said, "rivals in color the Bay of Naples" with a background of a low range of mountains, which temper the climate, by shutting off the winds from the ice fields of, Siberia, was followed by a tour of the temples and glimpses of the industrial parts of the city. Since the earthquake Kobe has become the chief port, and in the harbor, eight or ten ocean steamers, naval vessels of several countries and smaller native craft are to be seen constantly. Besides two large dock yards and a steel plant the city has a large spinning mill which is the show place of the company, operating six or eight mills in other parts of Japan. The Kobe mill has model cottages and tenements, dispensary, day nursery, educational classes for young employes and its own theatre, but the other plants lack these devices. 1,000,000 women and girls have been employed in night work in mills, and 700 girls under fifteen years are working in the mines.

While the percentage of those receiving an education is high there are 40,000 children in the country and living on river boats, who receive none. It is only mission schools which give Christian education for the government schools teach no ethics of any kind. Following mention of the Congregational schools for the higher education of women, including the evangelical or theological, from which are sent out pastors and missionaries to other islands the work done in social service by the Christian Japanese was described; settlement work in the slums, an ex-convicts hall where former prisoners are helped, a school for the blind and one woman had established headquarters for women where in ten years, 9,000 women had been helped. With forty years of mission work in Kobe, Mrs. Stamford gave a talk of more than usual interest.

A group of Japanese songs, Love Song by Mrs. Clayton Burgy, Mimosa by Mrs. E. A. Harris and a duet "Every Flower" from Madame Butterfly by Mrs. Burgy and Mrs. Harris, accompanied by Mrs. Charles A. Saxton, concluded the program.

The decorations of autumn flowers were in charge of Miss Harriet Trumbull with Mrs. F. T. Sayles and Miss Alexandrine Trumbull assisting, and Mrs. Raymond B. Sherman was in charge of the luncheon assisted by Mrs. H. R. Branche, Mrs. Harry Bushworth, Mrs. William Douglas, Mrs. Manley Eastwood, Mrs. Haworth Collins, Mrs James Morton and Mrs. Joseph Hynd. Mrs. Robert A. Smith presided in the dining room as chairman of the waitresses, Misses Elizabeth Collins, Gladys Bliss, Janet Blackstone, Beatrice Leonard, Ruth Loring, Esther Evans, Helen Tirrell and Muriel Hynd. Nearly 100 members were present.

Local Woman's Sister To Broadcast

Miss Alice M. Harrington of New London, sister of Mrs. Walter M. Jones of this city, and Miss M. Eleanor Callahan, also of New London, will again be heard from station W T I C Hartford, Saturday evening at eight thirty.

Miss Harrington will render piano selections, including Chopin's Nocturne Opus 15 No. II and Valse Opus 42 and Annie Laurie paraphrased by F. Himmelreich.

Miss Callahan will sing four Indian songs—the song cycle from Lawrence Hopes Garden of Kama. Miss Harrington will accompany Miss Callahan.

Both Miss Harrington and Miss Callahan are prominent entertainers, broadcasting from different stations including station K O A Denver, the second most powerful station in the country.

BACKUS HOSPITAL AUXILIARY SHOWS VERY ACTIVE YEAR

Reports of work done during the year under the direction of the standing committee of the Woman's auxiliary of the W. W. Backus hospital were given at the annual meeting of the auxiliary, which was held Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the nurses residence. For an hour before the meeting the nurses were guides to those who wished to inspect the departments of the hospital.

Mrs. Walter F. Lester, the president, called the annual meeting to order and committee reports that were made included the following: Holiday, Mrs. Walter T. Camp, chairman; suburban membership, Mrs. Louis R. Higgins, chairman, over 300 memberships secured; hospital visitation, Mrs. Rolin C. Jones, chairman; nurses' recreation, Mrs. J. J. Donohue, chairman, donation (food) Mrs. E. LaRue Bliven, acting chairman; donation (linen) Mrs. Rose C. Driscoll, chairman; production, Miss Hannah Crowell, chairman; publicity, Mrs. A. H. Abbott, chairman; legislature, Mrs. Charles L. Stewart, chairman; floor, Mrs. Joseph P. Cummings, chairman.

Many of the reports acknowledge the constant and helpful interest and aid given by individuals and by organizations, for all of which deep appreciation was expressed.

The report of the finance committee by Mrs. A. E. Payson, chairman, mentioned a total of $8,202 expended in the interest of the hospital since April, 1925, some of which was provided by donations and other amounts by money raising efforts of the auxiliary, two benefit bridge parties raised $270.10, the sum of $719.21 was raised by a dance in Taftville arranged by Mrs. Frank B. Ricketson and the Taftville athletic club added $500 to this by a donation.

Mrs. Marion M. Brown for the membership committee reported 1400 members, making the amount collected $1,000. During the two years 24 have joined as life members, paying $25 each, making a fund of $600 at interest which is being kept for some definite purpose later on.

The report of the treasurer, Miss Isabel H. Mitchell, was as follows:

Life membership fund in Norwich Savings Society $626.40.

Receipts—Membership dues $1,399-50, 2 life memberships $50, money raised $271.80, total $1,721.30; gifts, Ladies Hebrew Auxiliary $5, Trinity Episcopal Parish $10, Taftville dance fund $465.10, total gifts $450.10, total receipts $2,201.40.

Disbursements—Budget $424.69, Miscellaneous expenses and all gifts to hospital $1,691.63, total $2,115.72; transferred to life membership fund $50, cash in Uncas bank $35.68, total $85.68.

The officers and board of directors elected for 1926-27 were as follows:

President, Mrs. Walter K. Tingley; vice-presidents, Miss Hannah M. Crowell, Mrs. F. B. Ricketson, Mrs. J. N. Rosenberg; recording secretary, Mrs. Joseph P. Cummings; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Roy D. Judd; treasurer, Miss Isabel H. Mitchell; directors, Mrs. Walter T. Camp, Mrs. Archibald Mitchell.

At the conclusion of the business meeting, Miss Lucy B. Abbott, superintendent of the hospital, gave a particularly interesting lecture upon China and the Chinese as I Saw Them. Her talk was illustrated by photographs which she took while in China where she spent three years in hospital work, returning home in 1922.

NORWICH GRANGE GAVE PROGRAMME AT SCOTLAND

Friday evening members of Norwich grange, No. 173, Patrons of Husbandry, about 30 in all went by automobile to attend the meeting of Scotland grange where the Norwich people put on a programme for the lecturer's hour. The numbers were received with great enthusiasm, making a most enjoyable hour for the grange meeting. The programme was as follows; solo, Show Me The Way To Go Home, Billy Bowers; flower dance, Barbara Brown, Marie Woode, Rose Peckham; The Peak Sisters (given by request), Mrs. Catherine Smith taking Mrs. Waters' place in the cast; Hebrew sketch, Carlton Bowers; duet Miss Charlotte Fowler and Miss Mary Taggart.

FOREIGNER WEARIES AT WEIRD CHINESE PLAY

BOSTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—Boston's only Chinese theater draws steady patronage even though it is unknown to most white residents.

Only those few who chance along a dingy street have heard the clash of cymbals, the twang of squeaky two-string violins, the rattle and tinkle of unnamed traps, and over all the falsetto of voices in the sing-song of the Chinese tongue which accompany the Chinese production.

At the front of the hall is the square platform of the stage. In the alcove at the rear of the stage is an eight piece orchestra. One of its members wears an eyeshade. Another musician smokes a cigarette. All the while sounds issue from the instruments, blended in a sort of monotonous rythm, but parred acutely by unexpected twangings, clashes and thumping on a dry wooden box.

An especially loud clamor, and an actor brushes aside the curtain and walks in with the classical stilted gait and slow moving hands of the ancient drama. His robe and headdress are ornate in the rigidly prescribed manner; his make-up is conspicuous. He begins to sing.

The Occidental gets little from what follows. Actors and actresses, all in elaborate costume, succeed each other at short intervals, singly or in groups. A scene shifter sidles behind the classical players to shift a chair to meet the new requirements of the play. He erects a throne, takes out a curtained bed, lays out fresh fans and performs a constant succession of tasks. In no manner does he disturb the continued singing and playing of the orchestra.

Some pantomine accompanies the play, but for the most part it is long manologue in singing or speaking voice, with occasional dialogue and rare bits of dramatic action.

Toward midnight the spectator purchases from a vendor tidbits of dried pork, Lichee nuts, candied fruits or other confection. The chinese come and go throughout the evening. They smoke and eat, converse and sleep. They never applaud, but they do laugh appreciatively when a bit of buffoonery enlivens the scene.

Few Occidentals see an evening's performance out. It lasts for seven hours and then resumes next evening where it broke off.

PLANES REDUCE MENACE OF DISEASE IN ALASKA

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Oct. 15 (AP)—The menace of epidemics which in the past have claimed many victims in Alaskan villages before medical aid could be obtained, has been eliminated to a large extent by the advent of commercial aviation to the northland.

The ships of the air have not replaced the dog team, for ordinary purposes, but where speed is essential, the planes have a field all to themselves.

Much of the vast interior of Alaska has been opened up to air travel by Pan American Fiet Yukon to Nome. Twenty-five fields will have been constructed by this winter with appropriations made by the last territorial legislature.

Fairbanks, from which planes operate to the outlying districts, is but nine days distant from Seattle by rail and water. Most of the interior mining camps and trading posts are inaccessible in summer, except in some cases by clandestine water routes. In the winter they may be reached by dog teams.

BRANDED GIRL WHO JILTED HIM; OLD CUSTOM FAILED

TOKYO, Oct., 15 (AP)—The quaint Korean custom of carving a design on the neck of a girl who has jilted her sweetheart was frowned upon by the Tokyo Appeal court when it sentenced Lyu Tetsufuka to 18 months imprisonment for murderous assault on a girl in Moji, Korea.

Lyu's defense that he had been engaged to the girl, but that she had found a handsomer man and left him. He produced witnesses to prove that ancient Korean customs permitted him under the circumstances, to shave off her eyebrows or to cut a slice of skin from her neck. The court ruled however, that the carving custom had no standing in law and Lyu was committed to prison.

USE VIOLET RAYS WITH SUCCESS IN EYE TESTS

LONDON, Oct. 16—(AP)—Surgeons have succeeded in restoring sight to diseased eyes and by standardizing the method of treatment have opened up the way for a new attack on blindness, said A. J. M. Tarrant, secretary of Moorfields, the biggest eye hospital in the British empire. A year's experiment with a tiny mercury vapor lamp throwing out ultra-violet rays, has just been successful concluded there.

The secretary said the violet-ray treatment had been successfully used in cases of threatened total blindness, the eye "fouls" in these instances being due to tubercular disease.

LONDON SOCIETY BUYS OWN GAMBLING OUTFITS

LONDON, Oct. 16 (AP)—Denizens of Mayfair, back from their Continental holiday, have so had their appetites whetted by the casinos of France and Monte Carlo that they find bridge slow work.

They have purchased private gambling outfits and roulette or baccarat now take the place of bridge at many afternoon and evening parties. Stakes thus for have been limited to small amounts and the games indulged in only by the wealthiest set.

TWO FAMILIES ECHANGE SONS FOR EDUCATION

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 16 (AP)—Two families, one in Minneapolis and the other in Vienna, Austria, have "exchanged", sons for a year to further their educational advantages.

Dr. Frank S. Bissell's 15-year-old son has gone to Vienna to live with Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Schuller there and attend the University of Vienna, while Franz Schuller, 19, has come to live with the Bissels here, and attend the University of Minnesota.

BRITISH SADDLERS ART AIDED BY U. S. DEMAND

LONDON, Oct. 16 (AP)—Thanks to the demand from the United States for bits, spurs and bridles, the "loriner" or saddlers art is not yet dead in England.

Speaking at the livery dinner of the Loriners' company, Daniel Home said the chief loriner at Walsall told him that the people of the United States insisted on having English forged loriner's work at any price, despite the enormous tariffs against it.

INCREAASE TAX ON "POOR MAN'S DRINK" IN FRANCE

PARIS, Oct., 15 (AP)—The "poor man's drink" is now taxed at 60 per cent of its selling price, whereas champagne only pays one per cent. The poor man's drink thus referred to is chicory, a widespread beverage in the north of France. The tax on chicory was increased from 75 to 80 francs the 100 kilograms.

DEAF HEAR INSTANTLY

Amazing Invention Brings Immediate Relief to Those Who are Deaf

A wonderful device which enables the hard of hearing to hear all sounds as clearly and distinctly as a child, has been perfected by the Dictograph Products Corporation, Suite 2736, 220 to 224 West 42nd Street, New York City. There is no waiting, no delay, but quick, positive, instantaneous results — you hear instantly. So positive are the makers that everyone who is hard of hearing will be amazed and delighted with this remarkable device, the famous Acousticon, that they are offering to send it absolutely free on trial. No obligation whatever. If you suffer, take advantage of their liberal free trial offer. Send them your name and address today.—adv.

MOVIE BANK "ROBBED" 306 TIMES FOR RECORD

UNIVERSAL CITY, Oct. 16 (AP)—The Universal City "bank" holds what is believed to be the world's record for successive hold-ups. Henry McRae, director general of production at the Universal studio, announced the 306th successful robbery of the bank in the last several years.

The bank has had the honor of being held up by Hoot Gibson, William S. Hart, Harry Carey, William Desmond, Art Acord, Jack Hoxie, Ben Corbett, Pee Wee Holmes and Fred Gilliman.

The bank, when it is but a motion picture "set" was built before the world war and has figured, with many alterations, in scenes of more thrilling action than almost any motion picture "set" in existence.

ITALY'S HOUSING CRISIS AT AN AGONIZING CLIMAX

In Italy the housing crisis is approaching an agonizing climax with the impending date of June 30, when rent control is to be abolished and landlords, for the first time in more than 10 years, will resume their freedom to charge what they like. In Milan no fewer than 12,000 families have been notified that they must leave their homes for having refused to pay the increased rents demanded. In many cases the new rents are three to four times those now in force. The decree which abolished rent control left, nevertheless, a certain executive authority in the hands of local commissioners to protect tenants in case of flagrant overcharge. It appears that these commissioners will need to be much busier than at first anticipated, for the landlords whose property has been next to worthless for a decade, are naturally eager to recover.

First Phone Bill Traced

James Emery, Jr., a wholesale grocer who lived in Charlestown, Mass., was probably the first man to pay a telephone bill. About May 15, 1877, he connected his house by telephone with that of a brother's across the street, and on May 30 the same year he paid the sum of $20, which was the first money, so far as is known, ever to have been paid for a telephone. A week later he paid an additional $10 and obtained three more telephone which he placed in other houses nearby. He connected all five to the original private line. Then came the first telephone lease.

Money

"If you would know the value of money," wrote Benjamin Franklin, "go and borrow some."

It is true that most boys and girls are not over-generously supplied with money. But most do have an allowance, and most of them, too spend it all.

It is wise to spend some money for pleasure—whether that be to go to a evening at the movies, or a double-chocolate nut sundae. But it is a great virtue and if you can get into the habit of saving some of your money now, you are going to have a lot more to have a lot better time with, a su-

MANY IMPORTANT FOOTBALL CLASHES ARE SLATED FOR THIS AFTERNOON

NEW YORK, Oct. 15—(AP)—Football tomorrow promises an unprecedented array of early season blashes along the eastern gridiron front.

At least a dozen contests in the eastern sector, have an important bearing on championship aspirations. Five of the major battles are expected to draw around 300,000 spectators.

The bowl at New Haven is likely to have its capacity of 75,000 tested for the struggle between Yale and Dartmouth in one of the most important of a half dozen intersectional tests. Chicago and Pennsylvania may play before 80,000 in reconstructed Franklin field. The Ohio State-Columbia and Tulane-New York university conflicts, rivals for Gotham's limelight; expect to draw close to 50,000 each to the big major league ball parks, the polo grounds and the Yankee stadium, while the Naval Academy and Princeton probably will have between 40,000 and 50,000 for the renewal of their rivalry at Palmer stadium.

The battle of the green and blue at New Haven promises its full share of thrills with Dartmouth's 1925 champions meeting their first major test of the current campaign against a Yale outfit struggling to find itself in spite of injuries. Dartmouth, with a powerful and versatile attack in the hands of an experienced backfield, is the favorite, especially since Yale has lost such stars as Richards and Caldwell, but the blue has enough reserve strength to put up a stiff fight for victory.

Chicago and Pennsylvania, separated only by a single touchdown last year, appear closely matched again although the Quakers have shown a bit more impressively so far. The western conference has another doughty representative on eastern soil in Ohio State, which has been established a favorite over Columbia.

New York university, bidding for a place in the front ranks this season under Coach Chick Meehan, takes on the formidable southern eleven, Tulane, in the biggest test the metropolitan outfit has yet faced. The southerners have a well-drilled, seasoned team but they will meet a dashing, hard-running attack from the violet.

Experts concede that Navy at least has an even chance of victory against Princeton, whose early season showing has been a disappointment so far, but both teams will miss backfield stars, the middies having lost Alan Shapley while Jack Slagle is out of the Tiger lineup.

The Army is handicapped by lack of reserve strength in the line for its tussle with Syracuse but the veteran backfield led by Hewitt and Wilson gives the cadets an attacking edge which may be sufficient to upset the strong orange eleven.

Harvard, with her full strength restored after two early season upsets, expects to break into the winning column for the first time at the expense of William and Mary. The southerners lost to the crimson only by a margin of one touchdown last year but met defeat last week at Syracuse, 35 to 0, and appear lacking in sufficient strength to hold the Cambridge squad.

Pittsburgh, rallying from defeat by Lafayette, will have trouble checking the rush of Colgate, unscored on so far, in a game that may attract another big throng with the Pitt stadium capable of handling upwards of 70,000.

West Virginia's rugged mountaineers, on the strength of an excellent early season showing, are rated favorites over Georgetown while Holy Cross, fresh from triumph over Harvard is expected to take the measure of Rutgers.

Cornell with a machine bearing the stamp of another Dobie steamroller, tackles Michigan State in an intersectional clash that should test the big red team's qualities. East-west rivalry also will be stirred by Penn State's invasion of Notre Dame to meet a Hoosier eleven out to restore prestige where it was left off by the famous "four horsemen".

INJURIES BIG HANDICAP TO YALE AGAINST DARTMOUTH

NEW HAVEN, Act. 15.—(AP) — A crippled Yale varsity will face the big Green eleven from Dartmouth in the bowl tomorrow with Yale men admitting that the odds are decidedly in favor of the vistors.

Injuries have struck the Blue squad hard during the past week and have left but one veteran in the rush line besides disabling the most consistent halfback in the backfield.

"Cobbles" Sturham, left guard, will be the only veteran in the Yale forward line, Vandergrift right tackle, Richards, left tackle, and Webster, right guard, being out of the game with injuries. Harvey, center, Scott, left end, and Fishwick, right end, have had but little varsity practice.

To fill the places of the missing regulars, Coach Jones has called upon players in the second and even the third team material. Sid Quarrie, will play for Richards at left tackle, and Barney Ryan for Vandergrift at right tackle, although the latter may be able to play part of the game. Charles Worth is taking Webster's place at right guard.

In the backfield Bruce Caldwell, the star halfback, is the only injured member, the present combination of Noble, Kline and Foote giving the Elis a first class offensive machinery. Captain Bunnell will be in at quarterback.

The Dartmouth team reached here early this morning and after proceeding to its quarters at Derby, returned to New Haven this afternoon for the final workout.

Picken and Cole will be in for Darthmout in the end positions, Hardy and Holleran as tackles, Phillips and Rubin as guards and Davis at center. Behind the line will be Dooley at quarterback and Lane, MacPhail and Captain Horton.

The chances of both teams are about even if the opinions of the two head coaches, Tad Jones of Yale and Jess Hawley of Dartmouth, can be taken at their face value.

Jones in speaking of the injured men in his squad, said:

"Without them we are in a bad way, but the rest of the boys will be in there giving Dartmouth a battle. I am not going to predict a victory and I'm not going to say that Yale will be defeated. It's going to be a hard game though."

Hawley predicted defeat for the Big Green eleven.

"I think we're going home on the short end of the score. Yale has a strong and experienced team, despite the injured list. Yale will win."

The two coaches were found on the Yale golf course, together with Charley Comerford, Yale end coach, and Clark Tobin and Dr. Norman Crisp, of Dartmouth. The golfing party was arranged immediately after the Dartmouth squad, totalling 50, of which 33 are players, left here this morning for Derby.

WALTER CAMP TO BE HONORED AT MANY FIELDS

NEW YORK, Oct. 15—(AP)—The memory of Walter Camp, "father or football," will be honored tomorrow, in a dozen or more college gridiron games in the east and middle west. This is to be part of a nation-wide memorial observance in connection with important games throughout the season. It is a feature of plans arranged by the National Collegiate Athletic association, which is sharing with Yale the effort of raising $300,000 for the erection of the Walter Camp Memorial, in the form of a monumental gateway, at the entrance to the Eli athletic fields in New Haven.

Heading the list of "Walter Camp" games tomorrow are two important intersectional contests. Tulane-New York university at the Yankee stadium and Penn State-Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind. Others include Washington, Pa.: Buffalo-Clarkson Tech and Canisus-Geneva, both at Buffalo, N. Y.; Lafayette-Dickinson at Easton, Pa.; Cincinnati-Marietta at Cincinnati; Albright-St. Josephs at Myerstown, Pa.; Hiram-Akron at Hiram, O.; Baldwin-Wallace vs. Ottenbein at Berla, O.

BROWN STILL PLEADS FOR THE "40-PLAY SYSTEM"

BOSTON, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Football "is not a game of time any more than baseball," said Reginald W. P. Brown, head coach of football at Boston university, in a statement to the Associated Press today. He expressed the opinion that fixing the time of a game by plays rather than by the watch would "materially regulate" the forward pass.

Coach Brown has tried out the play system in several of the Boston university games last fall and this season and is thoroughly convinced of its success. In his statement he said that members of the football rules committee had been invited to these games but that none of them had attended.

"The game of football," he said, "is a game of plays. Four downs to gain a specific distance. It is not a game of time any more than baseball.

"The rules committee have considered playing football by plays for six years and this year made it optional with the teams. This is on record, although it is not in the book.

"The rules committee have advised the sponsors of the play system that they are talking simply on theory and should persuade some colleges to try games by plays, so their committee would have some knowledge of the system. The sponsors have put on games by plays and to each of these games all or some of the rules committee were invited, and no member attended. It was a success and the different teams in both instances are still strongly in favor of the play system.

"The rules committee have made at least ten adjustments on the watch since the play suggestion was presented to them in 1920. I feel they can make ten more adjustments on the watch and it will not be satisfactory. "I claim football by plays will materially regulate the much discussed forward pass, as by time the incompleted forward pass stops the watch and thereby extends the actual playing time about 30 seconds, while by plays the incompleted forward pass counts a play. This is a big difference and it stops the dragging out of games.

"Teams can go from the time game to the play game or vice versa with practically no inconvenience, as the execution of the plays is unchanged. Ask the teams who have tried it. It does away with all inaccuracies of the timing.

"All that is needed is some good sized numbers such as basket ball numbers and the words 'more plays.' Put 'more plays' up by the scoreboard and at the start of each period, put up the number that represents the number of plays per period, and reduce the number by one after each play. The field judge should have a numbered indicator and an (ordinary) watch for the 'time outs' and the intermissions."

STEAM ROLLERS AND HARTFORD BLUES IN CLASH

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 15.—Providence's famed Steam Rollers and the National Professional Football League's baby team, the Hartford Blues, meet in the Velodrome in this city Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock in a contest which is expected to go far toward determining the New England professional championship for 1926.

The Steam Rollers boast many veterans of Brown university teams, among them Jackson Keefer, the shifty halfback who caused plenty of trouble for Dartmouth and Yale last season with his winding dashes; Curley Oden, one of the fastest carriers in the east, and Johnny Spellman, a tackle who won the Olympic wrestling title in his division. With Keefer and Oden in the backfield is Cy Wentworth, plunger from New Hampshire State, who was placed among the leading Eastern college scorers two years ago.

Hartford will present a strong backfield, a heavy line, and an exceptional pair of ends, Shrimp Foley of Syracuse fame, teammate of the flashy Eddie Tryon while at Suffield school, is one of the outstanding performers and is fit for this contest after an injury to his right ankle. Louis Smythe, 205-pound batterer from the University of Texas; Chuck Corgan of Kansas City, shortstop of the Jersey City team in the International League, and Jim Manning, fullback and captain at Fordham a year ago, are the others behind the line.

ROSENBLOOM WINS FROM FLOWERS ON A FOUL

BOSTON, Oct. 15—(AP)—Maxey Rosenbloom of Brooklyn won on a foul tonight from Tiger Flowers, middleweight champion, in the ninth round of a scheduled ten-round bout here. As the men were both above the class weight limit Flowers' title was not involved.

In the first round Flowers was warned by the referee for hitting low. Up to the sixth round the champion had an edge in the exchanges, but then Rosenbloom took the aggressive. The action was fast and furious.

At the beginning of the ninth Rosenbloom staggered Flowers with a right to the chin after a toe to toe encounter.

Flowers realliated with a blow to the body which sent his opponent to the floor. The referee rued that the blow was low and awarded the fight to Rosenbloom.

HORSES COMPLETE 300-MILE ENDURANCE RACE

BRANDON, Vermont, Oct. 15—(AP)—The eighth annual 300-mile endurance ride, designed to stimulate interest in the breeding of good saddle horses, ended here tonight with six horses out of a starting field of fourteen completing the course with perfect scores.

Seven mounts set out to cover the fifth and last day' ride of 60 miles this morning but at the 45th mile one of the entries of the army remount service was forced to drop out through exhaustion. The six that finished were in good condition after a hard ride over the hilly roads of Benxon, Hubbardton and Orwell.

Peggy, a bay mare entered by the Third cavalry, and winner of the last two tests, was slower than usual today. Critics believed the animal was affected by a fall yesterday although at the time she was believed to be uninjured.

Tomorrow morning the horses will be judged for winners. The judging is based 60 per cent. on condition, the end of the race and 40 per cent. on speed.

HUGH RORTY CALLS ON HIS NORWICH FRIENDS

Hugh Rorty of Hartford, one of the leading lights of the sporting fraternity of Connecticut and dean of the Eastern league umpires, called on local friends here on Friday. Hugh is looking in tip-top condition after his season's work of calling them safe or out and is looking forward to a prosperous season with the mittsters. Hugh was on his way from Providence to Hartford after attending the Bradley-Genaro fight in the Rhode Island city. He was not impressed with Genaro and says that had Bradley fought less cautiously he would have drawn down the decision.

In speaking of the boxing game in Hartford, Mr. Rorty said that he looked for a successful season and expected to open up the game next month. It is probable that he will put on Jack Sharkey with some of the leading heavyweight contenders as the headliner for his opening card.

STUFFY MC INNIS MAY MANAGE THE PHILLIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 15—(AP)—Baseball row today buzzed with rumors of another managerial shift which mentioned Stuffy Mc Innis as likely to succeed Arthur Fletcher at the helm of the Philadelphia Nationals.

Mcinnis, who has seen 18 years of service in the major leagues, was unconditionally released by the Pittsburgh Pirates at the close of the present season. He rose to fame as a member of the Philadelphia Athletics "$100,000 infield" from 1911 to 1917 and later played with the Boston Red Sox.

Fletcher, former shortstop of the Giants, has been pilot of the Phillies for four seasons.

YALE BEATS DARTMOUTH 2 TO 1 I NSOCCER GAME

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Yale defeated Dartmouth 2 to 1 here today to open the intercollegiate soccer season. The game was closely contested and it remained for Sleath, Yale inside left, to complete a brilliant run through the visitors' team in the final period to break the tie and give Yale the game.

Sleath had given the Elis a lead in the opening three minutes of play on a similar run and the defense of the Yale forwards had held the advantage until the third period when Pownell, of the visitors tied the score on a pass.

ACADEMY AND WESTERLY BATTLE TO SCORELESS TIE AT WESTERLY

The Academy and Westerly high locked horns at Westerly on Friday afternoon in as tight a contest as has been seen hereabouts in some time, neither team having scored at the end of the four quarters.

Both teams were in rare form and the play kept the crowd on edge throughout, with advantages see-sawing back and forth between the opposing teams.

Opportunity presented itself to both teams but neither was able to produce the necessary scoring punch when it was most needed. Both teams were inside their opponent's ten-yard line but they missed tries at field goals.

Westerly won the toss and chose to kick off with the wind. De Rocco kicked off to Vitliano who was downed in his tracks for 15 yards. Moore then went around end on a fake play for ten but this went for naught when the locals were penalized 15 yards, bringing them back to their own 20 yard stripe. They were then forced to kick on fourth down and the punt was bad and went offside at the 30 yard line.

Thus Westerly was presented with the first of the opportunities of the afternoon. After Meikle had gone around end for 15 yards he was thrown for a ten yard loss on the next play by Labenski who broke through and nailed him on another attempted end run. A Westerly play was again smeared on the next scrimmage when Marks threw Salimeno for a five yard loss, putting the ball on the Academy 30 yard line. Westerly then completed a pass, Meikle to McFarland, on fourth down for 15 yards but it was a few yards short of first down and the ball went to the Academy on their own 15 yard line almost directly under the goal posts.

Brewer went through tackle for 15 yards on the first play and then broke through an opening in the guard and ran ten yards before being brought down. The first ended before another play could be started, with the ball at midfield in Norwich's possession. During this period the ball was mainly in Academy territory chiefly due to the poor kick that was made in the first part of the quarter.

To open the second quarter the Academy, now having the wind at their backs kicked on the first down to Westerly's 30 yard line. Turco was downed in his tracks. After unsuccessful tries to gain at the line Westerly kicked on fourth down to Vitliano and he also was downed in his tracks. The Academy could not gain and they kicked on third down to Meikle at midfield, who made a fair catch. Westerly then gained a first down after four thrusts at the line, barely putting the ball over on the fourth try. Meikle, who was somewhat of a star last season, then pulled off his first and only sensational work of the day when he got loose around end and twisted and side stepped 35 yards before being brought down well into Norwich territory. On a trick play another first down was gained and then Meikle tossed a neat 20 yard forward to McFarland who was brought down on Norwich five yard line. Opportunity was now knocking rather loudly at the door of the Rhode Islanders with first down and only five yards to the final line.

However, after two plays had gained them only a yard, Westerly was penalized 15 yards and then on last down Williams intercepted a forward on his own ten yard line and the ball went to the Academy. On the first play Williams reeled off 15 yards around end and Labenski added another first down with ten yards. The Acdaemy were now showing their only real offensive work of the day and Brewer kept it up with 15 yards through tackle. Johnny Greene, of baseball fame, then contributed his share with an eight yard dash around end on a trick formation but the half ended here with Norwich ball on Westerly 40 yard line. The Academy at this time seemed headed for a score but the timer's whistle ended hostilities.

Westerly kicked off to start the third quarter and McGlone ran the ball back ten yards to his own 25 yard line. The Academy fumbled on the first play but Kahn recovered for the locals. The Academy then kicked where Meikle was thrown by Marks after a five yard gain. The Academy was then penalized 15 yards on the first scrimmage, bringing the ball to mid-field. Meikle was thrown for a five yard loss on the following play and after Westerly was unable to gain both by the line and aerial route Meikle kicked off-side on the Norwich ten yard line.

Greene then went around end on a trick play for eight yards but McGlone lost four on the next scrimmage. However, this was more than made up when McGlone got ten through tackle. The Academy then received a 15 yard penalty, setting them back to within the shadows of their own goal posts. The Academy then kicked short to their own 30 yard line, Greene tackling Turco in his tracks.

Meikle then missed a try at goal and Westerly's last chance of scoring went up in smoke. The ball was high and wide of its mark.

The third quarter then ended with Norwich ball on their own 20 yard line.

The Academy then kicked after unsuccessful tries to gain, the ball going to midfield where Westerly fumbled but recovered. Westerly was off-side on the scrimmage and was set back five yards. The Rhode Islanders lost the ball on downs and the Academy took possession of the pig-skin.

However, the locals could not gain at the line and kicked to Westerly's 30 yard line where Smith made a fair catch. Greene broke through on the first play and threw Turco for a five yard loss and after two other attempts at approaching their opponents' goal line had failed, Westerly kicked on fourth down to Williams who was downed on his own 20 yard line. The Academy promptly kicked back to Westerly 30 yard line where Turco made a fair catch.

Westerly fumbled on the first play and the Academy was presented with their one big opportunity, taking the ball on Westerly's 25 yard line. After two tries at the line and one forward had met with little success, Williams essayed a trial at a field goal but this went wide of the posts and the game then ended as Westerly had lined up on their own 20 yard line and completed one play. At the end of the game the ball was in Westerly possession on their own 34 yard line.

Johnny Greene was the outstanding star of the game for the locals, many times tackling his opponents for losses and also being responsible for a number of gains made by his team. Marks and Kahn also played a good line game for the Academy while Capt. Brewer, Williams and Labenski did good work in the backfield. For Westerly McFarland, Meikle and Capt. Turco did good work. The Academy's next scheduled game is with Bridgeport high at the local campus Saturday, Oct. 23.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

FOREIGN WAR VETERANS

The 27th national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars has passed into history. Nowhere has southern hospitality shown forth with more glowing generosity than that shown to the great assemblage of Uncle Sam's war veterans, veterans of all wars, under the banner of the Veterans of Foreign Wars gathered at El Paso, Texas, for the week, beginning Sept. 20th.

The Stars and Stripes floated proudly from every building, and the chamber of commerce, Lions, Rotarians, Kiwanis, commercial clubs and city government, all prepared elaborate programs of entertainment, and the veterans and their ladies spent one great week, enjoying the generous hospitality and glorious welcome extended by the Texans of El Paso.

During the week the convention body wrought out many legislative acts and resolutions and listened to many fervid and instructive speeches that touched on all subjects pertaining to the veteran.

Milburn Gregory of Reno, Nev., submitted one resolution which was approved, requiring immediate investigation into the immigration and naturalization bureaus, charging that gross frauds are being practiced in both departments.

Comrade Gaines extended an invitation to hold the 28th national encampment in Providence, R. I., which was accepted.

Comrade R. G. Woodside, whom Gen. Pershing chose as outstanding hero of the A. E. F., suggested that the veterans make a return visit to Paris "en masse" on Armistice day 1928, ten years after the Armistice. Comrade Woodside was chosen chairman of the committee to make plans and perfect arrangements for such a trip.

National officers installed for the coming year were as follows:

National commander-in-chief, Theodore Stitt, New York; senior vice commander in chief, Frank Strayer, Indiana; junior vice commander in chief, Milburn Gregory, Nevada; national quartermaster, R. B. Handy, District of Columbia; judge advocate general, Paul Wolman, Maryland; surgeon general, Dr. H. T. Low, Colorado; national chaplain J. B. Head, Kentucky.

The encampment adjourned to meet in Providence, R. I., in 1927.

V. F. W. LADIES AUXILIARY

After a spirited convention of five days in El Paso, Texas, during which a large volume of business was run through the mill, the ladies' auxiliary to Veterans of Foreign Wars closed their annual convention. Friday the last and closing day, was occupied chiefly with election and installation of the national officers for the coming year.

New England fares well for Mrs. Margaret Oldridge of Rhode Island was chosen national president, and Mrs. Bessie Hankin of Massachusetts, junior national vice president; Mrs. Mary A. Nixon of Noroton Heights, Conn., national color bearer. The elections were unanimous and in accordance with the custom of the auxiliary to promote the lineup.

The following are the new officers: National president, Mrs. Margaret Oldridge, Rhode Island; senior vice president, Mrs Florence Stark, New Jersey; junior vice president, Mrs. Margaret Armstrong, Pennsylvania; treasurer, Mrs. Dora Raffenspeager, Pennsylvania; chaplain, Mrs. Mary Chegan, New York; conductress, Mrs. Bertha Lyons, Pennsylvania; patriotic instructor, Mrs. Myrtle Tolson, California; historian, Mrs. Jennie Drayer, Missouri; flag bearer, Mrs. Elihu Johnson, Rhode Island; chief of staff, Mrs. Jessie Denesick, West Virginia; banner bearer, Mrs. M. Stockington, Ohio; guard, Mrs. Laura Rief, Florida; judge advocate, Mrs. Ada Harrison, New York; council of administration, Mrs. Effie King, Illinois; color bearers, Mrs. C. W. Crops, Texas; Mrs. Anna Sattler, Minnesota; Mrs. Hall, Oklahoma; Mrs. Mary Nixon, Connecticut.

Many happy speeches were made and gifts presented to officers. Among the latter was the gift of $50 in gold to the retiring past national president, Mrs Effie King of Illinois.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY, A. L.

The regular meeting of the Woman's auxiliary of R. B. Fletcher post, American legion, was held October 4th, the meeting opening in due form with the president, Mrs. William Bogue in charge. All reports were read and accepted and the committee in charge of the sale to be held at the end of the present month reported progress and that each member of the auxiliary is expected to donate something for the sale.

Plans were made for a whist to be held on the next meeting night. One new members was voted in and an invitation was extended by the Lyme post auxiliary for the Fletcher auxiliary to attend their meeting on October 4th. On account of the whist the members have been meeting with the president and have been making aprons and articles of fancy work. The next meeting of the auxiliary is to be called at 7 o'clock.

CATHOLIC LADIES OF COLUMBUS

The annual convention of the Catholic Ladies of Columbus, was held in Shelton on Saturday, October 9th. The conventional high mass was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Plunkett at 9 o'clock. After the mass the delegates returned to K. of C. hall where the convention opened at 11 o'clock. Miss Cribbins, president of the Shelton assembly, gave the address of welcome and turned the meeting over to state President Mrs. Margaret Dutton of Norwich.

After the forming of committees a recess was granted during which a lunch was served by the Shelton sisters.

At 1 o'clock the meeting was again called to order and the most important business of the day conducted, namely the reports of all state officers, reports of the chairwomen of the various committees, reports of presidents of the assemblies in convention and the finishing of all important business for the year.

The guest of honor for the day was Miss Charlotte Holloway of New London who gave a very inspiring talk on the evils of prohibition as it is today. Miss Holloway was later elected state counsellor, a new office which she accepted.

All state officers were reelected. State president, Mrs. Margaret Dutton, Norwich; honorary president, Mrs. Riordan, Rockville; vice president, Miss Margaret Crane, Hartford; treasurer, Miss Breen, New Haven; recording secretary, Miss Lillian Patchett, Rockville; state lecturer, Mrs. Farrell, New Haven; state directors, Miss Cribbon, Shelton, Miss Ward, Danbury, Mrs. John Woods, Baltic, Miss Hullivan, Manchester, Mrs. Taylor, Bridgeport.

After the officers were installed all members voted for adjournment and a special car was waiting to carry the delegates to Holmes Inn, Oronoque, where a delicious dinner was served at 6 o'clock. During the dinner fancy dances were given by two young women; also vocal selections by Miss Cribbons of Shelton and speeches were given by Mrs. Dutton.

Mrs. Carroll and Miss Holloway, also Miss Cribbons and other members. After the dinner dancing was enjoyed until 8:30 when a special car again carried members back to Shelton where they left for their homes, voting the convention one of the best ever held by the society and with high praise for the hospitality of the Shelton sisters. Next year the convention will be held in New Haven.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Norwich grange, No. 172, had the first and second degrees conferred on a class of nine at the meeting on Wednesday evening in Steiner hall, the work being done in the customary impressive manner which marks the degree ceremonies in this grange.

In the business part of the meeting a picture was presented to Charles A. Rathbone, the newest bridegroom in the grange membership. Following the degree work refreshments were served under direction of the feast committee, who is Mrs. Paul Watters, Mrs. Irene Burns, Herbert Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Coit.

Norwich grange has accepted an invitation from Mystic grange, No. 171, for the night of Oct. 21 when High Priest Demeter Charles Gardner is to visit the Mystic grange.

On the evening of Oct. 8, Norwich grange members attended Neighbors' night at Groton grange and put on two number in the lecturer's programme. These were a sketch by Catherine Brown and Mrs. Jennie Woods and a recitation to music by Mrs. Catherine Smith, whose selection was "It Takes a Heap of Living to Make a Place a Home." The evening concluded with a Halloween dance in which two Norwich members took the prizes that were offered. Miss Catherine Brown came home with the prime for prettiest costume and Mrs. Charles Burke for the funniest costume.

I. O. B. B. AUXILIARY

Rose of New England auxiliary, No. 40, I. O. B. B, held its opening business meeting in the Buckingham Memorial, Thursday evening. There was a large attendance and the meeting was opened in due form by the president, Mrs. Alex M. Pasnik.

A program of activities was formulated for the coming season. The annual dance is to take place in the near future.

The auxiliary is to participate in the Armistice day celebration. The following committee was appointed to work on plans whereby it will be fittingly represented in the parade; Mrs. A. Pasnik, Miss Ruth Clark, Mrs. A. Curland, Mrs. B. Rubenstein, Miss Goldie Bruckner, Mrs. A. Fannenbaum and Mrs. Charles Jacobson.

Speaking for the auxiliary, President Pasnik said that the occasion is of such importance that every member should participate. This is one of the precepts of B'nai B'rith teaching, devotion to the flag and service to humanity.

After the meeting a social hour was held with the lodge and the following acted as hostesses: Mrs. A. Pasnik, Mrs. A. Bruckner, Mrs. William Trachtenberg, Mrs. D. Trachtenberg, Mrs. Charles Jacobson and Mrs. A. Silverberg.

DAUGHTERS OF REVOLUTION

Gov. Jonathan Trumbull chapter, D. A. R., held its regular monthly meeting in the war police, at Lebanon, on Monday, Oct. 11, at 3 p. m. The meeting opened with repeating the Lord's prayer, salute to the flag and singing America. Reports were read by the secretary and treasurer, A card of thanks was received from Miss Dorothy McCall for the flowers sent her mother, Mrs. E. H. McCall in her serious illness. Mrs. McCall sent in her resignation as treasurer owing to continued ill-health. This was accepted and Mrs. William Clark was appointed as treasurer. The regent, Mrs. A. R. Manning, then introduced Mrs. Charles H. Bissell of Southington, state regent, and Miss Katharine A. Nettleton of Derby, state vice regent, who gave very interesting accounts of the work being done in the state. Miss Nettleton spoke of how Connecticut had gone over the top in selling bonds for the new Constitutional hall to be built in Washington, D. C., for the D. A. R. societies. Connecticut was asked to sell $62,000 in bonds and has sold $106,000. Now they wish each chapter to buy a chair in the new hall. The meeting closed with the D. A. R. pledge.

Mrs. Myron Smith, Miss Blanche Smith and Mrs. C. S. Goowdin were hostesses. Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served. As Oct. 14 was the anniversary of Gov. Trumbull's birth, a very large loaf of raised cake was made by Mrs. Myron Smith and beautifully decorated by Mrs. Fred Bliss of Franklin. In the center were the dates, 1770 and 1926, done in dark blue, the D. A. R. color, and it was surrounded by dark blue candles in holders. A flag was loaned to the D. A. R. to be hung in the war office by George Totten. It has the 13 stars on it and was made by some of Mr. Totten's family at the time when there were only the 13 states. It is all made by hand and beautifully fine sewing. Fifteen were present at the meeting.

A. O. H. AUXILIARY

The first card party of Division, No. 5, A. O. H. auxiliary, which was held this week at A. O. H. hall, proved a wonderful success. There were ten tables of pinochle and 20 of whist with Miss Margaret Dewire, Miss Margaret Slattery, Miss Annie O'Neil, Miss Nellie Nagle and Miss Nellie McCarthy as scorers.

Those taking the prizes in whist were the following: Ladies, first, Mrs. Richards; second, Mrs. McBurney; consolation, Mrs. Moran; gentlemen, first, John Perkins; second, J. Sullivan; consolation, Joseph Connor. In pinochle the prizes went as follows: Ladies, first, Mrs. George Nadolny, 7370; second, Mrs. Senser, 7070; consolation, Mrs. Clement, 5180; gentlement, first, John Donahue, 6980; second, C. La Rochelle, 6870; consolation, John Fallon, 5420.

Refreshments were served by the committee: Mrs. Frank Brooks, chairman; Mrs. Margaret McCaffrey, Miss Catherine Coughlin, Miss Catherine Connell, Miss Nellie Nagle, and Miss Annie O'Neil.

MOOSEHEART LEGION

Women of Moosheart Legion, chapter No. 124, held its regular meeting Thursday evening at Moose home with Senior Regent Teresa Watters presiding. Routine business was transacted. Junior Regent Mrs. Grace Walz and Recorder Ethel M. Hosick were installed for the remainder of the year.

Plans are underway for a bazaar and dance to be held next month.

The chapter has accepted an invitation to participate in the parade Armistice day and all members that want to take part and those that have no uniforms are expected to communicate with Mrs. Marie Retkorske or Mrs. Mary Lavalle.

A large number were in attendance and after the meeting closed a social hour was enjoyed.

Refreshments were served by the refreshment committee.

DAUGHTERS OF AMERICA

Lady Buckingham council, No. 14, held its regular meeting Thursday evening at the Buckingham Memorial. Councilor Rose Carter in the chair. With a large number of members being present.

A large number of visitors being present from Nancy Hamstead council, New London. The council was favored with several speeches from the visitors, congratulating them on the fine work they were doing. State Secretary Joseph Wellington also gave several remarks.

The chairman, Ella Stapleton, reported fine progress with the sewing circle.

A Halloween costume social is to be held at the home of Sister Mable Wheeler, Yantic, Oct. 19, to which the Junior American Mechanics have been also invited. Deputy Anna Bailey presented Councilor Rose Carter a gold D. of A. ring that had been offered by the state in a contest.

Cake and ice cream were served after the meeting by Anna Bradford, Elizabeth Vars and Francis Vars.

FORESTERS OF AMERICA

In 1790 at Leeds, England, with the institution of Court Perseverance, No. 1, the fraternity of Foresters came into being. The traditional history of the brotherhood goes back to the days of Sherwood Forest and Robin Hood and his merry men. From the time of its institution the order has grown steadily and was first brought to America in the year 1832 and continued under the jurisdiction of the supreme body in England until the year 1889 when the convention assembled

HENRY A. CONGDON
Grand Chief Ranger

at Minneapolis decided to break away and voted for absolute home rule. The oldest court in America is Court Brooklyn, No. 1, and today is one of the largest courts in the country.

For the first time in 32 years a grand chief ranger of the order was elected from eastern Connecticut at the last convention held in the city of New Haven last May, and Court City of Norwich, No. 68, again has the honor of claiming the grand chief ranger as one of its members. In common with the rest of the courts throughout the state the local Foresters are making a great effort to increase its membership and with the end in view have been arranging for the past two months for a class initiation. Tonight in Olympic hall the first class arranged by the convention committee will be headed by Mayor M. F. Waters and is called the Mayor's class. The court claims several other members as former mayors and these have promised to be present to lend encouragement in the work which they are doing, in their effort to have a very successful year for Grand Chief Ranger Henry Congdon.

The Foresters of America is purely a beneficial and benevolent organization and is throughly American in spirit. During its existence a total of $65,000,000 has been paid out for sick benefits and the average yearly expenditure is now about $2,000,000. The funeral benefit has been increased from $100 to $300 and is guaranteed by the supreme court of the order.

One of the best degree teams in the state has been engaged to work the degree on the large class that has been secured. Court Welch team is coming strong with a complete team of 29 men and are bound to do themselves credit. Several candidates from the surrounding courts will be among the candidates and all of the surrounding courts have been invited to be present and one of the largest gatherings of some time past is assured for the first of the year's activities. A large number of the charter members have assured the committee that they will be present as well as several of the grand court officers. Past Grand Chief Ranger P. J. Cavanaugh of Torrington is to be the principal talker of the evening, and is sure to be interesting.

AMERICAN MECHANICS.

Buckingham council, No. 14, met in regular session with Vice Councilor Pierce presiding. Various committees were appointed by the councilor, one being to make arrangements for the state council which convenes in Norwich next year. The committee in charge of arrangements is P. Leseman, chairman, to assisted by Brothers Stewart, Slapper, Pierce and Chapman. The social committee in charge of Brother Stewart is making arrangements to hold several whists and pinochle evenings in a few weeks. A visitor to the lodge was Brother Donald Whitney, of Detroit, who is visiting in Norwich for a few days. He related some of his experiences at the automobile city and he gave a very splendid talk and was given a big hand at the close. The brothers all wish him success in his new position. State Secretary J. W. Wellington also gave a very interesting talk on the principles of the order and the wonderful work in helping out the people of Florida who practically lost everything in the storm. On next Tuesday evening the members of the D. of A. and the Junior order will hold a private Halloween party at the home of Sister Wheeler of Yantic. All the members who intend to go will assemble at Franklin square at 7:15 so as to be ready to get the 7:30 car to Yantic. It is the desire of the committee to have all who can to mask, but everyone of both councils is cordially invited to attend as a good time is promised. Next Wednesday evening the state organizer, Dr. Parmelee, is to be present and is to give a talk on Americanism and every member is expected to be present as there is some very important business to be taken care of. The social committee has prepared a supper and there will be plenty of smokes and a very large attendance is looked for. The council is desirous of having all the old and new members get together and renew acquaintances. After the close of the regular meeting pinochle was enjoyed by the brothers. Next Wednesday night a pinochle tournament is to be started and any member wishing to get into it is to hand his name to Brother Vars, who is secretary of the pinochle league and prizes will be awarded to the winning teams.

POMFRET

The Old Mountain Stage

The top at last,—but the gun bends low
To the crest, of the next divide;
The stage is late, and the mail bags, too,
With a whole week's mail inside.
Down the grade at speed—there is call for pace,—
Sit tight on the box and still,
While the off lead gallops with his ears laid back,
And the nigh lead crowds the hill.

To the right the land drops sheer away,
To the left, the hill springs steep;
Far down, the loops of the twisting road
Like yellow serpents creep.
The sun is lost on his western trail,
And the breath of the dusk comes chill,
As the off lead gallops with his ears laid back,
And the nigh lead crowds the hill.

The moon is up in the east behind
Like a clipped coin tossed in the sky;
Past either side the black pines slip
As the red wheels thunder by;
The smell of the clay dust taints the air
And the scream of a hawk comes shrill,
While the off lead gallops with his ears laid back,
And the nigh lead crowds the hill.

A light below, like a sunken star,
And the brag of a swollen stream,
And the horses swing down the last half mile
Like the midnight steeds of a dream
While the off lead gallops with his ears laid back,
And the nigh lead crowds the hill.

—From "The Poems of Robert Cameron Rogers."

Morning Symphony

There's a clatter of pans and the quick grind-grind
Of coffee through the mill,
And the "One and two—bend forward please,"
Of the radio's morning drill.

There's scuffling through the upper hall—
Their bed-to-bathroom race—
Then steps a-clicking down the stairs
Like the scales from treble to bass.

Then high the harps of human voice
Rise, one above the other,
Yet one clear motif blends them all
And that is "Mother—mother!"

"Say! Haven't I got a shirt to wear?"
"Mother, it's getting late—"
"Gee! These gamples are awful hard—"
"Mother, what's seven times eight?"

There goes a button off my coat.
"Mother—how long'll it take?"
"I bet I lose my train today."
"Say, mother! The baby's awake!"

—Alice A. Keen, in New York Telegram.

Woman—How can I drive a nail without hitting my fingers?

Clerk—Hold the hammer in both hands.—Good Hardware.

Maud seems to have the right combination.

What do you mean?

She keeps her age dark and her secrets right.—Boston Transcript.

Bounder—Why is Sleighton's wife suing him for divorce?

Bounder—He and his stenographer had tonsilitis at the same time last month.—Texas Ranger.

Mrs. Gawfellow—Are you sure you caught this fish?

Gawfellow—Of course.

It smells very strong.

Strong? I should say it was! It nearly pulled me overboard.—The Progressive Grocer.

Joe—I'm sorry, dear, but I went to six stores and they didn't have any dress goods to match the sample you gave me.

Marian—Fine. That's just what I wanted to know. My dress will be unique.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Doctor—What sort of night did Mr. Jones Mopper spend?

Mrs. Mopper—He seemed a little peevish, doctor—he asked for warm sevens times.

Doctor—Hm! Soft delirious apparently.—London Opinion.

Schram, who had run out of gas on the outskirts of a New Hampshire town, saw a young boy coming along the road carrying a big tin can.

"Say, boy," he yelled, "I hope that's gasoline you have in that can."

"We'll, I hope it ain't," returned the boy, with some heat. "It would ruin the hell on Ma's pancakes."—Everybody's.

The Christians Daily Dozen

First turn your heart to God for grace
Before you look on any face.

Next breath a word of thankful greeting
To him who watched while you were sleeping.

Now if you find this hard to do
Invoke your will to help you through.

Next clinch your hands or turn your head
'Twill drive the night mists from your bed.

Next say a verse or hum an air
To make an atmosphere of prayer.

At length when mind is keenly turning
Repeat some new verse you are learning.

Then it will surely clear your vision.
To voice in words the days decision.

To talk with Christ about your work
For heaven can never bless a shirk.

And now prepared the day to meet
Arise and stand upon your feet.

Then from your table while you're dressing
Clean something from the book of blessing.

And for the climax of all motion
Fail not to kneel in sweet devotion.

So go you forth with smile to greet
The first and every heart you meet.

And all day long your soul will thrive
And you'll thank God that you're alive.

Joe Jones

Don't you remember lame Sally, Joe Jones—
Lame Sally, whose nose was so brown?
Who looked like a clam if you gave her a smile.
And went into fits at your frown?
In the old goose-pond in the orchard,
Joe Jones.
Where the goslings are learning to swim,
Lame Sally went fishing, one wet, windy day,
And there by mistake tumbled in.

Under old Sim's brush fence, Joe Jones,
That winds at the foot of the hill,
Together we've seen the old camel go round,
Grinding cider at Appleton's mill;
The mill-wheel is oven-wood now, Joe Jones,
The rafter fell on to a cow,
And the weasels and rats that crawl round as you gaze
Are the dords of the cider-mill now.

Do you remember the pig-pen of logs,
Joe Jones,
Which stood on the path to the barn?
And the shirt-button trees, where they grew on the boughs,
Which we sewed on our jackets with yarn?
The pig-pen has gone to decay, Joe Jones,
And the lightning the tree overcome;
And down where the onions and carrots once grew
Grow thistles as big as your thumb.

Don't you remember the school, Joe Jones?
And the master who wore the old wig?
And the nice shady nook by the crook of the brook,
Where we played with Aunt Catherine's pig?
It live in the master's wig, Joe Jones,
The brook with the crook is now dr—
And the boys and the girls that were playmates then
Have grown up ever so high.

There's a change in the things I love,
Joe Jones,
They have changed from the good to the bad—
And I feel in my stomach, to tell you the truth.
I'd like to go home to my dad.
Twere times twelve months have passed, Joe Jones,
Since I knocked off your nose with a rail;
And yet I believe I'm your own true friend.
Joe Jones of the Hurricane Gale!

Goody Blake and Harry Gill
A True Story

Oh! what's the matter? what's the matter?
What is't that ails young Harry Gill?
That evermore his teeth they chatter,
Chatter, chatter, chatter still!
Of waistcoats Harry has no lack
Good duffle gray, and flannel fine,
He has a blanket on his back,
And coats enough to smother nine.

In March, December and in July,
'Tis all the same with Harry Gill;
The neighbors tell, and tell you truly,
His teeth they chatter, chatter still.
At night, at morning, and at noon,
'Tis all the same with Harry Gill;
Beneath the sun, beneath the moon,
His teet they chatter, chatter still.

Young Harry was a lusty drover,
And who so stout of limb as he?
His cheeks were red as ruddy clover;
His voice was like the voice of three.
Old Goody Blake as old and poor;
Ill fed she was and thinly clad,
And any man who passed her door
Might see how poor a hut she had.

All day she spun in her poor dwelling
And then her three hours work at night,
Alas! 'twas hardly worth the telling
It would not pay for candle light.
Remote from sheltered village green
On a hill's northern side she dwelt,
Where from sea-blasts the hawthorns lean,
And hoary dews are slow to melt

By the same fire to boil their pottage,
Two poor old dames, as I have known
Will often live in one small cottage,
But she, poor woman, house alone
Twas well enough when summer came,
The long, warm, lightsome summer day,
Then at her door the canty dame
Would sit, as any linnet gay.

But when the ice our streams did fetter,
Oh! then how her old bones would shake!
You would have said, if you had met her
'Twas a hard time for Goody Blake.
Her evenings then were dull and dead
Sad case it was, as you may think,
For very cold to go to bed
And then for cold not sleep a wink.

Oh, joy for her! whe'er in winter,
The winds at night had made a rout
And scattered many a lusty splinter
And many a rotten bough about.
Yet never had she, well or sick
As every man who knew her says,
A pile beforehand turf or stick.
Enough to warm er for three days.

Now, when the frost was past endurance
And made her poor bones to ache
Could anything be more alluring
Then an old hedge to Goody Blake?
And, now and then, it must be said,
When he old bones were cold and chill
She left her fire, or left her bed
To seek the hedge of Harry Gill.

Now Harry he had long suspected
This trespass of old Goody Blake,
And vowed that she should be detected,
That he on her would vengeance take,
And oft from his warm fire he'd go,
And to the fields his road would take,
And there at night, in frost and snow
He watched to seise old Goody Blake.

And once behind a rick of barley
Thus looking out did Harry stand,
The moon was full and shining clearly
And crisp with frost the stubble land.
He hears a noise,—he's all awake!
Again! on tiptoe down the hill
He softly creeps. 'Tis Goody Blake!
She's at the hedge of Harry Gill.

Right glad was he when he beheld her
Stick after stick did Goody pull;
He stood behind a bush of elder
Till she had filled her aprin full.
When with her load she turned about
The by-way back again to take
He started forward with a shout
And sprang upon poor Goody Blake.
And fiercely by the arm he took her,
And by the arme he held her fast,
And fiercely by the arm he shook her,
And cried, "I've caught you, then, at last!"

Then Goody, who had nothing said
Her bundle from her lap let fall
And kneeling on the sticks, she prayed.
To God who is the judge of all.

She prayed, her withered hand upreaching
While Harry held her by the arm—
"God, who are never out of hearing
Oh, many he never more be warm!"
The cold cold moon above her head
Thus on her knees did Goody pray.
Young Harry heard what she had said
And icy cold he turned away.

He went complaining all the morrow
That he was cold and very chill
His face was gloom, his hear was sorrow
Alas! that day for Harry Gill!
That day he wore a riding coat,
But not a whit, the warmer e,
Another was on Thursday bought,
And ere the Sabbath he had three.
'Twas all in vain, a useless matter.
And blankets were about him pinned.
Yet still his jaws and teeth they clatter
Like a loose casement in the wind,
And Harry's flesh it fell away
And all who see him say 'tis plain
That, live as long as live he may
He never will be warm again.

No word to any man he utters.
Abed or up, to young or bld;
But ever to himself he mutters
"Poor Harry Gill is very cold."
Abed or up, by night or day,
His teeth they chatter, chatter, still,
Now think ye farmers all, I pray,
Of Goody Blake and Harry Gill.
By William Wordsworth.

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES

IRMA: Your name had been listed as a Corner member.

ARIES: Cards sent as requested.

A DELIGHTFUL SEASON

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: This is October in her loviest attire. If one would see nature, now is time to travel for the autumn foliage is a most wonderful mass of gorgeous coloring. Being intermingled with the green pines and cedars, they make a picture which only an artist can depict. Now is the time to begin to think of winter which is fast approaching although there are many things yet to be done in "the house by the side of the road" just around the corner." In counting up my list of canned goods, jams, jellies, juices etc., I have already over 100, and I have yet to do my citrons and ripe cucumber pickle. Then I shall draw the line on that kind of work. I certainly had a wonderful garden, a bountiful supply of almost everything. I can only say as I read in the Farm Journal,

"The earth rewards us nobly
For hours of honest toil."

I came back home from my winter quarters in the early spring. For indoor sport I painted floors, papered walls, and whitewashed ceilings and 101 other things. Then it was time to begin garden work. I spaded up ground enough for a good sized garden put a three-foot wire all around it, which has kept away all intruders. Now I am going to plant (for outdoor sport) such things as sweet peas, lettuce, parsley and tomato seed. I was told by a neighbor that it could be done, and my curiosity prompts me to try it, if the weather permits.

Wiltwyck: Thank you for sending in the poem that I have tried so hard to get. I was about ready to copy it and send it in myself, for I found it only yesterday in my own house (didn't know I had it.) It was in the National Preceptor that my father used in school. I hope all the readers will like it. It has a good moral connected with it.

TASTY CODFISH DISHES

Dear Corner Friends: Here are some tasty codfish dishes.

Gloucester Souffle: Four large potatoes, cup packed full of finely shredded codfish, 2 eggs, a third of a cup of milk, 2 tablespoons of butter, salt and pepper to taste. Boil the potato, mash and beat them to a cream with butter and milk, a little sugar. Stir in the fish, then the beaten yolks of the eggs and lastly the stiffly beaten whites. Turn the mixture into a dish which has been buttered and bake in a quick oven about 35 minutes. Send to the table in a baking dish.

Salt Codfish Baked with Macaroni: Break 1-2 pound of macaroni into inch lengths; boil in salted water until tender and drain; put half the macaroni in a buttered baking dish; cover with one pint of salt codfish, which has been cooked and shredded and stirred up with 1-2 cup of cream. Cover. Add 1-4 pound of butter cut into small pieces, season with pepper and salt and then add the remainder of the macaroni. Beat 2 eggs until light; add 3-4 pint of cold milk. Pour the mixture over the macaroni; cover with fine cracker crumbs. Bake until brown.

Cream Salt Codfish in Green Peppers: Parboil the peppers 10 minutes, then fill with creamed fish which may be seasoned with parsley. Then sprinkle with fine bread crumbs. Dot with butter. Brown in a quick oven.

Creamed carrots, cauliflower, sprouts and many other vegetables may be baked in the pepper cups and served as a vegetable or entree. Filled with potato au gratin and browned they are a delicious accompaniment for chops and vegetables.

Mexican Codfish: Saute a small onion chopped fine in three tablespoons of butter, then add 3 tablespoons of flour half a green pepper minced and one cup of stewed and strained tomato. When the sauce reaches boiling point, add 2 pound of flaked codfish that has been freshened in cold water and parboiled. Simmer slowly for 10 minutes.

Salt Codfish Sandwiches: Take equal parts of yolks of well cooked eggs rubbed to a smooth paste and codfish chopped fine. Season to taste with a few drops of tobacco sauce and lemon juice and spread on crackers. These must be made just before serving as otherwise the crackers will lose their crispness.

Codfish Fingers: Chop 1 cup lobster meat very fine, also one cup cooked codfish, season to taste with French dressing. Cut the bread in slices about 4 inches long. Finish as any sandwich. Garnish with parsley and lobster claws. If preferred mayonnaise may be used instead of French dressing.

Salt Codfish au Gratin: Cook enough flaked fish to fill a pint cup. Make a sauce with one cup of milk a tablespoon melted butter and the same of flour. Mix the sauce with fish, and turn into a buttered baking dish. Sprinkle the top thickly with grated cheese. Cover lightly with fresh breadcrumbs and bake in a hot oven until the top is a light brown.

INTERESTED IN DEVIL'S HOPYARD

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I have long been curious to know from where and what the hopyard derived the name. And of course the good Corner page comes forth with the necessary information.

Susanna: We took a trip in there this summer and the place is the same as it when you were a girl. No sun ever shines there, it is very grotesque. Had a new car and got some scratches as the overhanging branches meet.

Biddy: It is all posted—State Park. I understand they allow movie people the privilege of taking pictuers there. So perhaps when we are watching the movies and imagine we are witnessing scenes in Canada or the wild and wooly west we really are no farther away than the Devil's hopyard. The road is not bad only very narrow and rather difficult for cars to pass each other. About the center is a sort of pine grove beside a stream called the Ten Mile river. Here were quite a number of people. Some were fishing, some reading, some lunching and several petting parties, and the best of all plenty of parking space. It really did seem good not to see those yellow signs, No Parking.

Now if anybody wants a day of rest and quiet amid nature's surrounding I'll say take a trip to the Devil's hopyard.

Maple Leaf and daughter-in-law, Lorna and myself journeyed to Stafford fair. Had a fine day, chicken dinner and saw several Corner sisters. They are like autos: they go every where. Returned home just in time to escape the shower.

Catnip: Will see that you have a bouquet. One that will last all winter.

Cosmos: We will be there and hope to have some of those good beans of E. L. M.

Best wishes to all.

TRUE BLUE.

GREETINGS FROM DOROTHY BRADFORD

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I am just looking forward to Oct. 9 when I hope to meet the sisters again with many more.

Lucille Drew: I will try and favor you if I don't get sidetracked again.

Laurel: I am glad to welcome you to our circle.

Milky Way: In reading over the recipe in the paper, I found the egg was omitted. Am very sorry and hope you did not spoil your bread as the recipe calls for one egg.

Interested Reader: Was glad of the little visit with you may we have others and longer.

I would like to ask if any of the sisters have the poetry, The Graves of a Household, or if they can tell where it may be found as I would like very much to have it.

DOROTHY BRADFORD.

GREETINGS FROM HOOT OWL

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Will write a few lines about the picnics held at Allyns Point, and with Aunty No 1, Bean Hill, also at Sister Elva at Town street, Norwich. A delicious dinner was served at each place and all too soon the time came to leave for home. And I'm wishing I may be able to attend again. Am looking forward to Oct. the 19th as I want to meet the Shore Line members. I think I know a few of them and those I don't I would be very pleased to meet.

At our last meeting at the Buckingham hall was pleased to meet Nancy Pack and Milo, also to meet Scottie and several others.

Silent Partner: That is some quilt. A: you are only a short distance from me would be pleased to see the quilt.

I wish to thank all the members that sent me cards on my 50th anniversary. I received 70, some very beautiful ones. Also wish to thank Whispering Pine, as she helped to swell the number of them. Several members wish me to send in my recipe for orange layer cake, so here goes.

Orange Layer Cake: Beat 2 eggs stiff, big pinch of salt, one cup sugar, two teaspoons baking powder, four teaspoons of orange juice, one cup of boiling water. Stir well. This makes three layers. Bake in a hot oven.

Frosting: The juice of one orange grated rind, 3 big tablespoons butter and half box of frosting sugar. Makes a nice frosting for it.

HOOT OWL, (Club 5.)

ANOTHER CORNER MEMBER

Dear Social Corner Editor: I attended the Social Corner meeting at East Killingly Oct. 7 and enjoyed a nice dinner and a splendid program. Would like to join Club No. 4, so please send me a Social Corner button.

With best wishes for the Corner will take for my penname.

IRMA.

SHORE LINE CLUB MEETS OCT. 19

Dear Social Corner Members: Just to remind you that the Shore Line club will hold their next meeting Tuesday Oct. 19 at the Grange hall at North Stonington. We hope to have a large number present and welcome some new members into our club. As usual bring dishes and something good to eat. Hope to see many from the other clubs.

HOW TO MAKE BAKING POWDER

Dear Social Corner: I read an item in a paper by Will Rogers. First I thought I would cut it out and mail it to L. H. Then the thought occurred to me I would write it to the Corner and all could enjoy it.

It seems Will Rogers was in the shoe store buying a pair of shoes and there happened to be a shoe salesman in there telling jokes. Will Rogers says "that you don't often catch a shoe salesman that tells jokes," but he thinks "it's a pretty good act at that. Shoe clerks are always looking down and that gives them a kind of a sad expression, like undertakers." He also said, "I always feel like taking off my hat in a shoe store on account of all the solemness. Some of the big stores even have thick rugs on the floor so it makes everything churchy and quiet. And I keep looking around to see who's going to ask the blessing and after awhile, sure enough, some fellow that gets his corns pinched by new shoes cries out like a penitant soul, and then along comes the sad-eyed usher and takes up the collection."

Well, this here clerk was a telling jokes all the time and the other fellow that was selling shoes the sad way was looking at him like he was a scab or like doctors who look at a doc that would tell a patient there wasn't any use in cutting out his appendix. And he told us how he and another shoe clerk went to a barber shop to be shaved, and the barber says to him: Say, your hair sure is in awful shape. It needs a tonic bad. And my friend says, kind of mad like, "Well, and your shoes are about the saddest kicks I've seen today, but I don't go bawlin' you out about them before your friends do I?"

I have thought I would send my recipe for making baking powder. I have had several requests and I am confident when you once use it you will not care to buy your baking powder. You do not need quite so much of this as the baking powder you buy all put up. Besides making your cake more moist, it is also much cheaper to make it yourself, that is if you get the best and the best is none too good.

Baking Powder: 6 ounces of cream tartar, 3 ounces of soda, 2 ounces tartaric acid, 5 ounces of either corn starch or flour. Mix all together and sift ten times.

This makes three and one half boxes or 40 cent baking powder and will cost you about 60 cents for the three and three quarters pounds.

DOM PEDRO'S CAT ROSE

Dear Social Corner Friends: I wonder if you are all through cleaning and canning. I made some orange marmalade and it is fine. It is not for table use, but for sweetmeats, same as candy. I shall enjoy it next winter. I am wondering what has become of Balsam Fir. That she does not show up in New London, I did not see her when she was around here before. I hope she will not give me the "go by" this time. We have been correspondents for a long time and I hope to see her soon.

Whirlwind: I have been looking for a call from you and Foxglove, all summer until I had an awful sty on one of my eyes, Then I could not look any more, for I could not see much for nearly two weeks.

There has been so much in the Corner lately about cats. I think I must tell about one I had years ago, when I was a young girl. It was a little tabby kitten that was given to me, one of the three colored kind and I kept her until she was 15 years old. Then I had to have her put out of the way. Poor old Rose—I thought so much of her. I had her trained to hunt for me. I would take her out in the woods and she would bring to me any game she caught half grown rabbits, and squarrels, quails etc. She furnished me with many a good meal. She always got her share when they were dressed. I was always very fond of game.

I had a lot of canaries and used to let them out in a closed room. She would be stretched out asleep on the floor. They would walk all over her, pick her hear, but she would pay no attention to them. But one day I had one of my best singers in a cage hung outside on the house under a tree. The wind blew the bottom of the cage off and the bird came down with it. I stood right there and before I could speak she had the bird in her mouth. I said, "Rose, drop it." She brought it and laid it down at my feet, looked up at me so pitiful as though she was sorry. She never offered to touch it again. She evidently thought it came down from the tree. She brooded many a chicken and duck that was wet or sick. If she was asleep near the stove I would put them under her paw and she would keep them there as long as her nap lasted. When she woke up she would look at them as though she wondered where they came from. Sometime, perhaps, I will tell you about another cat we had that was always bringing snakes into the house.

I have an order from Newburgh, N. Y. for 12 dust caps, so guess I better get busy. I am doing a lot of fancy work now getting ready for Christmas.

I wish some of the Cornerites would give me a call.

DOM PEDRO.

MOTTOES

Dear Social Corner Friends: When I read over the Social Corner mottoes given at the head of the page each week, they seem simple enough and good reading. But I have found one given Sept. 11 that puzzles me a little. It is.

Unless you bear with the faults of a friend, you betray your own.

Now just what fault of your own do you betray? Is it impatience, bad manners, or a weak intellect? Perhaps it means we have the same faults we find in others, our friend had or that we are no friend to them. Here is one that is easy:

Life is a mirror that reflects both smiles and frowns.

The one given Sept. 25th makes us pause to wonder a little if we have never before given it a thought, and realize:

Hope is the dream of a person awake.

Nature designed us to be of good cheer.

We have a good deal to thank nature for, and not least is her effort to make us happy with good cheer.

Melancholy is disease
Cheerfulness is health.
As ever your friend.

COLLEEN M.

EXCELLENT POINTERS

Dear Cornerites: When you wish to peel pears pour boiling water on them and they will peel like a tomato.

I make my own baking powder using 2 ounces cream tartar, 2 ounces soda, 2 ounces tartaric acid, 5 ounces corn starch.

It is time to bring in your garden and give it room in the house. If you will you can make your pots quite pretty. Take a package of any kind of dye, add water, boil your pots about 45 to 60 minutes, then gild the edge and they are beautiful.

If you will sprinkle flour in the grease before frying eggs you will be pleased, as the eggs or grease will not sputter.

If you want a novel birthday cake stencil it with beet juice thickened with sugar, make flowers of the red sugar and then make a green dye out of spinach for the green leaves. You can make a pretty Christmas cake. Cut your stencils out of pasteboard, date, names and flowers can be cut out by stencil and you will be pleased with it.

When a man's skirt is worn up around the neck and you have none like it cut a piece of the back shirt flap and fix it around the neck. Piece another piece the width you took off the back with a piece of unbleached cotton cloth.

I always used a piece of writing paper to clean baby's nails.

I know I have sent this help to the Corner before but it is coming where you will have ice to clean. Salt strewn on the steps or walk will cause it to fade away soon. First it will crack, then away it goes.

Washing Fluid: One can potash, 1 1-2 ounces salts of tartar, 1 1-3 ounces powdered ammonia, 1-4 pound of borax. Dissolve in one gallon of water (soft) keep in bottles stoppered tight. Use about 5 tablespoons to 3 gallons of water.

Try placing a lump of sugar on the ink spot on your carpet. It will certainly soak up the ink. Then I rub salt and lemon on the spot and it will clean it up.

I have quite a number of enamel saucepans, and I found when they are discolored I could remove it by using 2 quarts of water, 2 teaspoons chloride of lime, and boil for 20 minutes.

I have found out when I am baking cookies a good idea to turn my pan up side down, and bake the cookies on the bottom of the pan.

In making jelly I was bothered about its jellying so I added a pinch of alum. It jellied all right.

ETHELYN.

PINEAPPLE PUDDING

Dear Social Corner Editor: Thanks for my check. I am sending this recipe.

Pineapple Pudding: 1 can of condensed milk boiled in the can 4 hours. Cool over night open can at extreme edge. Then the milk will come out of the can whole in form of a caramel.

For each serving place a slice of pineapple with a thin slice of caramel on top, then whipped cream over this, topped with toasted cocoanut and a cherry in center.

A PUSSY'S FRIEND.

SOME WEATHER SIGNS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: It was my pleasure to attend the meeting of Club No. 5 at Buckingham Memorial at Norwich through the kindness of Mila. The sisters gave us a royal welcome, a fine lunch and time passed altogether too swiftly, so before we knew it we had to start for home and say we want to go again. Was glad to meet the Grand Army men and found some that knew my father in the Civil war, some in his regiment. God bless any G. A. R. man in our country.

Olga: Of course I knew you without your double.

Whispering Pineo, Ines and Ducky: Was glad to meet you all. Wish I could remember names. I met such nice ladies. Come to C'ub No. 6 when we meet again. Watch the Bulletin giving date and place.

Am sending some weather signs. The twelve days after Christmas, indicate the weather for the following year. Each day in order shows the weather for 1 month.

Blow out a candle and if the wick continues long to smoulder, look for bad weather, if it goes out quickly the weather will be fair.

When it begins to snow, notice the size of the flakes; if they are very fine, the storm will be a long one if large, the storm will soon be over.

After the frogs begin to sing in the spring if they are frozen in three times, you may be sure that afterwards you will have warm weather.

If it rains on the first dog day, it will rain on each of the other 39. If on the other hand, the first dog day is dry all the rest will be dry.

If the chickens come out while it rains it is a sign that the storm is to be a big one. If they stand around under the shed, the storm will be short.

As the old woman said, "I never knew it to begin in the morning to rain all day in my life, but I've seen it begin at noon and rain all day lots of times."

If the breastbone of the Thanksgiving chickens are light in color there will be a good deal of snow in the winter following. If the color is dark there will be little snow.

When the cattle lie down as soon as they are turned out to pasture in the morning, it is because they feel a rheumatic weariness in their bones and you can look for a rain soon.

If the melt of the hog killed in the fall is big at the front end, the winter will be sharpest at the beginning. If the melt is biggest at the rear, the winter will be coldest in the latter part.

But if there is no snow the following winter it will suit.

NANCY PECK, (Club No. 6.)

ECONOMICAL FIRE KINDLER

Dear Social Corner Members: Good morning. I am sending the sisters and readers of the Corner an economical coal or fire kindler.

Take 1-2 pint of kerosene, 2 quarts of water, 1-2 bar of laundry soap.

Method: Set the above on the stove and let it boil until the soap has dissolved. Remove from the fire and stir in all the sawdust it will take. Stir this thoroughly and leave the mass to cool. Then cut in little pieces the size of a domino. Keep this covered and when you wish to kindle your fire try this. It is such a help. I think you will appreciate this as well as I did.

Make a doll out of corn cobs. Cover one with cloth for the body, cover the top of the cob for the head, then use two for the feet and two for arms you will be surprised to see what cute dolls they make. Dress them like a Dinah and put on apron and cap alike.

I worked the face with silkateen but you can stencil it if you wish. Makes a very pretty novelty.

I think the popcorn cobs the best. I used the common cobs and I had a terrible time drying it.

KITTY LOU.

FOR AFTERNOON TEAS

Dear Sisters: I think those who entertain will welcome this simple form as it does not entail burdensome effort or expense, but is the most attractive idea to lure one's friends to their fireside and also formal enough to repay slight social obligations.

You can press an ordinary table into service for the occasion, draw it up into the center of the room and make it attractive looking that will rout the four o'clock gloom of the darkest, dreariest most forlorn winter afternoon that ever dragged its somber way across the calendar. Of course you must understand about the snowy linen, gleaming silver, dainty china, a bowl of flowers, or, perhaps, a fern lighted candles glowing through a warmly tinted shade no matter how unpretentious they may be, possess a magic secret that will insure cheerful companionship.

I must tell you about the original idea of shades one hostess had put together. She had expensive shades and one had a little spot in the center. She bought five magazines with covers, the same and cut out the picture of a beautiful large sized head and this she pasted on the center of her shade. It was so neatly and cunningly fixed one never suspected but it grew that way. When the light shown through the shades the guests all exclaimed, "Those shades are wonderful," and so many copied them.

When a cart is not used, the tea service should be carried on a tray. The oval mahogany rimmed, glass bottomed trays with handles at each end, are perhaps the most artistic and convenient. I think the service should be either silver or china and usually consists of a teapot filled with tea ready to serve, a pot of hot water, a pitcher of cream, a dish of cut sugar and the required number of cups and saucers.

The hostess may have an alcohol lamp so she can boil the water and make the tea in individual cups.

Making the tea in the presence of ones company or guests always introduces a note of domesticity that never fails to please. After the tea is served a small tray holding loaf sugar, cream, sliced lemon and orange or tiny pitcher of fruit juices instead, and a tiny dish of cloves and cassia buds, should be passed so each guest may flavor the tea according to her own taste. Cassia buds, about one-half dozen dropped into the cup will impart its pungent flavor. If you wish a novelty that is sure to please, offer little baby sticks of candy instead of sugar. One of these stirred into the tea gives a delicious flavor, orange peel, a little grated from the rind and dried, imparts a delicious tone.

Sandwiches, olives, salted nuts, cakes and bonbons are the usual accompaniments to afternoon tea of the informal type.

Sandwiches and cakes are very attractive cut into artistic shapes, such as hearts, stars, leaves, triangles and rounds, metal cutters for the different shapes can be bought.

Here is such a pretty sandwich for an afternoon tea. Cut the bread very thin, remove the crust, cream butter before spreading.

Make the cakes tiny and I think the icing should harmonise with the bonbons. Delicate violet and pink, pink and green, and pink and white, are dainty color combinations.

I can advise you how to make those "French cakes" that are so expensive when provided by a caterer, are made to order by a baker. As the cake itself is only a bit of an excuse for its own decoration and reliable drop mixture may be used. The greatest difficulty is in getting these cakes small enough when finished. The round ones should be the size of a 50-cent piece, and the oblong and triangulars, from an inch to an inch and half long.

Here is an old fashioned tea cake, light, fluffy, and easy to make into tempting little squares for afternoon tea. They are called,

Mothers Tea Cakes: 1-2 cup of butter, 1 cup of sugar, 2 eggs, a little salt, 1-2 cup milk, 1-2 cups of flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder. Cream butter, salt and sugar together, add eggs well beaten, milk, flour, baking powder, sifted together, beat well, bake in a shallow pan, cut in tiny squares, cover with any icing.

The icing can be either boiled or made from confectioners sugar. Moisten with scalded cream. Be divided into portions and each portion colored differently. I use cochineal for pink, and the vegetable pastes for violet, green and orange. For decorations nuts, candied cherries, violets and form conventional designs of flowers, miniature trees, with tiny strips of preserved orange and lemon peel.

Halved lady fingers may be dipped in icing and decorated, in many attractive ways. Saltines are delicious if spread with boiled icing, sprinkled with chopped nuts and browned in the oven. Small salted wafers are good if covered with melted sweet chocolate and almonds.

Salad sandwiches are always acceptable for tea, made of white meat of chicken or turkey pounded or chopped to a paste and seasoned with mayonnaise. Lobster and shrimp salad sandwiches are prepared in the same way. Sandwiches containing mayonnaise should not be spread until the last minute. A very small lettuce leaf may be used in combination with these fillings, if desired. When no salad dressing is used, cream the filling with butter until it is light.

Pimento sandwiches are made by draining the pimentos from one can chop fine and moisten with a very stiff mayonnaise. This makes such a rich red filling that shows to advantage upon a sandwich plate. Another good filling is cream cheese, chopped olives and walnuts. Rine olives and sweet gherkins. Chopped and moistened with salad dressing, make an unusual combination.

Sweet sandwiches are usually made of Boston brown bread, whole wheat bread or nut bread, cut very thin and spread thickly with butter. For the filling orange marmalade, thinly sliced, preserved ginger, or dates rubbed to a paste and mixed with chopped almonds and whipped cream. Raisins ground with English walnuts and moistened with orange juice, make a delicious filling.

By giving attention to trifles it will be easy to raise your tea above the common place and give it distinction. If it is to be a slight formal affair. Instead of the ubiquitous salted peanuts and almonds, offer your guests, pecans and pistachio nuts. In place of the usual mint and winter green creams, offer Oriental paste, preserved ginger, or the marrono glaces.

VOLUNTOWN

Friday afternoon at 1.30 p. m. Louis Morse died at his home in the Yellow Mill village after an illness of several weeks. He is survived by his wife and several relatives. The funeral took Monday afternoon from his home, with services at St. Thomas' church. Burial was in St. Thomas' cemetery. The bearers were Cyrus W. Fletcher, Benjamin T. Willcox, Everett Whipple and Frank W. Burton.

Saturday the board of selectmen, town clerk and registrars of voters were in session for the purpose of making voters. Out of a list of 36 names handed in only nine appeared.

Monday evening the republican caucus was well attended and was very harmonious. George R. Edwards called the caucus to order in the absence of John N. Lewis, chairman of the republican town committee, who on Monday evening was absent from a republican caucus for the first time in 50 years; he having presided at every caucus for the past forty years. Mr. Lewis is confined to his home by illness and notified the caucus by letter, regretting his absence. The clerk of the caucus was instructed to inform Mr. Lewis of their regret at his absence and best wishes for his restoration to health, that he may take his usual part in the coming campaign.

An Unpleasant Relation

'Tis well, as you will sometimes find,
To be fo some relations blind.
—Danny Meadow Mouse.

Hardly had Danny Meadow Mouse reached the shore by walking the rope from the motor boat when a sharp, squeaky voice demanded: "Who are you, and what are you doing here? What business had you on that rope?"

Danny discovered one of his own relations, a big brown fellow, Robber the Rat, as he is called. He looked so fierce and he was so rough and dirty that Danny backed away hurriedly. "Excuse me, Cousin," said Danny, "I have done something I shouldn't have done. I used that rope to get off that boat. It was the only way I could get off without swimming. Was there any harm in that?"

"What were you doing on that boat?" demanded Robber fiercely.

Danny told him the story. He told how he had been picked up in an old can, "Did you find anything to eat on that boat?" demanded Robber.

Danny admitted that he had found a few crumbs and had eaten them. "Those crumbs were mine," declared Robber. "I'm going out there now, and if you have eaten all the food on that boat I'll eat you when I get back."

Robber climbed up on that rope and lightly and easily ran out along it to the boat. Danny watched him. It was clear that Robber the Rat had done that often. Then Danny remembered the dreadful threat Robber had made. "He would do it, too," muttered Danny. "He would just as soon kill me and eat me as not, even if I am relation to him. I guess I'll move along. I guess I don't want to be here when Robber gets back."

So Danny turned and raced off as fast as his little legs could take him. It was blind going, for of course he had no idea where to go. The only thing he could do was to run blindly and just keep going. By and by as Danny ran on he came to a building. It was an old building, and it looked as if he might be a good place to hide. He dodged under it. Then he began to explore. There was a great deal of rubbish underneath that old building. Presently Danny heard a squeaky voice. He stopped and listened. But he didn't stop long. He turned and fled and his legs worked better and faster than they had for a long time. Out from under that old building he ran. He ran and ran, until he came to an old log that had a hole in it just big enough for a Meadow Mouse to get in. He was quite out of breath and very, very tired. Once inside that old log, he lay down and panted.

"That was Mrs. Robber," said he, talking to himself. "I must have found the home of my cousin, Robber the Rat. My, I don't see how people can live like that. No, sir, I don't. Such a dirty place as that was; I'm glad I'm away from there. I wouldn't trust that Robber thing enough to wiggle my tail. Oh, dear, shall I ever get home? I wonder what Nanny is doing now. I wonder if she's thinking of me. I wonder if she misses me. I wonder if she ever went to look for me."

Danny spent the night in that old log. As soon as it was daylight he started out once more. It wasn't long before he came to a long stretch of meadow beside the Big River. It was almost like the Green Meadows at home. How good it did seem to get in the meadow grass once more. And right away almost the very first thing, Danny discovered little parties in the grass. Then he knew there were other meadow mice there.

The next story—Danny Has a Fright.

George R. Edwards was chosen moderator of the caucus and Mary E. Peckham, clerk. The tellers were Miss Margaret Tanner and William J. Kaufmann. Mrs. Emily B. Chatfield was named as the party candidate for representative and Herbert Heywood and Warren E. Tanner candidates for justices of the peace.

The democratic caucus was held on Tuesday evening. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Mary E. Russil, chairman of the town committee. On motion George B. Sheldon was chosen moderator and Mrs. Mary E. Russil, clerk. The caucus named Cyrus W. Fletcher was the choice for representative and for justices of the peace, George B. Sheldon, Barlsey G. Palmer and Herbert Heywood were nominated.

John N. Lewis was greatly improved Friday as his many friends were pleased to learn.

LEDYARD

Miss Marion Keeney, teacher in the Geer school with her pupils gave an interesting Columbus day entertainment in Grange hall, Tuesday evening. The entertainment consisted of eight scenes concerning the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus interspersed with readings and songs by the pupils. The play was well given and heartily applauded by an appreciative audience.

Leslie P. Gray has sold the timber on his farm to Thomas Baudro, who will soon move his portable saw mill to this lot.

The meeting of the town school committee was held in the Bill library building, Monday afternoon. All the members were present but one. Reorganization of the board followed the opening of the meeting. Billings T. Avery was re-elected chairman and Samuel E. Holdridge reelected secretary of the board. Mr. Avery has been a member of the town school board since Oct. 5, 1912, 14 years, and has been chairman of the board since Nov. 6, 1916, 10 years. Mr. Holdridge has been a member of the board since Oct. 7, 1901, 25 years and has been secretary of the board since Oct. 3, 1912, 14 years. The following sub committees were appointed: Building committee, Andrew M. Avery, Charles A. Gray; teachers, Samuel E. Holdridge, Billings T. Avery; supply, Alice Satterlee, Leon M. Colver.

Owing to the increase in pupils at Gales Ferry school, the school board decided that for the best interest of the town the Stoddard school which

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

The week in Norwich 50 years ago was a quiet one. One or two political meetings were held and there was a large parade by the Boys in Blue that week. H. B. Norton was elected president of the Norwich Free Academy that week and E. Learned, was elected treasurer and secretary. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Bulletin of October, 1876, are as follows.

Monday, October 9, 1876—Charles Ledward was killed accidentally at his quarry near Borden's pond, about two miles from Westerly, Friday morning. While he was arranging to hoist out a stone the boom of the derrick came down suddenly, striking him on the back of the head, killing him instantly. He was about 35 years old and leaves a family.

On the petition of Mr. A. C. Hall and 35 others a city meeting is called for Saturday afternoon next to rescind the tax of 11 mills, of paving one per cent for collection, to elect a collector and to designate a time at which the tax shall be collected. And it is to be hoped that the major part of this business having been properly settled the movement will be treated accordingly.

Gen. Colt denies that he promised a company of 150 democratic soldiers from this city to attend the meeting in Albany this month. Norwich soldiers are not that kind.

Tuesday, October 10, 1876—At the annual meeting of the corporators of the Norwich Free Academy, held yesterday, John F. Slater, Lorenzo Blackstone and E. Winslow Williams were elected trustees for three years. Thomas B. Sayles and Thomas Mitchell were chosen corporators to complete the number of 25. At a subsequent meeting of trustees H. B. Norton was elected president; E. Learned, treasurer and secretary.

Conductor Downer's train from Palmer was thrown from the track yesterday afternoon at the station in this city by a misplaced switch, both engine and tender going off. A good deal of hard work was required to get the engine and tender on the rails again.

The republicans hold another grand rally in Breed hall tomorrow night. Speeches will be made by ex-Governor Jewell, Major John A. Tibbetts, and Congressman Wait, all able and effective speakers. There will also be a torchlight parade of the campaign organizations. The gallery will be reserved for ladies.

Wednesday, October 11, 1876—The boys in blue of the fourth district, a large company, have elected Joseph Stott captain; J. Murphy first lieutenant; and William Fulton, second lieutenant. They have also elected Joseph Stamm, third lieutenant as there are a number of educated Germans in the company who do not understand English orders, in marching, although well drilled soldiers.

There are 22 vessels lying at the railroad wharf, discharging coal. These cargoes are for the Wellington coal company, Worcester. Two extra trains, coal laden, went up the road last night, and two more go tonight.

John Coughlin of Greeneville, got on the down freight, when it stopped near the railroad shop, yesterday afternoon. As the train halted near the engine house he was thrown out and an empty car passed forward and back over his body. On examination it was found that he was not much hurt and that no bones were broken.

Thursday, October 12, 1876—Another grand republican rally was held last evening. The announcement was enough to fill Breed hall to overflowing with an enthusiastic crowd which occupied all the seats and rendered the aisles impassable, while many went away unable to obtain admission. Both galleries were occupied by ladies, the fair sex being out in force.

The O. D. Ones will play a game of polo in their riding hall next Saturday evening. This game has proved exceedingly popular and we are indebted to this organization for introducing it here. The horses used are small mustangs imported from Texas.

There were 30 tramps in the station house at 7 o'clock last evening. The city should at once begin to put these travelers at work. Let them be employed in some way.

Friday, October 13, 1876—Company C, Boys in Blue, Captain, Brewster's, are requested to meet in Ripley's hall this evening at 7 o'clock. Company G, in Continental hall at 6:30 o'clock and the first company, Continentals, in their hall in Greeneville at 7 o'clock. The members of Company C who have useless torches can exchange them for good ones at their armory.

Gov. Jewell who spoke here Wednesday night, was in consultation with President Grant and others at the Fifth avenue hotel yesterday.

Chestnuts are very plenty just now. The worms this year have a very gamey flavor.

Saturday, October 14, 1876—One of the finest displays ever made by the republicans of Norwich was that of the Boys in Blue. It was about the finest parade ever held in this city, about 400 men being in line. A number of members of the New London Boys in Blue were present and invited the Norwich organizations to join in a demonstration in New London early next week and the invitation was accepted.

The centennial travel continues. The popular Norwich and New York boats will go heavily laden with passengers until November 1st.

Mr. William W. Collins of the senior class, who is well known here, has been elected captain of the Yale university crew.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

Today will see the final showing of what has been pronounced one of the finest picture programmes seen this season. The big double bill consisting of The Show Off made from the screaming stage hit that played Broadway for two years and including in its cast Ford Sterling, Lois Wilson and Louise Brooks and Peter the Great, in Wild Justice. Adventure and romance abound in this marvelous story featuring the greatest dog star on the screen.

Added attractions include Gene Tunney in Chapter 6 of the Great Adventure Serial, The Fighting Marine. The Topical Events and good music by the Palace Concern Orchestra.

On Sunday evening another big double feature programme is announced. The principal novelty being Fascinating Youth, featuring the Paramount Junior Stars of 1926. These young men and women fill the public's demand for new faces in a picture that is sure to start them on a career of popularity. The story was written by Byron Morgan, who wrote the famous successes of Wally Reid, Richard Dix and Bebe Daniels. It is filled with suspense and action right up to the end, with stunning gowns and beautiful backgrounds to add to its charm. Sharing honors with Fascinating Youth is The Wrong Doers, a powerful and exciting drama of New York life adapted from a story that appeared in the True Story Magazine and featuring Lionel Barrymore and Anne Cornwall and a big cast. A new comedy, The Bride Tamer. The Topical Events, and Walter Lang and his popular orchestra completes a fine Sunday evening's entertainment.

The Palace announces that contracts have been closed for immediate showing of the finest list of photoplay successes ever presented by a theatre in a single season, among the most notable being The Big Parade, Eddie Cantor in Kid Boots, Harry Langdon in The Strong Man, Rin Tin Tin in The Hero of the Big Snows, So This is Paris, the comedy hit of the year, Richard Dix in The Quarterback, Bebe Daniels in The Campus Flirt, Douglas McLean in Hold That Lion, Georgie Jessell in Private Izzy Murphy, Jack London's Famous Sea Wolf, Clara Bow in Mantrap, Zane Grey's Famous Novel Forlorn River, Variety, the picture sensation of the year, We're in the Navy Now, successor to Behind the Front.

Palace Theater

After many "perfect lover" roles of the dandy and exquisite type, John Gilbert comes before this public as a hegimed doubhboy of the A. E. F. and lover of a peasant French mam'selle, in The Big Parade, King Vidor's picturization of Laurence Stallings's story at the Palace theatre, starting October 25th. Curiosity to see Mr. Gilbert in the role of Jim Apperson is keen, for those who have seen that portrayal in New York and other metropolitan engagements, have sent glowing reports of it to their friends here. It is marked not only by romance and pathos but enlivened likewise with humor.

Broadway Theater

The Hidden Way is the way of a quiet influence for peace and harmony, according to Ida May Park, author of the screen drama of that name, which comes to the Broadway theater Sunday only as the feature attraction.

With this as a basis, she builds up one of the most powerful stories which has reached the screen, the theme being the power exercised by one woman whose faith and love are such that three discharged prisoners are retrieved from a life of crime through association with her.

Mary Carr holds the featured role, with Tom Santschi, Arthur Rankin and Ned A. Sparks as the crooks. Gloria Grey and Jane Thomas handle the threads of romance which run through the drama.

The lovely star, Edith Roberts, has one of the featured roles in The New Champion, the Perfection production released by Columbia which comes to the Broadway theater on Sunday as the second feature. She co-stars with William Fairbanks who has the role of a poor young blacksmith who due to a combination of circumstances fights his way in one battle to the world's championship.

A new Kinograms with the world events in pictures completes this program that should delight everyone.

Broadway Theater

A surprise program of Keith-Albee big time vaudeville stars will open at the Broadway theater Monday which is going to be the talk of the town, according to the management.

Delightful comedy touched with the magic wand of pathos which makes all true comedy great; vivid, colorful thrills; adventure, and a smashing drama of the oil fields with a literal river of flames sweeping down the bottom of the dry wash to engulf the villain and provide the hero with a setting for one of the most spectacular rescues ever screened make Flaming Waters a whale of an entertainment, as its local showing at the Broadway theater starting Monday will prove. The picture, adapted for the screen by Fred Kennedy Myton from E. Lloyd Sheldon's original story, is as aflame with a sensationalism that is different, with dynamic movement, and with a colorful romance.

Lyceum Theater, New London

On Wednesday matinee, October 20th, Patterson McNutt will present Marc Connelly's fantastic comedy, The Wisdom Tooth, at the Lyceum theater, New London for two performances, matinee and night, featuring Thomas Mitchell in the cast which comes intact direct from an entire season's run at the Little theater in New York city.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre.

It is generally admitted that the name of Al Christie on a feature picture is an indicative of a big laughter special as the same name on two reel comedies years ago was indicative of a short but hilarious portion of a theatre's programme.

"Up in Mabel's Room" is the latest fun special from the studio of Mr. Christie. It opens Sunday at the Breed theatre, and presents Marie Provost in the stellar role of Mabel. She is supported by Harrison Ford and Phyllis Haver, in featured roles and a large cast, including Sylvia Breamer, Harry Myers, Paul Nicholson, Carl Gerard, Maud Truax, William Orlamond and Arthur Hoyt.

This farce about a chemise, the gift of a husband to his wife just before the two are divorced, follows a long line of comedy ancestors, "Charley's Aunt," a byword in every household for laughter, was one of the Christie hits, "Reckless Romance," "Hold Your Breath," "Seven Days," "Seven Days," and "Madam Behave" are some of the others.

As in the case of "Charley's Aunt," "Seven Days" and "Madam Behave" the basis for "Up in Mabel's Room" is a successful stage farce. Marie Prevost, one of the most piquant and popular of the younger stars was obtained for the leading role of Mabel. In addition a brilliant cast supporting players was chosen for the parts of the husbands, wives, spinsters, bachelors and butlers who are mixed up in the development of the plot and in the fun which follows.

Strand Theatre.

A whizzing melodrama of the open west, with roaring comedy, warm sentiment and romance and more unusual thrills than are ordinarily seen in this ever-popular type of entertainment is "Born to Battle," which comes to the Strand theatre on Sunday with Tom Tyler, F. B. O.'s burly western star and his band of funmakers. The latter group include besides Tom, Frankie Darro, the kid; his pony and the dog, "Sitting Bull," so named because of his penchant for sitting down.

Others in the cast besides Tom and his band of funsters are Jean Arthur, Raymond Childs, Fred Gamsold, Buck Black, Le Roy Mason and Ethan Laidlaw.

Al Kaufman, the well known former heavyweight boxer, is in the cast of "The New Champion," the Perfection feature released by Columbia, which is the second feature on the bill. He supports William Fairbanks and the lovely star, Edith Roberts, in this action-love drama of the ring. In the cast of favorites are Lotus Thompson, Lloyd Whitlock, Frank Ragney, Marion Court and Bert Appling. Reeves Eason directed from a story by Dorothy Howell.

A new comedy completes the programme.

Lyceum Theater, New London

Phill Ott, who is coming to the Lyceum theater, New London as principal comedian with that hilariously successful comedy Kosher Kitty Kelly, is one of the best comedians ever seen in light opera, musical comedy or burlesque, and he is equally at home in all three. He has played in support of Lillian Russell, Fay Templeton, De Wolf Hopper, Francis Wilson, Tom Seabrooke and other famous stars of other days. As the good humored old keeper of a delicatessen store Ott is a flowing fount of laughter.

Fine Moving Pictures at Y. M. C. A.

At 4 o'clock Sunday in the large gymnasium of the Norwich Y. M. C. A. a seven reel impressive moving picture story, "The Goose Hangs High," will be portrayed. The main characters in the picture are Constance Bennett, Myrtle Stedman and George Irving. It is the story of a true picture of American family life, the Ingals parents and children. All their married life inbals and his wife have sacrificed themselves for their children, with the result that the children have grown up, pleasure loving, extravagant and self-centered. Disaster finally threatens the family and the circuds gather thick and fast and the outlook is anything but encouraging and at the crucial moment the children rise to the occasion and prove that they really have within them something worth while to be admired. The story is of the kind that makes a genuine impression that is well worth while. To this service both sexes are invited, but no one under 14 years old is expected. The music will be furnished by Hugh Kinder and a brief talk will be given in line with the picture story.

Christ Episcopal Church.

On Sunday, October 17th, service at Christ Episcopal church will be of special interest. The music will be appropriate to the thoughts of gospel and sermon. Prof. S. H. Whitney's beautiful processional hymn will open the service after organ numbers by Mr. Pierce. The sequence hymn, "Songs of Praise." The sermon hymn, "O Worship the King," by W. W. Croft. "Those Eternal Bowers," by Prof. T. Morley, and the recessional hymn, by A. S. Sullivan, For Thee, O Dear, Dear Country."

Next Week At United Congregational Church.

The King's Daughters will meet in the church school rooms on Tuesday evening.

Articles for the rummage sale at Buckingham Memorial should be left on Wednesday afternoon. Those who desire to have their contributions called for should notify Mrs. Charles T. Bard.

The Camp-Fire is to hold a mother's meeting in the church school rooms at 7:15 o'clock on Friday evening. The mothers of all members of prospective members are most cordially invited to attend.

Foreign exchanges steady; Norwegian Kroner Cross 26 cents.

Cotton barely steady; southern selling.

Sugar easier; increased spot offerings.

Coffee weak; lower Brazilian markets.

Chicago

Wheat lower; weakness Wall street. Corn weak; reduced feeding requirements.

Cattle quiet.

Hogs steady.

DROP IN STOCK PRICES

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Sweeping declines in stock prices ranging from 1 to more than 11 points at the close, took place today as bear traders opened another savage attack on the maret, selling orders poured in heavy volume from all quarters, with resultant decline uncovering stop loss orders and forcing the liquidation of weakened margin accounts. Total sales ran well above 3,000,000 shares.

The chief unsettling incident in the days news was the announcement of further price cuts in the automotive industry, which was already suffering from the effects of een competition. Trade reviews also were less favorable, commenting on "surface irregularities in business and the retarding influences on retail trade resulting from bad weather and uncertain crop conditions.

Hopes that the recent recovery in the stock market would be prolonged were dashed at the outset of trading as speculators for the decline took advantage of automobile price cutting to open a drive against those shares. With General Motors, Hudson, Mack Trucks and other leading issues yielding readily to pressure, they were encouraged to pursue the same hammering tactics against other sections of the list, which were as quickly undermined.

The severity of the selling movement was measured by an extreme decline of more than 5 points in U. S. Steel, although it closed a fraction above the day's low at 138 5-8. General Motors closed 4 1-4 points lower at 149 1-3 and declines of 4 to 6 points took place in such representative issues as Baldwin, Pullman, Woolworth Case Threshing Machine Postum Cereal Atlantic Refining and General Asphalt.

Two of the high priced speculative favorites, U S Cast Iron Pipe and Dupont, suffered the sharpest breaks, although their extreme declines of about 12 points were reduced to about 11 at the close.

Nearly a score of low records for the year were established, mostly by the minor automobile and specialty shares. Hudson, which announced additional price reductions, dropped to 46 1-4 the lowest in more than a year and Moon Motors, Willys Overland preferred, Paige Detroit, Mack Trucks, Electric Refrigeration, Foundation company and Fairbanks Morse were among the others to set 1926 minimum prices.

Railroad stocks withstood selling for a time but soon plunged downward with the rest of the market. Atlantic coast line tumbled more than 7 points to 192 1-4 and closed at 193. Recession of 5 to 6 points in Chesapeake and Ohio, Pere Marquette and Nickel Plate wiped out a large part of yesterday's rallies in the Van Sweringen stocks, and pronounced weakness developed in New York Central, Atchison, Norfolk and Western and othe leaders.

Commodity markets were lower in quiet trading. Fractional declines took place in wheat prices and cotton eased off 9 to 11 points. Coffee and sugar also lost ground.

Call money renewed at 5 per cent and remained at that rate all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Trading in the foreign exchange market was again featured by the rise in Norwegian Kronen to 24.10 the highest reached this year. Spanish pesetas broke sharply to 15.16 off about 87 points on the day. With the price of silver at the lowest level this year, Chinese currencies dropped sharply. Brazilian milreis also were depressed to the lowest level in some time.

TAFTVILLE

There was an attendance of 50 at the opening meeting of the Men's club of the Taftville Congregational church held Thursday evening in the vestry. The speaker of the evening was Rev. William J. Reynolds, pastor of the Newent Congregational church. Rev. Mr. Reynolds gave a short talk on Dahlia Growing. He is proprietor of the Pilgrim Dahlia Gardens, and is considered quite an expert in the raising of fine flora' specimens in the dahlia family. His talk was very instructive and valuable. Later he spoke on the Americanism of Theodore Roosevelt, sketching the life of that great man, and pointing out the outstanding qualities of his character.

At the business meeting, John .D. Sharples was elected president of the club and, Robert E. Cooper, secretary and treasurer. The executive committee consists of Eugene H. Nafle, Richard B. Snow and Thomas Grimshaw. Refreshments of cake, sandwiches and coffee were served after the meeting, and a smoker was enjoyed.

Archie Michon of Merchants avenue has resigned his position with the No. 4 weaving department of the Ponemah mills.

The clergy of Sacred Heart church have just completed their annual census of families of the parish.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubes. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

RECOMMENDS SALE OF FAIR GROUNDS TO CLEAR UP FINANCIAL DIFFICULTIES

Sale of the fairgrounds to pay off two mortgages and all outstanding debts of the New London County Agricultural society is recommended in the report of the society's committee, named to suggest some plan by which sufficient funds could be raised to take care of the deficit in the society's finances. The committee was appointed at a meeting of the society held October 1st. Those named on the committee were Albert W. Lillibridge, Thomas F. Burns and James E. Lathrop. The society's deficit is about $9,000.

Friday morning at 11 o'clock an adjourned meeting was called to order in the town hall by President Charles H. Bushnell for the purpose of hearing the committee's report on the matter of finances. The report which was signed by Albert W. Lillibridge and Thomas F. Burns is as follows:

To the Life Members of the New London County Agricultural Society:

Your committee appointed at the special meeting held the 1st to suggest means to raise money to meet unpaid bills desire to report as follows:

We hoped to be able to suggest some plan by which this deficit could be paid but do not find sufficient interest or enthusiasm among the members to carry through such a plan.

A third mortgage would only add to the annual interest charge which is now one of the hardest payments we have to meet.

It seems to be almost impossible to operate a fair such as ours has grown to be, with the proceeds of a three days' fair. Our large and well equipped plant should yield a revenue and be used more than three days of the year.

After a full consideration of the question we think that a reorganization is the only way out of the present embarrassing situation and we would suggest a sale of the property at a price sufficient to realize an amount to pay two mortgages and all outstanding indebtedness.

ALBERT W. LILLIBRIDGE
THOMAS F. BURNS.

Norwich, Conn., Oct. 15, 1926.

Mr. Lathrop, the third member of the committee did not sign the report by resolution introduced by Patrick F. Sweeney, manager Bushnell was authorized and instructed to call a special meeting of the society for the purpose of authorizing the proposed sale of the fairgrounds. It was voted that the special meeting be held Friday evening, October 29, at the town hall.

Gilbert S. Raymond, secretary of the society, read two letters, one from John D. Avery who suggested that a joint note be given for a third mortgage, and one from E. D. Whitting of Mystic, recommending a sale of the property to pay the society's debts.

Treasurer Albert J. Bailey offered two suggestions, to raise money by public subscription or to reorganize. Mr. Bailey said he thought it would be difficult to raise the money by public subscription but he thought it might be possible to raise enough to pay the indebtedness.

According to Mr. Bailey the only feasible plan would be reorganization.

In order to do this it would be necessary to call a special meeting to find out if they see fit to sell the grounds, preference to be given to the people in the society.

Then stock at $100 a share could be sold, just enough to cover the bond issue and indebtedness, approximately $32,000. Even $35,000 or $40,000 worth of stock, if necessary, could be sold if four per cent. was given to the stockholders it would mean $1600, and this wouldn't mean any more than the interest now on the indebtedness of the society at this time.

If necessary cognine and the interest is not paid on the bonds the property may be forced to sell their property after 60 days' grace, as required by law.

The formation of a stock corporation, similar to that now in vogue on the Danbury fair, was suggested by Mr. Bailey. This fair pays its stockholders about 40 per cent dividends. Their stock cannot be purchased at any price.

George Dolbeare said that if the fair was run the way the people wanted it run it would make out better. He was in favor of the property being sold to the highest bidder.

The committee's report was accepted.

After the meeting it was stated that the proposed sale of the property and the financial difficulties of the society have nothing to do with the holding of a fair next year. In the opinion of many of those present the matter will be straightened out within a short time.

PREPARING FOR TRAFFIC TO FOOTBALL GAMES

The big football games this fall in the Yale bowl, beginning with the Yale-Dartmouth encounter today (Saturday) are expected to bring into the traffic on Connecticut highways nearly 35,000 automobiles, or approximately one-sixth as many pleasure cars as are registered in the state. A large proportion of these cars carrying football enthusiasts to New Haven will be from out-of-state points and will be in addition to the normal Connecticut traffic, to say nothing of the many Connecticut-registered cars in the processions which do not figure regularly in state highway traffic.

The long lines of automobiles proceeding from practically all directions on the main trunk line highways will create an unusual traffic problem, especially in and about New Haven, where the traffic lines converge, and to prevent confusion and accidents, so far as possible, the state motor vehicle, highway and police departments have entered into arrangements with the Yale Athletic association, the Connecticut company, the New Haven and West Haven police and the New Haven Automobile club to direct traffic in an orderly fashion.

The state departments interested have acted upon the best main routes through various parts of Connecticut to the New Haven city line. These routes have been designated on handy cards provided by the state which the athletic association will enclose in all envelopes in which tickets will be mailed for the Yale-Army and Yale Harvard games.

The New Haven authorities mentioned take up the directions at the New Haven city line, where the state authorities stop. The Connecticut company has provided a traffic map of New Haven for inclusion in the envelopes with tickets. This map shows the streets that ought to be followed by automobilists going to the game by the various trunk line routes designated by the state, and the trolley routes. In addition, white arrows on blue backgrounds pointing the way, to the Yale Bowl have been advantageously placed on poles and trees along the routes within the city. On the reverse side of the map leaflet appears a detail map on a larger scale showing the Yale Bowl and the relation of its different portals and gates to the surrounding streets, routes and official parking places.

The state highway department has so arranged its trunk line work to expedite traffic on the main routes to New Haven and recommendations of the motor vehicle department have been carried out. Every available state policeman has been assigned to state highway traffic duty for the days of the most important games, and men will be posted at dangerous locations.

POMONA MEETING TO BE WITH KONOMOC GRANGE

The next regular meeting of New London County Pomona grange, No. 6, Patrons of Husbandry, will be held with Konomoc grange, No. 41, Thursday, October 21, at the auditorium of the Baptist church in Waterford. There will be morning and afternoon sessions and dinner will be served by the women of Konomoc grange in the church parlors.

The programme for the afternoon sessions will be as follows: Xylophone selections by Grace W. Hine, worthy state ceres; greetings by Louis P. Rodman, worthy lecturer of the Rhode Island state grange; reading by Merle V. Wade, Lebanon; address, Charles M. Gardiner, worthy high priest demeter; echoes from the conference, Alitha Y. Brown, Norwich; entertaining numbers by the members of Konomoc grange. Mr. H. Bartlett is the master of the county Pomona and the lecturer is Mrs. L. B. Whitham.

ORGANIST ERB GAVE PAPER ON COLONIAL MUSIC

The Woman's Guild of the United Congregational church held its regular monthly business meeting Friday afternoon at the social rooms of the United church. Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, Jr., conducted the meeting as president of the Guild. Routine business matters were transacted.

Dr. J. Lawrence Erb, recently secured as organist of the United church gave a splendid paper on Colonial Church Music, illustrating it with piano selections. There was a good sized attendance at the meeting which proved a most profitable one.

NEW GOSPEL MISSION IS OPENED IN CITY

A new Gospel Mission has lately been opened at 46 Broadway under the name of The Door of Hope Mission. The leader of the enterprise is Rev. Thos. Peabody of Meadewood, and it is supported by a small group of men who are anxious to make the venture a success.

There are no paid workers and no collections are taken at the services. The expenses are met by gifts of people who are interested in the work.

A sermon will be preached every Sunday afternoon by different ministers and evangelists. Emphasis is placed upon the ministry of prayer. Prayer will be constantly made for the success of all evangelical Christian work in Norwich and elsewhere. The study and practice of divine healing as taught in the New Testament will be a part of the work of the mission.

The Door of Hope stands for the "Four square Gospel" Salvation through the blood of Christ, baptism of the Holy Spirit, divine healing, and the second coming of Christ.

The weekly services of the mission are as follows: On Sunday: Service of prayer at 2 o'clock. Praise service Sermon and Testimonies at 3:30. Service of Divine Healing at 7:30. Wednesday evening, Prayer and Testimony meeting at 7:30.

RETURNED FROM EXTENSIVE TOUR ON WEDDING TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bullard of Temple Spring Farm, Montville, have returned from a delightful wedding trip on which they visited the Sesquicentennial at Philadelphia and declare the sights there are well worth seeing. From there they went to Annapolis, visited Baltimore and, thence to Washington, D. C., where they spent some time visiting Arlington cemetery, public buildings etc. From Washington, the travellers went on to Virginia, dipping into West Virginia and from thence to Gettysburg, Pa. In Winchester Va. and Martinsburg, W. Va., they were greatly interested in the immense apple orchards, loaded with fruit.

At Gettysburg, Pa., where they procured a guide who took them over the famous battle fields, rendering the visit there both profitable and impressive. The next place visited was Harrisburg, Pa., then on to see the Crystal Cave near Kutztown, Pa. From there they went to Poughkeepsie, N. Y., to visit the De Laval factories, where they were taken in charge by the superintendent of the works, who showed them every courtesy. Then they turned the car homeward, arriving safely about nine in the evening, voting the trip a complete success.

THREE DIVORCES GRANTED ON UNCONTESTED LIST

Three uncontested divorces were granted by Judge Newell Jennings at the short calendar session of the superior court, in New London Friday.

Ada Riggs Bouchard of Waterford was granted a divorce from Augustin J. Bouchard on the grounds of desertion. They were married in October, 1922 with desertion alleged since May 14, 1923. She was also given the custody of one minor child.

On the grounds of desertion alleged since March 1, 1923, Katherine M. Bates of New London was given a divorce from Leo Lanson Bates. She was also given the custody of three minor children. Attorney Perry J. Hollandersky appeared for the plaintiff.

Florence Spenser O'Neill of New London was given a divorce from Maurice O'Neill on the grounds of desertion. They were married in 1918 and the defendant was alleged to have deserted her the day after their marriage.

Bismuth Meal

One of its drawbacks in the use of X-ray photography in surgery has been that the internal organs do not show up on the plate nearly so boldly as solid parts, such as the bones. This difficulty has been partly surmounted by giving the patient a meal containing a proportion of bismuth an hour or so prior to the operation.

The capacity of this bismuth causes most of the organs to stand out boldly, but even so it is ineffective for certain parts of the human organism, such as the ileum. Quite recently, however, a scientific worker discovered that a certain oil, the name of which has not been disclosed, injected a few hours prior to the operation renders the lung cavities clearly visible.

BOOKS SHOWN AT SESQUI FROM PENNIMAN LIBRARIES

The Philadelphia Public Ledger says:

Many rare books of great educational and historical value belonging to the Maria Hosmer Penniman Memorial Library of Education, University of Pennsylvania, are on display at the university's exhibit at the Sesqui-Centennial.

This collection, however, represents only a small portion of the entire Penniman library, which is housed in Bennett Hall, at 34th and Walnut streets, the building which houses the School of Education at the university. Here thousands of volumes covering every phase of the field of education, including many valuable early first editions and examples of fine printing and binding, are available for use by the students.

The library was given to the university by James Hosmer Penniman, international authority on Washington and book philanthropist, in memory of his mother, Maria Hosmer Penniman, who died in Philadelphia in 1914.

Dr. Penniman is constantly adding new volumes to the collection. He attends numerous auctions and has agents and friends in all parts of the world collecting rare volumes for him. But those he does not keep stored away on dusty shelves in his home—he sends them directly to the various libraries in which he is interested—principally the Maria Hosmer Penniman collection and the main library at the University of Pennsylvania.

The books as they arrive in Philadelphia are allowed to accumulate only until a truckload is ready. Then they are classified and sent to the university. In this way many valuable additions have been made to incomplete sets and collections at the university, proving extremely valuable for research work by graduate students.

Dr. Penniman, who is a brother of Dr. Josiah H. Penniman, president and provost of the university, has also established libraries in honor of his father and mother at Yale and Brown universities.

The Yale collection is the largest of the three which bear the Penniman name, numbering more than 80,000 volumes. Andrew Keogh, librarian at Yale has acknowledged Dr. Penniman's services to the university, mentioning among other facts, that he has established many, which although instituted only in 1920, has already become an important part of Yale's literary resources.

The library at Brown university is known as the Penniman Memorial Library of Education. That, too is constantly receiving gifts of books from its founder.

Virtually all of Dr. Penniman's reading is confined to books and research on George Washington's life. He is present at work on a new volume dealing with Washington.

LAYS BRANDEGEE DEATH TO FEAR OF CANCER

Two years ago Thursday morning Senator Frank B. Brandegee of New London was found dead, a suicide in the bedroom of a friend's home in Washington, D. C. Since then no entirely [illegible] explanation of his action has been given to the public. Money troubles, whose existence has been denied by his family, as it one or two other rumors dealing with political matters have been circulated, was a special dispatch from Washington.

In the light of the continuing speculation as to the cause of the unexpected tragedy, an explanation given by one of the late senators relatives, the first of his few relatives to speak is of live interest. "I believe that cancer of the throat, which the senator was told would be fatal, was the reason for this act," said this relative. "I have talked with the servants and others who came in close association with Frank Brandegee. I have gathered every bit of information I could, I have found that the senator made trips to a doctor in New York, whose name I have not been able to get. I suspect that this doctor told Mr. Brandegee he had cancer of the throat and could not live long.

"I don't think that money troubles were the cause. The senator's estate will probably pay 100 cents on the dollar. I don't think nerves or sleeplessness was the cause. He always had a remarkable faculty of forgetting his worries and sleeping soundly every night. Money worries would not keep him awake. I have known him to play the market and have a large sum of money up, which he would lose or double by what the market did in the next few days, and then go away, and casually leave 'the bag,' as the saying goes, for someone else to watch.

"Just a few days before the tragedy I got a cheerful letter from him. No mention of money matters. No. I believe that the knowledge that he had cancer of the throat, from which a sister of his died—and an aunt also had it, I think—and the further knowledge that little could be done for him, led to his act," stated this relative.

Dr. Charels W. Richardson, Washington throat expert, whom Brandegee had visited several times, although not for three months before his suicide, declared, it might be stated, that the senator had no sign of cancer so far as he knew. The senator had had a throat irritation for a long time and used a spray, which was on his study mantle when he died.

Furthermore to give other bits of light which have come out, the senator went to President Coolidge a few weeks before the suicide and told him of some troubles he had. Mr. Coolidge recommended walks as an aid to health but Brandegee, it is stated, said that he had some circulatory trouble in his leg, could not walk far, and in fact feared the leg might have to be amputated some time. Some thing this leg trouble caused suicide.

The president is understood to have suggested to the late Secretary of War Weeks and Col. George Harvey, the former ambassador, that they consult with the senator and try and help him with his financial worries. Anyway, the two did this, and the week before the tragedy saw Brandegee about every day and told him they would take care of his money worries. They found him, it is said, in a highly nervous state.

The Brandegee estate will probably pay 100 cents on the dollar. All that remains is to sell one remaining parcel of real estate in nearby Maryland. It is unusual to keep an estate open two years but the creditors in this instance approved of the plan, thinking that more might be realized in this way.

PICTURE WITH TALKS ON LABOR'S REWARD

Two addresses and an interesting moving picture were features of a labor meeting held Friday evening at the Strand theatre under the auspices of the Norwich Central Labor union. The theatre was crowded to the doors with men, women and children, no admission being charged. Preceding the meeting union bandsmen gave a short street parade and concert. About 8 o'clock, William Donahue, president of the Norwich Central Labor union, called the meeting to order and after a few words of welcome to the large crowd introduced Patrick F. O'Meara, president of the Connecticut Federation of Labor.

Mr. O'Meara gave a stirring talk on the workmen's compensation act and on the pension fund. He urged his listeners to interview the candidates for the general assembly and to find out how they "stand" in regard to improvements for workers. We are proud of the standard organized labor has created here in Connecticut, he said. Don't forget to organize the unorganized and always plead for better conditions for the workers, said Mr. O'Meara.

Following Mr. O'Meara's talk there was a reel of moving pictures showing numerous union labels and cards and urging the public to purchase only union-made goods.

A talk by Otto Nicols of the United Garment Workers followed. Mr. Nicols talking on Labor's Reward. He spoke along historical lines, telling of the beginning, aims and accomplishment of the union. At the close of his talk there was another motion picture, entitled Labor's Reward, this being the feature screen attraction. The picture showed plants employing union labor under excellent working conditions as compared with poor working conditions in plants employing non-union help. It also showed the marvelous changes brought about by organized labor in a plant that had been an "open" shop.

Edward Brennan's orchestra furnish music in the theatre during the evening. The committee in charge comprised William Donahue, Robert W. McNeely, James Johnson, Edward Tiber, Joseph Desmond, John Vetter, William Moore and John Stoddard. The use of the theatre was loaned by A. Davidson, proprietor of the Strand and the musicians and moving picture operator donated their services.

FALL MEETING BY WOMEN'S COLLEGE CLUBS

On the invitation of President Benjamin T. Marshall of Connecticut college, the fall meeting of the State Federation of the American association of University Women and College clubs will be held today (Saturday) at the college at New London.

President Marshall was the principal speaker at the spring meeting which was held in Meriden and at that time he invited the federation to hold one of its meetings at Connecticut college. The invitation was accepted and it was decided that the fall meeting should be held there. It is expected that about 200 members will be present.

The program will begin with a business meeting of the delegates from various clubs of the state in Knowlton house at 11 o'clock in the morning. At 1 o'clock a luncheon arranged by the New London branch of University Women will be served in Knowlton house. Mrs. Thomas F. Dorsey, Jr., president of the branch, will make a short speech of welcome and introduce Henry W. Lawrence, head of the history department at Connecticut college, and Miss Irene Nye, dean of the faculty, who are to be the speakers.

At the afternoon meeting, which begins at 2:30 in Knowlton house, addresses will be given by Prof. Irving Fisher of the department of political economy at Yale and Miss Florence Angell, secretary of the international relations committee of the A. A. U. W. Professor Fisher will talk on America's interest in World Peace. Miss Angell will report on the conference of the international relations committee which she attended in Europe this summer.

After the meeting tea will be served in the faculty room of the college library which will be followed by an important meeting of the Norwich College club.

Norwich Produce Market

Furnished by the Connecticut Commissioner of Agriculture.

A very few native peaches are offered at $1.35 per basket and moderate supplies of pears with apples in plenty. Cranberries are a little lower but oranges remain high. Native grapes continue in moderate supply with those from New York state increasing 20c per 8 lb. and $1.15 per 18 lb. baskets.

Native beans are limited but a few green string offered at $2.00, wax $2.25 and limas $3.00-$3.50. Tomatoes are also very limited and considerably higher. Moderate supplies of sweet corn are still offered at somewhat higher prices while cauliflower is in plenty and cheaper. White potatoes have advanced a little but sweets continue easy.

Poultry remains steady but fresh eggs are very scarce and are advancing in price while butter remains firm.

Dressed meats generally are a little easier and grain remains unchanged.

SURPRISE GIFTS FRIDAY FOR MR. AND MRS. JOHN IRISH

On reaching their home, 146 Laurel Hill avenue Friday evening, after a complimentary dinner on their 60th wedding anniversary given by Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Morgan, of East Lyme, Mr. and Mrs. John Irish found several pleasant surprises awaiting them.

The first of these was a box of beautiful roses from the owner of the property, 331 Main street, originally the Asa Nash home, where they were married Oct. 15, 1866. The building became part of the Charles Richards estate and is now owned by Mr. Richards' daughter, Mrs. Albert H. Chase of Sachem terrace, who sent a message of felicitation with the roses.

Early Friday morning Mr. and Mrs. Irish received an airplane letter of greeting from the latter's nephew, George Norris Nash of Berkeley, Cal., a native of Norwich. A telegram came to them from their nephew and niece, Harry G. and Evelyn Nash Campbell of Evanston, Ill. Cards, letters and other gifts brought congratulations from friends.

Mr. Irish stood the motor trip to East Lyme Friday very well and showed few traces of fatigue, although he is 86. Mrs. Irish will be 80 on Oct. 30.

FRENCH RADICALS VOTE FOR RATIFICATION OF DEBT PACT

Decision Reached After Four Days' Conference—Also Vote Support For the Poincare Cabinet on Questions Affecting Stabilization of the Franc—A group led by M. Franklin Bouillon May Bolt the Chamber When the Subject Comes Up in That House.

BORDEAUX, France, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Ratification of the Washington debt agreement with reservations respecting safeguard and transfer clauses, and support for the Poincare cabinet on questions immediately affecting stabilization of the franc and improvement of France's economic and financial situation were two important decisions reached by the radical party in the course of a four days' conference which ended today.

M. Caillaux, former finance minister, in an impassioned plea for ratification, carried his point against those who had come to Bordeaux prepared to vote rejection pure and simple.

The resolution voted by the congress relative to the debt agreement was as follows:

"The congress deems that in the ratification of the Washington agreement reservations must be stipulated insuring either that France does not pay in any case to the United States or Great Britain more than she receives from her European debtors, or in the event that dissensions arise between the governments the matter must be referred to arbitration, limiting transfers during a given period in such a manner as not to jeopardize the monetary stability of the franc.

"These reservations must be expressed in such a manner that there can be no misunderstanding of their meaning at Washington or in American public opinion."

The decisions were unanimous, but a group led by M. Franklin Bouillon was not reconciled, and may bolt the chamber when the subject comes up in that house.

Maurice Sarraut was elected president of the party in place of Edouard Herriot, resigned.

TO CONCLUDE INVESTIGATION OF ILLINOIS $1,000,000 PRIMARY

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—(AP)—In the midst of a bitter senatorial fight in Illinois, involving republican, democratic and independent candidates as well as the Anti-Saloon League, national and state, the senate campaign funds committee will re-assemble here tomorrow for the announced purpose of winding up the inquiry into Illinois $1,000,000 primary last May.

There is keen interest as to whether the committee will delve into the present campaign and into the situation in Indiana where there have been charges of political control by the Ku Klux Klan through United States senators during the regime of D. C. Stephenson as grand dragon.

Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, the chairman, who must play a lone hand in this inqury in the absence of the other four members of the special senate committee, has given no intimation of his plans beyond the announcement that if charges other than those bearing on the Illinois primary are presented they will be given due consideration.

Endorsement by the national and the Anti-Saloon League of the candidacy of Frank L. Smith, republican senatorial nominee, has stirred up a veritable row in the state largely because of the testimony given before the Reed committee last summer that half of Smith's $750,000 campaign fund was contributed by Samuel Insull, public utilities official whom Smith was chairman of the state commerce commission which has control over utilities rates. This action of the Anti-Saloon Leagues likely will be touched upon by Senator Reed during the examination of Dr. George B. Stafford, head of the state organization. When on the stand before the inquiry last summer, Dr. Stafford testified that his organization endorsed both Smith and Senator William B. McKinley, defeated in the May primary.

TROTZKY TO ABIDE BY RULES OF CONGRESS OF COMMUNISTS

MOSCOW, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Quick to realize the threat of punishment by the general executive committee of the communist party, intimated in an editorial of the Pravda on Friday, Leon Trotzky and other opposition leaders of the party have expressed regrets for their denunciation of the party leaders.

In a signed statement issued from the Kremlin, headquarters of the party early this morning, Trotzky, Kamenoff, Piatakoff, Zinovieff, Sokolnikoff and Evdokimov made known their decision to capitulate, admitting that their actions threatened the unity of the party and undertaking to abide by the rules and decisions laid down at the congress of the communist party.

At the same time they made a plea in behalf of their many comrades who recently have been expelled for supporting the opposition. Taking the responsibility for the action of obscure followers, the leaders express the hope that they will be readmitted to the party. The signatures also appear to the groups throughout the nation that have supported the opposition to cease immediately their activities against the central executive committee.

SHOT A WOMAN, THEN ATTEMPTED SUICIDE

KLINE, N. H., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Mrs. Eugenia of Berwick, Me., was shot and fatally wounded in the head, admitted today, county officials said, that he shot Mrs. Celina Cheever of Claremont and then attempted suicide. Mrs. Cheever is under treatment at the same hospital with Giles' wounds in her body. It was said both would recover.

When Higgins and Mrs. Cheever were found last night in the railroad yards here, both told police the shooting was accidental. Today, County Solicitor William Harry Watson said, the youth changed his story. A police guard was placed at his bedside and a warrant was sworn out charging assault with a dangerous weapon. Watson said Higgins told him he was infatuated with Mrs. Cheever and did not wish her to return to her husband in Claremont. Last night, as they were about to board a train for Claremont, he faced two shots at the woman and then turned the pistol on himself.

HAS REACHED NEWBURGH IN SWIM DOWN HUDSON

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Mrs. Lottie Moore Schoonmuel, who is swimming down the Hudson from Albany to New York, reached Garrison, opposite here, this afternoon. She completed the 18 miles from Newburgh in five hours and 15 minutes.

She will resume her swim tomorrow.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 17.—(AP)— The department of customs and excises announced today that two Worlds Monthly published in New York city, has been barred from Canada as an undesirable publication.

MOTHER KILLS HER THREE CHILDREN, THEN SUICIDES

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Because she believed she had failed in her duty as a mother, Mrs. Ada M. Chamberlain, wife of John M. Chamberlain, Los Angeles attorney put to death three children, the oldest of whom was nine years of age and then ended her own life.

Police report that before putting her children to death the mother had treated them to a picture show. Returning to the rented house, she placed them in bed, gave them sleeping powders, and then turned on the gas. She went into an adjoining room and wrote four notes.

She wrote that the two little girls, Edwina, nine, and Deanwyn, seven, passed away quietly, but that the two John, Jr., four, moaned five times. After finishing her writing the mother calmly walked to her death in the gas filled chamber.

In one of her notes, addressed to newspaper reporters, Mrs. Chamberlain explained that she could not let her children live in a world for which she had failed to prepare them.

"I was capable of being a good mother, but just failed to put that days first. Maude Adams said a girl cannot meet life worth without a definite religious and home training. So I knew and we all know. Let us have quiet, peaceful homes, fewer and better children," the message concluded.

To her husband she wrote:

"Girls took sleep tablets willing was a gamble. I put out their lights. Please put their coats on with the fronts open and cremate us. You cannot be happy and dying holds no terror for me. I simply must not let these children live."

TWO MISSING BOYS RESTORED TO FAMILIES

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Two of three 15 year old boys, missing since a week ago Thursday, were restored to their families today and the police of Peekskill, Mass., are expecting hourly to find the third.

The boys found are Landon Ash, 15, of Buffalo and Francis S. B. Darlington of Augusta, Conn. The Ashley boy was turned over to his parents, who came from Buffalo to get him, and to Darlington boy to his brother-in-law, who drove over from Bridgeport, Conn.

According to the account the boys gave to the police, after on the school last Monday, intending to become cowboys in Texas. Two carried hunting knives and the third a revolver. They reached Worcester, Mass., by train, and then hiked and begged rides as far as Peekskill. Finding the cold too severe last night, Ashley and Darlington left Stacey Clark Hill, son of F. G. Clark Hill, Akron, Ohio, trying to sleep beside the road and decided to hunt shelter. They ran into a Peekskill policeman.

SHANGHAI PREPARES FOR DEFENSE AGAINST CANTONESE

SHANGHAI, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Shanghai, considered the prize port and pivoted point in numerous campaigns conducted by rival Chinese generals for five years, today became an armed camp once more, ready to wage defensive warfare against the advancing Cantonese army which has been blazing a path of death and destruction from the south.

The defender of this gateway port of China, General Sun Chuan-Fang, who controls the five eastern Chinese provinces, today faced two major reverses, the loss of a munitions ship at Kiukiang, and the defection of Hsia Chow, civil governor of Chekiang province, who was reported in revolt at Mang Chow.

The munitions ship, the Kuang Young, was blown up in the Yangtze river, Saturday with the loss of 1,200 of the 1,500 troops aboard. This is considered a major misfortune for General Sun.

CAMPAIGN SPEECH BY SENATOR P. G. GERRY

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 17.—(AP)—United States Senator Peter G. Gerry of Rhode Island, chairman of the democratic national senatorial committee today declared that a democratic majority in the senate would mean a "return to party government and the doing away with the bloc system which now exists."

"Our American government was founded on a two-party system," he continued, "the majority to lay down its policies and to be responsible for them; the minority to criticize and so bring before the public the weakness of the majority's program.

"Under this system the public could determine which program they favored, and at the election change the government if they saw fit, with the knowledge of what that change would mean in legislation. With the bloc system consisting of three or more groups there is no responsibility or no sureness of any policy being carried out."

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos has issued a manifesto to the Greek people announcing his definite withdrawal from political life.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—(AP)—H. H. Bassett, vice president of the General Motors Corporation, died this morning in the American hospital at Neuilly. He had been ill only a few days, with bronchial pneumonia in both lungs.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 17.—(AP)—The Belgian cabinet council tomorrow will make final decision concerning stabilization of the franc. It is expected the entire matter will be settled. Decrees are ready for the king's signature before he embarks for Stockholm on October 20.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—(AP)—M. Painleve, war minister, officially informed the cabinet council today that the war in Morocco is completely over. He asstated that the repatriation of the troops would be completed by November 20, and that the forces remaining in Morocco would be on the peace basis of 1921.

TREND OF CRIME DOWNWARD IN THE UNITED STATES

PITTSBURGH Pa., Oct. 17.—(AP)—The general volume of crime is on the downward trend in the United States, in the opinion of Sanford Bates, commissioner of correction of Massachusetts. Bates, president of the American Prison association, which is holding its annual convention here, also believes that the crime-dealing machinery of the present day should be reorganized to meet the changed conditions of modern life.

"The so-called crime wave has not increased in the last ten years," he said. "There are certain spectacular crimes, such as bank holdups, but the general volume is decreasing. There has been a diminution of vagrancy and drunkenness.

"The problem confronting us today is to adopt the crime-dealing machinery of the 20th century to meet the changing conditions. During the last 10 years the number of automobiles has increased many times and the recovery has been widely circulated. This is no reason for the American public to become terrorized because there are a great number of law abiding citizens."

The freedom granted the youth of today and the liberties allowed by new methods were blamed in part by the Massachusetts official for the crime conditions.

Comparing the criminal of the past and present, Bates said there were bold criminals in the United States today. "But none come up with Jesse James. The characters are different and methods are dissimilar to those employed by old notorious criminals."

BADY OF MISSING MAN WAS FOUND IN WOODS

STAMFORD, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Two days' search for the body of John Schmidt, 67, of Old Mill road, who has been missing from his home since Thursday morning, was brought to a close this noon when the body of the old man was found in the woodlands of the premises of E. P. Brown, owned by Webb & Knapp and by Mr. Brown, who followed one of the two dogs which the missing man had taken with him.

The body was found lying under a tree on a knoll about three-quarters of a mile from the Webb Hill road. Medical Examiner Ralph W. Crandall pronounced death as due to exhaustion and exposure. Since his disappearance on Thursday, hundreds of neighbors, friends of the man, and Boy Scouts have been scouring the woods in the vicinity for a trace of him.

HAS SIMPLE REMEDIES FOR BAIL BOND BUSINESS

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Two simple remedies would if enforced, put an end to the flagrant abuses of the bail bond business in New York city, according to a letter made public today from the prison committee of the Association of Grand Jurors of New York county to Caleb S. Baumes, chairman of the New York crime commission. The suggested remedies are:

"Individuals personally writing more than two criminal bail bonds per month and putting up personal cash security or real estate as collateral therefore, are, in effect, transacting an insurance business and should be compelled to meet the capital requirements of the New York state insurance law.

"Discretionary commissioner-compensated agents of corporate surety companies themselves writing criminal bail bonds constitute a potential and actual hazard to the administration of justice in New York city and should be abolished."

PARTNER OF SLAIN GANGSTER UNDER ARREST IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Vincent "Schemer" Drucci, partner of Earl "Hymie" Weiss, gang leader slain a week ago when ambushed by rival gangsters armed with a machine gun was arrested here today at a professional football game.

With Drucci, detectives apprehended Julian "Potatoes" Kafman, son of a wealthy commission merchant, and Harry Sorge, both of whom are members of the Drucci-Weiss gang faction, according to the police.

All three denied knowledge of how Weiss came to his death and said they did not know who killed him. Drucci also denied that he has connection with an organization handling illicit liquor while his companions said they were respectable business men who just happened to be in Drucci's company.

Less Cheerful View [illegible] of Business [illegible]ion

There is a Tendency to Question the Duration of the Current Period of Prosperity.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(AP)—With a contradictory element in the trade situation obscuring the real trend of affairs, business sentiment last week began to crystalize in a less cheerful vein. Despite the prospect of a large volume of business for the remainder of the year, there was a more pronounced tendency to question the duration of the current period of prosperity and a more critical attitude governing the appraisal of the next year's outlook.

Whereas the month of October last year, as well as in 1924, was marked by a rising tide of business which was carried on to the end of the year, the first two weeks of the present month have failed to reveal a satisfactory parallel. General business has been temporarily unsettled by the pre-war pauses prevailing for the record-breaking cotton crop, which has cut into the purchasing power of a large section of the country. As a result, the confidence which existed a few weeks ago has been generally replaced by indecision.

Summing up the doubts of financial and industrial leaders, Leonard P. Ayres, vice-president of the Cleveland Trust Co. advanced the prediction that the current month would decide whether the present period well sustained prosperity had begun to give way to a long, slow decline in business, or whether instead this span of good times would be still further extended.

FIFTH ARREST MADE IN PITTSBURGH BANK CASE

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 17.—(AP)—A fifth arrest was made today in Pittsburgh's nearly half million dollar bond fraud and detectives were sent to Detroit and Buffalo to apprehend Charles E. Knapp, who disappeared Friday with between $325,000 and $425,000 [illegible] of which belonged to the Brotherhood Savings and Trust company, a labor institution.

FIRE DAMAGED STOCK IN LEONARD BROS. GARAGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 17—Damage estimated at between $4,000 and $5,000 was caused in the automobile tire stock room and repair shop, located in the basement of Leonard Bros. Garage, Inc., at the corner of Main and Walnut street, about 10.30 o'clock Sunday morning when gasoline being used in vulcanizing tires burst into flames. Peter Gagnon and Raymond Angier were engaged in repairing tires and were using the vulcanizing outfit when in some manner the gasoline ignited. The flames spread rapidly and a hurried telephone call to Engine company No. 1, one block away, brought the department to the scene within a few minutes. Under direction of Fire Chief Henry J. Kelly, two lines of hose were connected with a hydrant on the curbing of the sidewalk adjoining the garage and the blaze was quickly checked. Although some of the wooden frames were partly burned and the windows and sills of the basement were broken and damaged, the bulk of the loss is caused by the heating of the new tire stock and repair equipment.

HOTEL CAMPAIGNERS NOT TO HOLD "HOUSE WARMING"

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 17—Having put over a big accomplishment for Willimantic, the 147 volunteer stock salesmen who disposed of the Community Hotel corporation stock that the Nathan Hale hotel might be built, are apparently willing to "let it go at that," and have signified so by declining to purchase tickets for a house-warming and campaigners' reunion at the hotel. Manager Daniel F. Daley had prepared an elaborate menu to be served at a special banquet for the salesmen this Monday evening at cost price. But the workers showed a lack of interest and of appetite and the proposed banquet has been officially cancelled.

A special city meeting has been called by Mayor John C. Tracy, to be held Tuesday evening when matters of appropriating and authorizing the common council to appropriate the additional sum of $5,000 for the construction of sidewalks in the city and also an appropriation of $5,000 for the purchase of a Mack automobile truck for the use of the city come up for action.

The voters are also to be asked to take action on question of using as much of the $110,000 already appropriated for the permanent construction of West Main and Bridge streets, as shall remain unexpended, in constructing permanent pavement on lower Main street, east of the railroad crossing between Thread Mill square and the eastern end of the present permanent paving or lower Main street.

The third week of union religious services opened Sunday with a big mass meeting in the First Congregational church, when Rev. Milton S. Rees, who is conducting the services, spoke on "Twentieth Century Sodom" in which he drove home a straightforward and timely message. At 7.30 o'clock in the evening the regular service was held with the sermon on the subject, "What Will the Loss Be?" Mr Rees conducted the music solos, duets and quartette and also led in orchestral selections.

WINDHAM HAS 210 NEW VOTERS FOR ELECTIONS

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 17—Thirty-eight new voters, equally divided as to sex, were made Saturday, the final date for making new voters for the coming state election on November 2nd. This number added to that of those sworn in last Saturday and one month ago for the town election, makes a total of 210 new Windham voters. Selectmen Ernest P. Chesbro and Jeremiah Healy with Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton were on the job all day and evening but business was comparatively light.

New voters were likewise being sworn in the border towns of Windham. Coventry stood in the limelight with 62 new voters made in the south parish. The boat met at the north parish Saturday and brought the total for the town to about 100. Mansfield climbed to about the 60 mark and Hampton was low with about one dozen.

Minstrel Echoes will be staged at the Capitol theatre here next month by San Jose council, No. 14, Knights of Columbus, and the committee of arrangements has been selected as follows: Andrew J. Carey, chairman; J. Francis Moriarty, James Healy, Joseph F. Gaudreau, Ralph H. Gibson, Albert J. Piche, Robert E. Casey, Francis Savage, Paul Moran and Arthur P. Bergeron.

The proposed boom for the S. C. S. Box company, which was mentioned in The Bulletin a few weeks ago, began to formulate when the stockholders of the Willimantic Development company, met in the chamber of commerce rooms last week and voted to increase the capital stock from $50,000 to $100,000. It was further voted to place new stock on sale in an attempt to build a large addition to the plant now used by the S. C. S. Box company on Moulton court and to lease the addition to the company for a term of years. The box company now has a payroll of about $150,000 per year. It was also voted to pay an extra dividend on stock now issued, of eight per cent., from the present surplus. This however, leaves a good balance to begin the new deal. The extra dividend brings the rate paid this last year to 15 per cent., the regular dividend paid being seven per cent.

Peter W. Collins, avowed foe of Bolshevism and known internationally as a lecturer and sociologist, will be heard in a free public lecture at the town here next Tuesday night under the auspices of San Jose council, No. 14, Knights of Columbus. The subject of Mr. Collins' talk will be, Mexico, giving promise of a discussion on a situation in which the entire populace holds interest. The lecture will be followed by an open forum.

George Bitters, who has been switchboard repairman at the local exchange of the Southern New England Telephone company for four years and assumes a promotion as testman at the New London exchange this Monday, was recently agreeably surprised with a parting gift of a Waltham white gold watch from the local employes. The presentation was made by H. F. Reynolds, wire chief. Mr. Bitters will be succeeded by Roy Fillmore of Norwich. Mr. Fillmore is well known in this section through his ability as a bowler. Mr. Bitters will remove to New London with his family.

A severe frost which came as a final blow to plants and flowers that had thrived thus far, failed to worry most of the farmers in this section, Saturday morning. The crops have been harvested before damage was done and the yield this fall in all kinds of crops has been above normal. At daybreak Saturday morning the temperature was 20 degrees in the city.

Walter Howlett of Eastford was charged with failure to give the right of way on the highway, in the Mansfield town court Friday. Justice of the Peace Andrews imposed a fine of $5 and costs, amounting to $16.50. In the evening of October 8th, Howlett pulled around to the left of the road on the Mansfield Four Corners-Storrs highway, to pass another machine. He missed the distance and both cars smashed.

Louis Rabinowitz of this city, who attended the sixth game of the world baseball series in the Yankee stadium, was the lucky scrambler in a concerted dive to secure a baseball thrown into the stands by Lefty Sherdel of St. Louis, at the request of the fans. The ball bears the autographs of Billy Southworth and Babe Ruth and is now on exhibition in a show window here.

Members of Francis B. Long post No. 30, G. A. R., met at the residence of their commander, Arthur P. Benner, of 206 Summit street, Saturday and congratulated him on the occasion of his 84th birthday. Mrs. Benner served an excellent dinner, set with a large birthday cake as the centre-piece. Present were, Commander Benner, Dennis Haggerty, Adam Duffitz, Timothy Gillen, Charles Henry, Joseph Slater and George Harrick.

Apple grading demonstrations under the supervision of the state extension service will be held in points in Windham county, the first to be on the Joseph Stoddard farm in Abington, October 28, the second on the H. WESTERLY

REPUBLICANS FIRE THE OPENING GUN OF CAMPAIGN

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Oct. 17.—The republican rally of the fall campaign occurred here Saturday afternoon, when speakers addressed local electors from an automobile in front of the Westerly post office. Chairman Everett A. Kingsley of the Westerly republican town committee, introduced the speakers. They were Norman S. Case, a former United States attorney, and Frederick B. Cole, of Warren, R. I., republican candidate for lieutenant governor of Rhode Island and former Rhode Island senator. The Westerly Kiltie band of 11 pieces, payed during the rally.

Present in the group was republican candidate for Westerly senator, Howard E. Thorp of Potter Hill.

Mr. Case, the first speaker, attacked the stand of the Rhode Island democracy and the candidacy of Mayor Gainer of Providence for the gubernatorial chair. He told his hearers that Governor Pothier of Woonsocket, who was a candidate for re-election, needed no introduction in Westerly and that his record for the terms he had been governor, was one of prosperity for Rhode Island, and that he would have been in Westerly but his voice was not strong, although his health was much better than when he was a candidate two years ago. A republican majority of 2,000 votes was looked for in Westerly and he charged his listeners that their duty was to get out the vote. Congressional representative from the second Rhode Island district, Richard S. Aldrich, of Providence, and a summer visitor at Watch Hill, was given credit for attainment in becoming a member of the congressional ways and means committee, which the speaker said came from his own merit and not his father's reputation, who would well represent the people of Westerly.

Mr. Cole in a short talk attacked the stand of democratic nominee Gainer on the power bill merger, enacted at the last session of the Rhode Island legislature and said that if the democratic party were returned to power there would be a further move for a Rhode Island constitutional convention. He declared that as a member of the Rhode Island senate along with Senator Datson he was present at the time of the filibuster, conducted by the democrats and among them were Quinn, Fortier and Barry, who now seek state office along with Mayor Gainer on the democratic ticket. The speakers returned to Providence by automobile after a speaking tour of this end of the state.

The exhibition and prize drill of Battery E, 243rd R. I. C. A. C. (H. D.) at the state armory on Dixon street, Captain John F. Datson, commanding, was quite generally attended on Saturday night and the dance which followed.

A platoon and company drill of the company preceeded the prize drill in which the judges were Lieut. Col. John J. Murphy, Captain George A. Stillman and Captain C. H. Nolan. At the conclusion of the drill announcement was made by Col. Murphy that Gardiner Barber, first class private, was awarded first prize. Sergeant Wilhelm Bredner was given second prize, while two of the judges agreed that Sergeant Edward Smith and Henry Kingsley were tied for third prize. In the manual of arms 27 members of the company lined up on the drill floor, when successive cuts left four survivors. Among the spectators were Col. Cyril L. D. Wells of Providence, commanding officer of the 243rd Coast Artillery Company of Rhode Island, of which Battery E of Westerly is a unit.

In a fitting presentation speech Rhode Island State Department Commander Walter F. Thorp of Pawcatuck, member of Harold W. Merrill post, No. 15 American Legion of Westerly, gave the Merrill post medal for proficiency in drill, pinning the same upon Private Barber's breast. Dancing to the music of the Serenaders orchestra was enjoyed until midnight.

Willard Rogers, president of the Hartford Advertising club of Hartford, Conn., will be the speaker on Thursday evening, October 21st at the fall banquet of the Westerly Chamber of Commerce, and the Pawcatuck Board of Trade, t obe held in the dining room of the Elm Tree inn. Other entertainers will be "Harmony and a Banjo," by Dunn and Nally of Hartford. President Stanton was named a committee at an executive committee meeting of the Westerly chamber to appoint delegates to the first annual New England conference to be held in Hartford on November 18 and 19. A member of the Rhode Island state committee is Charles P. Cottrell, Westerly.

TOWN OF STONINGTON NOW HAS 4,657 VOTERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Oct. 17.—The board of registrars of the town of Stonington James Fribance of Mystic, Arthur F. Babcock of Pawcatuck, Joseph A Vargus of Stonington and Elias B. Hinckley, clerk of Stonington borough, together with republican registrar, Frederick W. Boulter, and democratic registrar, Joseph H. McGuiness, met at the district court house on Liberty street in Pawcatuck on Saturday from 9 o'clock a. m. until 8 o'clock p. m., to make voters.

At the district court session a total of 45 new voters were added to the Stonington voting list, bringing the total number of voters for the town up to 4,657. The only further addition to this total eligible for the election on Tuesday, Nov. 2, will be made at the meeting of the board to be held in the town clerk's office in the borough of Stonington on Monday, Nov. 1, for the admission of those whose qualifications mature after October 16 and on or before Nov. 2.

Of the total of 4,657 electors, in the 45 voters made last Saturday, 14 were listed in the Pawcatuck voting district, 24 being men and 17 women; 3 of the number in the Stonington borough voting district and 1 in the Mystic voting district. At the Oct. 9 meeting of the board in Stonington borough 52 voters were made, 17 men and 15 women. No additions have been made to the republican or democratic caucus list since last August when the totals of the lists showed: Pawcatuck voting district (which has more voters than all of the other four districts together), republican, 1,515; 998 being men and 517 women. Democrat, 778; 544 being men and 234 women.

The 4,657 voters are distributed among the voting districts as follows: First, Stonington borough, 1,193; 838 men, 465 women. Second, Pawcatuck, 2,231; 1,284 men, 947 women. Third, Road, 135; men and women. Fourth, Mystic, 1,051; 627 men and 425 women. Fifth, Old Mystic, 137; 89 men, 48 women.

Recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk there appears the following transfers:

October 15—John T. Harrison and wife of New York city to John S. Burke of Manhattan, N. Y., a parcel of land at Napatree Point Watch Hill.

Samuel Hartridge to Amy K. Hartridge of the town of Warwick, R. I., parcel of land at Pleasant View and a five-room one story building thereon.

W. J. Murphy of Springfield, Mass., to George Franklin Matteson of Rocky Hill, Conn., eight certain lots of land with building and improvements at Shelter Harbor, Lots Nos. 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 5 and 6 in Section 12, conveyed to grantor by Franklin E. Coe on October 2, 1926.

October 16—Wayland A. and Sarah F. Saunders to Rose LaPietra a certain tract of land at the junction of West and Dixon streets, with dwelling house and improvements, No. 14 Dixon street, conveyed to grantor by Lottie G. Golden on April 22, 1926.

The Westerly police department is making an effort to find the owner of an automobile abandoned early Saturday morning on the Noose Neck Hill road, near the meeting house bridge, in the town of Westerly.

Assisted by Westerly Police Officers Robert M. Kessel, LeRoy H. Norman and Frank Knight, a representative of the Rhode Island department of the state board of public roads on Friday night made a check up of Bradford automobiles. A total of 205 autos were stopped on the highway, when the automobiles were examined and the operators requested to present their licenses and registrations of their cars.

AMERICAN REPORTED MURDERED IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 17—(AP)—Word reached the United States embassy today from the American consul at Mazatlan, that an American, J. E. Spriggs the manager of the Minanese Fruit company, had been murdered at Culiacan capital of the state of Sinaloa. The motive is presumed to have been robbery. The address in the United States of Mr. Spriggs is not known, and no details of the murder have been received.

Charge Schoenfeld of the embassy has made representations to the foreign office, asking the Mexican government to investigate the affair.

DANIELSON

NATHAN D. PRINCE AGAIN HONORED BY BANKERS

DANIELSON, Oct. 17—Nathan D. Prince, president of the Hartford-Connecticut Trust company, and Mrs. Prince have just returned from their trip to the Pacific coast. Mr. Prince as treasurer of the American Bankers' association, and one of the delegates from Connecticut, attended the annual convention of the American Bankers association held in Los Angeles, October 4th to 7th. It was the largest convention, with the exception of one, ever held by the association which is now in its 52nd year.

Mr. Prince was re-elected treasurer for the ensuing year, and it is interesting to note in passing that the current assets of the association now exceed one million dollars. Membership of the association comprises over 21,000 banks throughout the country and a very keen interest in the association's affairs is manifest at not only convention periods but throughout the year in the various activities of the association.

A number of special trains were run both from New York and Chicago, the route of which lay over the Burlington road to Omaha, Nebraska, over the Denver & Rio Grande through the Royal Gorge to Denver, and then via Union Pacific to Los Angeles. Returning the route lay over the Atchison road from Los Angeles to Chicago and the Pennsylvania back to New York. Stopovers on the return were made at Riverside, California, Phoenix, Arizona where a side trip by automobile was made to the great Roosevelt Dam, Santa Fe, New Mexico where a further opportunity was given to see the sights of the city and the Indian village, and thence on to Chicago.

At the regular directors' meeting of The Killingly Trust company held on Saturday, reports were presented by the officers showing the past year to have been one of the most successful ever experienced by this institution. The customary dividends were declared on the capital stock, and also to depositors in the savings department.

It will be recalled that The Killingly Trust company was organized the latter part of 1914 with a modest capital of $25,000, since which time regular dividends have been paid each year on the capital stock, and there has been accumulated a surplus of $35,000, equal to 140 per cent of the capital.

POULTRYMEN TO MEET IN BROOKLYN FRIDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 17—Poultrymen from various towns of the county will gather at Grange hall in Brooklyn Friday of this week for a quarterly meeting of the poultry division of the Windham County Farmers' association. The program is to open at 10 a. m.

A speaker who will be heard with special interest at the meeting is William Ryan of Stoughton, Mass., who has done some very careful breeding work at Ryan farms, where feeding trials also have been conducted. At these farms 4,000 layers are carried through the winter season. The program for the meeting has been arranged as follows:

10:00 a. m.—The Iodine Vermicide Treatment for Worms in Poultry. R. E. Jones, poultry specialist, Storrs, Conn.

11:00 a. m.—Feeding for Egg Production, Fertility and Hatchability. William Ryan, Stoughton, Mass.

11:30 a. m.—The Value of Keeping Poultry Accounts. P. L. Putnam, asst. farm management demonstrator.

11:45 a. m.—A report on the Grow Healthy Chicks Plan. F. L. Davis, county agent, Putnam.

12:00 m.—Box lunch.

1:00 p. m.—Breeding for Vigor and Vitality. William Ryan, Stoughton, Mass.

1:45 p. m.—Giving the Pullets a Proper Start. R. E. Jones, poultry specialist, Storrs.

2:30 p. m.—Question box.

The past week a number of his relatives and friends came to his home in West Brooklyn to do honor to Joseph E. Stetson, for a great many years an official of the Windham County Agricultural society, on the occasion of his 79th birthday; which finds him hale and hearty and receiving congratulations from a host of friends. At the party there was a birthday cake and numerous remembrances for Mr. Stetson. The party of visitors included Mr. and Mrs. David Bearian and son, Mrs. Nellie Bayles and son and James Stetson of New Bedford and Dr. James Stetson, Mr. Stetson's brother, of New Haven.

Saturday morning the funeral of Adolph Thibeault was held from his home in Baltouville, with services at St. Joseph's church in Dayville. Rev. Ignatius Kost was celebrant of the high mass of requiem. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery. The bearers were Napoleon Carnegie, Simeon Mesier, Philip Auger, Delor Cusson, David Champagne, Adolph Gardouris, Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

More than 75 people from Danielson were included in the audience of 650 that filled the Community house at Plainfield to capacity Saturday evening to hear the famous Rhondda Welsh male singers at a concert described by local people as wonderful. The splendid success of the concert has inspired those who arranged to contemplate further ventures of the kind during the winter season. The fine co-operation between the representatives of the various communities and churches in this town, Plainfield and Jewett City was largely responsible for getting such a satisfactory attendance.

This evening, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings from 7 to 8 o'clock Supt. W. E. Parker of Killingly's schools is to be at his office in the town hall building to receive further applications from those who desire to enroll in Killingly's proposed evening schools. Notices to this effect have been posted in various mills. these notices printed in both English and French. Supt. Parker said Sunday afternoon that numbers of applications have come in during the past week, but these applications have not been classified as yet. However, it has been observed that a considerable number of them are from residents of the West Side, which is within the town of Brooklyn.

Plasterers have completed their work on the ceiling of the auditorium of Killingly high school's south addition and this week will be engaged in applying plaster to the walls of that part of the building. The plaster work in the auditorium likely will be completed during the present week. Lathing of the gymnasium was being completed Saturday forenoon. While material progress has been made on the interior of the south addition during the month, it is not likely that it will be completed and ready for occupancy much before the first of the year.

MRS. THEODORE ROOSEVELT AT HOME OF ANCESTORS

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 17—Distinguished guests at the Mortlake house in Brooklyn over the week end were Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and her daughter, Mrs. Ethel Derby wife of Dr. Richard Derby. They came to Brooklyn for a rest and to improve an opportunity to learn more about one of their ancestors—a Daniel Tyler who was resident there many years ago. Previously Mrs. Roosevelt has been a visitor in Brooklyn.

As a lay reader, Sidney W. Bard of Brooklyn conducted a service at St. Philip's church in Putnam on Sunday, as he has on Sundays of late and as he probably will do until a new rector is appointed there.

Approximately 600 French-speaking men of St James' parish completed their mission Sunday morning by receiving communion in a body at an early mass A mission for the English-speaking people of the parish was announced for the period from November 28 to December 5.

Mrs. Mary Taylor of Webster was a week end guest of relatives in Danielson.

Rain during Sunday kept the majority of Danielson's people in doors and was in fact a veal day of rest.

Joseph Natorski, injured in an automobile accident last Wednesday evening at the foot of South Killingly hill, was much improved at his home here on Sunday but far from recovered from the effects of the accident.

J C Witter was at Wethersfield on Saturday to conduct an important sale of live stock.

Listening to football returns by radio was a diversion Saturday for a great many followers of the sport in Danielson. A disappointment in the results of the day's playing was the loss by the Connecticut Aggies of their game with the University of Maine at Orono by a score of 21 to 0. Antonio Longo and Arthur Williams, former Killingly high players, were members of the Aggies squad.

Gordon J Gale, a vice-president of the Connecticut Editorial association, will be at Storrs and Willimantic next Saturday for a meeting of the organization to which many newspapermen of Connecticut have been bidden.

Killingly high school students who are taking the home economics course are no less than delighted with the appointments of that part of the enlarged building devoted to this course.

State highway department employes have completed the work of oiling the state highway route leading from Wauregan into Danielson through Dyer and Water streets.

Charles G. Morris, democratic candidate for governor of Connecticut, is to be a speaker at a party rally to be held in the town hall Wednesday, evening.

PUTNAM

NO HINT OF DIVIDENDS IN REPORT OF RECEIVER

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 17—George M. Coffin, receiver of the First National bank has gled his quarterly report with the comptroller of the currency at Washington, D. C.

The receiver has the substantial sum of $145,416.48 in cash on hand. In addition to this the remaining assets are valued at $698,695.48, but these will not all be realized upon. Some are good, some are valueless and some are doubtful. They are not worth anything near their face value, however they are worth something and that something is an appreciable amount.

The total liabilities appear as $1,838,546.44. A total of $1,192,943.61 has been paid in three dividends of 40 per cent, 15 per cent and 10 per cent, leaving a balance of $645,602.93. From these figures it will be seen that the trust is in a favorable position, but due to the uncertainty of the value of the remaining assets it is not safe to make predictions as to the amount of any further possible dividends.

The assets at the date of suspension, August 11, 1924, amounted to $2,252,031.31. Since that time additional assets of $91,335.54 have been acquired by the receiver and, together with the stock assessment of $150,000, makes the total of all assets coming into the receivers hands $2,493,336.85. The report still shows that there still remain claims of $31,424.60 that creditors of the bank have failed to prove. The total additional liabilities proven, it is understood, are claims allowed by the comptroller by those having bonds etc. in the bank for safe keeping, the status of which was for a time uncertain. These liabilities amount to $406,332.63

The Parent-Teachers association of Putnam gave an entertainment in the auditorium of the high school Friday evening. It was their first fall meeting and it took the form of a Hallowe'en party and was also a reception to the teachers. The regular program consisted of singing by a quartet consisting of Miss Alice Stevens, soprano; Mrs. Raymond Medbuey, contralto Ralph C. Jenkins, tenor and William A. Wheaton, bass; a reading by Mrs. Ernest C. Morse and several numbers were played by the Israel Putnam school orchestra under the leadership of Superintendent Merrill. Games were played, fortunes were told and doughnuts, cheese and coffee were served by the committee with the help of the Misses Alice Perry, Madelyn Houghton and Phyllis Tatem.

Mrs. Sara Kent was chairman of the entertainment feature and Mrs. A. D. McIntyre had charge of the decorations. The hostesses were Mrs. Walter Wheaton Mrs. Mary R. Bishop, Mrs. James E. Tatem, Mrs. Raymond Medbury, and Mrs. Herbert Johnson.

The Well Child conference in Putnam will be held on Tuesday, October 19, from 2 p. m. to 4 o'clock at the high school auditorium.

Among the ladies from Putnam who attended the annual meeting of the Women's Congregational Home Missionary union held at Willimantic were Mrs. Henry J. Thayer, Mrs. C. Dwight Sharpe, Miss Emma J. Kinney, Mrs. James M. English, Mrs. Silas M. Wheelock, Miss Mary Wheelock, Mrs. Kenneth C. Sharpe, Mrs. Charles Thayer and Miss Elizabeth Child. There were 126 ladies at the meeting from Windham and New London counties. Mrs. Henry J. Thayer offered the opening prayer.

JUDGMENT IS GRANTED AGAINST THE CUNNEENS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 17—George M. Coffin, receiver of the First National bank of Putnam was granted a judgment against Frederick E. and Annie M. Cunneen of Danielson for $6,834.00. The claim was on two promissory notes, the first dated February 28, 1921 and the second, March 14, 1921 both for the face value of $3,000. No interest has been paid on either of the obligations since July last the interest to October 15 amounting to $834.

Mr. Cunneen maker of the notes was at one time engaged in manufacturing in Danielson Annie M. Cunneen, his wife, appeared as endorser of the notes.

The appearance of the name of Patsey Haley as the third man in the ring in the Sharkey-Wills fight last week at Ebbetts field, recalls the fact that Haley was at one time a boxer himself and made Putnam his training quarters for some years. The training quarters were in the rear of the old Elm Street house, now the Cargill hotel and Haley was one of the number of young boxers who trained there.

The Red Cross nursing committee, which is to have charge of the annual membership drive in Putnam, will begin its work on November 12. The captains are Mrs. A. E. Parent, Miss Clara Larned, Miss Jennie Willis, Mrs. Joseph Michel, Mrs. E. C. Morse, Mrs. A. V. Frost and Miss Ellen Wheelock.

The committee will give a tea to all workers on Thursday afternoon, November 4, at the Red Cross rooms, when material for work will be given out and further plans discussed.

On Friday night, Motor company No. 1 of the Putnam Fire department gave the first of a series of Friday night dances at Odd Fellows hall on Pomfret street. A large crowd was in attendance and the Putnam firemen fully justified their reputation as good entertainers.

Herbert Clarke of Middletown spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Clarke.

Miss Evelyn Shaw has returned from the Deaconess hospital in Boston where she recently underwent an operation for goitre. She is making a good recovery.

Mrs. George Williams of Woodstock avenue is a patient at St. Vincent's hospital in Worcester where she recently underwent a serious operation.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dingwall and daughter, Edith, were visitors at Norwich last week.

Mrs. John Porter of New York city is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Warren W. Averill on Pleasant street, called here by the critical illness of her mother, Mrs. Smithles.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Durfee spent the week end with relatives at Bethel, Vermont.

Mrs. Bertha Knibbs of Main street was a recent visitor with relatives at Providence.

Stuart Pease of New York was the guest last week of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Pease.

Miss Ruth Chase, a student nurse at a Providence hospital, has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Chase.

Misses Anna and Marguerite Weeks of Pomfret street have returned from a visit with friends in Boston.

Miss Geraldine Frost has returned from a visit of three weeks with friends at Yonkers, N. Y.

JEWETT CITY

BUT FEW WOMEN WERE MADE VOTERS THIS YEAR

(Special to the Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 17—The board of selectmen finished making voters for this fall Saturday, except in the case of a person becoming of age between now and Nov. 1. There were 56 made this year, a very small percent being women.

Finn's tonight. Richard Barthelmess in "Ranson's Folly."—Adv.

Doria Lemieux, a former manager of the Economy store on Main street, has been transferred to a position in Hartford with the same concern.

There was once upon a time, an abundance of bitter-sweet to be found in this section, but now, not a few who search along the pasture fences or look sharply at every wayside wall, are coming home empty handed. People returning Saturday from a trip among the country roads, down in the vicinity of Ledyard, were telling Sunday of the surpassing beauty of the early fall foliage. In one swamp the maples and a few hickories on the outer edge, had been deeply touched with red and gold. These were viewed in striking brilliancy from the road which passes above them, the better because of a straggling row of sombre cedars which grew beside a wall at their back.

No lover of color could fail to admire. If one could find it, the deep orange pods of native bitter sweet, which by now have curled back so as advantageously to display the brilliant scarlet coverings of the seeds.

At the Baptist church Sunday morning the pastor Rev. E. E. Scates reported the three day meetings of the Baptist state convention held in Mystic last week.

Outstanding points in the various topics chosen by the speakers, were retold from records made at the several sessions.

RAIDERS GET MASH BUT COULD NOT FIND STILL

(Special to the Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 17—State troopers and Deputy Sheriff John T. Dolan raided the farm house of William Platt Saturday, the old Stetson James place near Beach Pond, where a quantity of mash was seized and destroyed. The presence of the mash indicated the operation of a still but that could not be located. Platt was placed under bonds of $500 for his appearance in court Monday before Justice W. E. Tanner. He will be charged with violation of the liquor laws. The officers also confiscated Platt's gun, he being an alien.

Mrs. A. M Brown entertained the Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church on Friday. It was decided to have the annual Christmas fair this year a "saleless sale." Mrs. Francis Campbell and Miss May Blake assisted in serving.

Over fifty people from Griswold were in Plainfield Saturday night and enjoyed the wonderful concert given by the Rhondda Welsh chorus. Mr. and Mrs. John Harris and family were among the party and Mr. Harris stated that one of the men was a friend he had known well in his home country. Dr. G. H. Jennings assumed the responsibility of disposing of Jewett City's share in the sale of tickets, which was 25 and he sold forty. Leave it to the doctor to sponsor any good enterprise, and then work it to the limit, is what has often been heard in this borough.

Anne Brewster Fanning chapter D. A. R., held its regular meeting last week in the chapter room in Slate library. Mrs. E. A. Faust presided, reporting the regents meeting she attended at Windsor. The paper of the afternoon was on Prudence Crandall and was read by Miss Alice A. Brown. Ten members were present. Refreshments were served by Mrs. C. E. Spicer and Eleanor Stetson, Myrtle Stetson, serving for her sister.

Mrs. F. E. Robinson presided at the meeting of the Woman's Missionary society of the Congregational church held at the home of Mrs. Abraham Zegeer on Friday afternoon. The attendance was unusually large. Reports of the Willimantic meeting were given by Mrs. C. D. Wolf and Mrs. E. H. Hiscox and Mrs. E. A. Faust read a poem Mrs. Zegeer and her sister Miss Kummer served tea and wafers

Last week two rather suspicious characters were noticed in various places around town, especially near Cusick's garage The day after the men were seen, when Mr. Cusick went to his garage to open the door, he found a skeleton key in the lock. His door was double locked, and the key evidently jammed, thus causing the would be loungers to leave it behind.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Alex McNicol, Mrs. Andrew McNicol and Mrs. Alvah Reed left Sunday to attend the Bankers National convention at Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Brown, Edward A. Faust, Jr., and William Marshall saw the Yale-Dartmouth football game in New Haven Saturday.

P. W. Chase, welfare superintendent of the Ashland Cotton Co., accompanied by Mrs. Chase, the corporation's [illegible] are away for a week's vacation. Their first registration will be New York city.

PRESTON

A number from this place attended the state Baptist association meetings at Mystic, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The following officers were elected: President, Merle Woodmansee vice president, Edith Muttart, secretary and treasurer Howard Zabriskie, chairman prayer meeting committee Harold Muttart; social, Arline Bennett, look out, Kenneth Zabriskie The meeting next Sunday evening is to be led by Merle Woodmansee.

The conference of six churches met with the Congregational church Wednesday. There was a good attendance and the meeting was very helpful. The speakers were Rev. Mr. Reeves, Rev. W. L. Reynolds, Rev. W. L. Muttart, Rev. W. C. Prentiss and Rev. D. C. Stone.

Mrs. Charles Whitney of Saxonville, Mass., is visiting Mrs. N. H. Hall.

"Friend,_____"

"You like a strong he-man's cigarette.

"So do I. But that's no reason why you should pay for it with a parched tongue or throat.

"Pick a brand that gives you all the punch you want without any punishment.

"Switch to OLD GOLDS . . . and get all the sweet without any bitter; all the pleasure without any penalty.

"They're smoothest—that's why!"

Some men have the mistaken notion that a real he-man's cigarette must be harsh and coarse. That's "all wet." A fine full-bodied cigarette, like a fine full-bodied Havana, is smooth and mellow. OLD GOLDS are mellowed by a new method that takes out all the bite and leaves in all the "kick." That's why you can smoke them without "throat-tickle"; why you can smoke and enjoy them morning, noon and night—without regret or after-effect.

GEORGE MCDEVITT . . . . . New York Representative Boston Herald-Traveler

MORTON S. RUTSKY . . . . . President, Collegiate Special Advertising Agency, Inc.

JULIUS MATHEWS . . . Representative of 48 New England newspapers

ROBERT W. ORR . . Lennen & Mitchell, Inc., Advertising Agency

THE P. Lorillard Company plan to publish the above advertisement for OLD GOLD Cigarettes in a list of important newspapers.

In order to secure the most effective headline, they are inviting the men and women of New England to read the text of the advertisement carefully, study the picture and then submit their headline suggestions—each headline suggestion to start with the word "FRIEND" and to contain not over ten words all told.

Perhaps, one of the men in the picture is telling his friend how to get rid of his "tickling throat." He might be saying "FRIEND, DON'T KEEP THAT THROAT-TICKLE; SWITCH TO OLD GOLDS!" Or he may be saying something entirely different pertaining to the excellence of OLD GOLD Cigarettes. You can write your own ticket!

52 prizes totalling $2,000 will be awarded for the 52 headline suggestions which most cleverly get over the point of this advertisement — in the opinion of the judges.

CONTEST RULES

(1) Contest opens October 13th and closes November 1st. All replies must be mailed to reach the Lorillard Company by or before midnight of November 1st. Winners will be announced the week of November 15th.

(2) Anyone—of either sex—may compete, excepting employes of the P. Lorillard Company, or their affiliated companies.

(3) Read the text of the advertisement carefully. Study the picture. Then submit the most appropriate headline starting with the word "FRIEND" and using not over ten words all told. The shorter the headline, the better, if it gets over the point.

(4) Originality, clearness, brevity, neatness and legibility will count.

(5) Send your suggestion on the coupon in this advertisement, or a sheet of paper, written on one side of sheet, only. Sign your full name and address. You may submit as many suggestions as you like, but each must be on a separate sheet of paper, or a separate coupon—with your name and address in full.

(6) In the event that several persons submit the same winning headline, with equal neatness and equal respect for the above conditions, the prize for that headline will be divided equally among them.

(7) The P. Lorillard Company will have the right to use as it pleases any or all headlines suggested, whether they secure a prize or not.

NOW GET OUT THE VOTE

With the addition of 359 names to the list of voters in Norwich just over [illegible] the to-be-mades have a clear chance to get the franchise. The only [illegible] eligible to become voters is not as large as [illegible] expected although it is about [illegible] for a state election. And [illegible] to be real sad that those who [illegible] now votes probably would [illegible] interest election day.

[illegible] that the vote making forces [illegible] and while [illegible] being perfected it [illegible] to recognize the importance of [illegible] and getting out the [illegible] November 2. Those who have acquired the right to vote should exercise it. Perhaps a large proportion of them will need no reminder. They have to their duty and recognize the fact that the pace for them [illegible] day is at the polls. But there are others who seem to be guilty of apathy, who seem to think that a higher degree of citizenship is displayed by staying at home and who [illegible] to awaken to the importance of voting until it is realized that the results are decidedly serious; their wishes and the election in their minds a deplorable exhibition of judgment.

Regardless of the number on the list of voters or the number added this month, it need not be expected that it will vote. For various reasons it is impossible but all those who possible to get to the polls should accept it as a duty and every effort should be put forward to get out those who have to be urged with facilities provided for those who are otherwise unable to get to the voting places.

[illegible] the voters ought to resent more favorably than the efforts [illegible] to-be-mades. Even though [illegible] may be in no interested then [illegible] opinions there should be no [illegible] on getting out the vote.

RESTS WITH INDIVIDUAL

The [illegible] Whites were put forth by the department of [illegible] vehicles in [illegible] to the thousands of [illegible] of the best routes to use [illegible] the Yule log. For the [illegible] department [illegible] were well distributed they will be of increasing benefit throughout the season for the great volume of traffic to and from [illegible] New Haven.

Signs were in broad or better traffic conditions and the highest degree of appreciation will be appreciated by the [illegible] public. If likewise should get the [illegible] amount of cooperation from the individual in order that accidents may be prevented. Arrange the best possible plan for reducing traffic troubles and lessen accidents and it will all come to nothing unless those who [illegible] concerned do their part. It is the individual who carries a large [illegible] of responsibility.

The traffic situation with so many [illegible] for one center has been well handled for the past few years and there's no reason why the [illegible] other towns should not be equally successful if each driver took a little interest to avoid participation in accident. Repeatedly it is declared that the biggest danger lies in the other fellow's obeying the rules as one may. There are drivers who are always seeking how many times they can violate them. They are always with it frequently [illegible] the speedster, the fellow who is constantly cutting in and the one cutting corners sooner or later contributes to the casualty list.

There are very few of the auto accidents that can be listed as unavoidable. One can't recall where he ought not to have been, doing what he was prohibited by the rules of the road [illegible] and having the very kind of accidents which was involved. And yet in spite of the many repetitions there are those who are steadily contributing to the ever lengthening list.

If there was as much care exercised at all times as there is when it is known or believed a state policeman is nearby a large percentage of the highway accidents would never occur.

SCIENTISTS AND PEACE

No little interest will be displayed in the statement made by Professor Bertrand, representing a delegation of French chemists, when he declared before an international convention of chemists that the French scientists are interested in chemistry from the viewpoint of peace rather than war.

In connection with the world wide desire for peace in the future, the efforts that are being made to such an end and the pessimistic attitude taken by many who think the elimination of war is impossible, the French statement is particularly significant. It indicates that the French recognize the desirability of making no further progress in that direction, for chemicals have already contributed heavily to the manner of killing nations and there is no desire for a keen competition between the chemists of the various nations to see how horrible they could make the next war through the agency of chemicals.

With the reduction of armaments in other directions it is possible to discern in the statement of the French professor, if he really speaks for the people of his country, a desire for curbing the use of gas. This seems to be contrary to the sentiment of members of the American Legion as expressed in a vote against the abolition of gas warfare, but the people in general it is believed will favor the development of chemistry along the lines of peace time efforts rather than in devising the most horrible uses to which it can be put, for there's no reason to suppose the worst in chemical warfare has been approached.

The interest of the French scientists may not voice the attitude of the French government, but even their influence should be of no small value in coming to a national decision. The country which can put chemistry to work in the various peace time channels desires progress and the getting away from those old time handicaps which retard development and cater to a too strong inclination to rush into conquest and bloodshed. It is gratifying to have it stated that the scientists themselves are inclined toward peace rather than war.

WALKING UNDER WATER

There's no reason why those who want to engage in freak stunts should not do so to their heart's content so long as it endangers no one else and gives them the desired thrill. But it is certain that while some stunts are calculated to draw big crowds and gain great applause for the performer, there are others where there are no witnesses and the glory comes solely in the pulsecity and the telling of experiences.

How, for instance, would you like to walk across the bed of Hampton roads between Old Point Comfort and the naval operating base? This means getting into a diving suit walking into the mud and pushing out in the darkness of the water for the other side with the knowledge that there's a ditch ahead 30 feet deep, the channel, which must be negotiated. What else may be in the way no one knows. That remains for Klass Evarts, a deep sea diver, to find out for his own satisfaction, for he engages in this stunt to awaken an interest in such performances and claims he can outwalk any competitor.

For most people the idea of descending far below the surface of the water as a diver has no attractions. Going down for the purpose of carrying on necessary work within a comparatively small area is much different than walking five miles across a bay, for come what may in the way of interesting or undesirable conditions. There appears to be little chance that Diver Evarts will develop a very large class of contestants. His stunt probably means a new championship in this year when so many new champions have come to the front. It is a sport, however, of everyone of his own liking and the new fad may go big.

ASQUITH'S RESIGNATION

From the resignation of Lord Asquith as the head of the liberal party in England it becomes evident that he has done his best to meet the situation raised by the efforts of Lloyd George to thwart him, he has labored to smooth up the differences and when he finds it is impossible and that he is simply trying to continue the fight he throws up the leadership of a party which has headed for nearly two decades.

Under [illegible] conditions it might be expected that the situation would [illegible] between Lloyd George and [illegible] but he would fall heir to the leadership. That might be regarded as the natural outcome, and yet there are reasons within the party quite as strongly opposed as the factional leaders. That bothers the ascendancy of Lloyd George and makes it [illegible] whether he can remain in the party or must go elsewhere. He will soon put to the test at least of showing what support he can get or what resentment he has created.

Lord Asquith in dropping out does so as a man strong in years who is not [illegible] according to his own idea, [illegible] up the light which he mainlained, some years ago. It is a good time to step down and let those who have performed a useful party get in the saddle and recognize the difficulties they have created. There is no question but what he has been a wise and conscientious leader. How much influence he will have in the stewardship of his successor depends entirely upon who his successor is. Whether it puts an end to the controversy that has been going on, or accentuates it, remains to be seen.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: Norwich seems to have suddenly acquired a submarine base.

So far this fall there cannot be many complaints over the harshness of the weatherman.

It may be back to normal for New York, but it will be some time before St. Louis gets that way.

It is about time for the potato growers to boast of the size of their tubers as well as the quantity.

The leaves may be beautiful just now but the fellow who has to rake them doesn't think so.

How long will it be before some big power and light corporation effects a merger with the aurora borealis?

A boy with a barrel or a lad watching a barrel at this season of the year has a special meaning in Norwich.

New Jersey sets about its man hunt as if it meant business. The quicker it succeeds the better for public safety.

From the publicity she is getting it might be suspected Queen Marie had something to sell or was running for political office.

Those who are sending their money to aid the people in Florida will hope it is not being employed to keep bands parading the streets.

Probably the Legionnaires want to hold their next year's convention in France just to show that they can and are willing to go back.

Remember the republican caucus tonight. It is always worth while to attend but Senator Bingham is an especially interesting speaker.

While Prof Fisher declares that by the end of the century the span of human life will have reached 80 years he must leave the "I told you so" for someone else.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

One fried food is sufficient for one meal.

To prevent shine, ribbons should be pressed on the wrong side.

Every person should drink at least six glasses of water every day.

Turn the roast with a large spoon rather than a fork. A fork pierces the meat and allows the juices to escape.

If the top of the pie is brushed with sweet milk before baking, it will be shiny and brown and good to look at.

If fat gets too hot before you have the food ready to fry in it, put in a handful of raw sliced potatoes.

If the boiled meat appears to be tough, add a teaspoon of cider vinegar to the water. The vinegar will make the meat tender.

Good looks are insurance against nerves as well as against burglars.

If the dish-washing machine is connected to the plumbing, the filling and emptying is more easily done.

Dry your dish mop in an empty milk bottle. It will sun nicely in the window and keep clean and sweet.

To make a meat loaf especially delicious pour a can of vegetable soup over it before putting it in the oven.

When planning for a large picnic, it is a good idea to pack the food in individual portions in small ice cream boxes.

If the children are inclined to spend their pennies on cheap candy, it is a good plan to offer them some pure, wholesome candy after meals, and satisfy the proverbial "sweettooth" more safely.

Boiled coffee may be cleared by the addition of a little cold water, just before serving.

CAST IRON KETTLES

New kettles and skillets, waffle irons and other utensils made of cast iron need some sort of preliminary treatment before they are put in use for preparing food, in order to remove the lacquer coating applied by the manufacturer as a rust preventive. Prepare a solution of one tablespoon of washington soda and one tablespoon of chipped soap to each gallon of water. Fill the kettle or skillet with the solution or in the case of waffle irons or popover pans, immerse in a large kettle of the solution. Boil for 15 to 20 minutes. Follow the treatment with an ordinary washing, rinsing and drying process.

RIGHT IN THE PITCHER

Use a large pitcher in which to mix hot cakes or waffle batters. It is much easier to make uniform cakes and evenly baked waffles by pouring the batter than by ladeling it out with a dipper.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Always pour medicines from the side of the bottle opposite to the label, to avoid the mixture spilling over the direction or prescription number.

Carbolic acid sounds so formidable that we dread using it even if we really need it. But one quart of carbolic acid to 20 parts water is a solution that is guaranteed not to burn.

The fragile nail or the ribbed ones are especially difficult to keep neat. The underlying cause of these conditions is usually lack of lime or some other element in the body, although the use of harsh soaps and careless manicure methods are responsible in some cases. Then, too, finger-nails are likely to become thicker and less smooth as one grows older.

If an ingrowing nail is already bad, you might file a ridge down the center of the nail. For temporary relief, a small pad of absorbent cotton soaked in some good antiseptic such as peroxide of hydrogen, may be carefully inserted under the nail by means of an orangewood stick. (The cotton must, of course, be changed daily.) Under such circumstances the nail should never be cut out at the sides as many people seem to consider necessary—for this gives the skin a chance to grow out into just the position where it will be sure to be hurt again.

BEWARE OF ILL-FITTING BOARDS

If the boards of your floors do not fit very well do not put a reversible rug directly on them, as the dust works up through the cracks and causes black lines on the side next to the floor. Cover the floor with several thicknesses of brown paper and then lay the rug.

SEALING FLOWERS

Country folks rarely give you a bouquet of flowers without what they call "sealing them." As soon as plucked, the ends of the stems are dipped in boiling water. The flowers will last much longer if this is done.

QUICK WORK

When in a hurry to get the dinner started, time can be saved by peeling just a strip around the potato instead of the whole surface. The two ends will slip off easily when the potato is done.

DOUBLING LIFE OF SHADE

A simple method of doubling the life of a window shade, half of which has become soiled, is to remove the shade from the top of the roller and hem the end thus removed. Then remove the stick from the hem at the bottom portion of the shade and slip into the new hem. Next cut off the old hem at the bottom of the soiled portion of the shades and attach the draw edge of the roller. The bottom or soiled portion of the shade now becomes the top, and when the shade is drawn down half the length of the window a clean, new shade appears.

DICTATES OF FASHION

The surplice front continues to attract the older woman, though the juniors eschew it.

The bloused dress is very good for fall. It must be worn under a coat of generous lines.

Many semi-tailored dresses of black canton have daring touches of silver embroidery and ribbon.

Buckles and ornaments made of black woods or inlaid with them are seen on the best street hats from Paris.

Short stubby umbrellas of bright plaided taffeta give a touch of color to the dark toned rainy day costume.

Very distinctive are the new necklaces made of fine gold wire woven into a band a half-inch wide. They fasten with a gold buckle.

Huge handkerchiefs of chiffon with flowers of futuristic designs are worn as handkerchiefs of gypsy girdles with the summer gowns.

There is an attractive new skirt on the market, that is cut almost like an umbrella, top, and hangs in points.

The scintillating dress of beads is not in evidence for fall though a few jeweled models are still being shown.

Some new frocks have a chose neckband that may be fastened leaving a triangular open space below or worn open and turned back.

There is a fascinating new color known as rouge de cidre, which is [illegible] a vivid Chinese red which combines quite surprisingly with yellow.

The headgear of the Victorian dandy has been borrowed by his granddaughter. She has improved on it however, with a colored ribbon with a buckle in front.

Small hats have come in with the fall sports clothes. They are still of soft felt, usually peaked in the crown, and narrow brimmed.

BRACELETS ARE WIDER

Many of the new bracelets are at least two and a half or three inches wide. A striking bit of jewelry is a bracelet composed of large open squares of gold held together with three semi-precious stones—a red stone between two green ones.

RAISED WAISTLINE

Our old friend, the normal waistline, has been restored to favor by some of the leading French costumers. Particularly in youthful frocks of satin or at crepe, do we see the raised waistline.

FASHIONS IN SLEEVES

Designers have given themselves full sway from wrist to shoulder and no combination of puffs or decorations is unrepresented in the styles. Even the shoulder puffs which were a feature of the late '90s have made their reappearance in modified form.

NUDE STOCKINGS DOOMED

There are indications that the long reign of the nude stocking is nearing its end. Gray is already nearly as popular for day wear while for the evening stockings to match the dress are being worn. A return to the very fine guage black silk stockings is predicted for this winter.

LAUNDRY HINTS

To keep white flannel skirts looking fresh and new they should be washed in luke warm water and white soap shaved fine. Do not rub them. Rinse well, and hang in the shade. Iron on the wrong side when almost dry.

When washing blouses, handkerchiefs, etc., put a small lump of orris root into the rinsing water, and it will give them a delightful perfume of violets. This is much more lasting than if a sachet is placed among the clothes.

A few drops of turpentine added to the rinsing water when washing white silk hose, underwear, skirts, etc., prevents them from turning yellow.

Hang colored clothes in the shade wrong side out and where there is a current of air to dry them quickly if you wish to minimize the possibility of fading.

FATHERING SEEDLINGS FOR WINTER BLOOM

Few people realize the possibility of carrying the common garden annuals through the winter. In late September and early October hundreds of small plants, seedlings, will be found about the annual beds in the garden. Petunias spring up like weeds; calendulas seed themselves profusely even sweet pea seedlings will be found. Before the earliest frost can possibly hit them, the desired seedlings will be of sufficient size to take up. They should be carefully potted, precaution being taken to have almost an inch of pebbles at the bottom of the pot for drainage. They should be put in the shade after planting until they are established. When they are finally at home in their new position, they may be placed anywhere out of doors, and will be seen to develop quickly. When they are brought into the house, before the heavy frosts, and placed in a sunny spot, they begin almost at once to flower, and if the withered blossoms are kept picked will bloom profusely all winter.

English primroses cowslips,) forget-me-nots, and the lovely bellis perennis (English daisy) may be brought in in the same manner. These, however, will not begin to flower till after Christmas.

A WAY OF PREPARING A ROUND STEAK

Beat in flour. Have the roaster ready with enough grease to cover the bottom. Put the steak in the hot grease and let it brown on both sides.

Heat a small can of tomatoes together with a small onion. Add a cup or more of water, as the sauce should be very thin. Pour this over the hot steak, cover, put in the oven and bake slowly for 1½ hours. This has a better flavor than when tomato soup is used for a sauce.

TREES FOR RUBBER BOOTS

Rolls or cardboard act as good supporters for the rubber boots, when not in use. They will hold the boots erect permit free circulation of air and prevent their cracking

CONCERNING WOMEN

To add to their beauty some Japanese women gild their teeth.

A woman chemist in Italy is one of the most honored women in the country.

The average age of marriages of girls in Japan is between 20 and 24 years.

Germany now has a large surplus of women between the ages of 15 and 45.

Nearly 800 women are included in the membership of the American Chemical society.

Labor is so scarce in Manitoba that women have volunteered for service in the harvest fields.

The Ladies Thrift and Savings society of Japan has launched a campaign for reducing the cost of wedding.

Not a single woman is on the roll of the United States State department's foreign service school at the present time.

Now that women have been put on an equality with the men politically and educationally in Ireland, they are fast entering professions heretofore held exclusively by men.

COUNTRY HOUSE CURTAINS

Gay curtains for the kitchen of the country cottage are made of gingham or checked linen in black and red.

WHEN CUTTING BUTTER

Wrap a piece of oiled paper around the blade of the knife before cutting butter and you will be able to cut it evenly and smoothly.

RECIPES

Spanish Salad: Dissolve one package of lemon gelatin in half a pint of boiling water. Stir until dissolved. Add two tablespoons of vinegar to enough water to make one-half pint and pour altogether. Next add one teaspoon Spanish pepper. When the gelatin starts to set add three or four slices of finely chopped cold boiled ham, one cup chopped raw cabbage, quarter cup pimento shredded, three sweet pickles chopped fine, and if desired one-half cup walnut meats. Serve on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise dressing.

Chicken a la King: Four tablespoons of butter, 3 tablespoons of minced green pepper, 3 tablespoons of flour, 1-4 teaspoon of paprika, 3-4 teaspoon of salt, 2 cups of thin cream, 2 1-2 cups of diced cooked chicken, 1-2 can of mushrooms. Melt the butter and cook in it the green pepper until the latter is soft. Stir in the flour and seasonings. Add the cream gradually, stirring constantly. When boiling, set over hot water and add the chicken, mushrooms and pimentos. Serve in ramekins, patty shells, or on toast.

Stories That Recall Others

Pretty Miss

An ice cream vender passed while Betty, her aunt Ella and her mother were out on the front porch. Aunt Ella offered to get Betty some ice cream, but her mother quickly interposed, "No, I don't want her to eaten on to anything like that or she will expect it all the time."

Several days later when the vender passed Betty was heard to remark: "Oh, that's something I haven't caught on to yet."

An Organized Expedition

Grandma, visiting her daughter, went down town shopping. On the way back, as the car approached her corner, a shower came up. So she went into the corner store and called up her daughter and asked her to send Joan, age six, with an umbrella, promising an ice cream cone for the service, although she knew well it would be an eventful expedition for the little girl. And it was, beyond all expectation.

Under the awning in front of the store grandma waited. In a few minutes there came in sight across the street a procession of boys and girls, some in raincoats and some without, while in the van proudly marched Joan carrying an umbrella, under which 3 half dozen scattering youngsters tried to crowd.

When Joan spied grandma she called exultantly: "Go on in and get the ice cream cones, grandma, we're coming."

Make the Most of Books

By James Hosmer Penniman, Litt. D

Be Honest With Yourself

Have a clear view of literature, know what you like and why you like it. Be honest with yourself, do not pretend to like what you do not because other people do. Do not be afraid to be ignorant of many things, it is the price you must pay for knowing a few things well. It is only the stupid who pretend to know what they do not. An educated man is not ashamed to say that he does not know. "The acknowledgment of ignorance," said Montaigne, "is one of the best and surest testimonies of judgment that I can find." To know when you do know a thing and when you do not, is the first step towards the attainment of sound scholarship, and the next is to know where to go for information.

A WOMAN'S BATTLE

A woman who is fighting for her health and her family's happiness is a valiant soldier. She wages her battle in her own kitchen. She has no thrilling bugles to cheer her on, no waving banners. Often she becomes discouraged for ill health is a powerful foe to contend with.

For more than half a century, women have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a faithful ally in their struggle for better health.

Have you become discouraged by the same struggle? Give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a chance to be your ally, too.

Danny Has a Fight

Some people think 'tis wrong to fight,
A pity 'tis they are not right.
—Old Mother Nature.

It is one of Mother Nature's laws that nothing is worth having that isn't worth fighting for. The most precious thing in the world is life, and this is a thing which her children—even the smallest—are ever ready to fight for. At least, most of them are. Occasionally you find some too timid to fight, but it is a hard life they live and a sad one.

Danny Meadow Mouse, having come to a bar meadow which reminded him very much of his own beloved Green Meadows, started to run along a little path cut through the grass. He was quite well aware that that path had been cut by a Meadow Mouse. It was just like one of his own little paths. And Danny knew, too, that he had no business on that little path. He knew just what would have happened had he met a stranger running along one of his little paths. But Danny was trusting to luck that he would not meet the owner of that little path.

"It seems like an old path," muttered Danny. "I don't believe it's used much now, anyway. If it was a new path I would keep off it. It doesn't look to me as if anybody had used it for a long time. My, but it does seem good to be running along a little path with the grass all around and above me. I haven't felt so much at home and safe for a long time."

Now and then Danny stopped to eat and eat a little grass. It certainly was good. He began to hope that he might find an old deserted Meadow Mouse home somewhere. He would like to stay on that meadow for a while. He was trotting along with this thought in mind when he came to a sharp turn in the path. As he rounded it he almost bumped into another Meadow Mouse. Yes, sir, he did so! Right away that Meadow Mouse drew back and showed all his teeth. "Who are you?" he demanded fiercely.

Now Danny didn't feel like fighting. He tried to be polite. "I'm a stranger," said he mildly in that squeaky little voice of his. "I'm a stranger trying to get across this meadow."

"Strangers are not wanted here," squeaked the stranger. "You can't cross this meadow. At least, you can't cross it on one of my paths, and this is my path. I cut it myself."

"All right," replied Danny meekly, "if you don't want me to use your path I'll cut one of my own."

"You'll do nothing of the kind," retorted the stranger. "You'll turn around and get back off this meadow as fast as your legs can take you, or I'll know the reason why."

It was Danny's turn to lose his temper. "All right, you'll know the reason why," he squeaked, and showed all his sharp teeth.

Now the stranger may have been something of a bully, but he was no coward. He jumped at Danny, and Danny met him halfway. Then began a rough and tumble fight. My, my, it was dreadful to see such a loss of temper! They rolled over and over in the grass, and used their teeth and claws, and they fought and fought until they couldn't fight any more. They had to stop to rest. The stranger was just as big and just as strong as Danny. Danny was just as good a fighter as the stranger. So, of course, neither one won the fight. When at last they stopped fighting, each looked at the other and grinned. "Let's be friends," said the stranger. "I guess there's room enough on this meadow for you as well as for me."

"Thanks," replied Danny. "I'll stay a day or two if you don't mind."

The stranger opened his mouth to say something, but instead gave a squeal of fright and took to his heels

They rolled over and over in the grass

PSYCHOMETRIST SPEAKER AT SPIRITUAL ACADEMY

Psychometry, an art claimed to have been proven by science, was superbly demonstrated at the Spiritual Academy Sunday, by Annette P. Conyers the well known medium from Boston. She read for a large number of people at each service, and demonstrated her wonderful gift in a most interesting manner. Her brilliant wit, and vast knowledge, enables her to keep her hearers in a most happy mood. Each Sunday brings to the Spiritual Academy a new and interesting speaker and along this line, Mrs Amelia Adams, the famous flower medium, was announced for next Sunday.

Champe S Andrews of New Haven, one of the foremost orators in New England will have for his topic, "Why I Turned Yankee," when he speaks Tuesday evening before the eleventh annual meeting of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce which is to be held at 6:15 at the Wauregan hotel. He will address the meeting on the status of New England as an industrial and economic factor in the business of the United States, a subject upon which he is qualified to speak because of his experience in traveling about the country. A southerner by birth and business training he is a New Englander by choice because of his great faith in its future. Mr. Andrews is sales director for the National Folding Box Co., in New Haven, and the chamber feels fortunate in securing his services for this meeting because there are so many demands upon his time at present from many states.

An interesting programme has been prepared so that the members and their friends can spend a most interesting and profitable evening. Ladies are welcome to this meeting as well as to all meetings of the chamber of commerce and the public can attend these meetings by making reservations.

It is the policy of the chamber to bring speakers of authority to Norwich to discuss some important phase of community life or some question with which the community is interested. The very life blood of a community is its interest in civic affairs. In order to be progressive we must have new ideas and vision to look far into the future.

OBITUARY

Mrs. James A. Chester

Following a long period of ill health, Mary Quinn Chester, beloved wife of James A. Chester, died Sunday evening about 6 o'clock at her home, No. 48 Roath street. Mrs. Chester had been in ill health since last January. She was born in this city and was the daughter of the late John and Mary Quinn. In 1884 at St. Patrick's church she was united in marriage with James A. Chester, the wedding ceremony being performed by the Rev. C. C. Shahan. Mrs. Chester was a devoted member of St. Mary's Memorial church.

Surviving are her husband, James A. Chester, two daughters, Miss Catherine Chester, at home, and Mrs. Theodore Coughlin of Waterbury and two sons, John and James Chester of Norwich. There are two sisters, Mrs. Henry Mueller and Miss Elizabeth Quinn of Norwich, two brothers, Thomas and Patrick Quinn also of this city, and ten grandchildren. Mrs. Chester was well known by many residents of the Greeneville section who deeply regret the news of her death.

Mrs. Alfred P. Barrett

Following an illness of two years, Ida A. Lewis Barrett, widow of Alfred P. Barrett, died Saturday night about 11 o'clock at her home, No. 30 Eighth street. She was born in Griswold and was the daughter of the late Caleb and Patience Lewis. In January 1877 in Griswold she was united in marriage with Alfred P. Barrett who died some years ago.

For over 40 years Mrs. Barrett had made her home in this city. She was a member of the Third Baptist church. Surviving are two sons, Ira E. Barrett and Oscar A. Barrett of this city, one sister, Mrs Emma Olden of Coventry, R. I., a brother, Charles L. Lewis of Yuma, Ariz., and six grand children, Ida M., Elaine Able, Raymond L., Carrie D., Charles G., and Charlotte M. Barrett, all of this city.

Mrs. Edward H. McCall

At her home, Goshen Hill, Lebanon, Cornelia L. Brown, wife of Edward H. McCall, died Saturday night, her illness being caused by heart trouble. She had been confined to her room for three weeks but had been in ill health for several months.

Mrs. McCall was the daughter of Frederick J. and Nancy Lombard Brown and was born in Colchester, March 18, 1867. In Lebanon, 1892, she was united in marriage with Edward H. McCall and all of her married life was spent in Goshen Hill.

Mrs. McCall was one of the leaders in forming the Lebanon chapter of the D. A. R., and served as the chapter's first regent. She was vice chairman of the republican town committee in Lebanon and a member of the Colchester chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star.

Surviving are her husband, three sons, Royce McCall of Saybrook, Calvin McCall of Salem and Edward McCall, Jr., at home and one daughter, Miss Dorothy McCall, a physical instructor at New Britain. There is a brother, Frederick Brown in Colchester.

Mrs. Frederick Shea

Elizabeth Welch Shea, widow of Frederick Shea, died Sunday morning about 5 o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William J. Mallon, No. 51 Convent avenue. Mrs. Shea was born in Ireland and was the daughter of the late Patrick and Margaret Welch. She had made her home in the Greeneville section for years and was a member of St. Mary's Memorial church.

Surviving Mrs. Shea are two sons, John F. Shea and Frederick T. Shea of this city, a daughter, Mrs. William J. Mallon of No. 51 Convent avenue, one brother Patrick Welch, eight grandchildren and several nieces.

Mrs. Shea was beloved by a host of admiring friends who deeply mourn her death, and who extend heartfelt sympathy to the stricken family.

Mrs. Hannah W. Raymond

Mrs. Hannah W. Raymond passed away at the home of her son, Gilbert S. Raymond, 24 Broad street, on Sunday evening.

Mrs. Raymond was born at Scott Hill in the town of Bozrah, March 20, 1828, daughter of Gurdon Waterman and Hannah Manwaring Waterman. The early part of her life was spent in Bozrah, and in 1870 she married George Raymond who died in Poquetanuck in 1881. She removed to Norwich in 1904 and has since lived here.

She was a descendant of several of the Mayflower passengers and of Lieut. Thomas Waterman and other founders of the town of Norwich.

She is survived by a son, Gilbert S Raymond, two grandchildren, Constance Raymond and Charles Raymond of Norwich, three nieces in Brook Park, Minn., and a niece, Mrs. Gardner Avery of Canterbury, Australia.

GIRLS FROM CHURCHES TAKE PART IN RALLY

The Central Baptist church had a congregation that filled it Sunday evening for the inter-church girls' rally under the auspices of the Norwich Council of Girls' Workers. Mrs. A. C. Freeman, president of the council, presided and the following churches participated: Central and First Baptist, Trinity Methodist Episcopal, Universalist, Greeneville, United, Park, Taftville and Norwich Town Congregational, Christ Episcopal, Mt. Calvary, Baptist, Grace Memorial Baptist, and McKinley Avenue A. M. E. Zion. The music for the service was by an orchestra of girls with Grace Corey at the piano.

The theme of the rally was "How can the girls of Norwich exert a greater Christian influence in the community?" and the service was carried out as follows: Opening prayer, Mazie Stamm; anthem, Central Baptist girls; roll call with scripture verses; dramatized hymn, Universalist girls; address, Mrs. Freeman; orchestra selection; scripture lesson, Evelyn Wheeler; offering, with orchestra selection; "Preparation for Service, Christian Simpson, Dorothy Dewing, Faith Allen; song, Taftville girls; hymn by the congregation; in the Home and School Life of the Community, Grace Wheeler; in the Social Life of the Community, Grace Corey; in the Church Life of the Community, Helen Clapp; song, chorus, Mount Calvary, Grace Memorial and A. M. E. Zion church girls.

After a hymn by the congregation, the benediction was pronounced by Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D.

RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE AFTER AUTOMOBILE CRASH

Guiseppe Berghinso of 30 Thames street was arrested Sunday afternoon by Officer Gwizdowski, on a charge of reckless driving after a collision on West Main street with the automobile driven by Daniel C. O'Connell of 58 Spring street. The accident happened at the intersection of Falls avenue and West Main street. The charge of driving without registration was added, against Berghinzo, when it was found that the car he was operating was registered in the name of his son, Chester, but the registration papers were not in the car nor with the driver.

GIVES REVIEW OF 30 YEARS AS RECTOR OF TRINITY CHURCH HERE

A Thirty Year Review of Parish Life, was the topic of a special historical sermon delivered at the Sunday morning service at Trinity Episcopal church, Main street, by Rev. J. Eldred Brown, who has just completed 30 years' service as rector of the church. In spite of the inclement weather, a large sized congregation assembled at the church.

Rev. Mr. Brown took as the text for his sermon, Psalm 143-5; I remember the days of old; I meditate on all thy works; I muse on the work of thy hands.

To review the story of a 30 years rectorship is not altogether an unmixed pleasure, said Rev. Mr. Brown. For one thing it reminds one of one's many failings and mistakes. I have sometimes marvelled at the patience and long-suffering of a congregation which could endure to sit under the same preacher for practically a generation. But perhaps no such thing ever takes place. For, in the course of 30 years every congregation is bound to encounter many changes. And it may well be that at the end of such a period not very many will be left who remember its beginning. But this also contributes its strain of sadness to such a review.

REV. J. ELDRED BROWN

Faithful Laymen and Church Women

The study of the parish records necessary to the preparation of such a sermon as this inevitably not only refreshes the memory of dear and devoted parishioners who "having finished their course in faith, do now rest from their labors". When a rector stays long enough in a parish to have to say the last rites over a long list of faithful laymen and devoted women, it lays a large strain upon his emotions and I think severely tempts him to take a pessimistic attitude toward the future of his parish. Such thoughts came to me almost inevitably as I recorded the names of those in this parish of such faithful laymen as Henry L. Parker, James L. Geer, Frederick R. Wastie, Dr. J. B. F. Fuller, Rees D. Jones, William M. Cleott, William H. Cardwell, J. P. Taft, Avery D. Wheeler, Alfred Pasely Lewis, P. Heath, Charles Edgar Chapman, Charles H. Phelps and a number of such devoted church women as the Misses Sarah H. T. Adelaide M. Coit, Emma Revell, Ellen Geer, Caroline R. Thompson, Carrie A. Perkins, Mabel A. Cardwell and Miss Elizabeth Randall, Mrs. Olivia Rood, Mrs. William H. Cardwell, Mrs. A. D. Wheeler, Mrs. Rebecca Foss, Mrs. William Prichard, and many others.

Those still the present rector remembers as leaders of the congregation as consecrated Christian brethren sharing in our worship and work, our joys and our sorrows, by which, "being dead, they yet speak to us" for "their works do follow them."

You will excuse me, I trust, for beginning this sermon in a somewhat somber strain for you will realize that in reviewing such a long period, it is only natural that the thought of God, great Hope should make a deep impression on my mind. But, brethren, we have in our memories not only the sad thoughts connected with the loss of these dear departed brothers and sisters, but also the many precious thoughts connected with their life and work, with and among us. Therefore let us say as we have said before, "The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord."

Early Contributions To Church

I had not been long the rector of this parish when I discovered that a considerable part of its material equipment needed renewing or replacing. The first need in this respect I felt was that of a new silver communion set for the one in use was so thin and so poorly balanced as to be almost impossible to use without the greatest care. Therefore it seemed best to start a subscription for a new set. But before the subscription was well started, the daughters of Mrs. William Fitch came to me and offered to give an entire set in memory of their mother.

The rector went to New York and was given full liberty to choose such a set as would be agreeable to him. Such was the origin of our present beautiful and substantial set of communion silver. The next material need which attracted my attention was that of altar vestments. No sooner was this need called to the notice of the congregation than it was promptly met by individual gifts, a beautiful and elaborate set of white hangings being given by Mr. Calvin L. Rawson, an equally beautiful purple set, by Henry F. Parker, and a green set to compare with the others by Mrs. Elizabeth Randall.

At this same time the church received from Mrs. William E. Fitch a cassock, a surplice, a white stole and a white autependium for the pulpit. For a long time it had become apparent that the organ had seen its best days and sorely needed replacing. And I well remember how the gift of our present organ was brought about.

I was calling on Mr. Calvin Rawson when he said: "By the way, Mr. Brown, what was the matter with the organ on Sunday?" To which I replied, "Why, Mr. Rawson, that old organ is nothing but a box of whistles, anyway; no one but Miss Thompson would have the patience to bother with it." "But couldn't it be repaired?" he asked. "No," I said, "it is not worth thinking of, particularly as I suppose a new organ suitable to our purposes can be bought for $2,000." "Well," said Mr. Rawson, "if such a new organ as you desire can be bought for that sum, I will give it to the church." And so, our organ was given and installed in 1900.

By that time I had learned that the members of Trinity parish loved to give to their church and this fact made me bold to ask for new prayer desks, those in use having been loaned by a sister parish, and for clergy stalls. The request was promptly met and our present memorial prayer desks and clergy stalls were given by Miss Mary H. Bill, Misses Ellen and Lucy Geer and Miss Ellen Hill.

Celebrated Fiftieth Anniversary

From that time to this the church has received many memorial gifts from parishioners, all of which at this time would require a large part of the remaining space of this sermon. I must therefore leave this subject for the present at least, and turn to other matters. The year 1900 was made memorable for this parish as the occasion of its 50th anniversary which was celebrated by an evening service on Tuesday, May 22, when we had with us Bishop Brewster and five of the six living former rectors, Rev. Dr. John Vaughn Lewis, Rev. Dr. William W. Silvester, Rev. Dr. Storrs O. Seymour and Rev. Eric B. Schmitt. Addresses were made by the bishop and the former rectors present and the service was followed by a reception in the church school room.

On the Sunday previous the present rector preached a historical sermon, entitled, "A Half-Century of Parish Life," the sermon having been afterwards printed by private subscription. In the course of that sermon I mentioned three men as having been outstanding leaders of the parish for many years for the length and the quality of their services. These men were Henry L. Parker, S. Alpheus Gilbert and Charles Billings Chapman. Of these Mr. Parker and Mr. Chapman continued to give the same full measure of devotion to the parish unto their life's end and they have both left us sons, who in the persons of Henry Fitch Parker and Percival Warburton Chapman, have proved themselves to be worthy sons of worthy fathers by showing the same sort of devotion to parish in a varied and continuous service of many years. Mr. Gilbert, we are thankful to say, is still with us, as interested in and devoted to the parish as ever.

What I said of him in the anniversary sermon, of his long and varied service to the parish, I would say still more emphatically today, for he has added 26 years since then to his remarkable record. Mr. Gilbert, also, has a son who has followed close in his footsteps in the length and quality of his faithful service. It is a pleasure for me to bear witness that these three sons of the outstanding leaders of the parish, in 1900—Henry Fitch Parker, Percival W. Chapman and Walter E. Gilbert—are outstanding among the leaders of the parish today. And right here I want to say that throughout this long rectorship I have always found in the vestry of Trinity church a group of faithful and loyal men. There have of course from time to time been differences of opinion and judgment between rector and vestry, but these differences have always been adjusted harmoniously in a spirit of genuine Christian brotherhood.

Twice during the present rectorship the question has come up of the possible consolidation of Christ church and Trinity church, namely in 1900 and in 1923, in both instances on the initiative of Christ church. Each time after due consideration, it has seemed best to preserve Trinity church to its own independence.

In 1904 the rectory of this parish on Washington street was sold and in 1905 the present rectory on Otis street was purchased from the Second Congregational church which had occupied it as a parsonage.

Although this sermon is supposed to treat particularly of the story of the parish during the present rectorship, you will bear me witness that neither in my preaching nor leadership have I ever favored or countenanced that narrow spirit of localism, of parochialism, which is wrapped up in the interests and concerns of its own local church. We are an integral part of the great universal church of Christ and it has been the consistent endeavor of the present rectorship to develop in it increase your interest and participation in the great world-wide cause of the Kingdom of God And I think you will witness that in large part you have responded to the appeal and call of the Master and Saviour of us all.

Large Missionary Interest

Missionary and benevolent giving is a matter of education. The parish response is shown by the fact that we are now giving for missionary and benevolent objects at least fourteen times as much as we gave thirty years ago.

That reminds me that the parish has been very generous to the present rector in allowing him to give so much of his time to the work of the diocese and that of institutional and social service. This, in my judgment is the only real justification for a man of health and energy to be contented to remain in charge of a comparatively small parish for so many years. As archdeacon of the missionary territory of the diocese for over 19 years, it has been my privilege to help erect several missions into independent parishes and to help raise the minimum salary of clergy in charge of missions from the low average of seven hundred dollars to an average of about twelve hundred.

As general manager of the Elias Memorial Home for twenty-nine years and its president since 1912, and as minister in charge of the Protestant patients at Uncas-on-Thames sanatorium, I have been able, in your name, and with your support, to do a considerable amount of institutional and social service work. And as a member of the executive council of the diocese and deputy for many years to the Synod of the province of New England and a member of many important diocesan committees, I have been permitted by you to extend the work of this parish far beyond its ordinary bounds.

Membership Statistics

Taken altogether with the work of the parish these have provided me with what I deem "a man's job." And I am most grateful to you for granting me the time and opportunity for this larger work. With so much that I might say, had I the time and with such a mass of material to draw from, it is difficult to make selection and a most inevitable that a discourse of this kind should seem scrappy and disconnected. Statistics for example are not always an accurate measure of a church's work and life. And yet, a few statistics will not be uninteresting to you. There have been received into the church during the period of my rectorship by baptism, confirmation and letters of transfers about 600 persons. We have lost by death and transfer 225 persons and there have been 162 marriages within the parish, besides a number performed by the rector in other parishes. Thirty years ago the total endowments of the parish amounted to $2,300; today, the parish has an endowment of about $30,000.

Devoted Women Workers

The parish owes a large debt of gratitude to its devoted women workers for long and continuous service in the interest of the parish, local, diocesan and general. Mrs. Henry L. Bennett was for several years the efficient head of the parish aid, and is still a valued member. More recently we all are familiar with the faithful and energetic work of Mrs. Brinkman, Mrs. Clark, Mrs. A. P. Williams, Mrs. O. H.

FORESTERS HAVE 32 IN THE "MAYOR'S CLASS"

A very large crowd witnessed Court Welch degree team of Waterville, known throughout the state as the most proficient team in the state, exemplify the ritualistic work of the Foresters of America upon a class of 32 candidates in Olympic hall on Saturday night, as a testimonial class to Grand Chief Ranger Henry A. Congdon who is a member of Court City of Norwich, No. 63. The class was named the mayor's class, at which time His Honor Mayor Mile R. Waters became a member of Court City of Norwich, as well as of the Foresters of America.

After the degree work Grand Chief Ranger Congdon took charge of the meeting and after expressing his thanks and appreciation for the work that has been done by the members and asking for their support in the membership drive that is going on throughout the state, Mayor Waters spoke very interestingly and complimented the degree team on their excellent work. Former Mayor T. C. Murphy, a charter member of the Foresters in Norwich, told of the value of membership in the order and asked for the earnest co-operation of all the members in this year's work.

Grand Secretary O'Loughlin told of the present membership and the work that is being done throughout the state by the different courts. He spoke of the different class initiations that are taking place and of the bright outlook for the rest of the year.

Ex Past Grand Chief Ranger Wm. Dunlavey of Waterville who has charge of the degree team spoke on the interest taken by the members of the team and also thanked the local members for giving the team the opportunity of making the Norwich trip by their work in the interest of the order.

Past Grand Chief Ranger P. J. Cavanaugh of Torrington was introduced and touched upon the motto of the order and explained "Liberty, Unity Benevolence and Concord." He also spoke of the number of Foresters that entered the late World war and mentioned that 2,500 members paid the supreme sacrifice, and that the order through its funeral fund kept all of its service members in financial standing and paid all claims to their dependents. The thoroughly American and benevolent spirit of the order was dwelt upon at length.

After the speaking was over all adjourned to the Foresters club where refreshments were served and a social time provided by several of the local and visiting members.

Sunday afternoon the same degree team accompanied by the grand court officers went to Putnam and worked the degree for Court City of Putnam on a class of 28 candidates. The same thorough work was again done and Grand Trustee Edward Girard of Putnam expressed his thanks and satisfaction for the manner in which the team carried out the ritualistic and floor work.

TAXI CAB IS RESCUED FROM SHETUCKET RIVER

In about two hours after it had been rescued from a 24 hour submersion in the Shetucket river near the foot of Rose place, a new yellow taxi cab owned by Thomas J. Shahan, had its engine running again Sunday afternoon.

The cab went into the river Saturday afternoon about 1 o'clock from the parking place on the edge of the stream in the rear of the Preston Bros. Co. store, when Angelo Pomo, one of the drivers employed by Mr. Shahan, cranked the machine. Another driver who had parked the car had left it in reverse and when Pomo cranked the machine it promptly started backwards, jumped some heavy logs and disappeared in about 15 feet of water.

Sunday morning about 10 o'clock a diver and a lighter from the Merritt-Chapman & Scott Co., at New London came here and raised the taxi cab with a crane from the river bed and swung it onto the deck of the lighter, which then steamed around to Chappell's dock where the taxi was put ashore. From there it was towed to a garage and the machinery put into condition for running again.

When the taxi went into the water it slid over on its side as it sunk to the bottom and nothing about it was broken not even a pane of glass.

The raising of the machine made entertainment for a big crowd that assembled on Laurel Hill bridge and along the river bank while the diver and the lighter crew were at work.

The cab is valued at $2,800 and the expense of getting it back to dry land was said to be about $300.

CRASH IN "THE PINES" ON MILITARY HIGHWAY

A new Nash roadster, owned and driven by William J. Caron of Thirteenth street, formerly of Baltic, had damage done to it estimated at between $600 and $700 when it was run into on one of the curves in The Pines, near the state hospital, on the Military highway early Saturday evening by a Dodge roadster with Massachusetts registration, which was driven by a sailor whose name could not be learned from the state police barracks at Groton on Sunday night. It was claimed that the sailor was driving at a reckless rate of speed.

A chief petty officer, one of the three occupants of the sailor's machine, went flying out through the windshield and was taken to the submarine base to have his injuries attended to.

The Baltic man's car was raked along its left side by the sailor's machine, which was twisted and crushed in the collision so that little of value was left to it except the rear wheels, the battery and the steering wheel. State Policeman Kengerson investigated the accident and the cars were removed to the W. C. Noyes garage on Laurel Hill.

LARGE CONGREGATION FOR OPENING OF MISSION

A congregation of about 1,000 women at St. Mary's Memorial church Sunday evening made an auspicious opening for the mission to be conducted there for two weeks by Dominican Fathers. Rev. Father Conlin, one of the two priests who will conduct the mission, gave instruction on the rosary and preached an eloquent sermon upon the principles, ideals and benefits of the mission.

It was announced that the masses this (Monday) morning will be at 5 and 8 o'clock and the evening service will be at 7:30. Father Conlin will give the instruction at the masses and at the evening service, but a second priest who is coming for the mission will deliver the sermon.

POLICE MAKE ARREST ON LIQUOR VIOLATION CHARGE

Stanley Chmielewski, proprietor of a store at 435 North Main street, was arrested late Saturday night on the charge of violation of the liquor law. A pint bottle containing what is alleged to be liquor, was secured by the police. Chmielewski's wife gave bonds for his appearance in the city court. The arresting police squad consisted of Sergeant Mathew Delaney, Officers P. Shahan, A. Lamphere, J. Gendron and P. Murphy.

CHARLES J. DYER ABLE TO SIT UP DURING DAY

During Sunday, Charles J. Dyer, ill at his home on Sachem street, was able to sit up in bed for a time and is showing evidences of improvement. Mr. Dyer is very appreciative of the many inquiries of friends regarding his condition.

HARVEST FESTIVAL BY GERMAN LUTHERAN CHURCH

Harvest festival services were held Sunday at the First Evangelical Lutheran church with special music by the choir and a sermon by the pastor, Rev. H. Hunzinger, at the morning service at 10:30. The services were continued in the afternoon at 3 o'clock, when the congregation filled the church and included about 20 visitors from the Lutheran church in Webster and several from Seymour. The sermon by the pastor was upon a thanksgiving theme and the choir rendered special selections.

Following the afternoon service there was a reception in the Sunday school room under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society, and six Bible tableaux were given, with scripture readings by the pastor. Those taking part in the tableaux were Mrs. Herman Retkovski, Miss Anna Retkovski, Miss Anna Retkovski, Miss Grace Sabrowski, Miss Olga Gross, Miss Edna Weingraber and Robert Gross.

Supper was served and was followed by an entertainment at which Mrs Frank Decker, president of the Ladies Aid, gave a welcome in verse. An orchestra under the direction of Frank Decker rendered selections and the programme included the following: Piano and violin selection, Miss Alma and Freda Phillip; duet by Miss Grace Sabrowski and Miss Edith Hunzinger with Miss Anna Werth at the piano; duet by Miss Olga Zachae and Miss Marie Hunzinger with Miss Freda Phillip at the piano.

Mrs. Anderson Called Away

Mrs. Rosemary Anderson of New London, announced as one of the speakers at the republican rally this (Monday) evening, notified Chairman George M. Charbonneau Saturday that she had been called unexpectedly to New York by the critical illness of a friend, who is in a hospital in Manhattan. However, Mrs. Anderson is hoping to be able to return in time for the rally and if possible for the public reception tonight.

Collided on West Thames Street

Two automobiles operated by their owners were in collision Sunday morning about 11 o'clock on West Thames street opposite the school house. The Overland touring car of John D. Carroll of 73 Francis avenue, Hartford, was crippled in the crash and had to be towed to a garage, while the Ford commercial car of Marcin Wrobel of Montville sustained minor damage. It was understood that the Hartford man assumed liability for the damages.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Admiral and Mrs. Clarence A. Carr of the Pequot, have as their guest Harrison McNear of New York. They are giving an anniversary dinner Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Martin of New York who spent the week end with the former's sister, Mrs. John S Blackmar of Broadway, left town Sunday evening.

Miss Barbara F. Allen and Mrs. Helen B. Zabriskie of Norwich, with Mrs. Robert B. Chappell of New London, have returned after several days stay in New York.

Edmund C. Johnston of Broad street New London, entertained with a dinner dance at Lighthouse Inn Saturday evening. Mr. Johnston is giving another dance Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Eben Learned have as their guest Mrs. Learned's brother-in-law, L. Warrington Cottman of Baltimore. With Mr. Cottman they went motor to Boston today (Monday) to meet Mrs. Cottman and daughter, who are returning from Europe.

Mrs. Ozias Dodge was in Salem Mass., during the week, to attend the New England conference of the American Association of museums. At the sessions emphasized the educational side of museum work and its value in co-operation with the schools.

Henry J. LaFontaine of Norwich arrived home at the week end from Philadelphia, where he gave a song recital, with Herbert Dittler Vaughn, of Columbia university assisting. The affair was given by Mrs. Sarah Tyler Marshall, daughter of Mrs. Augustus Cleveland Tyler of The Pequot. New London Press, who were most appreciative of Mr. LaFontaine's singing.

Norwich Delphian chapter opened the season Saturday afternoon with an exceedingly interesting meeting at the home of Mrs. Edward D. Fuller. During a brief business session, when the president, Mrs. Alfred N. H. Vaughn had charge, it was voted to hold meetings the first and third Thursdays of each month, until Jan. 1, to avoid conflicting with other dates. Mrs. Fuller was leader of the study hour, giving an account of Percy Bysshe Shelley during his short life, also reading several of his poems. Mrs.

YALE'S VICTORY OVER DARTMOUTH WAS FEATURE OF COLLEGE GAMES

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Ancient rivalries, rich in tradition, and international affair spiced with the lure of north pitted against the south, east against west, have contributed their early color to the gridiron campaign of 1926.

As a result today high above all else in the eastern football realm stands the Bulldog of Eli Yale, a band of giant-killers, whose tenacity and courage sent the Dartmouth Indian, recognized champion in 1925, back to a wigwam in the Hanover Hills, defeated for the first time in almost three years.

Yale Upsets the Dope

Favored to whip Yale, and for the first time in their eight meetings, because of master-generalship, speed power and a forward passing attack that had swept all before it, the Redmen of the north found each of their weapons turned against them with telling effect. In achieving the 14 to 7 victory, the Elis not only came from behind but turned the tide ith a volley of passes that swept Dartmouth into confusion. Vested in Yale westerday was all the versatility of the vaunted Green attack. And a new hero comparatively unknown, "Doc" McGonigle, stepped into the place left by injured veterans, and in the fourth quarter clinched the overthrow of Green aerial supremacy, first with the interception of a pass and later with the toss that brought victory.

Navy Sinks the Tiger

The Princeton Tigers, faltering for the past two weeks but still edging out a victory and a tie met a powerful Navy crew with a deceptive running attack that might alone could conques.

The gaps that yawned in the Tiger forward wall under the drive of a low-charging middle line, let plunging backs through to the 27 to 13 win.

Vieing in color with the Yale-Dartmouth spectacle, was the vicious onslaught of a great Pennsylvania Cleaver that crushed a menace from the west, Chicago, in the outstanding, intersectional warfare of the day. Only one first down was the gain of the bewildered westerners, who faced a barrage of speedy backs and tricky double passes with a line that was outdriven, a backfield outgeneralled and an eleven consistently outplayed in the 27 to 0 rout.

Invaders From South Fall

While a similar fate met the invasion of two southern elevens—the Green wave of Tulane, battered and broken against the New York university bulwark, 21 to 6, and the Virginians from William and Mary, smothered 27 to 7 under the first winning Harvard surge of the season—Ohio state warriors, led by another new satellite, Freddie Grim, were overpowering Columbia with all-round brilliance at the Polo Grounds here. The Blue and White could stop Byron Eby and occasionally Marty Karow, with equal abandon in the crushing 33 to 7 conquest. Equally overwhelming was the defeat of Penn state by Notre Dame, 28 to 0. In the lone eastern invasion of the west, the Nittany Lions were never dangerous, as Rockne's men raced at will through the Penn state line, turned the ends, and threw a bewildering assortment of forward passes.

Colgate and Syracuse Beaten

Two of the big three from upper New York state, Colgate and Syracuse, met with fighting defeat by narrow margins while the third, Cornell, coped successfully with the invasion of Michigan state. The fighting heart of a potentially great Army team carried the Cadets to a 27 to 21 win over Syracuse after an intercepted pass and fumble had given the Orange a fourteen point start in the first half. Pittsburgh rose from the ruck of indifferent football to plow Colgate under, 19 to 16, but Cornell came to the sections' rescue by trouncing Michigan State 24 to 14.

The crafty strength of the West Virginia mountaineers made itself felt in the final minutes of the Georgetown game when a passing foray, suddenly unleashed, brought the touchdown needed to nose out the Hoya 13 to 10. The fast Holy Cross backs ran through Rutgers for 24 points while the defense held tight. Bates startled Brown by scoring twice, but after the shock had worn away the Brunonians settled to the task of grinding out the 27 to 14 edge.

Flying Footballers Win

Taxiing by airplane to football games may become general for the Quantico marines defeated Lehigh 13-0 after an air journey. Lafayette smothered Dickinson 43 to 13 and Washington and Jefferson managed to maintain a safe margin over Carnegie Tech, 17 to 6. Allegheny was a touchdown and goal better than Bethany, 14 to 7. Geneva continued to sweep aside all opposition with Canisius the latest to feel the might of the new Golden tornado 28 to 9.

MORE HEAVYWEIGHTS BATTLE ON NEXT FRIDAY NIGHT

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Heavyweights with an eye to the title of Gene Tunney or a battle with Jack Sharkey, the latest Boston strong boy to determine the final challenger, mingle Friday night in the ring at Madison Square Garden in the second of Tex Rickard's elimination series to determine the outstanding aspirant for championship honors.

Three ten-round contests feature the tournament and the winner of each will have taken a lengthy stride along the path of a title battle.

Arthur De Kuh, heavy hitting Italian of New York, has Jim Maloney, of Boston, who proved a thorn in the side of Shawkey in early meetings, barring the way. De Kuh, a heavy puncher in his own right, is engaging a slugger who floored Sharkey several times in their three fights.

Carl Carter, the big Cuban, faces Monte Munn, "larruping legislator," of Nebraska in the second match. Carter, who knocked out Bud Gorman, sparring partner of Tunney in their first meeting only to lose a return engagement has a wide edge in experience over the westerner. Most of Munn's fights have been brief with opponents finding it difficult to answer the bell for the third round.

Jack De Mave, the "Golden Boy" of Hoboken, has a rugged opponent in Roberto Deifino, Chilean heavyweight. De Mave, because of his experience, is picked to outscore the South American.

JOE BOLEY GETS HIS CHANCE IN MAJORS

BALTIMORE, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Joe Boley, star shortstop of the Baltimore International league club, realized a seven year major league dream today when Manager Jack Dunn officially announced his sale to the Philadelphia American league club for cash and players. The amount of cash the Athletics will part with for the services of "Silent Joe," for whom Dunn once refused $100,000 was not revealed nor have the players yet been named. Baltimore won seven straight pennants with Boley at short. He reports to Connie Mack in the spring.

TAFTVILLE MILL LEAGUE OPENS WITH EIGHT TEAMS

At the Taftville Alleys on Thursday evening the Taftville mill league comprising team representing eight departments of the Posemah mill opened with all teams bowling in midseason form. The league is attracting no little attention and there is much interest among the various departments of the mill. The company has offered a large silver loving cup to the winners and there will also be $100 in cash prizes divided at the end of the season. The results of the opening games were as follows:

THREE TOP LIST IN BIG TEN FOOTBALL

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—(AP)—The third round of the western conference season, when the Big Ten games swung into action against each other, finds Michigan, Illinois and Northwestern with high hopes of a successful season. Ohio and Chicago have not yet played a conference game but Ohio has three alien scalps at her belt, while Chicago has two but was beaten by Pennsylvania. Wisconsin and Purdue have a scoreless tie on the record, while others have bowed in defeat. The conference standing:

	Won	Lost	Tied
Michigan	1	0	0
Illinois	1	0	0
Northwestern	1	0	0
Wisconsin	0	0	1
Purdue	0	0	1
Minnesota	0	1	0
Indiana	0	1	0
Iowa	0	1	0

LACOSTE TO LIVE IN U. S. FOR A YEAR

PARIS, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Rene Lacoste, who won the United States National Tennis championship in September, has practically decided, to take up residence for a year in the United States after the 1927 Wimbledon championships.

Lacoste's father is head of a large firm of automobile manufacturers and Rene will assume an active part in the business when his military service ends next May.

ALABAMA CONTINUES ITS MARCH FOR SOUTHERN TITLE

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 17.—(AP)—University of Alabama continued its rush toward its third southern conference championship Saturday by defeating Georgia Tech 21 to 0, while two conference teams were returned victors in the three inter-sectional games scheduled and from these contests Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Washington and Lee, and Louisiana State University bettered their position in the conference standing, the first two having a clean record.

Alabama's three touchdowns were the result of Winslett's unerring passing.

Hendrix, Vanderbilt fullback, ran wild in the third quarter at Dallas, to score one touchdown victory over the University of Texas Longhorns.

The University of Mississippi entertained hundreds of former students at the annual Ole Miss homecoming celebration at Oxford by defeating Loyola university of Chicago 13 to 7.

Mike Donohue, former coach at Auburn, brought his Louisiana State University Tigers to Montgomery to defeat his former charges 10 to 0, in a game that surprised pre-game dopeters.

Washington and Lee's Generals defeated the Kentucky Wildcats in the opening conference game for both teams 13 to 13.

Virginia Polytechnic Institute upset predictions and defeated Maryland University 2 4to 3, while Virginia Military Institute was bowing before the University of Virginia 14 to 7.

In the games with non-conference teams the greatest surprise of the day was the 34-7 defeat of the University of Georgia at the hands of Furman. Schneider's 97 yard dash for one of the Furman touchdowns was a feature.

HAWLEY GIVES CREDIT TO YALE FOR VICTORY

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Yale football coaches announced tonight that no Eli players were injured in the 14 to 7 triumph over Dartmouth yesterday and that the disabled men in the Blue squad would return to the team before the Army game two weeks away.

In an interview granted the Yale News, Coach Jess Hawley, of the Dartmouth eleven said:

"The better team won. Noble played a brilliant game at halfback and was perfectly supported by the other backs. The Yale line clearly outrushed the Dartmouth line."

The appearance of Louis (Rip) Ordway with the Yale team yesterday, came as a surprise to many Yale men as it had been announced two weeks ago that he would be unable to play football this fall because of his unfavorable scholastic standing. A few days before the game, however, it was discovered that an error had been made and that he was eligible for athletics. Ordway, who prepared at the Berkshire school, was a star on the freshman team two years ago.

CARR LEADS SCORERS OF EASTERN FOOTBALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Carr, of Syracuse, with eight touchdowns and 11 added points has scored a total of 59 points for his team and stands out as a leading scorer for the season in the east thus far. Wascolonis, of Pennsylvania, has scored five touchdowns and added ten points and Wilson, of Lafayette, has made seven touchdowns but has not increased his scoring total by kicking.

Among leading scorers in the east:

	Total T	Fg.	Pg.
Carr, Syracuse	95	8	0 11
Wilson, Lafayette	42	7	0 0
Wascolonis, Pennsylvania	40	5	0 10

Clappam Beats Thye

MELBOURNE, Aus. Oct. 17—(AP)—Sam Clappam, of England, today for the second time defeated Ted Thye, former holder of the light heavyweight wrestling championship. Clappam won on points. On Sept. 25 he won from Thye, scoring one fall to nothing in twelve ten minute rounds.

MICHIGAN LOOMS ON HORIZON AS LOGICAL WINNER OF "BIG TEN" TITLE

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—(AP)—The race for the football championship of the big ten is in full swing tonight with Michigan looming up stronger than ever as the outstanding challenger to capture the title. At least that is the conclusion of expert observers as the result of the opening games yesterday which were ushered in with only one upset.

Coach Jimmy Phelans plucky little Purdue team was the outfit to puncture advance predictions. The Boilermakers not only held Wisconsin to a scoreless tie but, led by the shifty "Cotton" Wilcox, had the Badgers fighting furiously in the second half to avert defeat.

Michigan, running true to form, ran roughshod over Minnesota, piling up a 20 to 0 victory. The Wolverines were paced to victory by their brilliant captain, Benhy Friedman.

"Frosty" Peters, the Billings, Mont. youth, seems destined to take up the work at Illinois where "Red" Grange left off a year ago. Peters, playing his first championship contest gave the 50,000 Orange and Blue followers a thrill by his spectacular running and kicking. It was Frosty's toe that in two dropkicks retrieved the six points that "Cowboy Nick" Lutsch had scored for Iowa on a sixty yard run for a touchdown in the second play of the game.

Northwestern gave evidence that it intends to travel in the charmed circle by smashing Indiana after a scoreless three periods. The longer the battle wages, apparently, the better the northwestern players become. Coach Pat Page's men staged a heroic defense for three periods but crumpled before the plunging of Tiny Lewis and Moon Baker in the fourth.

Two conference teams have yet to face their baptism in the championship race. Both traveled east yesterday, Ohio state ran up a 32 to 7 triumph over Columbia, while Chicago invaded Philadelphia and was lucky to escape with its suits after coming in contact with the strong Pennsylvania eleven.

PELTZER LOWERS HIS OWN WORLD'S RECORD

HAMBURG, Germany, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Dr. Otto Peltzer, the German champion middle distance runner, competing in a track meet here today, ran 2,000 metres in two minutes 27.4 seconds. This lowers his own and the previous world record the latter made by Sven Lundgren, 2:28.5 in 1922. It does not equal the figure 2:26.8 set by Seraphin Martin, of France, which, however, has not yet been officially confirmed.

PENN STATE LEADS EAST IN POINT SCORING

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Thanks largely to 62 points scored in its opening game of the season, Penn State leads eastern football teams with a total of 165. The University of Pennsylvania ranked second with a total of 152 points. Lafayette was third with 142. Dartmouth was fourth with 137 and Syracuse and Georgetown were tied at 136 each.

Sport Chatter

A recovered fumble by Winslow of Putnam resulted in the touchdown that won for Putnam High on Saturday from the Webster, Mass. High by a score of 6 to 0.

Bulkeley High of New London by use of straight football sent Commercial High down to defeat 13 to 3 at New Haven on Saturday afternoon. Menghi was the star for Bulkeley.

Those that saw Yale with a team [illegible] by injuries snatch victory from the Dartmouth team saw as good a game as was played on an Eastern gridiron Saturday. As is often the case it was an unsung substitute that sprang in and monopolized the spotlight. His name is McGonigle.

Maine proved the undoing of Coach Doles Connecticut Aggies, the Nutmeggers being unable to penetrate the Maine line and were forced to accept a 21 to 0 defeat.

Now that Jack Dunn has at last given Joe Boley his fling at major league baseball it is possible that he wishes that he had Joe Faber back to step into the shortfield position next year.

When Eddie Dooley threw out one football at the Yale Bowl and then had it tossed back to him without his knowing the difference it was nothing unusual. This same thing has been seen time and again in baseball by the umpires.

New Britain High, conquerors of Norwich Academy, defeated the Springfield Commerce team Saturday 16 to 0.

Bruce Caldwell, brilliant Yale back, is more seriously injured than first reported, having a broken ankle instead of a mere sprain as first supposed. Still there is McGonigle left.

Joe Turnesa, Fairview pro, won the Metropolitan golf title Saturday when he defeated Joe Sylvester of the St Albans club, 6 and 5.

Many football fans who went to Hartford Sunday to see the Hartford Blues-Steamroller game were disappointed to find that the game had been called off because of rain. College teams play in all kinds of weather.

ENJOYABLE PARTY GIVEN FOR MISS HELENA COUGHLIN

Saturday evening in the large piano salon of The Plaut-Cadden Co., a very enjoyable surprise party and shower was given Miss Helena Coughlin by her associates at the Plaut-Cadden store. The occasion was in honor of her approaching marriage and to enable her co-workers and the officers of the company to get together for a farewell party.

The bride-to-be was the recipient of many useful and handsome gifts, one of which was a magnificent complete set of Gorham sterling silver. The beautiful gift was a fitting manifestation of the high esteem in which Miss Coughlin is held by her business associates and she feelingly expressed her appreciation, stating that while she found it hard to sever her pleasant business relations she hoped to get together socially with them again as often as possible.

The termination of Miss Coughlin's connection with The Plaut-Cadden Co., was received with deep regret by her employers and co-workers, with whom she has been associated for the past ten years as office and credit manager but in view of the reason for her resignation it was accepted with the best wishes of everyone for her future happiness.

Following the presentation of the gifts a two hour program of music and dancing was enjoyed after which refreshments were served.

Miss Coughlin will be married on Wednesday morning to S. John O'Herren of Pittsfield, Mass. They will sail Friday, Oct. 22, on the S. S. Rochambeau on a two months' honeymoon trip through France, England and Ireland.

MASSACHUSETTS TRUCK HITS POLE ON WESTERLY CURVE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WETERLY, R. I., Oct. 17.—A large White truck, owned by Atkison Transportation company, Inc., of 80 Pleasant street, Bridgewater, Mass., while coming down the Vincent Carr hill tonight at 8 o'clock struck an electric light pole on the High street curve near Pleasant street and capsized, bringing down the electric light wires on High street from Pleasant street nearly to Pierce street. The driver, anxious to make New York by 7 a. m. Monday, with a heavy load of shoes, did not know of the sharp curve which was wet and slippery. He escaped uninjured. The truck was righted and proceeded under its own power While traffic was diverted for two hours by Officers Michael Curtin, Leroy Norman and Frank Knight, repairs were being made by the light and power company.

CASE OF BESSIE KING, COLCHESTER, AGAIN CONTINUED AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 17—Bessie King, who came here from Colchester, where she was declared to be a disturber among garment workers, came here last July and was instrumental in creating trouble, at a garment factory on Bank street. She was arrested then with Tony Coralchuk for inciting the workers to strike, for the pair were in the factory and was doing their best to start trouble when the police were called and they were arrested and presented in the police court. They were cautioned then and their cases have been held in abeyance since. The trouble at the factory has not been entirely adjusted yet, so the complaints against this pair was still further continued. It is understood the King woman has been arrested in Bridgeport, since she was taken into custody here, for the same offense for which she is held in New London.

ROBERT E. LEE DISGRACES A GOOD HISTORIC NAME

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 17—A raiding squad consisting of Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolmen Clarence Martin, Thomas Lyden, Edward Riordan and Lawrence Purdy, visited the residence of Robert E. Lee, colored, of 25 Douglas street, long reputed to be a house of ill fame, Saturday night and arrested Lee and those found in the house. Lee was charged with conducting a disorderly house and furnished a bond of $200 for his presentation in the police court Monday morning. Louise Brown, colored 32, who said she was housekeeper for Lee, was charged with keeping a disorderly house and she, also, furnished a surety bond of $200 for presentation in court Monday morning. Florence Jones, colored, 24, 471 Main street and John J. Jordan, white, a sailor from the U. S. S. 50, were charged with frequenting. The Jones woman furnished a surety on her bond of $200 for her court appearance but Jordan was not so fortunate and was locked up.

HENRY M. HANKINSON STOLE FROM MINISTER'S GUEST

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 17—Harry M. Hankinson, employed by the Southern New England Telephone company as a lineman, was arrested Saturday afternoon at Newark, N. J., at the request of the New London police, on a charge of theft. He has waived extradition and this morning, Sergeant Farrell arrangements for Newark to return the prisoner and it is expected will return with him tonight. Hankinson arrives in New London on the first he will be presented in the police court Monday morning. Hankinson was assigned to making calls to the telephone in the residence of Rev. Chester H. Howe, 47 West street, Saturday morning. In the absence of his duties he found $50 belonging to Mr. Howe, a guest at the Howe residence, and stole it. The theft was not discovered until after Hankinson left the house and then complaint was made to Acting Prosecuting Attorney Percy J. Holmes. Judge issued a warrant for Hankinson's arrest. It was ascertained that Hankinson had boarded the 12.50 o'clock train for New York and as his home address is in Bessie it was believed that he had gone to either of those cities. Hankinson's father, however, resides at 100 North Sixth street, Newark and the police of that city were requested to make a search for him at that address with the result that Hankinson was found at the home of his father and arrested.

Frog Waldron, drunk and deaf, was found roaming about the railroad station and grounds at night Friday and was taken into custody that he might not be injured. When he was presented for prosecution for intoxication Saturday he admitted that he was very much intoxicated, but he did not know how he came to be in New London. He claimed Brooklyn as his home and said he fell in with a "friend," whose whereabouts he did not know, then. He said he was a painter by trade, but that he was "broke" as his friend had all the money the pair possessed when they parted company. It was agreed that the best thing to do with Waldron was to allow him to get out of town. He was given until sundown to get away.

Carmine Zobbora and Frank Piscatella became involved in a row over property on Woodbridge street, three months ago, when a complaint against them in the police court was continued to Saturday. The two have settled their differences and are at peace so the complaint was nolled. The action was taken on a complaint against David Estey, charged with a breach of peace.

John Falvey, 26 North street, made complaint to the police Saturday morning that he had been assaulted and robbed by a Polish neighbor. He said that when he started to leave his home to go to his automobile in Chesterfield, the dog chased him and bit him twice on the arm.

Two New London men were arrested Saturday charged by their wives with non-support. Manuel Pereira, 20 Denison avenue, was arrested on a warrant by Sergeant John Cavanaugh Saturday afternoon. He furnished a surety on his bond of $200 for presentation in the police court Monday morning.

Jesse Maynard, 194 Shaw street, was arrested Saturday [illegible] Lieutenant James [illegible] and Sergeant Patrick Murphy. He was to be presented in the police court on Monday morning.

A leak in the city's water main on Bentley avenue, Ocean Beach, was discovered last midnight and today a force of repairmen from the water and sewer department perfected repairs. The break is the second of its kind to take place on that thoroughfare within a few weeks.

Lieutenant of Police James C. Sullivan and Patrolmen John Courtney, George Laboue and Carlos Selesnitsky returned to duty today after their vacations of two weeks. Desk Sergeant William Babcock and Patrolman Clyde Murphy, Frank Linehan and Michael Dorsey started on their vacations today.

Patrolman James McKenna reported at police headquarters this morning that he had discovered a light of glass having been removed from the cottage at 29 Boardwalk, Ocean Beach. The officer made an inspection of the interior of the cottage but apparently nothing had been disturbed.

The New Haven police Saturday night requested the New London police to be on the lookout for two automobiles that had been stolen from the streets of the former city. One auto was a Nash sedan, carrying New York registration, 2V-4566. The other auto was a Chandler sedan and carried Connecticut registration 10-305.

William Johnson and William F. Kuhlman, sailors from the submarine base, engaged in a fight on Bank St., Saturday afternoon and were arrested. They will not be presented in the police court Monday morning for the prisoners were delivered to a provost guard and returned to the base. James S. Smith, sailor from the U. S. S. 50, was arrested Saturday night by Patrolmen Louis Wheeler and Ernest [illegible] when he was found drunk on Bank street. He also was delivered to the provost guard.

John O'Neill, chief petty officer at the submarine base and residing at 10 Cutler street, made complaint to the police this afternoon that a gold watch and chain had been stolen from his room at the base. O'Neill does not know positively when the watch was stolen, but does know that it was taken either last Wednesday or Thursday. The watch is a lady's timepiece and is an open face Waltham.

Patrolman George Perkins is off duty, being confined to his home, Norwood avenue, by a severe cold. He will be probably laid up several days.

The police made a tour of the city this evening in search of an alleged intoxicated automobile driver, but they were not rewarded in the apprehension of the man. Clinton R. Kenyon, electrician, residing at 178 Ledyard street, went to the police station about 7 o'clock and reported that the intoxicated driver was asleep in an automobile on Mountain avenue, near the corner of Manwaring street. Patrolman Edward Riordan was dispatched in the police automobile to conduct an investigation, but after several false starts Patrolman Riordan continued to Ocean beach, but did not locate the driver. Kenyon stated that when he came upon the intoxicated driver, the auto was parked almost across the highway interfering with the passage of other automobiles. Kenyon brought his auto to a stop and found the driver asleep at the wheel. He aroused the fellow and requested him to drive to one side of the road, but this the fellow refused to do, and apparently went to sleep again. The automobile carried Connecticut registration N-3417.

Residents of New London are nightly complaining because of the failure of electric lights to illuminate the highway where they are needed as a means of safety for pedestrians. Not a night passes but the police are complained to because of the lights failing to function. Lights have been out on State street several nights and this evening George A. Stevens, a large property owner went to the police station and voiced his complaint because of an electric light on Bolton street, between Coit and Reed street having been out an entire week.

First A & P Store Opened 67 Years Ago

An echo of the days of horse-cars and high-wheel bikes is heard as the A & P stores observe the 67th anniversary of the founding of the first store. Like a chapter from The Arabian Nights reads the early history and almost magical growth of this large group of stores.

Sixty-seven years ago this month, a small red front store in New York city opened its doors, selling teas exclusively. Behind its counter stood a young man from Maine. He was George Huntington Hartford, a commonplace merchant to all outward appearances, but possessed of an unusually high degree of resourcefulness and keen judgment. The opening of the store marked the first outgrowth of his vision of a business which later was destined to become the foremost food service in America. The selling of tea direct to consumer flourished and soon, due to popular demand, the item of coffee was found in his stock. Then spices, extracts and baking powders were added.

"Why not open another store," mused Mr. Hartford. "Conducted alone as one business policy, it should be equally successful." And so another store was established. Then several more followed, and each governed by the same business policy.

In 1869, ten years after the founding of the first store, a half-dozen had been opened. About this time Leland Stanford and James J. Hill were completing a stretch of railroad in the west, which was to link the Pacific and Atlantic coasts. This great engineering [illegible] was pushed far and wide and [illegible] responsible for the prosperity of the country. Mr. Hartford [illegible] was to develop a great [illegible] would stretch [illegible] the Pacific, as did [illegible] railroad, and [illegible] the goal of this [illegible] the name of [illegible] Atlantic & Pacific stores were in the [illegible] theater New York, [illegible] the public another [illegible] that the stores were to [illegible] in the form of [illegible] delivery and [illegible] to purchase and [illegible] the almost [illegible] which started [illegible] their stature [illegible] the country. Today in [illegible] communities in every state [illegible] Mississippi, and several [illegible] on A & P stores will [illegible] and although the premium [illegible] discarded years ago, the [illegible] fundamental policy of the founder [illegible] prevailed through the years—[illegible] to the consumer the highest [illegible] of foods at the lowest possible [illegible] prices. It is interesting to note [illegible] since the initial store, each one [illegible] painted a bright red, the color chosen by the founder to distinguish it from other grocery stores. These stores are often referred to as "those red school house of America," the little red school house where the pioneers in our country received the rudiments of education, and the A & P [illegible] the pioneer of chain grocery [illegible].

Aside from 40 large food depots advantageously located throughout the country, which supply the thousands of these stores, this company operates its own coffee roasters, bakeries, salmon canneries in Alaska, and other combined manufacturing plants. A purchasing office in San Francisco handles all the California fruit and Pacific coast products. Five coffee buying offices are located in South America. Another purchasing office in London buys the imported delicacies that continental Europe provides. Most every known popular brand of groceries is sold by these stores, and since the founding of the business nothing has been sold on credit.

Palace Theatre

Today, Fascinating Youth with [illegible] junior stars of new and [illegible] members with Lionel Barrymore have their final showings. Fascinating Youth is a novelty that [illegible] Sunday nights big audience [illegible] brings to the screen in addition [illegible] well known players in the cast [illegible] young ladies and gentlemen selected [illegible] Paramount school of screen actors from over forty thousand applicants from all over the world. Not only is the exciting Youth a charming photoplay by Byron Morgan who wrote [illegible] of Wally Reid, Richard Dix and Bebe Daniels successes but is of unusual interest because of the appearance of the youthful stars, and they are great. The picture is also notable for beautiful gowns and handsome settings. The Wrongdoers with Lionel Barrymore, Annie Cornwall and Henry Hull is from the True Story Magazine novel, a tale of New York life full of action and romance superbly acted by a brilliant cast. A new comedy The Taming Tamer, a novelty film, the topical events and the usual fine music by Walter Lang and his concert orchestra completes a program well worth seeing.

Tomorrow comes the beautiful Betty Bronson, the little lady who has won the hearts of the nation in her very newest success "The Cat's Pajamas" in which she is supported by Richard Cortez and Theodore Roberts. Is there any name on stage or screen more loved than that of Roberts? This picture marks his return to the screen with all his mellow histrionic power. Sharing honors with The Cat's Pajamas is the great melodramatic thriller "The Midnight Limited" with Wanda Hawley and a splendid cast and a new comedy of the newlyweds and their baby entitled "Snookum's Tooth". The Tuesday evening performance will also be enlivened by an all new performance of semi-professional vaudeville by future stars of the stage.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Lionel Barrymore, Annie Cornwall and Henry Hull in "The Wrongdoers," a tale of New York life full of action and romance superbly acted by a brilliant cast. Also a new comedy "The Taming Tamer," a novelty film, the topical events and the usual fine music by Walter Lang and his concert orchestra completes a program well worth seeing.

Breed Theater

Marie Prevost and her compatriots in fun provided much merriment at the Breed theater, last night when Up in Mabel's Room was shown for the first time here. The presentation was a huge success.

Up in Mabel's Room provides a delightful evening of laughs over a chemise which a young innocent husband gives his bride who later divorces him, and then holds the chemise (on which is embroidered "Mabel from Garrty" over the head of Garry, who poses as an innocent bachelor. Garry, of course, tries frantically to retrieve the elusive chemise, aided by his faithful valet.

Marie and the rest of those who at one time or another are caught "up in Mabel's room," including Harrison Ford, Phyllis Haver, Harry Myers, Sylvia Breamer, Paul Nicholson, Maud Truax, Carl Gerard, William Orlamond and Arthur Hoyt—are all kept busy demonstrating some delightful theerems in fun.

They conclusively prove that Mabel's room is the world's busiest boudoir; that doors are inventions for creating circumstantial evidence; that beds are things to hide under rather than to sleep in; that one's signature on a blank check is far less dangerous than one's signature on a chemise; that some husbands tend to business and others to monkey business and that many a peril looms ahead for the giver of unforgarbed lingerie. The feature is well worth while. Don't miss it!

Lyceum Theater, New London

The Wisdom Tooth, Marc Connelly's fantastic comedy which Patterson McNutt will present at the Lyceum theater New London for two performances, matinee and night, beginning Wednesday matinee, October 20th, brings as its featured player Thomas Mitchell, noted not only for his brilliant work in the Connelly play, but also for his range of varied roles played under a five-year contract with David Belasco.

Palace Theater

The Big Parade, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production starring John Gilbert with Renee Adoree will be presented at the Palace theater, October 25th with its own touring company and orchestra of 20 symphony musicians. It is a duplication of the presentations at the Astor theater, New York; the Majestic theater, Boston; the Garrick theater, Chicago; Adelphi theater, Philadelphia and foreign showings in London, Paris and Berlin. The picture was directed by King Vidor from an original story of the American doughboys and peasant maidens in France, written by Laurence Stallings.

Lyceum Theater, New London

Lew Lesser was selected by the author, Leon de Costa, to play the role of Morris Rosen, the Jewish medical student in the hilarious comedy with songs, Kosher Kitty Kelly, which was such a great success in New York last year, and secured the approval of Chicago and Boston. In those cities the critics called the comedy, "the little sister of Abie's Irish Rose because presumably it dealt with the love affairs of an Irish girl and a Jew boy, and a Yiddish maid and an Irish cop. Lesser attracted attention for his fine acting as the stay-at-home son in Friendly Enemies, with Louis Mann and Sam Bernard. Kosher Kitty Kelly comes to the Lyceum theater New London Monday matinee and night with the prettiest chorus of girls on the Columbia circuit.

Cross-Word Puzzle Has Rival

As a brain-teaser and stimulant, the daily cross-word puzzle has now a most dangerous rival, and before many days slip by, headline writing probably will rate as a popular indoor sport throughout the New England states.

For a prize contest for amateur headline writers, with awards totalling $6,000, has been inaugurated by the P. Lorillard company, maker of Old Gold cigarettes, which presages the temporary dethronement of "43 horizontal and 29 vertical" from public esteem as well as a well-earned vacation for the radio.

All this "important money" approximating Grover Cleveland Alexander's world's series melon, will be divided between 156 keen-witted New Englanders who supply the best headlines for Old Gold cigarette advertisements to be published in the newspapers throughout New England.

There are, in reality, three separate contests for each of which $2,000 in prizes is offered, divided as follows: $1,000 for the best headline submitted, $500 for the next best headline suggested, and 50 awards of $10 each for those who just fall short of grabbing the two major league prizes.

The headline suggestions may be submitted either on a coupon incorporated in each of the prize advertisements or on a separate piece of paper. There is no limit placed on the number of headlines any one contestant may submit, but each suggestion must be sent in on an individual coupon or sheet of paper.

In reaching their decision, the judges—George McDevitt, New York representative of the Boston Herald and Traveler; Morton S. Rutsky, President Collegiate agency representing New England college publications; Julius Mathews, representative of 14 New England newspapers; and Robert W. Orr, representing Lenen & Mitchell, Inc., will take in to consideration originality of thought and clearness and brevity of expression, as well as neatness and legibility.

Russian Symphonic Choir

Tickets are now on sale at Cranston's store for the concert to be given by The Russian Symphonic choir at Slater hall on Wednesday evening, October 20th.

While the house is filling up, there are still good seats to be had provided the selection is not too long delayed.

The program to be presented by this choir is divided into three groups. First, a group or sacred or semi-religious songs, a group calculated to move and impress deeply. Second, a group of classical selections originally written for piano or orchestra, opening with the Andante con moto movement from Beethoven's 5th symphony. The third is a group of folk songs including the Volga Boatman song and a Soldier Marching song for male voices only.

This is one of the finest concert ensembles appearing in Norwich in many years. Whether the Academy will insist itself further in high class musical entertainments will depend largely upon the support accorded this concert by the Russian Symphonic choir.

Unseen Sources of Long Life

The basic sources of automobile value are not always apparent to the eye.

A motor car, like a house, may LOOK a great deal more substantial than it really is.

Because of this difficulty, more and more thousands are turning to Dodge Brothers product for insurance against disappointment.

The years have proved, and each year proves anew, that Dodge Brothers are as deeply concerned with the UNSEEN goodness of their motor car as with the seen.

The mileage it will deliver, the safety it will provide, the expense and trouble it will save the owner over a period of years, are quite as important to Dodge Brothers as the more obvious details of equipment and style.

POETRY

The Divinity of Toil

Toiler, toiler of the mine,
Braving Pluto's inmost shrine,
Delving dark in depths of earth
As some god of mystic birth,
Wresting from deep-hidden pyres
Food for man's insatiate fires,
Toiler, toiler, dost thou see
In thy toil Divinity?

Toiler, toiler of the mill,
Molding matter to thy will,
Rearing towers crowned with flame,
Besemers of Titan frame,
By thy fierce, all-potent fires
Forging man's proud, cloud-flung spires?
Toiler, toiler, dost thou see
In thy toil Divinity?

Toiler, toiler of the rail,
Piercing crag and spanning vale,
With thy engines' headlong roar
Girdling nations shore to shore,
Binding close in mesh of steel
Man with man for common weal,
Toiler, toiler, dost thou see
In thy toil Divinity?

Toiler, toiler of the sea,
Cleaving black immensity,
With thy hulls, majestic, vast,
Scorning wave and typhoon's blast,
Bearing north, south, east and west
Man upon his ceaseless quest,
Toiler, toiler, dost thou see
In thy toil Divinity?

Thou that through the years' swift flight,
Led by soaring visions' light
Conquering earth and sky and main,
Builded toil's enduring fane,
Day by lifting man's desire
To the pure, celestial fire,
Toiler, O Toiler, thou shalt see
In thy toil Divinity.

—Thornton Oakley.

Song

Love is a sickness full of woes.
All remedies refusing;
A plant that with most cutting grows,
Most barren with best using.
Why so?
More we enjoy it, more it dies;
If not enjoyed, it sighing cries—
Heigh ho!

Love is a torment of the mind,
A tempest everlasting;
And Jove hath made it of a kind,
Not well, nor full nor fasting.
Why so?
More we enjoy it, more it dies;
If not enjoyed, it sighing cries—
Heigh ho!

—Samuel Daniel.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, Oct. 17—(AP)—The sharpest break in stock prices since the violent declines of last March and another setback in the cotton market, both of which crushed promising recoveries, clouded the financial and business outlook as the week drew to a close These concrete evidences of market reaction were accompanied by somewhat pessimistic forecasts of future trade, some of the foremost experts inclining to the view that the present period of prosperity would soon give way to a gradual decline.

The liquidation which shook the stock market came as a climax to a fortnight of declining prices. Except for a short lived technical rally, bearish influences were in complete dominance, forcing the market values of speculative leaders from 20 to 45 points below their recent high marks. U. S. Steel, for example, sold as low as 136 1-4 compared with its recent peak of 159 5-8. General Motors dipped almost 30 points and DuPont 41 points below their high figures of two weeks ago. A corresponding reaction took place in many other railroad and industrial issues. An epidemic of price cutting in the motor industry sent several of the popular automobile shares to 1926 lows.

The week was marked by several interesting movement in the foreign exchanges. A revision of stabilization plans carried the Norwegian kroner up about 2 cents to the highest points in several years around 24 cents. Spanish pesetas rallied sharply and then lost most of their gain and Italian lire also receded after touching the highest level of the year. Chinese currencies were weakened by the drop in silver to the lowest price in more than five years.

MADE 559 NEW VOTERS IN NORWICH; APPLICATIONS FILED NUMBERED 1,080

After the board of selectmen, William S. Murray, Charles P. Bushnell, and Patrick T. Connell, Town Clerk Charles S. Holbrook, and Registrars of Voters Tyler D. Guy and Cornelius J. Downes closed up their business Saturday at the town hall in the making of voters, it was found that they had made 321 men and 238 women, a total of 559 from a list of 1,080 to-be-mades which had been prepared.

As usual many appeared who had not made their first move which is to have applications made out and handed in to the registrars which may be done at any time and a day is set apart each year for the express purpose of doing this, the time being duly advertised in the local papers.

With the exception of two women who will not be 21 until just before election, no more voters can be made this year. The next sessions for making voters will be in September, 1927.

Those who were made this month will be put into the lists now in the making and the registrars of voters will be in session on Thursday, Oct. 21, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. in each of the six voting districts for final revision of the lists. If any person has any doubts as to where he should vote, he should consult the registrars. If any voter has changed his address from one district to another since the last time he voted, he should make this known to the registrars in order that the name may be transferred to the new district. Every elector is obliged to vote in the district in which his name and residence are recorded on the list.

The following shows the number of applications and the number of voters made Saturday:

ARRANGING TO FEED THE VISITING TROOPS

The Armistice day parade entertainment committee met on Friday evening in the chamber of commerce rooms. Those present were Max Hanover, chairman of the entertainment committee and Miss Evon M. Broadhurst acted as secretary. About sixty-five women representing various patriotic, fraternal and church organizations in Norwich answered to the invitation to become members of the entertainment committee and assist in serving the meal to the visiting troops at the Norwich state armory on the evening of the parade. In opening the meeting the chairman thanked the ladies for their splendid response, expressing his admiration for the fine civic and patriotic spirit shown by those present. Great interest and enthusiasm prevailed throughout the meeting and on a roll call, more than one hundred women were pledged by the various organizations to act as waitresses. A motion to appoint a committee of [illegible] the chairmanship and will be assisted by Mrs. W. H. Turner; Mrs. D. Louisa Waterhouse, Mrs. A. M. Peabody, Mrs. J. B. [illegible], Mrs. N. Gilbert, Mrs. [illegible], Mrs. [illegible], Miss [illegible] and Miss Marguerite Driscoll.

The organization committee immediately adjourned to another room to formulate a working plan and a part of their report was to the effect that if any patriotic, fraternal, or church ladies organization through an unintentional oversight has not been invited, this notice is to serve as a cordial invitation for their assistance in the work. They are asked to kindly communicate with Mrs. Henry D. Johnson, 21 Lincoln avenue, and advise her the number they can provide to act as waitresses at the armory. The committee also made all preparations for the meal [illegible] Norwich Athletic club with the personal cooperation of T. E. Donohue, state boxing commissioner, will put on boxing bouts for the entertainment of the visiting troops. The committee is in the hope of having Gene Tunney take part in the entertainment and their chances of having their hope realized [illegible] very promising.

ADDRESS WITH PICTURE AT Y. M. C. A. SERVICE

Sunday afternoon service at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium was one of most impressiveness. After the opening part of the program consisting of hymns, scripture reading and prayer [illegible] was rendered pleasingly by Miss Kinder the picture moving picture "The Good Horse High" was shown much to the pleasure and profit of the good sized audience present. The picture story portrayed a home where the father and mother, made great sacrifices for their children who instead of reciprocating, grew to be independent and selfish as they entered the business and conditions were reverse. The moment came when the disaster threatened the family life and the dark clouds no longer covered them and sweet Alice [illegible] the children came to realize what father and mother had suffered for their sakes and then they began to get different and finally the clouds disappeared and the family life came to its own and harmony once more prevailed between the reels Secretary Edwin H. [illegible] addressed with talking for the basis of his remarks "Is [illegible] Honor the father and mother that [illegible] may be many."

CELEBRATED THEIR THIRD WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gardner of 32 Tuttle [illegible] third wedding anniversary Friday evening by [illegible] near relatives and friends. [illegible] chicken pie supper served with all that goes with it. The evening was pleasantly spent in a social manner and many guests remembered them with useful gifts, tablecloths, bedspreads, cedar towels, blankets and cedar tea set. Those present were Mrs. Nina Hempstead, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hempstead and two daughters, Almira Beatrice of Centre Groton, Mrs. William Knowles and two sons of Westerly, Mrs. Alma Gracey, New London, Mr. and Mrs. William Gardner and daughter Ethel of Mystic.

Albertus Magnus Dormitory

Albertus Magnus, the Dominican college in New Haven, formally launched forth on its second year of scholastic endeavor this month, when Imelda hall, the new dormitory and assembly hall, was dedicated by Rt. Rev. Joon J. Nilan, bishop of Hartford. Preceding the dedication, the newly-elected student council was installed by Professor Nicholas Moseley, provost of the college, and the freshmen were invested in cap and gown by Rev. Arthur H. Chandler, O. P., the chaplain, and Sister Dolorita, the president of the college.

The only Norwich student at Albertus Magnus is Miss Natalie Connor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Connor of Lincoln avenue, now a sophomore.

Painters are at work painting the Spiritual Academy, Park street, and a very general redecoration inside is taking place, preparatory to the social activities that are always held by the society.

TWO FORECLOSURES ON PROPERTY IN NORWICH

At the motion list session of the superior court in New London Friday morning, Judge Newell Jennings took the papers and reserved decision in the case of J. D. Crosby, et al, against the Braided Thread Corp., of Stonington, in which there were four motions. They were as follows: (1) Allowance for compensation of receiver; (2) Allowance for compensation of attorneys for receiver; (3) Acceptance of final account of received; (4) Final judgment. Receiver of the Braided Thread Corp. Attorney Benjamin H. Hewett gave brief testimony. Attorney C. Hadlai Hull is counsel for the receiver.

The court also took the papers and reserved decision in the motion for judgment of foreclosure by sale on pleadings and stipulation of defendant, The Westinghouse Traction Brake Co., in the case of Anson T. McCook, treasurer of the state of Connecticut against the Groton and Stonington Street Railway Co. et al.

When this case was originally instituted, Mr. McCook, as state treasurer was plaintiff. Present State Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers was made plaintiff [illegible] he was trustee of the second mortgage. Mr. Rogers, therefore, recused and Attorney Arthur M. Brown became the plaintiff. The Westinghouse Traction Brake Co., represented by Attorney C. Hadlai Hull, seeks to enforce certain equitable liens and hence has stipulated that in rendering judgment, the questions raised should not be determined thereby.

Application to intervene was granted in the case of the Amherst Brick Co., against the 325 State Street Corp. of New London, et al., Attorney Philip Z. Hanley, counsel for the plaintiff having informed the court that it was for the making of the Morgan and Kingston Co., a party defendant, which was agreed to by all concerned.

Judge Jennings took the papers and reserved decision on the motion for [illegible] in the case of Mary Agnes Ray against Annemarie [illegible] represented by Attorney Arthur M. Brown, counsel for the defendant, and Attorney John T. Barnes for the plaintiff. The plaintiff claims that in November 1924 the defendant [illegible] water for domestic purposes for [illegible] in the mill town and that she drank some of it and became ill. She alleges that the water was not wholesome and proper care was not taken to make it so. Attorney Brown asks for a more specific statement, saying in court that he thought the defendant was entitled to know how and why the water was unwholesome. He said he wanted to know if there was "coma-bacilli" or some [illegible] of bacilli in the water and in what way the defendant should take proper precautions to make the water more wholesome. Attorney Barry maintained that his use of the words "not wholesome" were proper and considered legally sufficient.

In the case of Smith against the Automobile Insurance Co. of Hartford, Attorney Frank L. McGuire, defense counsel, made an argument of demurrer which was opposed by Attorney Gilman. The court took the papers and reserved decision.

Two Foreclosure Judgments

Judgment in the amount of $5,104.80 was entered for the Norwich Building and Loan Association, Inc., against Stanley and Katie Dziaczynski, et al. The third Monday in December was set as the limitation of time for redemption. The property in Elizabeth street, this city, was valued at $6,500 by John A. Cunningham, Norwich realtor. Attorney Charles V. James was counsel for the plaintiff.

Judgment in the amount of $4,925.86 was entered in favor of the Norwich Building and Loan Association, Inc., against C. C. Meyer, et al. The third Monday in December was set as the limitation of time for redemption. The value of this property, which is situated in Mount Pleasant street, this city, was valued at $6,000 by Mr. Cunningham. Attorney James also represented the plaintiff in this case.

A motion that decree of foreclosure be by public sale in the case of Field S. Pendleton Jr., et al, against the Vessel Shipping Co., Inc., et al, went off, as did a motion in the same case for judgment of foreclosure. A motion for termination of continuance as to the defendant Hyman of New York was granted.

GIVEN COMPENSATION FOR DEATH OF HER HUSBAND

Compensation for a period not to exceed 312 weeks from Sept. 26, 1926, at the rate of $18 per week, has been awarded to Mrs. Emilda Melanson, for the death of her husband, Felix J. Melanson, of 69 Truman street, New London, in a finding handed down by Compensation Commissioner J. J. Donohue, against R. C. Davidson of New London, employer, and the insuring company. Melanson was fatally injured Sept. 25, 1926. The injuries were sustained in the course of his duties as an employe of R. C. Davidson.

Melanson was at work on a lighter, owned by Davidson, in Shaws cove. The hoisting crane was being used to raise a heavy load and as the load was in midair, a U bolt, supporting the boom, gave way and fell upon Melanson, who was almost instantly killed.

Promotion for F. S. Symington.

Friends of Frederick S. Symington a native of this city will be pleased to learn that he has been made superintendent of the National Folding Box Co. of New Haven which is the largest plant in the world devoted exclusively to the manufacture of folding boxes.

Mr. Symington is the son of the late Frederick Symington, formerly superintendent of the Backus hospital.

GIVES REVIEW OF 30 YEARS AS RECTOR

Main, Miss Eliza B. Dolbeare and many others whom time and space forbid me to mention. The work of Misses Ellen and Lucy Geer of Misses Alice and Rosalie Bennett, Mrs. C. B. Chapman and others, in connection with the Woman's Auxiliary, of Mrs. L. L. Brewer and Mrs. Percival W. Chapman in connection with St. Margaret's and that of Miss Mabel Cardwell, Mrs. C. W. Pendleton and Miss Alice Caldwell in connection with the Little Helpers and the Altar chapter, have all been most helpful and efficient.

The parish has during the period under consideration, helped to educate and send into the ministry from its membership, the Rev. John S. Simmons, who is now rector of Christ church, Cocoanut Grove, Florida. At the annual parish meeting in January, 1924, initial steps were taken for the restoration and redecoration of the church.

Raised $10,000 Fund

A four day drive for $6,000 was successfully carried out under the chairmanship of S. H. Reed, aided by a number of energetic teams selected from the parish generally. Miss Mary Bushnell generously giving her time and labor as temporary treasurer of the fund. The fund was later increased to about $10,000. The committee on redecoration consisted of the rector, the wardens, S. A. Gilbert and H. F. Parker, and A. P. Williams, P. W. Chapman, W. E. Gilbert, and W. H. Harder, church property committee. All the members of the committee gave much time to the work, but all of us, I am sure, will agree in allowing that special credit is due to the energetic labors of the wardens and Mr. Chapman and Mrs. Williams as well as to Miss Alice Cardwell, for valued advice and assistance.

The results of the restoration and redecoration are apparent to us all and have been too recently described to need repetition. We are all grateful to the committee and to the donors of the memorial windows and floor and electric lights and we all rejoice in being able to worship in a church that is clean, bright and cheery.

The church school room was thoroughly renovated in 1914, when a new floor was laid, a steam heater installed and several memorials for the altar were donated by parishioners and friends. For the supervision of this work we are indebted to S. A. Gilbert, Charles B. Chapman, and Joseph W. Curtis.

The parish is deeply indebted to Miss Matilda B. Randall for long and continuous benefactions, among which, besides the memorial door, mention should be made of the gift of an electric organ motor and the provision of the Christmas candy and the transportation cost for the annual picnic. To Mrs. William H. Fitch, also, the parish is much indebted for a long continued series of benefactions among which mention should be made of a stereopticon, a safe and the provision for several years of the ice cream for the annual picnic.

The gifts just mentioned are but a small part of the donations of these two parishioners, but time and space forbid further mention. The introduction of the budget system, the use of the duplex envelope and the provisions of a missions treasurer in which office have served Mrs. J. W. Curtis and Miss Rosalie Bennett, have greatly simplified the financial problems of the parish and increased its financial resources. And now, brethren, as I draw this more or less rambling review of a long rectorship towards a close, doubtless some of you will be surprised and perhaps, some disappointed about the things I have omitted to mention. But as you will realize when you stop to think of it, the material of the record of 30 years is so large and so varied, that I was simply compelled, in a limited time and space, to make choice of some of the more salient matters and to pass by many others of which I should have been glad to speak.

Acknowledgments to Workers

Do not think for example, that I am unmindful of the excellent things the Mens club has accomplished, nor of the devoted work of the officers and teachers of the church school, nor yet of the faithful services of our ushers, John Reece, Clarence Messenger, John Mehrholz, and William H. Harder, and for several years, of the services as usher and former parish clerk and vestryman, Augustus P. Sullivan. Do not think either that I am forgetful of our devoted organist and choir members during all these years.

I have, in fact, deeply appreciated all of this work, and every part of it has contributed much to the joy of my ministry among you. But, as I have said about the gifts and memorials, to attempt to do justice to all these matters, in the space of a single sermon would be a sheer impossibility. As a last word let me say that, on the whole, these thirty years among you have been happy and, I trust, not unfruitful. I have been blessed several times with the rare privilege—made possible only in a long pastorate—of leading young people to church membership, later of marrying them, and in due course of leading their children to consecrate themselves to our common Master.

And I believe no more blessed privilege can be granted to man on this earth. And now may "the Lord bless us and keep us! May the Lord make His face to shine upon us and be gracious unto us. May the Lord lift up His countenance upon us and give us peace" this day and evermore! Amen.

LOVE FOR GOD THE THEME AT ST. PATRICK'S THIS WEEK

There was a great outpouring of St. Patrick's parishioners during Sunday, which opened the exercises of a novena or nine days' devotion in honor of St. Therese, affectionately styled "The Little Flower of Jesus". The people had the great happiness of welcoming an eloquent Irish-born preacher, who upholds in every way the traditions of the "Isle of Saints and scholars." Rev. Michael Angelo Kelly, a member of the Order of the Holy Ghost missionaries, Philadelphia, was born in Limerick, received his education in the universities of Dublin, Paris and Rome, being ordained in the Eternal City. He was stationed in England for some time, then in 1912 was assigned to the United Sattes. The order of which he is a member is universal in its labors—has missions in Africa, the West Indies, the South Sea islands and elsewhere; it is an interesting fact that in the United States province its monastery is located at Darien, Conn.

Father Kelly is not only a preacher and scholar, but a gifted writer, one of the editors of "The Paraclete," the publication issued at the Philadelphia house of his order.

He addressed the congregations at the various masses during Sunday, formally opening the novena in the evening. In connection with the week's consideration of the virtues of St. Therese there is to be dedicated an exquisite statue of the Little Flower, gift to the parish from the Children of Mary. This statue, in a temporary shrine, was in place for the exercises of Sunday, well displayed against a background of tall fan palms and represents the saint clasping the roses—become her symbol—with the crucifix.

Rev. Myles P. Galvin led in the recitation of the mysteries of the rosary—the resurrection, ascension, descent of the Holy Ghost on the Apostles, assumption and the glorification of the Blessed Virgin in heaven—also recited the prayers for the intercession of St. Joseph and St. Therese. Rev. Father Kelly then explained from the pulpit the order of the exercises for the coming week; masses are to be at 7 and 8 each morning, with evening devotions at 7:30.

The missionary will begin hearing confessions Tuesday afternoon. Late in the week there will be special devotions for the parish children. Father Kelly's theme was that great love for God which has made of an humble, obscure little girl of France the teacher of the most learned, inspirer of men, women and children, touching even the most obdurate hearts to manifest love for God. His text was: "If any man love me, my Father will love him, and we will come to him and take up our abode with him."

Following the sermon, Rev. Father Galvin gave benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, also led in the recitation of the Litany of the Blessed Virgin. Congregational singing of "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name," announced by the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. May, ended the evening service.

Many in the congregation then went to the altar for veneration of the St. Therese relics.

An especially fine musical program had been prepared by the organist, Henry J. LaFontaine, beginning with the children's mass at 9, when the junior choir sang "Hymn to the Little Flower" and there was congregational singing of Veni Creator and Holy God. At 10:30 the senior chorus was very effective in a splendid interpretation of Farmer's Mass in B flat, the soloists being Roderick F. Sullivan and Miss Isabel Petrone, with fine singing in unison also in on harmonious blending of baritone and soprano.

In the evening, the beautiful hymn by Rev. Father Farrell, S. J., "The Little Flower," harmonized for chorus, was most melodious and impressive, while the beautiful hymn, "Panis Angelicus" by Caesar Franck, arranged for tenor and chorus was used for the first time by the local choir. Mr. Sullivan sang the famous solo in fine voice, and the choral effects were most artistic. This number will be repeated during the novena.

At benediction O Salutaris by Ouseley, was sung, most pleasingly by Miss Loretta Bellefleur, president of the Children of Mary, which society presented the statue of the Little Flower to the church.

Tantem Ergo, by Wiegand, for tenor and chorus was given a most musical interpretation by Walter LaFontaine and choir and the male chorus sang well in "Divine Praises."

OSTENTATIOUS GREETING FOR THE QUEEN OF RUMANIA

In New York Queen Marie and Royal Party Were Accorded Demonstrations That Teemed With Ceremonies of Cordiality and Enthusiasm—The Queen Graciously Responded to the Welcome Extended by Mayor Walker—In Washington the Party Was Met by Secretary and Mrs. Kellogg and Escorted to the Presidential Suite—Later a War Squadron of Cavalry Formed the Escort to the Rumanian Legation.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Marie, queen of Rumania, had her first sample of American life today—and enjoyed it.

The sample was an hour and twenty minutes in which she was whisked from Battery Park to city hall and thence to the Pennsylvania station where she entrained for Washington, into that fragment of eternity were crowded ceremonies and demonstrations dissimilar to those accorded Gertrude Ederle and Bobby Jones, royalty of the world of sport, only by an evident note of solemnity.

Marines, sailors, mounted police and aides cleared the way for the royal entourage as the municipal tug Macom cruised at pier A, bringing the royal party from the Leviathan at quarantine. Hundreds lined the aisles of battery Park and many of them were crushed from standing in the morning rain. As the tug, dressed with the flags of all nations and with the Rumanian flag and the stars and stripes waving high above the others, steamed from the misty expanse of the bay the guns on Governor's island barked forth the presidential salute. Fire boats sent upward spraying columns of water. There was a blast from hundreds of fog horns and sirens. "White wings" swept away the puddles of water on the park pavement which the royal feet might tread

For several minutes the royal party was screened from sight of the crowd by the dock building. The automobiles that were to convey the party to city hall stood in readiness.

There was a moment of suspense and then the signal of the queen's arrival came. It was the explosion of a photographer's flashlight. The queen appeared. Behind her, in evident amazement, walked Princess Ileana and Prince Nicholas. The Marine band struck up the national anthem. For the first time in seven years a queen had set foot on American soil.

But not a cheer greeted Queen Marie as she was handed into her automobile by Grover Whalen, chairman of Mayor Walker's reception committee. Gasps of murmured exclamations arose from the crowd and on the steps of buildings, decorated for the event, office workers, temporarily released from duty, strained to see over each others heads.

Queen Nodded and Smiled

The cortege swept into lower Broadway. Ticker tape and waste paper, the confetti of the downtown section, fluttered from windows. The noon hour crowds that banked both sides of Broadway were held back by cordons of police. Queen Marie, riding in the first car of the procession, waved, nodded and smiled, but the serried rows of humanity were inarticulate; they exhibited more curiosity than enthusiasm.

As the entourage moved into city hall plaza the first volume of cheering was heard. Belated welcomers scurried to watch the queen enter city hall for the official welcome by Mayor Walker. Rows of police held them back. All traffic had been stopped for many surrounding blocks. Photographers dashed recklessly about "snapping" the queen.

Inside hall, decorated with flags and bunting, Queen Marie, Princess Ileana and Prince Nicholas were taken into the governor's room. Outside the crowd stood listening to a radio loud speaker that told them what was happening inside. Members of the diplomatic staffs of Rumania and America stood in solemn silence. Military and naval officers held themselves at attention. And then the royal party passed into the aldermanic chamber for the official welcome.

Welcome and Response

"Your majesty," Mayor Walker said when he had been presented, "the people of the city of New York welcome you. Its chief magistrate enjoys a distinction he thought would never be visited upon him. In behalf of six million people I welcome you most heartily to the gateway of America." He told Queen Marie that her fame had preceded her and that the part she and King Ferdinand had taken in the development of the Rumanian kingdom had struck a responsive chord in America, where were thousands of good Rumanian citizens.

"You make us very happy by your visit. You honor us. I hope that every minute of your sojourn brings you happiness," the mayor concluded.

Queen Marie responded:

"I really do not know with what words I can thank you all for this wonderful reception. It has been for many years my great dream to visit your wonderful country. Now that I have put my foot upon your ground it seems incredible. I saw in all faces a real pleasure at seeing me and I can assure you my pleasure at being among you is as great as yours."

Queen On Temporary Throne

A temporary throne had been prepared and when she had concluded her response Queen Marie seated herself upon this. The Star Spangled Banner was sung, a scroll and a medal of New York were presented. After the queen had departed, women employes in city hall rushed to sit upon the impromptu throne.

A vociferous ovation greeted the exit of the royal party and thousands who shrugged off the fetters of silence lined the streets to cheer the cortege as it sped on to Pennsylvania terminal.

But the reception at city hall had been preceded by two others, both on the Leviathan. The first was the official welcome to the United States given by Assistant Secretary of State J. B. Butler Wright, in the name of President Coolidge. The second was that of approximately 200 men and women reporters who were granted the first—and possibly the last—public interview the queen will permit.

Talked With Reporters

The reporters, drenched from long standing in the rain, climbed aboard the Leviathan at Quarantine. Quickly they were taken to C. deck where, in a foyer adjoining the presidential suite named in honor of Woodrow Wilson, whose widow was an unseen passenger on the Leviathan, they were ushered into a roped enclosure. Suddenly as if from nowhere Queen Marie appeared.

It was a nimble witted, vivacious queen that was "interviewed". The queen was there, talking and the approximate 200 who had brought long lists of prepared questions found themselves busy taking notes.

"So glad to see you all," began the queen's discourse. "I got up very early this morning. I've heard all about you on board this wonderful ship. You know why I've come to America."

No one was given an opportunity to deny this as Queen Marie continued:

"I've come to see you all and thank you for what you've done for my country and for other countries. I hope that you have only the best feeling for me. I've come to see the people of America, not just some one particular person."

The queen spoke English fluently, but with an accent comparable only to that of the Scotch. She nodded her head as she spoke and her expression was continually changing. She did not make gestures, except with her head. Behind her son and daughter stood in respectful silence.

The "interview" lasted a scant five minutes, and only a few of the long lists of questions were asked. The queen told of her wonderful trip, of what she will do—generally—in America, and of the love Rumanians bear Americans. She hoped she would find this reciprocated.

Finally, a reporter, posing her pencil so as not to miss the reply, said:

"What do you think of New York's skyline?"

"Wonderful," replied the queen, joining the general laugh.

"Will you permit your children to marry Americans?"

The queen smiled broadly as she answered: "Oh! They're far too young to be thinking of such things."

"Did you like American cuisine?"

"Oh! Didn't I!" the queen laughed. "How about the corn on the cobb, your majesty?"

"I tasted all the American foods. A little of each. I'm sorry I couldn't eat more."

Then she was asked if it were true that this would be the only interview granted.

"I'm not an official person," was her answer. "I had to make some arrangement, otherwise I would be giving all my time to interviews."

After boarding the Macom the queen, besieged by reporters not satisfied with the first interview, answered a number of questions and the prince and princess did likewise.

RUMANIAN PARTY ACCORDED HIGHEST MILITARY HONORS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Queen Marie of Rumania and royal party arrived in the capital late today on a special train from New York.

Secretary and Mrs. Kellogg were at the station to extend welcome in behalf of the American government.

Upon leaving the train her majesty passed through a double line of marines to the presidential suite. Here greeting were exchanged formally and the army band played the Rumanian National Anthem and the Star Spangled Banner.

A war squadron of cavalry, the highest military honors, formed the escort to the Rumanian legation.

The route of the royal party led capitol grounds, down Pennsylvania avenue and through Executive avenue at the east of the white house.

COSTUME WORN BY QUEEN SHOWED IMPECCABLE TASTE

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The crowds who expected to see a queen in purple and ermine when Marie of Rumania arrived today found her gowned instead in burgundy and lynx, and the regal garments had dwindled from their storied length, and compromised with dame fashion on a twelve-inch basis.

Queen Marie was not elaborately dressed as she entered the city, but her taste was impeccable. Her velour coat of rich burgundy color, collared and cuffed in black lynx fell to within about twelve inches of the floor. A close fitting cloth-of-gold turban, with small brim of brown georgette and a glycerined ostrich brush over the right ear covered the famous titian looks.

Beige hose and opera pumps of reptile skin, brown gloves, and a cloth of gold bag completed the color harmony of her costume.

Her only jewels were three strands of pearls whose longest strand fell to her waist, and two dangling pearl drops, caught in a gold loops of the Romany order, that hung from either ear.

When her coat fell open, a simple, v-necked dress of burgundy crepe with lengthwise tucks was revealed.

From the unregal height of 5 feet 4 inches, Queen Marie impressed the crowds and reporters not so much as a traditional exponent of royalty as she as an extremely well-dressed and conservatively groomed woman.

LIQUOR, MILK, WATER IN N. Y. POLITICAL CAMPAIGN

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The gubernatorial campaign in New York turns tonight from liquor to water.

While Governor Smith, at Rochester, was defining "the greatest single issue" of the campaign as state development of hydro-electric resources, his republican opponent, Ogden J. Mills, was putting himself on record at Buffalo as opposed to government operation of public utilities.

First Snowfall of Season in Worcester

Three New England States Also Reported Fall of Snow Yesterday.

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—(AP)—New England was reminded of the approach of winter today when snow fell in northern Vermont, New Hampshire and Massachusetts. Flurries have been reported before and for several days the crests of Mount Washington and other lofty peaks in the White Mountains have been white with snow. But today's snowfall was spread over a wider area than any reported heretofore this fall.

The snow that fell today did not remain on the ground because the freezing temperatures of early morning were followed by warmer weather. Boston had no snow and the lowest temperature here was 38 degrees. Greenville, Maine, officially the coldest spot in New England, had a reading of 28 degrees.

Among the places that did report snowfall were Worcester, and Springfield, Mass., St. Albans, Vt., and Concord, N. H. Springfield reported an unofficial temperature of 22 degrees. No snow fell in Maine so far as was known.

Warmer weather in the immediate future is predicted by the weather bureau. Except in eastern Maine it is to be warmer and there will be fresh to strong southeast and south winds with showers.

OBJECTIONS BY DEFENSE COUNSEL IN MORSE TRIAL

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The trial in federal court of three sons of Charles W. Morse and 14 other defendants for conspiring to use the mails to defraud in the sale of stock of the United States Steamship company and subsidiary companies, was halted today when defense counsel objected to the introduction of evidence from a previous trial in Washington.

Submission by the prosecution of exhibits bearing on the financial status of the United States Steamship company was objected to by defense counse, on the ground that these exhibits comprised a duplication on the government's evidence in the Washington trial and that their admission would constitute "double jeopardy" for the defendants. The Washington trial resulted in an acquittal of the defendants.

Fletcher Bobyns, prosecuting the case as special assistant attorney general told the court that virtually all of the government's witnesses would include at least some portion of the disputed evidence in their testimony.

Judge Thatcher who is presiding at the trial, adjourned the case until tomorrow to permit time to read the records of the previous trial before giving an opinion on the disputed point.

TO ASK $1,000,000 TO EQUIP ARMED GUARDS FOR MAIL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. — (AP)— One million dollars will be sought by Postmaster General New for the organization, training and equipping of an armed force within the postal service to protect the mails from banditry.

It was announced today he would submit the request for funds before Director Lord of the budget bureau tomorrow and ask that it be transmitted to congress.

Pending organization of this special force United States marines again will serve as guardians of the mails, the first of the "Devil Dogs," probably taking up the duty before the week end with orders to deal ruthlessly with would-be robbers.

Organization of the special postal force made progress today and details of the plans to prevent a recurrence of such robberies as last week at Elizabeth, N.J. were placed before President Coolidge by Mr. New who later conferred with Major General Joh A. Lejeune, commandant of the marine corps. A staff meeting of sopstal officials afterwards completed arrangements for co-operation between postal employes and the marines.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE TO GO TO KANSAS CITY ARMISTICE DAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18—(AP)—President Coolidge will attend the dedication of a war memorial at Kansas City, Mo., on Armistice day.

Formal announcement was made at the white house late today of the acceptance of the invitation, which was presented last spring by the Liberal Memorial association of Kansas City.

The memorial has been erected in memory of those who lost their lives in the World war. The trip will be the first to be made by the president outside of Washington since he returned from the Adirondacks.

Fatally Stabbed Wife in New London Street

Fortunato Fella, Arrested After Half a Mile Chase, is Held Without Bonds.

NEW LONDON, Oct. 18—(AP)—Attacked suddenly by her husband, Fortunato Fella, alias Filla and Ferro, on Bank street late today, Mrs. Rose Fella was stabbed in the throat and died on the way to Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospital. Fella was arrested after a half mile chase and is being held without bonds on a charge of first degree murder. A score of pedestrians witnessed the attack.

Domestic troubles were believed to have been the cause for the attack.

Efforts to secure a confession from Fella at police headquarters failed and he remained silent during a long questioning.

The attack occurred at 5:30 o'clock in front of the produce store of P. Adel company as many pedestrians were passing. According to Max Hilsberg, an employe in the Adel store, who witnessed the affair, Fella attacked his wife without warning.

"My attention was directed to the trouble," Hilsberg said, "as the man and woman approached. They were arguing, but as they were talking in Italian I was unable to understand them. When they were within a few feet of me, the man suddenly sprang at the woman, grabbed her by the head and before I could make a move he struck her. She fell to the sidewalk and he ran up an alley way next to the store."

Virgin Goode, Willard Davis and Conrad Mast, members of the crew of the U. S. S Bushnell, who also witnessed the assault, started in pursuit of Fella who, running through the alley, climbed a fence and disappeared towards Howard street. Patrolman John P. Sullivan and Mr. Hilsberg hastened by a shorter route to cut off the fugitive and were joined by Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman Thomas Cavanaugh.

Some distance down Howard street, Fella was captured as he ran out from behind a store. He was taken to police headquarters where Hilsberg identified him.

The blood stained knife, with a long, sharp blade, was found in the alley way in the rear of the Adel store where, it is believed, Fella had thrown it while making his escape.

Police officials said Fella and his wife had been separated for several years. Only recently he was warned by the police to stay away from her home at 10 Shaw street after she had complained that he had visited her house on several occasions and had threatened her.

Police records show that he had been arrested seven times during the past few years on charges growing out of domestic troubles. On five of these occasions he was charged with non-support, and twice for breach of the peace. In 1924 he served two months in jail for failure to provide for the support of his wife and 15-year-old daughter. The same year he served thirty days for breach of the peace as a result of threatening her.

Fella is 50 years old.

$30,000,000 INSURANCE TAX CASE BEFORE SUPREME COURT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18—(AP)—The $30,000,000 insurance tax case brought from Chicago by the Hanover Fire Insurance company was argued today before the supreme court. It is to test the authority of states to impose taxes on corporations of other states doing business within their borders when similar taxes are not imposed upon domestic corporations.

Charles E. Hughes, representing the insurance company, told his former colleagues on the supreme bench that the tax was discriminatory and unconstitutional and could not be defended. He insisted corporations organized outside a state had the right, by complying with the laws of the state, to engage in business in it on the same basis as companies incorporated by the state.

Mr. Hughes held the tax imposed upon his company by Cook county was under authority of the law enacted in 1869 which recently had been interpreted by the state courts to authorize a tax upon the net receipts of outside corporations doing business there. He said it was strictly a property tax and invalid because not applied equally to all property in the country.

Counsel for the county insisted outside corporations came into the state knowing that such a tax would be imposed and that it was not open to them after locating to challenge the conditions under hich they were admitted.

Counsel for Cook county contended that should the statute be regarded as imposing a tax it would still be constitutional as an occupation tax, insisting the constitution of the state specifically made such a tax lawful.

Members of the court expressed confusion over conflicting statements of counsel and practically all the members engaged in searching inquiries. These developed from Judge Hughes a reiteration of his charge that the tax was discriminatory and brought from county counsel flat denial.

WOMAN KILLED WHEN STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

NORFOLK, Oct. 18—(AP)—Miss Helen Kendall, 44, daughter of Mrs. Maria Kendall, of this place, was instantly killed here tonight when she was struck by an automobile owned and operated by Frank Demars, of Winsted. Alsop, president of the association, said today.

The withdrawals made or contemplated followed a resolution adopted by the directors of the association providing that the dispute between the association and any member be settled upon the written agreement of the member to pay 5 per cent. on the gross sales value of his 1925 crop.

PETITION FOR RECALL OF GOVERNOR OF WASHINGTON

Roland H. Hartley is Charged With Violating His Oath of Office and the Commission of Wrong Acts in Office—Committees of Citizens, Including Labor Union Men, Have Started a Campaign For the 97,576 Signatures Necessary For Holding a Recall Election.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 18.—(AP)—A petition for the recall of Governor Roland H. Hartley of Washington, was filed with the secretary of state today.

The petition charges the executive with violating his otah of office and the commission of wrong acts in office.

Committees of citizens, including union men, immediately prepared to campaign for 97,576 signatures to the petition, the number required for the holding of a recall election.

Recall proceedings against Governor Hartley are the direct outgrowth of the dismissal of Dr. Henry Suzzallo as president of the University of Washington.

Dr. Suzzallo was ousted by a vote of the members of the university board of regents appointed by Hartley.

The recall petition charges the executive with appointing members of the legislature to administrative positions for the "purpose of preventing the free expression of the will of the people through their representatives in the legislature."

Concerning appropriations and levies for state institutions, including institutions of higher education, it was charged that the governor "failed, neglected and refused" to enforce them and "drew their passage by the use of force" thus attempted to prevent and has prevented their enforcement.

The petition charges also the governor unjustly removed from office three University of Washington regents and a trustee of the Cheney Normal school in order that he might fill vacancies with his own appointees.

The controversy between Dr. Suzzallo and Hartley dates back to the World war. At that time Hartley was a leader of the lumber men in the state and Suzzallo was chairman of the state council of defense and advocated the eight hour day in the lumber industry.

Hartley became governor 21 months ago and having a "record" has 27 months to serve. His first act after becoming governor was to request the legislature to adjourn, promising to make a survey of the state institutions and to submit the results to a special session.

He visited the state institutions including the university and last January called the legislature into special session. A storm arose over recommendations proposed for slashes and retrenchments in expenditures for roads, for schools, especially the state five institutions of higher education and for reclamation of land. These policies of the governor were the principal issue in a primary election September 14, of the 17 representatives nominated for the house 11 were supporters of Hartley, six were opponents of his and seven had been unopposed.

During the special session Dr. Suzzallo took a part in efforts to secure appropriation for the state institutions of education beyond the appropriations he had recommended. He was accused of influencing the defeat of legislature by appointing local committees and representatives to office and by calling friends of legislators into other offices including postmasterships.

INVESTIGATING POLITICAL AFFAIRS IN INDIANA

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 18—(AP)—Three persons in whom D. C. Stephenson former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan is said to have revealed certain secrets were witnesses today before the grand jury that has under investigation charges that high officials had corrupt dealing with the ex-klan leader. The trio was composed of Madge Meade, in whom Stephenson is said to have placed great trust; Maxine Elliott, former stenographer to Stephenson's office, and Carl Lesey, former lieutenant of the ex-grand dragon.

Miss Meade was considered the most important witness. She had been missing from her home several days, but returned yesterday and was placed under $2,500 bond to insure her appearance before the investigation body. When she went into the grand jury room, she took with her a box she had obtained from the safety deposit vault of a local bank. Reports have persisted that Stephenson before being taken to prison almost a year ago to begin serving a life sentence for the murder of Madge Oberholtzer, had hidden documents purporting to show his connection with high officials. The secret of the grand jury inquiry prevented any revelation as to whether the box produced by Miss Meade contained any such documents.

NEW KNIGHT HOSPITAL AT MANSFIELD SCHOOL

MANSFIELD DEPOT, Conn., Oct. 18 (AP)—Three hundred invited guests, including state officials and prominent members of the medical fraternity, today attended the ceremonies in connection with the opening of the new Knight hospital at the Mansfield Training School and Hospital.

The building is named in honor of Dr. Henry M. Knight, founder of the work for feeble minded children in this state, and his son, Dr. George Knight, who carried on the work after the death of his father, until 1912. The building cost the state $200,000 and has accommodations for sixty patients.

Judge L. F. Waldon Marvin presided at the ceremonies today. Portraits of Dr. Henry Knight and Dr. George Knight were presented to the state and were accepted by Governor Trumbull. The portrait of Dr. Henry Knight was presented by his nephew, Dr. Frank Knight Sanders, of New York city and that of Dr George Knight by U. S. Senator George P. McLean, who was acting for Mrs. Knight. Dr. Sanders and Senator McLean told of the lives of the two doctors and described the work they had done.

Following the benediction pronounced by Rev. John C. Goddard, of Salisbury, the guests were taken through the new hospital.

INVESTIGATING ILLINOIS SENATORIAL CAMPAIGN

CHICAGO, Oct. 18—(AP)—Delving into Illinois bitterly contested senatorial campaign, the senate campaign funds committee heard testimony about a $300,000 or $400,000 campaign fund raised or proposed to be raised in the interest of Hugh S. Magill, of Chicago, independent candidate.

Two dry leaders—F. Scott McBride, national superintendent and George B Safford, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league—quoted a Methodist minister, the Rev. Robert O'Brien, of Chicago, as saying that it was proposed to expend that amount of money for Magill and that there were enough "holes" in the corrupt practices acts to get by on a big campaign program.

Mr. O'Brien also was quoted by these two witnesses, that Julius Rosenwald, millionaire Chicago merchant, was one of a group of rich men in Chicago supporting the Magill candidacy as against Frank L. Smith, the republican senatorial nominee.

$75,000 HAUL BY THREE BANK BANDITS AT DOWAGIAC, MICH.

ELKHART, Ind., Oct. 18—(AP)—The Lee State bank, of Dowagiac, Mich., was robbed of $75,000 in currency and securities by three men who held it up this afternoon, according to a report received here.

Chris A. Hux, cashier of the bank and six other employes were compelled to lie on the floor while the robbers ransacked the vault. The robbers were unmasked Hux said. Three customers were in the bank at the time. The robbers escaped in a motor car.

The incident occurred at Ichang, but no casualties were reported in the dispatch. On October 17 three additional French gunboats were expected at Hankow according to the American consul general.

THE ARREST OF $320,000 ABSCONDER IMMINENT

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 18—(AP)—The arrest of Charles E. Knapp, who disappeared with $320,000 in cash Friday, and who is wanted in connection with a bond swindle which resulted in the closing of the Brotherhood Savings and Trust company, a labor bank, was imminent tonight, Detective Inspector Clyde Edeburn said.

The inspector, in charge of investigations growing out of the scandal, said he believed Knapp was in hiding within 100 miles of Pittsburgh.

FOUND OLD COPY OF THE PUBLIC MEDIUM

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 18—An interesting copy of The Public Medium, dated September 9, 1848 is being shown by Joseph O. Bergeron of 40 Pearl street. The Medium was published every Saturday morning and printed by John Evans in the Franklin building in this city. The copy was found in Columbia and from the standpoint of comparison with publications of today, is somewhat unusual. The front page is filled with advertisements. The issue is on one sheet of paper which is folded so as to look like a four page paper, with the pages about half the size of the average daily of today. Among local and foreign news appearing, is an article announcing that P. T. Barnum, Esq., has engaged a corps of bulldogs as night guardians of the estate upon which he is building a magnificent oriental villa near Bridgeport. There is a recipe for small beer, an article on political party spirit, an essay on the cultivation of a pear, letters to the editor and straggling advertisements.

OVER FIVE HUNDRED ARE ADDED TO VOTING LISTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 18—Five hundred and seventeen new voters have been made in this vicinity and added to the voting lists of thirteen neighboring towns for the coming state election. The gain of 517 is singularly over five per cent of the total number of the combined voting lists of the towns of this section. With the exception of Willington and Coventry, where no town elections were held this year, two sessions of the selectmen and town clerks of the thirteen towns were held in September to make voters for the town elections and subsequent sessions have been held for the state election. Town officials have given the following figures showing the number of new voters made this fall:

Franklin	1
Lebanon	34
Hebron	17
Columbia	16
Coventry	34
Andover	24
Bolton	41
Mansfield	17
Ashford	12
Chaplin	11
Scotland	12
Hampton	22
Windham	272
Total	517

Coventry led the smaller towns. Of the Windham total 116 were men and 256 women.

William Allan McArthur died at his home, 254 Walnut street, Sunday night after an extended illness. He was born in this city, December 8, 1885, a son of Allan and Margaret Johnston McArthur of this city. He was a member of Eastern Star lodge, No. 44, A. F. and A. M., Willimantic lodge No. 1911, B. P. O. Elks, Loyal Order of Moose and Natchaug lodge, No. 22, K. of P. He was the son of the late Chief of Police Allan McArthur, and a well known and popular hero.

Dr. William K. Bath is reviving his work as an artist and is planning to exhibit at the Academy of Art shows in New York and Hartford this fall and winter. During the past summer he painted eight marine views off the coast in the vicinity of Newport, R. I., one is called, The Rocks at September beach and is an oil painting 30 by 36 inches. This piece is now on display at the H. C. Murray company store. Dr. Bath is at present making scenery paintings of the upper Willimantic river in Coventry where the silver birch trees and autumn foliages are now at their best.

Mrs. Bernice Harrison of 13 Medfors street, New Haven is a patient at the Manchester hospital suffering from a strained back and possible internal injuries sustained when the car in which she was riding skidded on Twin Hills, North Coventry, Saturday afternoon. Accompanied by her daughter and son-in-law, Mrs. Harrison was on her way to the Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs to visit her son who is a student there. While descending the west hill the brakes locked and the machine slid into the fence, tearing down several sections. Mrs. Harrison was thrown out of the machine into the ditch. She was taken to the hospital in an ambulance.

Antonio A. Longo of Danielson, tac- kle of the Connecticut Aggies football team who sustained a dislocated right shoulder in the game with the University of Maine at Orono, Saturday afternoon, arrived in this city Monday forenoon accompanied by Assistant Coach Arthur S Moreland. They were met by Coach Sumner A. Doe and went to Storrs. Longo will be out of the game for about three weeks. He was hurt when he tackled Cassisat Maine quarterback and spent Saturday night in a Bangor hospital.

Mrs. J. Ellen Lanphear, widow of H. Dwight Lanphear, died Sunday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. S. Arnold Peckham of 53 Spring street. Mrs. Lanphear was born in Providence R. I. September 6, 1844, a daughter of Charles T. and Lydia E. Franklin Clark. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Peckham. She was a member of the Woman's Relief corps and the Woman's Christian Temperance union.

In a jam of automobiles and the South Coventry trolley car Saturday night on Main street, one car, a Star sedan, driven by Solomon Davidson of 19 Harold Park, Boston, Mass., was struck by the trolley and somewhat damaged. Davidson assumed the blame. The trolley was in charge of Albert Rondeau of 381 Pleasant street.

Arthur, infant son of Nicholas and Rose Haddad, died at the home of his parents, 18 Valley street, at three o'clock Monday morning. Besides his parents he leaves one brother, Amil and one sister, Agnes, of this city.

As the result of an infectious reac- tion of an injury to her forehead, from which she was believed to have fully recovered, Miss Ruth Doyle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Doyle of 126 Church street, is in St. Joseph's hospital for treatment. Miss Doyle sustained the injury in an accident several weeks ago and it has apparently healed. A few days ago it started to cause trouble. It was said that her condition was much improved on Monday.

Mrs. Frank P. Lombardo, commander of the local review of the Woman's Benefit association, has appointed a committee to arrange for a membership drive to double the roster. A Hallowe'en party is also planned.

Miss Mildred Bass Anderton of Boston, Mass., reader and director of musical programs will appear in this city soon through arrangements made by th Woman's club.

It is learned here that Rev. Walter F. Borchert of Edgewood, R. I., former rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, is ill in the Providence hospital.

"Let us declare ourselves in favor of a single standard and to make it as hard for a man to be immoral, as for a woman," said Dr. Milton S. Rees in a sermon before a mass meeting of men at the First Congregational church Sunday afternoon. The sermon was taken from the text found in Genesis 19:17 "Escape for thy life." He named the four avenues in the twentieth century Sodom as "Worldliness, Self Righteousness, Indifference and Neglect, Imbelief. Of the four streets the first he named as Profanity, the second, Robbing, the third Drinking and the fourth, Immorality. "One of the most fruitful sources of the dual sin," he said, "is promiscuous dancing. This country has gone dance mad, card crazy and moving picture fool-ish."

Continued large attendances are looked for during this, the third week of union religious services being conducted by Dr. Rees. The services are now being held in the Congregational church. The regular afternoon services are to be replaced by a series of cottage meetings in several homes. The list arranged for the week follows: Tuesday, Mrs. D. Clark, Windham road; Mrs Galley Wheeler, 1165 Main street; Mrs. A. H Harris, 120 Chestnut street; Wednesday, Mrs. G H. Andrews, The Ridges; Captain E T. Carlson, 34 Walnut street; Mrs. F W. Perkins, 128 Church street; Mrs Clyde Larkin, 101 Bolivia street; Thursday, Mrs. W. H Peckham, 185 Pleasant street; Mrs. F. A. Cook, 141 Church street; Mrs. William C. Mass, 234 High street; Friday, Mrs. P. E Stanley, 50 Church street; Mrs. J. C. Dinwoodie, 84 Prospect street; Mrs. Arthur Stiles, 15 Windham Road. Each of these meetings will be called at 3 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Sweet, with their son, Everett Sweet, will leave this Tuesday morning for Boston, Mass., from where they will motor to their son's home in Burlington, N. C. They will be joined there by Mrs. Everett Sweet and Mr. and Mrs. John White, the latter being their daughter. Mr. and Mrs. Sweet will remain in the south for an extended stay and will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on November 15th.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth H. Hillhouse and Mrs James W. Hillhouse have returned from a motor tour in the south. They were joined in Atlantic City, N J., by Dr and Mrs. W. E Hendry who had been visiting in Washington, D. C.

CATHOLIC WELFARE COUNCIL CHAIRMAN REPORTS BUSY YEAR

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 17—The varied activities of the local branch of the Diocesan Bureau of Social Service are well summarized in the reports of the Windham county chairman, Mrs. John Riley, of Willimantic, as reported to headquarters at Hartford. Mrs. Riley reports:

Chairman, Mrs. James Hurley. Membership, 209.

Education program has been conducted at monthly meetings through lectures, musical programs, drama, etc.

Miss Grace Garvin of Hartford came in October and so delighted her audience with a talk on "Byways of Travel" that she was urged to come again, which she did during Lent, giving a most interesting description of the Passion Play at Oberammergau and her impressions of the people of that little mountain village. Rev. Father Ledwith, M. S., was the speaker at the annual meeting in January, his subject being "Opportunities of the Catholic Welfare Council."

Our Christmas activities took us to the County home in Putnam where each of the 130 children was given candy, fruit, a toy or book and a useful gift. The Home for Crippled Children was also remembered, as was the House of the Good Shepherd.

A Girl Scout program was conducted during the year, the Scouts giving a whist netting $41, which they donated to the church decoration fund. Later, they presented a play and an operetta to help defray the expense of a ten days' vacation at camp under trained leadership. The service program was conducted along usual lines—families provided with clothing, food, fuel, rent, and some medical attention, especially for children; throats, ears, eyes and teeth being cared for.

The proceeds of a concert was donated to the decoration fund of St. Joseph's church and a smaller gift made to St Mary's. The Town Farm has been visited monthly and much cheer brought to the inmates, who enjoy a real party on these occasions. Articles for pleasure and extra comfort are always remembrances of these visits.

Financial statement follows: Receipts, cash on hand September 1, 1925, $412.71; membership, $209; social activities, $605.57; total, $1,227.28. Expenditures: Rent, printing, postage and repairs, $51.50; Lakeville Manor, $25; scholarship fund, $20; Near East, etc., $50, Town Farm and County Home, $175; Girl Scouts (church decoration fund, $41; Camp, $119.50) $160; St. Joseph's decoration fund, $124.80; St Mary's, $31.20; lectures, $31.50; material relief, $83.68; membersh p, $104.50; balance, $353.60; total, $1,227.28

Noank Crushers football team was ready to go to Norwich on Sunday but the weather held them back, the game being called off. The afternoon was spent in the clubrooms on Pearl street where a blackboard talk was given to the team by Coach Elliott Bennett. Plays were drawn on the board to be worked out in the next game. The Crushers will put in a week of hard practice and Coach Bennett will try out two new men, Banks at right end and Jag Jack Steele at center.

The lobster men have put away their pots and gear for the winter. Many of them will keep their boats in water until the black fishing is over as the black fishing is the sport for the old fishermen. Over 800 lbs. each day is brought in to the dock and sold to the local market for a good price. The fish are caught by hand lines back of the race near Fishers Island and the season closes some time in December. Capt. Oswell Lamb of boat Earl, on Saturday got 200 lbs of black fish. Other boats also had good catches.

Keith Elliott, who is in the senior class at Bakeley school in New London went over to the school on Saturday when the class picture was taken. The picture is used in the school book which tells of the things done by the pupils during their course at the school. Elton Rathbun is the star football player for the orange and black team and it is his last year at the school.

Angus McQuarrie of Montauk, L. I., was home over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs G. E. Adams has returned from an auto trip through Massachusetts and Vermont. They stopped at Monson, Mass., to see Mrs. Andrew's sister.

Arthur Fitch of Westerly was in town on Sunday.

Dr. Sherwood of New London spent Monday with friends in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hadley visited with friends in Bristol, R. I., over the week end.

The frost on the last two mornings has killed some of the garden products around the village. The flowers were also touched. The farmers from the country around Ledyard and Center Groton who make deliveries in the village during each week said that they have lost a lot of vegetables because of the frost that has paid them a visit during the past week.

Miss Ida Hadley is spending a few days in Providence, R. I., with relatives.

Mrs. John MacDonald of Prospect Hill recently entertained the Social Whist club of eight members at her home. After whist was played a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

Nelson Brown was a recent business caller in Stonington.

Mrs. Charles L Fitch, who has been confined to her home with a severe attack of grippe, is now much improved.

John Cannery is in Bridgeport for a short visit.

Mrs. Frank Walker has gone to Brooklyn, N. Y. to spend a month.

DANIELSON

FARMERS FAVOR OPEN SEASON TO HUNT DEER

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 18.—There is a probability, it was stated here Monday, that a measure will be introduced at the session of the legislature that will convene in January providing for an open season for hunting deer. This bill probably will provide for an open season of one week, such as has been the rule in Massachusetts for many years.

Economic reasons, more than sport, enter into the proposal. Deer have become so plentiful all through this section of the state that they are regarded as a nuisance by farmers, beautiful as they are to look at and picturesque as that are afield.

Farmers who lose hundreds of dollars worth of crops, who have young fruit orchards ruined and suffer other damage from the deer have little eye for the beauty of the animals. Scores of farmers hereabouts tell of damage done on their properties by deer. The fact that farmers have a right to kill the deer when they find them doing damage on their properties counts for little. Much of the maurading done by deer occurs in the night season. Farmers will tell you they cannot spend their time patrolling their properties, but that this would be necessary if they would be safe from the raids of the animals. They are asking for legislative action providing an open season each fall.

Herds numbering as high as 28 members have been reported within half a dozen miles of Danielson the past growing season. Herds of ten or a dozen are not uncommon. Having multiplied to this extent, the farmer asks that something be done to control them. One farmer who set out 5000 cabbage plants last spring found just two plants the following morning. A herd of deer had visited his cabbage patch and cleaned it in one night. This is but one example of how destructive the deer have become.

A factor that enters into the increase in the number of deer hereabouts, hunters say, is the open season in Massachusetts. When that week comes in the near future and guns begin to crack across the border, the deer flock down into Connecticut, many of them to remain. This area is so close to Massachusetts that many deer are acquired here from the neighboring state, to increase and roam about destroying.

Near Danielson one man who is about to develop a fruit orchard has been put to the expense of building a high ware fence to protect his young trees from deer, which roam about in the neighborhood constantly. All of these things enter into bringing about the plan to ask for an open season at the next session of the legislature.

The state election does not promise to produce much excitement in Killingly this fall. There appears to be very little general interest in the affair. Aside from a rally or two, Killingly will hear little about "the issues of the campaign." Of course, an effort will be made to get out the vote on election day. Not such a good record was made in this respect at the last annual town meeting. Several hundred of the electors of the town failed to go near the polls, and the woman's vote was light in this, the first, district of the town.

LARGE CONCERN TAKES LEASE IN DANIELSON

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 18.—Announcement was made Monday morning of the lease to the W. T. Grant company by Moses H. Berthiaume, Jr., of what for years has been known as the Armington store in the Exchange block. The lease is for a period of ten years.

Mr. Berthiaume said that he will arrange at once for a new front and extensive interior alterations. The front will be of the modern type and very attractive. A metal ceiling is one of the interior improvements planned. Several weeks will be required to do the work contemplated in order that the Grant company opening may take place in December, in the period before Christmas.

The Grant company operates several hundred stores throughout the United States. The one in Danielson will be the only one in this section of eastern Connecticut. Providence being the nearest point at which the company operates. Representatives of the concern who were here Monday said that the lines carried in the Danielson store and retailing from 25 cents to $1, would be the same as carried in other stores of the company throughout the country.

DANIELSON HUNTER SHOT ELEVEN-POUND FOX

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 18.—This will indicate to any number of people that an interesting time of year has arrived—the fox hunting season. Harold Burgess of Reynolds street went out squirrel hunting Monday and came home with larger game—an 11-pound fox that's one of extra good weight—and it was a beauty. This fox is the first reported shot in territory hereabouts this fall.

Winter overcoats were favored by men in Monday's chill weather and fur-trimmed coats were numerously in favor among the women.

Andrew Jarowski and his daughter, Bertha, injured in an automobile accident at South Killingly last Wednesday evening, remain as patients at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam.

Members of the Fortnightly club are to meet this afternoon with Mrs. Harold Greene of Maple street.

Bleachers with a capacity of from 200 to 250 spectators are being built in on the north side of the new gymnasium at the high school.

This week assessors are receiving lists at designated places in the second voting district for the convenience of taxpayers who live in Dayville, Attawaugan and Ballouville.

A series meeting of the Quinebaug Circuit league, representative of various towns hereabouts, is to be held Friday evening of this week at the Methodist church in Moosup.

A group of boys resident in Danielson and other communities of the town of Killingly recently have entered the State Trade school at Putnam.

Recently elected officials of the Bartlett Cemetery association at East Killingly are: President, Lydia A. Bartlett; vice president, Luther M. Smith; secretary-treasurer, Grace E. Hill; superintendent, Mrs. A. E. Sayles; directors, Henry H. Oatley, G. W. Handy, George W. Winslow.

At Killingly High school an effort is being made to increase the membership of the Athletic association of the institution.

Walter G. Bruce of the faculty of Killingly High school is conducting an extension course in poultry and agriculture at East Killingly for those in that territory who are interested.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Talbot are occupying their newly constructed home on the Danielson-Brooklyn highway, near Church street.

Henry McDermott of Worcester was a week end visitor at his home in Danielson.

Edward Mulligan, Killingly High school football player who broke his leg while at practice with the team the past week, was resting comfortably at St. Vincent's hospital in Worcester Monday. He will be a patient there for several weeks.

Taxpayers of the town of Killingly have less than two weeks in which to file lists of their taxable property.

Progress is being made with the necessary legal formalities incident to the opening of the newly organized Moosup Trust company, which is to do business in Moosup. W. Irving Davis of Danielson is a member of the board of directors.

Mrs. Earl Winslow of Elmville was in Providence Monday afternoon to attend the funeral services for her sister, Mrs. Agnes Carpenter, who died in that city last Friday. Mrs. Carpenter leaves three sons and three daughters. There are two brothers, Albert of Pittsfield, Me., and Nelson of Centerdale, R. I.

Out of the neighboring town of Foster comes the story about a potato that weighed 3 1-4 pounds, raised by Frederick Reynolds, who uncovered many monster tubers in this yield from his garden.

Over in Brooklyn there is a lively interest in the campaign for representative. Sidney W. Bard is the republican candidate, John M. Bessette the democratic candidate. Mr. Bessette formerly has represented the town as a member of the legislature.

At Dayville this (Tuesday) afternoon members of the Ladies' Aid society are to meet with Mrs. Orrin Alvord.

Among the bowlers there is great interest in the competition in the league now regularly rolling at the Casino alleys.

A practice now largely discontinued in Danielson is the saving of fallen leaves for bedding down horses—the old car sleeps standing up.

The official board of the Methodist Episcopal church has a meeting scheduled for Thursday evening.

Cut of the state highway leading to Brooklyn state highway employes have been engaged in resetting posts and repairing the state highway fences.

Daniel A. Jamelson of Worcester was a visitor with friends in Danielson over the week end.

Members of the Nazerene church have a cottage prayer meeting planned to be held in Elmville this evening.

Observers claim there is a constant increase in passengers carried on the motor coach lines running between Providence and Hartford through Danielson.

Again this evening and on Wednesday evening Supt. W. E. Parker is to be at his office in the town hall building to receive applications from those who desire to attend an evening school here over a period of 20 weeks.

Development of the authorized extension of L'Homme street will make this one of the prettiest residential streets in Danielson, and the most rapid in development.

Is your baby's skin all soft and pink?

It should be!

The minor skin troubles to which infants and children are subject—itching patches, bits of chafing, rash or redness—so easily develop into serious, stubborn affections, that every mother should have Resinol Ointment on hand to check them before they get the upper hand. Doctors and nurses recommend Resinol for this with the utmost confidence because of its harmless ingredients and its success in healing eczema and similar serious skin diseases.

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed

External treatments seldom cure Piles.

Nor do surgical operations.

The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Lee & Osgood Co., who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

KEEP CONGRESS REPUBLICAN

What Secretary Hoover had to say, while speaking in New York, regarding the accomplishments of the republican party should be borne in mind by those who are going to the polls on the second of November, for while what he said was simply reminding the people of what they know has taken place it is nevertheless a good thing that such things should be reviewed. It is easy to bring them to mind but unless memory is refreshed it is often clouded by political efforts to the contrary.

Pointing to the fact that the nation has experienced steady progress since the republican administration took hold of the reins in 1921, Secretary Hoover referred to the rapid recuperation since the war, the extension of assistance to Europe and the bringing of conditions in the country to the highest degree of prosperity ever experienced in this country or elsewhere.

While much has been done it is possible to point to much more that would have been done but for the obstructive tactics employed by factions and opponents in Washington. It is significant, however, that republican policies have been in effect during this period, and the desire must be for the continuance of such politicies and the completion of the program that has been presented.

The coming election is not a presidential election, but it involves the selection of a new house of representatives and one third of the senate at Washington. In this respect Secretary Hoover fittingly says: "It must be borne in mind that the control of either branch of congress by the democratic party as the result of the coming election means a deadlock in the progress of governmental policies. A democratic congress will not even make possible the adoption of alternative policies, because the executive department of the government will remain within the control of the republican party, and it is pledged to the maintenance and development of the policies now in operation."

For the good of the country and constructive legislation the need prevails of electing a republican congress and it is this that the voters should insist upon next Month.

COSTLY KINDNESS

Motorists have long since recognized the danger of picking up strangers who plead from the roadside for a ride. There have been too many instances where persons thus helped have retaliated by holding up the driver and at times inflicting injury upon him in order to obtain the loot for which they were seeking.

But aside from the desire to provide self protection by refusing to give anyone a lift, there is the additional reason of protecting the driver, or the owner of the car, against lawsuits and financial losses which have in too many instances followed accidents which happened when persons were being given a ride.

The chauffeur for a St. James, L. I., woman took two children into her car to help them along. It was an act of kindness, but the car was struck by a locomotive and the children were injured and the chauffeur was killed and the jury has recently declared that the owner of the car must pay $20,000 for the injuries sustained by the children.

Thus kindness does not always pay it is undoubtedly true that the fact that most car owners carry liability insurance gives encouragement to the suits which are brought in similar cases, but it doesn't make it any easier for those looking for a ride from one point to another.

The fact is that while some may make a practice of picking up anyone seen walking along the highway the number doing so is being reduced by the holdup cases and by just such experiences as that on Long Island. The wise thing to do is to turn a deaf ear to all such appeals, most of which deserve no encouragement. It is not hard heartedness that dictates the refusal but the recognized need of self protection. Certainly if it is a question of deciding between a possible damage suit, a holdup or freedom from such annoyances, few motorists would require any time to deliberate about what should be done. That is why the "hitch-hiker" is getting less and less attention although it is next to impossible to drive along any road without encountering a number looking for rides.

ANOTHER UNKNOWN

In many instances when all else has failed the identity of persons has been established through the widespread publication of their pictures by the newspapers.

There is an unusual case in the person now going by the name of Jerry Tarbot, which is not his correct name, but it is being used until he can have it established what his name is and where he belongs. Three years ago his memory failed him. He is obliged to admit that he doesn't know who he is, where he belongs or whether he has any relatives. The idea was hit upon of having him appear at the American Legion convention. This he did when he was presented on the platform where all could see and hear him.

It was not long before several thought they knew him. He had a hazy idea that what one of them said concerning him, his former business and his family were true but it is not supported by government records. Other clues to his identity have been run down without getting any nearer to a solution.

Tarbot was in the service and it seemed not improbable that some at the convention would recognize him, but it hasn't as yet produced results although the widespread publication of his predicament may help to a solution. He is able to earn his living and to take care of himself in other respects quite as well as ever, but his mind is a blank back of three years ago and naturally he is desirous of having the mystery cleared up.

Traveling about without knowing one's name is an unfortunate affliction. It seems more like fiction than reality. With all known methods employed for discovering something about him producing no results Tarbot isn't discouraged, but it would seem that inasmuch as the regular channels have failed the most likely means of being identified lies in the chance seeing of his picture or the reading of his description by someone who knew him in the past. "Lost in a big city," "a man without a country" or "a stranger in a strange land" fail to tell a stranger story than that which is revealed by Jerry Tarbot. Here is another unknown soldier.

QUEEN MARIE'S COMING

The arrival of Queen Marie of Rumania and her tour of the country will be sufficient cause for unusual public interest.

It is not often that royalty favors this country with a visit, but when it does it never lacks for attention. There are times when it anticipates so much that endeavors are made to travel incognito, but such is not part of the plan of Queen Marie. She has come accompanied by great publicity and if any of the details of her preparations and daily schedule for the past few weeks have been missed it is through no fault of her press agent.

Queen Marie comes to see the United States and the United States will do its best, when opportunity affords, to see her, and those members of her family who accompany her. Following the entertainment which she will be accorded at the white house, attention which is to be expected will be accorded a visiting monarch, her itinerary will carry her across the country that she may get a thorough idea of the size, attractions, cities and institutions of this land.

She will have an opportunity to note the difference in the size of the United States and Rumania and to draw other comparisons which will certainly not escape the notice of a clever woman. Crowned queens are a rarity in this country so that there will be pardonable endeavors on the part of large nmbers to get a look at Erope's most beautiful queen. Royalty and this country are on display at the same time and each can be expected to be confident and proud of the good impression that will be created.

FRENCH NOT INFORMED

When word comes to the effect that not until the four day congress of the radical party in France did the members thereof really learn the terms of the agreement reached by Ambassador Berenger and Secretary Mellon for the settlement of the French debt, one wonders just what the people of France have been told relative thereto.

This would indicate that the French government and the politicians have not placed the cards on the table, that they have not endeavored to get an honest consideration of the debt problem. It is reported that the radicals did not know that under the terms more than $2,000,000,000 was eliminated from the debt under our policy of making the adjustment suit the capacity of the country to pay.

It is an unfair presentation of the debt agreement if any of the terms have been withheld. If the terms disclosed reveal conditions other than actually exist the French people are being imposed upon by their own government. Trying to cover up part of the terms which indicate the generous attitude of this country may well be calculated to arouse an opposition to the debt and to create an ill feeling toward this country. Nothing could be better calculated to poison public opinion and to solidify it against the agreement than the covering up of the concessions which this country is willing to make.

Just what effect this disclosure will have remains to be seen, but with the radicals better informed less reason can exist for their opposition. It should provide the way for demands being made for a complete setting forth of the terms that the French people as well as the French legislators may know the exact situation. If ill feeling toward America is being manufactured out of untruths or half truths it is time that the plan was stopped.

THE CELEBRITY

The latest arrival at the Fern family hotel was seated in the lobby reading a paper when Mrs. Jarring entered.

It has been rather a colorless week for Mrs. Jarring, what with the dreary weather and the dullness of the other guests at the hotel. Wherefore Mrs. Jarring brightened considerably when she spied the late arrival, who was dressed in a trim black frock with a white collar and cuffs.

Mrs. Jarring passed back of the other's chair and her eye lighted on the paper that the girl was perusing. She gave a little gasp of surprise. The Hollywood Daily! Of all things!

Delighted Mrs. Jarring drew up her rocker and opened the conversation. "Pardon me," said she, smiling, "but it isn't often that one sees a Hollywood paper in Chicago. I just couldn't help noticing it."

"Yes, it is a bit unusual," smiled the girl in turn, as she folded up her paper. She had a very distinctive face —one that would feature well in pictures, Mrs. Jarring decided.

"I read the paper in connection with my work," went on the girl. "There's so much goes on in Hollywood all the time, you know."

"Yes, indeed!" Mrs. Jarring agreed. "It's a very gay place, isn't it?"

"An interesting one, by all means," the girl responded. "There's always something doing in Hollywood. Oh, I don't mean just scandal," she hastened to defend the movie colony with an appealing little smile at Mrs. Jarring.

Mrs. Jarring smiled back, 'Of course not," she soothed. "Of course not, my dear,"

I think that they had a real movie actress in the Fern hotel! And Nobody but herself knew it. If they had Mrs. Jarring was certain that the news would have been all over the place. Trust to that bunch to keep a secret! "Have you ever been to Hollywood?" asked the girl, eyeing Mrs. Jarring with interest.

Mrs. Jarring admitted that she had not; admitted it with due regret.

"If you ever get the chance, you must go," enthused the girl. "It's a place all by itself. As distinct from anything else in the world as it can be. You know the movie industry is a great one," warming to Mrs. Jarring's encouraging smile. "American pictures are the best in the world. There's no foreign country that can produce—"

Mrs. Jarring's smile waxed even warmer. The dear child was giving herself away so simply. That is, if she really meant to be incognito. Mrs. Jarring was not sure. These actresses were mightily clever. The girl might be acting deliberately innocent; using that method to pave the way, perhaps trying to use Mrs. Jarring herself as press agent . . .

"It's truly remarkable how the movies have grown," the girl was saying. "Don't you recall the first ones? Remember how the lights flickered and how few really good actors there were—"

"There seems to be millions of them today," laughed Mrs. Jarring.

"Well—not really that many, I mean stars, of course. But those that there are are most interesting. Don't you love to read about them—their homes and families? They're very generous with information, too. Why, they're just the biggest-hearted bunch."

Mrs. Jarring listened eagerly. For once she had found one who did not have to be relieved of her information by sheer force. A sudden happy thought flashed through Mrs. Jarring's mind. To sponsor this girl, to introduce her to others!

"It's getting so that one can't consider himself 'up' on the current news unless he knows Hollywood," laughed the girl. "I can see you're just as interested as you can be—"

"I certainly am, my dear. Interested and delighted to have met you." A world of warmth bathed Mrs. Jarring's voice. "Haven't I seen you in pictures? Griffith's or De Mille's perhaps?"

"Oh, my goodness—no!"- the girl laughed, surprised. "I'm the agent for the Movie Historical society. We're selling a book on Hollywood. I'm sure that you'll be charmed with it. This book sells for $24.50 cash or $5 down and the rest in—"

But Mrs. Jarring's interest in Hollywood had strangely abated.—Chicago News.

Little Talks on Thrift

WHAT REAL THRIFT IMPLIES

Announcement recently was made in the press concerning an estate valued at $700,000 which had grown from $50,000 during 50 years of trustee administration. Much interesting comment has been made on the incident and it has been referred to as an example of thrift.

The increased value of the estate is a significant illustration of the prolific power of money. But, in the broader sense, the incident is not a lesson in real constructive thrift because real thrift implies initiative and action as well as saving funds or conserving resources.

This nation would not have been what it is today if the various fortunes and accumulations of wealth had merely been kept intact and had not been allowed to grow without the element of personal aggression.

A man who is truly thrifty is not by any means a miser. He understands the value of eliminating waste. He knows what it means to economize. And he knows, too, that mere hoarding is not synonymous with enlightened development.

The first step in individual success must consist of learning to save. "Teach economy," said Lincoln, "that is one of the first and highest virtues; it begins with saving money." But individual development must go further. Economy is merely the first step.

Let us not by any means underestimate the value of saving or minimize the results which come from carefully guarded resources. But if we are to attain the utmost of our personal possibilities we must learn also the values that lie in action. Cold judgment is not all the equipment for success. Courage and activity are just as necessary. — American Society for Thrift.

YOUR HEALTH

HEALTH AS AN INVESTMENT

By Roland Hill, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.
Member Gorgas Memorial Institute

What improvement of measures to insure the health of the public has been realized in the past two decades. By the work of the U. S. Public Health Service in eliminating epidemic invasions, and the medical department of the Army in keeping men fit, with the achievements of General Gorgas in preventing yellow fever and malaria, this country has been forced to admit that good health pays.

From the standpoint of active financial return it has been found that measures to prevent disease and insure the health of the masses are the best investment that a nation can make. The great prosperity of the south, for example, would not be possible, today, if the spectre of yellow fever had not been eliminated.

While the nation has come to realize the value of measures to prevent invasion of disease, from without, and quarantine measures against epidemics, from within, the value of careful study by each individual of his physical condition and environment is just being recognized.

The paramount health interest among people at the present time is knowledge, ways and means which each individual, himself, may take, to prevent unnecessary sickness and premature death.

Young humans are able to withstand the wear and tear of modern life, but without knowing how to live, they cut off needlessly many years from their life span. As they grow older, certain conditions manifest themselves which tend to develop into serious diseases. Such conditions as heart strain, high blood pressure, kidney diseases and the like are to be guarded against.

The average life today, fifty-eight, is far below what may reasonably be expected by common sense living, by following the policy of having the health account audited every year, so that degenerative diseases and wrong habits of living can be prevented or corrected.

People in different occupations require varying diets, advice and exercise. Where life is sedentary, the individual almost always eats too much and too rich food. The extra waste products in the system accumulate sooner or later and lead to disaster.

The most valuable help for any man, woman or child is to learn the weak points of his physical makeup. Only in this way can he intelligently guard himself against them.

Stories That Recall Others

Gas Man

A young bride was expecting her husband home to lunch and hearing the back door open called: "Here I am, Sweetheart."

The response was: "Gas man."

A Lesson in Grammar

The conversation of two high school boys in a drug store which has a soda fountain:

"Say, goin' outta the game?"

"Why not?"

"Well you would. You're just that type. What timeryu goin'?"

"Three guesses."

"Whutsit cost t'gittin'?"

"A cut or two-bits."

"It would. It's just that type."

"Where'd jeat today?"

"Three guesses."

"Say, howdya get thtaaway. Gimme a cig-a rette?"

"Sorry, I'm fresh out. But I'll take yer order."

Whereupon the boys and girls "laffed," drank their nickel drinks, hitched up their Oxford bag trousers and "cowgirl" skirts and started for the game.

Make the Most of Books

By James Hosmer Penniman, Litt. D.

Foundation of Any Plan

To have a general idea of what is worth reading and to know where to turn for the books which are of vital importance to one's development must be the foundation of any plan for culture. It is one of the most useful results of a liberal education that it gives a broad view of the whole range of human thought, and shows what to consider and what to reject; it teaches to distinguish as Lowell says between literature and printed matter.

Follow the bend of your inclination but make a clear distinction between the reading that you do with a purpose and that which you do for pleasure. "what we read with inclination makes a string impression. What we read as at task is of little use," said Doctor Johnson, and he added "if we read without inclination, half the mind is employed in fixing the attention, so there is but one half to be employed on what we read."

Sour Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

Danny Goes Up in the Air

It isn't going up, 'tis clear.
But coming down that causes fear.

Danny Meadow Mouse didn't know what to make of it when the strange Meadow Mouse gave a squeal of fright and took to his heels, but he was in doubt only for a moment. Then something struck him. Several sharp points pricked his skin. There was a beating of wings and Danny felt himself being lifted up—up—up. There was no longer any doubt in Danny's mind. He knew that he had been caught by one of his feathered enemies. But which one it was, he didn't know. Those claws that gripped his little gray coat were not big claws; that much he knew. They hurt, of course, but they didn't hurt as much as they would have had not Danny been comfortably fat. So for the time being, Danny was more frightened than hurt.

Up, up, up he was carried so that he could look down all over that meadow. He wasn't carried so very high, but he was carried high enough. He could look over and see the Big River. He knew better than to struggle, so he just hung there as limp as possible and was carried across the meadow toward a dead tree. Who had him? Why, Killy the Sparrow Hawk. Yes, sir, it was Killy the Sparrow Hawk.

Killy had been sitting up on top of that dead tree. You know, he is the smallest of our hawks and a very beautiful little bird. Now, Killy's eyes like the eyes of all members of the Hawk family, are very wonderful. They are so wonderful that, even from the top of that tree he could see a grasshopper in the grass if one should happen to move. Looking out across the meadow he had seen the grass moving in a strange way. At once he had spread his wings and flown over there to see what it meant. He got there just as Danny Meadow Mouse and the Meadow Mouse who thought he owned the meadow stopped fighting. What he had seen was the moving grass caused by that fight. Killy was chuckling as he flew back with Danny. He was chuckling over the good dinner he was about to have.

But no one is sure of a dinner until it is swallowed, and not always then. Killy alighted on the top of a tall stub, which was hollow. He didn't have hold of Danny as tightly as he thought he had. When he alighted he laid Danny across the edge of the hollow stub and let go of him with one foot. This was Danny's chance. He gave a kick and a wiggle, and while Killy screamed and grabbed at him, Danny slipped over the edge and fell down inside that hollow stub. It didn't hurt him a bit. You see, on the bottom there was a thick bed of rotten wood called "punk" and this saved Danny from being hurt. Looking up, he could see a little round patch of sky; and as he watched he saw Killy poke his head in and look down. Killy couldn't get down there. Danny was safe.

He was sore and he was dreadfully frightened; but even at that, he had to grin to himself at the way Killy was carrying on. To have heard Killy, you would have thought that Danny Meadow Mouse had done him a great wrong. Yes, sir, you certainly would. An angrier little Hawk you never saw in all your life. But being angry did him no good. If he would dine, he would have to go and look somewhere else for his dinner. And to this he finally made up his mind. Meanwhile Danny remained where he was, content to let well enough alone. There would be time enough later to consider how he was to get out of there.

He just there as limp as possible

Prof. Ramsay Muir, who has accepted an invitation to visit Amherst colleges as a special history lecturer this winter, holds a high place among English historians and scholars. After graduating from Balliol college, Oxford, he decided upon a career as an educator. During the past twenty-five years he has been connected with several of the leading educational institutions in England, but he is best known perhaps as professor of modern history at the University of Manchester. Prof. Muir has lectured extensively in both Europe and America. He is the author of a number of historical volumes, and is editor of the Weekly Westminster. Several years ago he held a seat in the British parliament. Prof. Muir will be in residence at Amherst for a month, commencing Nov. 12.

For years there has been endless argument and confusion over the subject of the various grades of lumber. Within the last years the large lumber interests, with the aid of the U. S. Government, have established a standard of grading that is rapidly becoming used throughout the country.

Below we print a chart of this standard grading. You will of course recognize the fact that, carefully as the various grades are specified there is still a wide latitude allowed the grader. The human element enters into the grading to a large degree and that after all the only sure way to get full value and honest grading is to deal with a house whose reputation is above question.

BASIS GRADE CLASSIFICATION FOR YARD LUMBER UNDER AMERICAN LUMBER STANDARDS

Total Products of a typical log arranged according to quality as determined by appearance.	Select Lumber of good appearance and finishing qualities. Common Lumber containing defects or blemishes which detract from a finished appearance, but which is suitable for general utility and construction purposes
Suitable for natural finishes	Grade A — practically free from defects Grade B—Allows a few small defects or blemishes
Suitable for paint finishes	Grade C — Allows a limited number of small defects or blemishes that can be covered with paint. Grade D — Allows any number of defects or blemishes which do not detract from a finished appearance, especially when painted.
Lumber suitable for use without waste.	No. 1 Common — Sound and tight knotted stock. Size of defects and blemishes limited. May be considered water tight lumber No. 2 Common — Allows large and course defects. May be considered graintight lumber
Lumber permitting waste	No. 3 Common—Allows larger and coarser defects than No. 2 and occasional knot holes. No. 4 Common — Low quality lumber admitting the coarsest defects such as decay and holes. No. 5 Common — Must hold together under ordinary handling.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubes. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

PHOENIXVILLE BOY DIES WITH SHOT IN FOREHEAD

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 19.—Robert Lewis Butcher, three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Butcher of Phoenixville, died on the way to this city after being accidentally shot in the forehead by a .22 calibre rifle at his home about 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The boy and a five year old brother had been playing in the house while the parents were working on the farm, known as the old Preato place, about one mile from the main Putnam-Willimantic highway. The shot entered the center of the forehead and the child died as the parents were speeding toward this city in an automobile to bring the boy to a physician.

The exact nature of the accident was not determined but Dr. L. I. Mason, medical examiner, pronounced it an accidental shooting after viewing the remains. It had not been determined which of the boys held the rifle when it was discharged.

PRESIDENT CASE RE-ELECTED BY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

At the recent election held by the Norwich chamber of commerce four new directors were chosen by the members by ballot. Six members of the old board remain for this year. Under the by-laws governing the organization the ten members are empowered to elect two members to fill the quota or twelve. H. D. Larrabee and Max Hanover were chosen at the meeting held late Monday afternoon. The members of the present board of directors is as follows: Nelson J. Ayling, E. Lalue Bliven, Dr. H. B. Campbell, H. B. Cary, James L. Case, Max Hanover, Roy D. Judd, H. D. Larrabee, Archibald Mitchell, James M. Morton, William G. Park, Ernest D. Rodler.

James L. Case was reelected president, Herbert B. Cary, first vice president, Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, second vice-president; Roy D. Judd treasurer. The board re-appointed John J. O'Rourke secretary.

President Case will soon appoint a program committee which will develop a program of work for the coming year. The program is based upon the suggestions from the members. Later a committee on committees will be appointed by the president which will select the members of the various committees to be established.

Indications point to a large attendance at the annual meeting which will be held this (Tuesday) evening in the Wauregan Hotel. The speaker, Champ S. Andrews, is devoting his time and talents gratis, to the furtherance of a greater New England spirit and loyalty to this section of the United States. His sincerity in this effort is based upon his experiences and knowledge gained through extensive travel throughout the country. He speaks with authority and knows the facts concerning New England gained by his experiences. Mr. Andrews is a very busy man. He is director of sales for the National Folding Box Co., of New Haven, devoting his spare time to the development of a greater civic spirit for New England. There are many calls for his services which extends even to the radio. The annual report of the chamber for the past year has been mailed to the members together with the financial statement which was prepared by the company who are the auditors for the chamber.

BANQUET REWARD FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL ATTENDANCE

The annual banquet given by the Central Baptist Sunday school to all those who attended Sunday school or if there was no Sunday school accessible studied the Sunday school lesson, eight out of nine Sundays during July and August was held Monday evening. The room was gaily decorated in Halloween colors with favors to match. The delicious supper was served by Mrs. Henrietta Tefft, Mrs. Jennie Davis, Mrs. W. H. Covey, Mrs. E. W. Phillips, Miss Nellie Rathbun, Mrs. Willis Hill and Miss Eugenie Dean. The menu consisted of fruit cocktail, chicken pie, mashed potato, green peas, cranberry jelly, rolls, coffee and milk, ice cream and cake. Singing was much enjoyed during the courses, Miss Viola Hill being at the piano. Song sheets were loaned by the Plaut Cadden Co.

Following the banquet, interesting summer experiences were related by Arthur F. Wyman, Viola Hill, Capt. Tarbox, Eugene Smith, Mrs. W. F. Bailey, H. L. Sage, Harold S. Burt and Dr. Pitt. For the stunt contests four teams were chosen, first honors going to the "Pink" team with Eugene Smith as captain, the "Brown" team under Harold Burt coming in second, "Blue" under Aubrey Brown, third, and "Grey" under Miss Alice Dean, fourth.

BINGHAM SAYS DEMOCRATS WERE ALL WRONG ON THEIR TARIFF PREDICTIONS

Answering the attacks of the chairman of the national democratic committee on the protective tariff, United States Senator Hiram Bingham, one of three speakers at a republican rally in the town hall Monday evening, said "The volume of our foreign trade has steadily increased and the prediction of 'oceans of fire' and 'no commerce' has proven false. It is important for us to realize that their views regarding tariff matters have been proved by the facts to be mistaken. It is to be hoped that the predictions of the chairman of the national democratic committee with regard to the complexion of the next congress will turn out to be equally mistaken."

Five hundred men and women practically filled the town hall for the rally which was opened a few minutes after 8 o'clock, by H. E. Gallup, chairman of the evening. Previous to the rally there was a reception at the Wauregan hotel for the speakers. The reception committee comprised George M. Charbonneau, chairman of the republican town committee, George G. Engler, candidate for the office of representative from Norwich on the republican ticket and Mrs. Frank L. Royce.

In opening the rally, which was the first of the present campaign held in Norwich, Mr. Gallup said he was glad to see so many present. I hope you will take the same interest throughout the campaign, he said. Mr. Gallup then introduced as the first speaker United States Senator Hiram Bingham.

"I always feel at home here and I am glad to come here to speak," said Senator Bingham. "I am proud to be a republican because of the record of our party," he continued. "The founder of that party was perhaps the greatest man of the 19th century," said the senator. He briefly mentioned Abraham Lincoln as the great leader and went on to refer to Theodore Roosevelt as the great leader of the republican party during the early years of the 19th century.

Senator Bingham said Coolidge is a typical New Englander who is trying to do right and who has the taxpayers' interest at heart. It is a great thing that we can call him a republican, our own Calvin Coolidge, he said (applause).

The greater part of Senator Bingham's address was devoted to answering democratic attacks on the protective tariff. With reference to the protective tariff the senator said:

The visit to Connecticut of the chairman of the national democratic committee calls to mind the many violent attacks which he has made on the protective tariff and his desire to secure the passage of a democratic free trade measure. It is also interesting at this time to recall the opposition made by Congressman Oldfield to the passage of the present Fordney-McCumber republican protective tariff bill. In 1922 when this tariff bill was pending the present chairman of the democratic national committee stood upon the floor of the house of representatives and warned the American people of the dire calamities which he was sure would befall them under this law. He insisted that the rates were so high as to be in fact prohibitive and that the bill would afford no revenue and that we should have to levy direct taxes or issue bonds in order to meet the running expenses of the government. What are the facts?

The facts are that under the last two years of the Underwood-Simmons democratic tariff all we collected at the custom houses was $562,000,000 in duties which went toward the running expenses of the government. This, according to the chairman of the democratic national committee was to have been wiped out by the new republican tariff. Instead of that we find that during the last two years of the operation of the republican tariff measure it has yielded in duties $1,116,000,000 or nearly twice as much as the democratic tariff. Instead of causing us to levy more direct taxes or issue bonds it has given us an additional $553,000,000 during the past two years and thereby enabled us to reduce the rate of direct taxation, to relieve more than two million people of the necessity of making income tax returns and we have not had to issue bonds.

Again, the chairman of the democratic national committee then admitted that there were between four and five million men out of employment, without money with which to feed and clothe their families or educate their children. He predicted, however, that if the republican tariff bill should become a law the number would be increased to eight or ten million idle men. Everyone knows that that prophecy has not been fulfilled. On the contrary the number of idle men has been enormously reduced, thanks to the operation of the republican tariff bill.

Again, the chairman of the democratic national committee told us that if the republican tariff bill were passed it would erect a Chinese wall so high around this country as to make it impossible for foreign nations to send their goods into our ports. He said that if the republican tariff law went into effect "the Atlantic and Pacific oceans might just as soon be oceans of fire instead of the great highways of commerce as God intended". What are the facts? The republican tariff bill went into effect Sept. 22, 1922. In 1923 the total volume of our foreign trade exports and imports which had to use the "great highways of commerce" amounted to $7,595,000,000. Perhaps you will say that the tariff law had not begun to take full effect. Notice, however, that in 1924 the total volume of our foreign trade which had to cross these "oceans of fire" so graphically depicted by the chairman of the democratic national committee was $8,200,000,000 and in 1925 it was $9,183,000,000. In other words the volume of our foreign trade has steadily increased and the prediction of "oceans of fire" and "no commerce" has proven to be false.

In view of these things it is amazing that the chairman of the democratic national committee and the leader of the democrats in the senate of the United States should boldly propose that as soon as they can they will make a material reduction in the tariff. A reduction so serious as to make a difference of some six billions of dollars in the amount paid for manufactured articles. They are inviting the discontented western farmers to join with them in this attack on the prosperity of the east. They are perfectly consistent in fighting for the old-fashioned democratic idea of free trade or tariff for revenue only, but it is important for us to realize that their views regarding tariff matters have been proved by the facts to be mistaken. It is to be hoped that the predictions of the chairman of the democratic national committee with regard to the complexion of the next congress will turn out to be equally mistaken.

State Secretary Pallotti Speaks.

As the second speaker Chairman Gallup introduced Hon. Francis Pallotti, secretary of state of Connecticut. The democrats made certain statements, said Mr. Pallotti. It is well enough to make statements. But we are not fools enough to take statements unless they are specific. Mr. Pallotti was speaking with reference to the charges of extravagance brought against the present state administration.

The democratic nominee for governor has charged that the taxes and expenses of the state have practically doubled in the past 10 years, said the speaker. Perhaps he can tell us why the price of ice cream has doubled in the past 10 years. There is no question but what it costs more to run the state now than it did 10 years ago.

Ten years ago the debt of the state of Connecticut was $11,700,000. Today you haven't a cent of debt in the state, (Applause.) The state is ready to pay its $16,000,000 debt due in three years, Mr. Pallotti said. He went on to explain that the state owns bonds totaling $12,000,000 and that there is a cash balance of $5,000,000 on hand, so that the $16,000,000 can be paid off leaving a substantial balance.

You have a governor who believes in "pay as you go," said Mr. Pallotti. It was only four or five years ago that the gas tax was put on. The democrats criticized the gas tax. They finally found out that it wasn't such an inhuman thing after all. Forty-four states now have a gasoline tax. The democrats say no more about the gas tax.

Don't swallow everything they tell you unless they can prove it. Urging the election of all republican candidates Mr. Pallotti said. "You ought to send Congressman Freeman back to help President Coolidge to carry out the programme he has been trying to carry out the past two years. Speaking with reference to the local candidates on the republican ticket, Charles W. Cassidy and George G. Engler, candidates for representatives, and Lee Roy Robbins, candidate for state senator, Mr. Pallotti said "The only thing I can say against them is that when they were in Hartford, one would think that Norwich was the only place in the state."

Mr. Pallotti made reference to the republican candidates on the state ticket, from governor down and urged their election next month.

Urges Support For Republican Policies

The final speaker was Mrs. Rosemary Anderson of New London, a member of the New London city council. Mrs. Anderson who left the bed of a sick friend in New York to come to Norwich to speak at the rally, was introduced by Chairman Gallup.

We as republicans owe something not only to the state, but to the nation as well, said Mrs. Anderson. The speaker said that President Coolidge is a man who is never thrown off his balance. My reason for being a republican is because I believe in the tariff, she said. Mrs. Anderson went on to say that her father was a warm democrat but that she felt that if he were with her now, he would stand by her side on the tariff question.

Thank God we have good schools in Connecticut and we are going to make them better, said the speaker. I spent weeks in Washington fighting for a mother's pension. Why should we as class poverty stricken mothers and children as paupers? I will never rest until all normal children are taken out of institutions. No normal child should be institutionalized. You can't make an anarchist out of a boy brought up right. I urge you not only to vote but to get your friends out to vote. We are safer in the hands of the republican party than in the hands of the democratic party. She urged the voters to support Senator Bingham and Congressman Freeman. Mr. Freeman, she said, has never failed where the interests of women and children were concerned.

The rally came to a close about 9:20 o'clock and proved one of the most enthusiastic held in Norwich in some years.

FINDS $445,312.50 IN G. & S RAILWAY FORECLOSURE

The sum of $445,312.50 is found to be due by Judge Newell Jennings of the superior court in handing down a judgment for foreclosure by sale on the Groton & Stonington street railway company on the mortgage given to secure an issue of $475,000 in 5 per cent. gold bonds on which principal and interest have been defaulted. The bonds and mortgage are dated July 1, 1904.

Judge Jennings orders that the property is to be sold as a whole at public auction at noon, Nov. 22, in the superior court room at New London. Lewis Crandall of New London is appointed as the committee on sale and Shepard B. Palmer, Samuel Anderson and Dwight Peck are named as appraisers to report by Nov. 15. The property includes the line from Groton to Stonington, the car house and power house for at Mystic, and the station lot at Noank.

It is provided in the judge's finding that bids at the auction may be accompanied by a check for $2,000 in cash or $10,000 in bonds with all unpaid coupons attached. Payment is to be made in full within 30 days after confirmation of the purchase price.

In concluding the judgment, Judge Jennings says:

The court retains jurisdiction of this case for the purpose of enforcing the provisions of this decree and for the determination of especially for the determination of the issues raised under the answer and cross-complaint of the defendant, the Westinghouse Traction Brake company, which issues shall not in any manner be affected by the decree other than to release the property sold from any lien claimed by said defendant in accordance with the stipulation between the plaintiff and the defendant.

The court reserves for further determination and adjudication all matters of equity not expressly adjudged in this decree and any party to the cause is hereby authorized to apply for a further order and direction.

OBITUARY

Henry W. Church

The death of Henry W. Church, 46, occurred Monday afternoon at 3:45 at his home in Palmertown, Montville, where he had been ill for the last three months with complications. Tanlac Helps Entire Family

Mother of 8 Children Says Family is in Better Health Than Ever Before, Claims Own Case is Without Parallel.

"My oldest son and myself were the invalids of the family," says Mrs. E. Gulbert, 81 Kingsley St., Springfield, Mass., "When I was 20 years old I developed rheumatism that never left me until I began taking Tanlac. After my last child was born I could not regain my strength. For 8 weeks I could not do a thing. I did not leave the house. My arms and legs swelled and pained me. There wasn't a spot on my body that did not ache. My stomach was always sour and burned like fire. We spent a lot of money in search of relief when a friend recommended Tanlac.

"I began to gain strength. I gained 6 pounds and color returned to my cheeks. Rheumatism vanished. Now I feel 100% better than ever before. No backache, no jumpy nerves or constipation. And what Tanlac did for me it did for my son. It gave him an appetite, strength, vitality and banished the dizziness that caused him so much suffering. He now has robust health."

SUSIE ATTEMPTS TO HEAR YALE AND DARTMOUTH FOOTBALL GAME BY RADIO

Those who have been to a friend's house to listen-in on a football game and the one operating the set is one of those who always wants to get it just a little bit better will appreciate how Susie felt when she was invited out to hear the Yale-Dartmouth game by radio. Her description follows:

Dear Sports Ed:

Didja go to the Yale-Dartmouth game Ed.? No, well I didn't either but I heard parts of it over the radio and when I says parts I means parts. Them games by radio is the cats hostery if you ain't got one of them restless pests operating it. By restless pests I mean one of them birds whats always trying to get it just a little bit better and is always fussing with the blooming set. If them birds what has radios would tune-in and let the set alone why it would be just like seeing the game almost. But I ain't found no such satisfied animal yet.

Well, last Saturday a boy what I knows what lives in the same alley as I do invites me and the boy friend down to hear the football game over the radio Well I thinks here's where yours truly puts in a pleasant afternoon in a nice warm room and hears all about them Yale and Dartmouth fellers chasing the pigskin all over the lot. The boy friend buys a box of candy and we goes over to the feller's domicile with the anticipations of a swell afternoon. Well, when we gets there the feller is sitting hunched up in front of the set with them ear muffs over his ears and he shakes a finger and assshhes us saying "I think I got it.' "You don't mean it you means them." I says. Well, he fusses around with them dials till I'm getting anxious as it's almost 2:30 and then I says "Take them ear compressors off and let's all get in on it." He does and plugs in the loud speaker.

Oh my aunt's cat's pants, but there's a awful crash and wailing and sqawking and the boy says "Listen to the cheering." And I says "If that's scheering I'm Mary Lewis singing grand opera." Then outa the din and crash comes a small faint voice saying "Dartmouth won the toss and is kicking off to—crash bang—the Sheppard Stores in Providence." Gosh I thinks that is going to be a whale of a kick from New Haven to Providence and says "Come on outside and maybe we'll see the football as it goes over." 'Oh shut up" says the boy friend, "there was two stations taking at once there." Well that's about the way it went all afternoon with the two boys spinning them dials like they was put-and-take tops. Then we gets back to New Haven via WEAF to find the game is still on and ain't been waiting for us. From the horn comes "Yale has advanced the ball to Dartmouth's 35 yard line on a long run by—crash bang again—Rachmaninoff, the celebrated pianist." I looks through the list of players what it has got but I don't see nobody by that name so I thinks they must have rung in a ringer. Well I don't say nothing but I thinks that maybe we has got our stations crossed again when outa the horn comes "Princeton has just scored a touchdown on the Navy." Gosh ain't we traveling some today, first we is in New Haven and now we is down to Princeton. The boy gets us back to New Haven without no accident, although as we go by them stations I hears music and somebody hollering but he don't stop.

"This is station WEAF broadcasting the Yale-Dartmouth game" says the feller in the horn. "and it is now the end of the first period and the band is playing—more static and the boy gives the dials a spin—bridge from station WTAM at Cleveland." "My gosh," I says, "ain't the band fellers got nothing to do but play cards at them games?" Back we comes again to find that the game is under way. "On a cross-buck Noble gained one yard through—crash bang—the dining room which is papered in a soft shade." Worse and more of it I thinks. Then from the horn "Noble has been taken out and—sputter, sputter—put in a cup of milk and boil until thick." That's a hot thing to do to a football player but I realises the boys have gone to some station what's giving recipes.

When we gets in again to the game the first half is over and the band is playing. "Let's see if we can get some other station," says the boy what has the radio. "What's the use," I says, "you ain't got this one yet." But that dont register and he fiddles around and by and by he gets something besides squeals and howls and crashes and I find out that "if you take one yard of cretonne and cut it length wise of the field which is one hundred yards long you can follow the ball until the next selection which will be played by the orchestra at Palmer stadium where the score is Brown 14 and Bates 7." Now maybe that sounds like I was cuckoo but that's about what comes outa the horn. Still that feller ain't satisfied and he keeps fooling around with the set and we're told that the temperature is 72 degrees in Memphis but that McGonigle will play half back for the Punkville trio and Prof. Whosit will now talk on why citizens should vote for a 65-yard run by Bunnell. Well that just about finishes me and I say's "Hey you birds get away from that machine and give me a chance and maybe I'll get something besides recipes, housewives' talks, and weather and market reports." Well I takes a crack and Old Dame Luck was sure with me for I gets into New Haven to learn that "Yale beats Dartmouth by the score of 14 to 7. Good afternoon." Can you beat it? No you can't even tie it.

Well believe me radios is a great thing but them that works 'em ain't so good. Believe me Ed. if you go out to hear a game on the radio let the feller tune in and then hit him over the head with a club and smack the handcuffs on him and then sit down and listen.

Well Ed. old dead, I'm going up to see them Aggies play up at Storrs next week and I hope I don't pull no bones up there like I did down to Boston.

Yours as ever,
SUSIE.

YALE AND HARVARD ARE DESERTING OLD TRADITIONS

NEW YORK, Oct. 18—(AP)—Yale and Harvard, if they find the places in the football sun they are aiming for this season, can attribute it to the most radical shift in gridiron policy these two ancient institutions ever have effected.

Tradition and time-honored methods have been scrapped in building the 1926 model machines of the Blue and Crimson. In the turn-over Yale already is among the leaders of the eastern pack, as a result of a decisive defeat of the 1925 champion, Dartmouth, while Harvard, after a bad start, is adjusting itself for better things.

The forward pass is the chief element in this transformation. Yale and Harvard have altogether scorned the use of the aerial game as it has developed by leaps and bounds in recent campaigns but they have been leaders among the old guard in keeping the emphasis on the rushing type of game. It was significant Saturday, therefore, that Harvards triumph over William & Mary, as well as Yales smashing victory over Dartmouth, were due largely to effective use of the pass.

Yale, in beating Dartmouth at the latter's own passing game, gave evidence of the fine handiwork of Major V. E. Prichard, old army star who engineered many a Cadet aerial attack. Prichard is assisting Head Coach Tad Jones at New Haven this fall and to him is attributed much of the versatility displayed in the Eli game.

Yale's use of the "huddle," with which Princeton has worried the Elis for two years, is another innovation.

So far Yale seems several strides ahead of her ancient rival, Harvard, but there will be a good opportunity to compare the two next Saturday at Cambridge when the Crimson tackles Dartmouth. On form, the big Green eleven, which is developing slowly, will be a favorite, but Harvard may spring a surprise.

As a result of the evolution in Crimson and Blue tactics, it promises to be a wide open battle in November for the "Big Three" title, held for the past two years by Princeton teams which made profitable use of modern methods. The Tigers will need an antidote for their own poison this fall. They have made a disastrous start, tied by Washington & Lee and beaten by the Navy, but have had a habit of making strong finishes in the last few seasons.

Harvard's battle with Dartmouth's Indians holds this week's spotlight among the old triumvirate but Yale faces sturdy opposition from the undefeated Brown team at New Haven. Princeton will have a chance to reorganize its forces against Lehigh, which has lost all four games played so far.

YALE ANNOUNCES THE FOOTBALL SLATE FOR 1927

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 18—(AP)—Seven of the eight teams which meet the Yale football team this year will clash with the Elis again next season, according to the 1927 football schedule announced tonight by Harold F. Woodcock, general manager of Yale Athletic association.

The new team on the list is Bowdoin, which opens the season in the bowl on October 1. This year the opening date was given to Boston university. This will be Bowdoin's third year on a Yale football schedule, the Maine college team having played in New Haven in 1900 and 1901.

The dates of the Brown, Army and Dartmouth games are re-arranged, on the 1927 schedule. The mid-October game this year was given to Dartmouth, with Brown coming next Saturday and the Army on the 30th. Next year Brown will meet Yale in the bowl on October 15. The game with the Army will be played on October 22, a week earlier than usual, and Dartmouth will come here on October 29.

The three late season games, those with Maryland, Princeton and Harvard, will be played in their order as usual. Georgia, which first appeared on a Yale fotball schedule in 1923 holds its regular place on the Blue schedule next year.

The schedule follows:
October 1. Bowdoin.
October 8. Georgia.
October 15. Brown.
October 22. Army.
October 29. Dartmouth.
November 5. Maryland.
November 12. Princeton.
November 19. Harvard at Cambridge.

WINDHAM GETTING IN TRIM FOR GAME WITH HARTFORD

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 18—Having enjoyed a good rest made possible by the sudden cancellation of the scheduled Saturday encounter with Stonington high, the Windham eleven started on a week of intensive practice in anticipation of its big season game, that with Hartford Public high school next Saturday afternoon in Hartford. Coach Callaghan is keeping his men on their toes and toughening their hides with a series of scrimmages. When Hartford and Windham clash next Saturday one of the two teams will swallow a strong alkaline potion as the final score is chalked up. Windham, backed by three years of victory and no defeats this year, is out to see that the opposition gets the dose, because defeating Hartford is bound to be a feather in the cap, whereas, a win for Hartford is likely to be taken as a big-town assumption yet prove a bitter pill for Windham if no injuries are suffered in the scrimmages this week. Windham will enter the field with an entire first string lineup including the fast "Lorie" Haggerty, halfback, who gave the Hartford camp a hair-raising thrill with his end skirtings last year. Haggerty has just recovered from an ankle sprain.

The totalisator may soon be installed on race tracks of England. This system of betting which will replace the bookmakers will first be tried out in Ireland and then in England.

WESTERN TITLE MAY DEPEND ON SATURDAY'S GAMES

CHICAGO, Oct. 18—(AP)—Michigan and Illinois will move upstage in the drama of western conference football next Saturday when these rivals renew their gridiron feud at Ann Arbor before a crowd of 48,000 to 50,000, the seating capacity of Ferry field.

The game may reduce the challengers for the 1926 championship as defeat probably will eliminate the losing team. Chicago plays its first conference game of the season against Purdue, which held Wisconsin to a scoreless tie Saturday. Ohio State and Iowa clash at Columbus in another major battle, while the Wisconsin-Indiana fray at Madison will be only of secondary importance unless highly doubtful upsets occur.

Northwestern will battle Notre Dame at Evanston while Minnesota, the remaining university in the big ten will take it easy against Wabash at Minneapolis.

As the race stands tonight, Michigan, Ohio State, Illinois and Ohio figure as favorites with the Wolverines looming up as the most dangerous. Iowa, Minnesota, and Indiana fell to the bottom of the heap in the first week of conference competition but they get out today determined to upset contenders and the other seven teams girded to keep their records clean.

CALDWELL WILL BE OUT OF GAME FOR SEASON

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 18—(AP)—Bruce Caldwell, Yale's star halfback and the chief ground gainer in the Eli games against Boston university and Georgia, is out of the game for the remainder of the season. This became known today, an X-ray examination of his ankle, injured in scrimmage three days previous to the Dartmouth game, showing a broken bone. Caldwell has been on crutches since his injury, but the Yale squad was not told how seriously he was hurt until after the Dartmouth game.

Caldwell played in some of the early games last year and won his letter in the Harvard game. He played an excellent game at second base on the Yale nine last spring and since the opening of the football season had shown himself to be one of Yale's best offensive backs.

Larry Noble, whose shoulder was injured in Saturday's game, will be able to play against Brown this week.

In the practice today the coaches laid stress on the fumbling which marked the Yale play against Dartmouth. Yale made nine fumbles some of which were costly.

ALEX THE GREAT IS SUFFERING WITH SORE ARM

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 18—(AP)—Grover Cleveland Alexander, nemesis of the hard hitting New York Yankees in the World Series, was back on the stage of a local theatre today, exhibiting a sore arm.

Yesterday he consented to pitch in a game between two of Omaha's fastest amateur teams. In seven innings the sandlotters nicked Alex for eleven hits and ten runs. However, just to show what he could do Alexander let three men on and then struck out the next batter. His side lost 14 to 5.

"The old arm is pretty sore," Alex explained.

WESTERLY CLASHES WITH CHAPMAN ON FRIDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Oct. 18—Westerly high football eleven on Monday began intensive training under Coach D. Harold Rogers in preparation for its first Rhode Island-Eastern Connecticut Interscholastic league contest of the season on this week end. On Friday afternoon on the Westerly Athletic field off High street the W. H. S. football players will have the football eleven of Chapman Technical school of New London as their opponents.

BINGHAM DENIES HARVARD WILL BE IN EAST CONFERENCE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 18—(AP)—William J. Bingham, director of athletics at Harvard, tonight issued a statement denying that Harvard planned to enter an "eastern football conference" with Yale Princeton, Cornell, Dartmouth and Brown as the other members.

Mr. Bingham said his attention had been directed to published reports that such an organization was contemplated.

"Harvard does not know anything about a proposed intercollegiate football conference, and does not intend to enter any conference in football," he said.

NATIONAL BOXING BODY RECOGNIZES BUD TAYLOR AS BANTAMWEIGHT CHAMP

DETROIT, Oct. 18—(AP)—Deposing Phil Rosenberg as bantamweight titleholder and declaring the featherweight title vacant through the inability of Kid Kaplan to make the weight, the National Boxing association today approved a list of world champions.

The list follows:
Heavyweight—Gene Tunney.
Light-heavyweight—Jack Delaney.
Middleweight—Tiger Flowers.
Welterweight—Pete Latzo.
Lightweight—Sammy Mandell.
Featherweight—open.
Bantamweight—Bud Taylor.
Flyweight—Fidel La Barba.

An argument rose among members of the association, here for their annual convention, over the endorsement of Taylor for the bantamweight title. The convention earlier had supported the action of the Illinois boxing commission in suspending Rosenberg for life and transfering his crown to Taylor. When the championship list came up for action, however, there were expressions that titles should be won in the ring and not awarded by any governing body.

When Thomas E. Donohue, Connecticut commissioner, pointed out that Taylor was to have been Rosenberg's opponent in the championship fight and that Rosenberg's failure to post his forfeit prompted the Illinois action, the convention approved without dissension the bestowal of the championship upon Taylor.

The association also voted to seek the repeal of the law prohibiting the interstate shipment of moving pictures of boxing contests.

In an effort to find means of financing the work of the National association, the convention decided to charge an annual fee of $1 for all boxers coming within the jurisdiction of the 17 states, Canada and Cuba, that comprise the association. It was also decided that hereafter all forfeit checks posted by boxers must be certified.

The commissioners expressed indignation over a dispatch from Topeka, Kansas, last week quoting Leslie E. Edmons, executive secretary of the Kansas commission, as saying that the National association should "do something useful or disband. Commissioners Ahern and Allen, of Kansas, who were present, said that the reported statement did not represent the sentiment of the Kansas commission.

Election of officers and selection of the next meeting place were deferred until tomorrow.
